(b) Labor responsibility. (1) There will be no contacts with national offices of labor organizations or other organizations of the Government in connection with labor matters except after coordination with The Judge Advocate General (Attn: Chief, Industrial Relations Branch). In case of emergency such coordination may be by telephone.

(2) The Head of the Procuring Activity concerned is authorized to communicate with local labor organizations and the local offices of Federal agencies in connection with labor matters of concern to a particular activity but no action which is not mutually acceptable to the Head of the Procuring Activity and the local organization will be taken without requisite coordination.

(3) The Head of the Procuring Activity is authorized to communicate with local labor organizations, and the local offices of State and Federal agencies, for the purpose of removing necessary material from strikebound facilities in accordance with procedures prescribed in Subpart 0, Part 601 of this subchapter.

(4) Where any labor dispute, work stoppage, or threatened work stoppage significantly affects or threatens to affect important procurement, the Head of the Procuring Activity will submit a Report of Labor Disputes, Reports Control Symbol JAG–10, by the most expeditious and practical means available to The Judge Advocate General (Attn: Chief, Industrial Relations Branch) with an informational copy to the Assistant Chief of Staff, G–4, Department of the Army, Attn: Chief, Production Branch. Such report will include the following data, to the extent pertinent:

However, in such circumstances the additional information required in subdivisions (i) through (xvii) of this subparagraph, will be submitted by the most expeditious means as soon as possible. Supplemental reports will be submitted as necessary to report important developments following the initial report. In situations of urgency, initial and supplemental reports should be made by telephone to The Judge Advocate General (Attn: Chief, Industrial Relations Branch) or other informal means, but in all such cases the information informally submitted shall be confirmed in writing as soon as possible thereafter.

(5) Where private Contractor employees are engaged in contract work on an installation and labor representatives request permission to enter such installation to conduct union business during working hours, the commanding officer may admit such labor representatives, provided: (i) the presence and activities of the labor representatives will not interfere with the progress of the contract work involved, and (ii) the entry of such representatives to the installation will not violate pertinent safety and security regulations. However, business offices or desk space for labor organizations for solicitation of membership, collection of dues, or other business of the organization not directly connected with the contract work shall not be permitted on the project site, with the specific exception of the routine functions of the working steward whose union duties are incidental to productive work usually performed. In the event that a commanding officer of an installation denies entry to a labor representative, such commanding officer shall, through appropriate channels, submit to The Judge Advocate General (Attn: Chief, Industrial Relations Branch) a Report of Denial of Admission of Labor Representatives, Report Control Symbol JAG–11, which will include—(a) names, addresses, and telephone numbers of the labor representatives denied entry; (b) the union affiliation, if known, of such representatives; and (c) reason for denial of entry.

§ 601.102 Overtime, extra-pay shifts, and multishift work. (a) Delivery schedules established in connection with all procurement contracts, particularly those of a cost-reimbursement type, will be predicated upon the Contractor working normal workweeks and shifts without recourse to overtime, extra-pay shifts, or multishifts.

(b) Overtime, extra-pay shift, or multishift deviations may be authorized subject to the following conditions:

(1) The authority for approval of such overtime, extra-pay shift, or multishift deviations as may be required is hereby delegated, with power of redelegation, to Heads of Procuring Activities.

(2) Utilization of approvals for such overtime, extra-pay shift, or multishift deviation as may be given by the Head of a Procuring Activity, or his designated representative, will be confined to the meeting of essential deadlines necessary to the performance of the contract solely in the interests of the Government.

(3) In granting such approvals, it will be the responsibility of the Head of a Procuring Activity and his designated representative to restrict such overtime, extra-pay shift, or multishift work to the minimum required for the accomplishment of the specific work for which the deviation was requested and for which the approval was given.

(c) Any case concerning overtime, extra-pay shifts, or multishifts which may arise and which does not fall within the foregoing authorization including cases involving premium rates other than overtime or extra-pay shifts, will be referred to the Assistant Chief of Staff, G–4, Department of the Army, Attn: Chief, Purchases Branch, for consideration.

(d) Section 411.102 of this title and this section are applicable world-wide.

§ 601.103 Federal and State labor requirements—(a) Application. This section is applicable to all Government Contractors within the continental United States, its Territories and possessions, including Contractors of Government-owned facilities, irrespective of whether such facilities are located on private or Government property.

(b) Definition. The term "State" as used in this section includes the District of Columbia, Territories, and all political subdivisions of States.

(c) Requests for relaxation of labor legislation. It is the policy of the Department of the Army that the State labor standards governing such matters as maximum daily and weekly hours of employment, meals and rest periods, night work, and other conditions of employment, as set forth in State labor laws, regulations, and administrative orders, be observed in the maximum extent possible. In furtherance of this policy, Procuring Activities will not initiate applications to State agencies or officials for suspension or relaxation of labor standards. In addition, Procuring Activities will not, formally or informally, support such applications by Contractors or suppliers, unless approval of such action has been obtained under paragraph (d) of this section. Requests for approval will not be forwarded unless the following circumstances and conditions exist:

(1) The interested contractor or supplier has filed his application for relaxation of the laws, orders, or regulations involved with the appropriate State official charged with the enforcement of such labor standards in the State where the plant of the manufacturer involved is located; and

(2) The products or services involved are in short supply and unless the application is granted there will be a failure to meet production schedules for critically needed military items; and

(3) There are no alternative sources of supply for such products or services reasonably available to furnish the military items contracted for within the period of time delivery is required; and

(4) Available information indicates no practicable possibility of taking remedial action (such as recruiting, training, and more effective utilization of manpower) as an alternative to relaxation of applicable State labor standards; and

(5) The apparent supply of labor and, in particular, of critical skills is limited and it is not practicable to set up new production lines or to use additional facilities as an alternative to the relief requested; and

(6) The granting of the application will not result in an excessive increase in hours of work, an unreasonable curtailment of rest and lunch periods, an undesirable impairment of working conditions, or, otherwise, will not affect adversely the productivity of the facility involved.

(d) Requests for approval to support Contractor's applications. Requests for authority to support an application on behalf of a Contractor will be forwarded through the Head of a Procuring Activity to The Judge Advocate General (Attn: Chief, Industrial Relations Branch) and will contain the following information:

(1) The facilities and services involved and affected.

(2) Provision or provisions of law the relaxation of which is required.

(3) Criticalness or relative scarcity of the material.

(4) Circumstances necessitating the relaxation (for example, a shortage in the local supply of skilled labor).

(5) Remedial action being taken by the manufacturer (for example, training, recruiting, and more effective utilization of manpower).

(6) Efforts previously made to obtain the relaxation.

(7) The most limited relaxation of State labor standards necessary for completion of the specific work in conformity with military procurement schedules and programs.

(8) The approximate period of time required for the completion of the work.

(e) Furnishing information to State officials. Heads of Procuring Activities may, consistent with limitations of security, furnish information to the appropriate State official, upon his request, as to the fact that an application for relaxation of State labor standards filed with him relates to the execution of a contract with such agency in pursuance of a military procurement program. Such information should not extend to support of such application unless proper authorization under paragraph (d) of this section, has been obtained.

(f) Monthly reports. Heads of Procuring Activities will submit, on the 15th day of each month, a letter report, Subject: Support of Applications for Relaxation of State Labor Standards (Reports Control Symbol JAG–13), to The Judge Advocate General (Attn: Chief, Industrial Relations Branch) as to actions taken under this section during the preceding calendar month. Negative reports are not desired. The reports will cover but need not be limited to the following:

(1) Name and address of facility involved and military item being supplied by that facility.

(2) Official to whom representations in support of Contractor's or supplier's application for relaxation of labor standards was made.

(3) Justification or reason given for support of the application.

SUBPART B—CONVICT LABOR

§ 601.202 Applicability. (a) Subpart B, Part 411 of this title and this subpart are applicable only within the continental United States (the 48 States and the District of Columbia).

(b) The prohibition contained in Executive Order 325A does not apply to contracts entered into between the Government and State prisons for the purchase of manufactured items, subject to all of the following limitations:

(1) That such contracts are not prohibited by the law of the State in which the prison is located.

(2) That exemption from the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act be obtained, in accordance with procedures prescribed in § 601.651, in cases of contracts exceeding $10,000.

(3) That no purchase from a State prison or other correctional institution will be made of items contrary to the provisions of § 404.301 of this title and § 594.301 of this subchapter.

(4) That the contract is otherwise proper.

The convict labor clause prescribed by §§ 406.104–17 and 411.203 of this title will be omitted from such contracts.

SUBPART C—EIGHT-HOUR LAW OF 1912 (OTHER THAN CONSTRUCTION CONTRACTS)

§ 601.350 Administration and enforcement. In investigating allegations of violations of the Eight-Hour Law on other than construction contracts, the same procedures shall be followed and the same reports made as are set forth in §§ 601.404–7 and 601.404–8 for investigating allegations of Eight-Hour Law violations on construction contracts.

SUBPART D—LABOR STANDARDS IN CONSTRUCTION CONTRACTS

§ 601.401 Statutes and regulations. To supplement Department of Labor Regulations, Part 5, Title 29, Subtitle A, Code of Federal Regulations (16 F. R. 4430 as amended), the Department of Labor has published an Investigation and Enforcement Manual With Respect to Labor Standards Provisions Applicable to Contracts Covering Federally Financed and Assisted Construction. This Investigation and Enforcement Manual should be used as a guide in the enforcement of labor standards on construction contracts.

§ 601.404–2 Wage determinations. The Secretary of Labor requires a separate request for wage rates for each contract, except where the volume of work contemplated is sufficient to warrant an "installation" or "area" determination. These determinations may be used for a period not to exceed 90 days and will be applicable to all contracts awarded at the installation within that period. During the 90-day period the Secretary of Labor may review and modify any existing determination. Modifications expire on the expiration date of the original determination.

(a) Responsibility for obtaining determinations. The Chief of Engineers is responsible for obtaining from the Secretary of Labor and for furnishing to the Procuring Activity upon request, all determinations of prevailing wage rates under the Davis-Bacon Act required in connection with the awarding of contracts of the Army Establishment.

(b) Responsibility for requesting determinations. The office responsible for the preparation of specifications or the negotiation of contracts for projects in excess of $2000 is responsible for requesting the appropriate predetermination of wage rates to be contained in the contract. The preparing office will forward such request to the Chief of Engineers, ATTN: ENGAC, through the appropriate Division Engineer Offices. The Chief of Engineers will obtain the determination of wage rates from the Secretary of Labor, and forward such determination to the requesting office through channels. When contract specifications are prepared, they should include a current wage determination. If the wage determination is not available when invitations for bid are issued, the specifications will contain a statement that wage rates will be supplied by addendum to the specifications. Contracting Officers will not open bids on projects subject to the provisions of the Davis-Bacon Act until the requested determination of wage rates has been incorporated in the specifications. No negotiated contract, either preliminary (letter contract) or definitive, will be executed until the applicable wage determinations have been obtained.

(c) Manner of requesting determinations. Requests for determination of wage rates will be made as follows:

(1) Requests will be forwarded in triplicate on Department of Labor Form DB–11 (Rev. 7/52), to the office of the nearest Division Engineer, Corps of Engineers. Copies of the form may be obtained by request to the Division Engineer.

(2) Form DB–11 will be prepared by the Contracting Officer. Only the following items of information will be furnished thereon in the blocks provided:

(i) The estimated value of the contract;

(ii) Description of the work;

(iii) Location of the project (including county and State);

(iv) Crafts needed.

All other blocks are to be left blank. A project map shall be attached to the form showing in more detail the exact location of the work.

(3) When heavy or highway construction wage rates are requested for work located in the States of Arkansas, Colorado, Kansas, Maine, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Texas, Vermont, Wyoming, and others that may be added later, the following data shall be furnished as an attachment to the Form DB–11:

(i) Specify whether heavy or highway;

(ii) Whether the proposed work is an integral part of a building construction program;

(iii) Type of work (roads, air strips, taxiways, sidewalks, etc., or utilities, POL lines, storage facilities, etc.):

(a) If roads, etc., specify if access or other, material used, length, limits [from (starting point) to (termination point)].

(b) If utilities, etc., state type, extent, materials used (cast iron, transite, concrete, and clay pipe, etc., and amounts of each to be used).

(iv) Whether inside or outside of the installation;

(v) Approximate cost;

(vi) Any additional information to distinguish between heavy, highway, and building construction.

(4) All submissions must be prepared using a reverse carbon in order to obtain an impression on the back of the original. The original and one carbon will be needed in the Office, Chief of Engineers.

(5) If the entire schedule of crafts is desired, insert a statement to that effect after "check crafts." If only a part of the classifications are needed, so indicate by placing an (X) on the check line prefixing the required classification.

(6) Should classifications not listed on the Form DB–11 be required, list and forward them in duplicate as an attachment to the Form DB–11. The use of the reverse carbon is not required for the listing of additional classifications needed.

(7) All requests for area or installation type determinations must be indicated by specifying "contract or contracts" in the space for "Description of work" on the DB–11 Form.

(8) Requests for wage determinations must be forwarded to reach the Office, Chief of Engineers, Attn: ENGAC, at least 30 days in advance of the date selected for advertising for bids.

(9) All actions changing or modifying an original wage determination prior to the award of the contract or contracts for which the determination was sought shall be applicable thereto but modifications received by the agency later than 5 days before the opening of the bids shall not be effective if the award is made within 30 days after the opening of the bids or 90 days from the date of the original wage determination whichever is earliest. Prospective bidders shall be informed of these conditions.

(10) In the event emergency conditions arise before receipt of the determination, the work may be advertised with a notice in the invitation that the schedule of minimum wage rates to be paid under the contract will be published as an addendum to the specification. Under no circumstances may bids be opened until the wage rates have been furnished to all bidders.

(11) In cases of extreme urgency, requests for wage determinations may be forwarded to the Office, Chief of Engineers, by telephone or telegraph, and immediate steps will be taken to obtain the necessary wage rates. Reasons for requesting special or priority action must be fully explained. Such requests must include the classifications needed, cost of the work, a brief description thereof, and its location. They must be confirmed by submission of a DB–11 through channels.

§ 601.404–3 Additional classifications. When it becomes necessary during the performance of a contract to establish a classification and wage rate for a class of workers not listed in the decision of the Secretary of Labor applicable to the contract, the Contracting Officer shall seek to establish such a classification and wage rate, conformable to the Secretary of Labor's decision, by agreement among the interested parties. Upon such an agreement, a report as hereinafter described shall be forwarded through channels to The Judge Advocate General (Attn: Chief, Industrial Relations Branch) (except that reports concerning Corps of Engineers contracts shall be transmitted in accordance with procedures established by the Office of the Chief of Engineers). In the event that agreement cannot be reached, the Contracting Officer shall forward a report, containing his findings and recommendation as to classification and wage rate, and reason therefor, in the same manner. Whether or not agreement has been reached, the report shall contain—

(a) Contract number, description, dollar amount, and date of prime contract involved.

(b) Copy of portion of the contract setting forth classifications and wage rates.

(c) Identification of Secretary of Labor's wage determination decision used with this contract.

(d) Description of job to be classified.

(f) When, prior to the establishment of a new classification as herein outlined, any employee has been used on the contract in a classification not established by the Secretary of Labor's decision, a copy of the payroll records of said employee showing the classification and wage rate used for said employee, and the hours worked (distinguishing regular time from overtime) in said classification and at said wage rate.

(g) Written and signed statements containing opinions of management and labor as to proper classification and wage rate.

§ 601.404–6 Payrolls and affidavits. (a) The payrolls and affidavits required by § 411.404–6 (a) of this title shall be submitted to the Contracting Officer, or such other officer as may be designated for such purpose by the Head of the Procuring Activity. The Contracting Officer or other such officer shall examine and retain them as provided in §§ 411.404–6 (b) and 411.404–6 (c) of this title.

(b) The affidavit shall be executed and sworn to by the Contractor or subcontractor or by an authorized officer or employee of the Contractor or subcontractor who supervises the payment of wages, and shall be in the form set forth in § 415.011–1 (c) of this title.

(c) Upon a written finding by the Secretary of the Army, the Secretary of Labor may provide reasonable limitations, variations, tolerances, and exemptions from the requirements set forth in paragraph (a) of this section, subject to such conditions as the Secretary of Labor may specify. Requests for such finding, accompanied by all necessary supporting documents, will be submitted by the Head of the Procuring Activity concerned through the Assistant Chief of Staff, G–4, Department of the Army, Attn: Chief, Purchases Branch, and The Judge Advocate General (Attn: Chief, Industrial Relations Branch) in turn, to the Secretary of the Army for action and submission to the Secretary of Labor.

(d) Each weekly affidavit and copy of certified weekly payroll shall be delivered by the Contractor or subcontractor, within 7 days after the regular payment date of the payroll period, to the Contracting Officer or such other officer as may be designated for such purpose by the Head of the Procuring Activity concerned. Each Contractor or subcontractor shall preserve his weekly payroll records for a period of 3 years from date of completion of the contact. The payroll records shall set out accurately and completely the name, occupation, and hourly wage rate of each employee, hours worked by him during the payroll period, the full weekly wages earned by him, any deductions made from such weekly wages, and the actual weekly wages paid to him. Such payroll records shall be made available at all times for inspection by the Contracting Officer or his authorized representative.

(e) Deductions for the following purposes are permissible:

(1) Where required by Federal, State, or local statutes or ordinances to be made by the employer from the wages earned by the employee.

(2) Bona fide prepayment of wages without discount or interest.

(3) Deductions required by court process provided that the Contractor or subcontractor will not be permitted to make such a deduction in favor of the Contractor, subcontractor, or any affiliated person or where collusion or collaboration exists.

(i) Any deduction is also permissible which in fact meets the following standards and with respect to which the Contractor or subcontractor shall have made written application by registered mail to the Secretary of Labor, a copy of which application shall be sent to the contracting agency by the Contractor or subcontractor, setting forth all the pertinent facts indicating that such deductions will meet the following standards:

(a) That such deduction is not prohibited by other law.

(b) That such deduction is (1) voluntarily consented to by the employee in writing and in advance of the period in which the work was done, and that consent to the deduction is not a condition either for the obtaining of or for the continuance of employment; or (2) that such deduction is for the benefit of the employees or their labor organization through which they are represented and is provided for in a bona fide collective bargaining agreement.

(c) That from such deduction no payment is made to, nor profit or benefit is obtained directly or indirectly by the Contractor or subcontractor or any affiliated person, and that no portion of the funds, whether in the form of a commission or otherwise, will be returned to the Contractor or subcontractor or to any affiliated person.

(d) That the convenience and interest of the employees are served thereby, and that such or similar deductions have been customary in this or comparable situations.

(ii) After application in good faith, the deduction may be made in accordance with the foregoing standards: Provided, however, That if the Secretary of Labor, on his own motion, or on the application of any person or agency affected by the granting of the application, shall conclude at any time, after written notice to the applicant and an opportunity for him to present his views in support of the deduction, that the deduction has not met the foregoing standards, such deduction shall cease to be "permissible" 7 days after the applicant and the Federal agency concerned have been notified of the Secretary's decision.

(iii) Upon application to and prior written permission from the Secretary of Labor, and subject to the standards set forth in subdivisions (i) (a), (b) and (d) of this subparagraph, deductions may be made by a Contractor or subcontractor or any affiliated person, for membership fees in group benefit or retirement associations; for board and lodging; or for other purposes where the Secretary of Labor concludes the deduction is required by compelling circumstances: Provided, however, The Contractor, subcontractor, or any affiliated person does not make a profit or benefit directly or indirectly from the deduction. A copy of the Secretary's decision shall be sent to the applicant and the Federal agency concerned.

(iv) In accordance with and subject to the standards set forth in subdivisions (i) (a) through (i) (d) of this subparagraph, general permission is hereby granted to make payroll deductions for—

(a) The payment of the purchase price of United States Defense Stamps and Bonds and United States Tax Savings Notes.

(b) The repayment of loans to or the purchase of shares in credit unions organized and operated in accordance with District of Columbia, Federal, or State credit union statutes.

(c) Contributions to a Federal governmental or quasi-governmental agency.

(d) The payment of dues or premiums to unaffiliated insurance companies or associations for medical or hospitalization insurance where the employer is not required by Federal, State, or local laws to supply such insurance or benefits.

(v) In any case in which the employee does not have full and actual freedom of disposition of his wage payment, whether made in cash or by check, any restricted payment made to the employee is considered a deduction under the regulations in this subpart.

(vi) Nothing herein shall be construed to permit any deduction which the Contractor or subcontractor knew, or in the exercise of good faith should have known, did not meet the foregoing standards. In order to insure compliance with this part, the Secretary of Labor may notify the Contractor or subcontractor that the deduction will be permitted only if certain conditions with respect thereto are observed. The Contractor or subcontractor or any affiliated person shall comply also with such general rules and regulations concerning the deductions as the Secretary of Labor shall make from time to time, notice of which shall have been given to the Contractor or subcontractor or any affiliated person making the deduction and to the Federal Agency concerned either directly or through publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

§ 601.404–7 Investigations. (a) When a complaint comes through the United States Department of Labor, it generally will be sent through the Department of Labor Regional Attorney to the Commanding Officer of the post, camp, station, class II installation, or other command at which the Contracting Officer is stationed. If the complaint is sent elsewhere within the Army, it should be forwarded to said Commanding Officer, or such other officer as shall be designated by the Head of the Procuring Activity concerned. When a complaint received from a Department of Labor Regional Attorney is forwarded in this manner, said Regional Attorney shall be notified to whom it has been forwarded.

Where, however, formal correspondence with the Department of Labor or the Department of Justice is required (as, e. g., when the case is one which was initiated by correspondence from the Department of Labor, or which involves more than $200 restitution or which may warrant criminal prosecution, litigation, or placing the Contractor on the Comptroller General's list of ineligible persons or firms), the investigating officer should forward a report of all material gathered by his investigation (including the information, findings, and conclusions set forth in § 601.404–7 (b), and evidence sufficient to support said findings and conclusions) through channels to The Judge Advocate General (Attn: Chief, Industrial Relations Branch) (except that reports of investigations on Corps of Engineers contracts shall be processed in accordance with the procedures established by the Office of the Chief of Engineers). § 601.404–9 Suspensions and deductions of contract payments. (a) When notified of an alleged violation, the Contracting Officer shall withhold from payments due the Contractor an amount equal to the estimated restitution due the Contractor's employees should the allegation of violation prove to be true. Such an amount shall continue to be withheld until (1) action as set forth in paragraph (b) of this section is taken, or (2) the Contractor voluntarily makes restitution of the full amount that is allegedly due his employees, or (3) the Contracting Officer is informed through channels that the Department of Labor has ruled that the funds withheld may be released to the Contractor.

(b) When investigation reveals that restitution is due the Contractor's employees, the Contracting Officer shall forward to the Disbursing Officer who normally makes disbursement to the Contractor, the forms required by § 411.404–9 of this title, indicating the purpose of same, and listing the name and address of each employee involved and the amount due him. The forms used to achieve such withholding should be separate from those used in withholding the amount of any penalty assessment that may be due the United States. Employees to whom restitution is due should be advised that, upon approval of the withholding by the Department of Labor, they will be paid on application to the General Accounting Office, which will hold funds withheld from the Contractor for restitution to workers in a special account for this purpose. Employee applications for payment may be forwarded with the forms required by § 411.404–9 of this title; such applications should include the employee's name, address, and classification; the name of the employer; and a statement identifying the contract involved. Withholding must be accomplished even though an employee cannot be located in order to complete restitution.

(c) When notified of an alleged violation which would render the Contractor liable to the United States for penalties, the Contracting Officer should withhold from payments due the Contractor a sum sufficient to cover the estimated penalties due the United States should the allegation prove true. Such an amount should continue to be withheld until (1) action as set forth in paragraph (d) of this section is taken, or (2) the Contractor voluntarily pays the full amount of the penalties allegedly due, or (3) the Contracting Officer is informed through channels that the Department of Labor has ruled that the funds may be released to the Contractor.

(d) When investigation discloses that penalties are due the United States, the Contracting Officer shall forward to the Disbursing Officer who normally makes disbursement to the Contractor a voucher indicating the amount due the Contractor, the amount to be paid to the United States as penalties, and sufficient information to make clear the purpose of the withholding. The voucher used should be separate from that used to withhold any restitution that may be due the Contractor's employees. The Contracting Officer should retain complete information concerning the penalties, including justification therefor and method of calculation, to be furnished the Disbursing Officer if requested.

§ 601.404–10 Restitution. (a) When it appears that restitution may be due employees of a Contractor, the Contracting Officer and the Investigating Officer shall seek to have the Contractor make restitution voluntarily, except that in cases which may warrant criminal prosecution or placing the Contractor on the Comptroller General's list of ineligible persons or firms, the Contractor should be advised as to the steps he should take to bring himself into compliance, but negotiations may not be undertaken to secure restitution, since such negotiations might adversely affect the possible action involved.

(b) When a Contractor wishes to make voluntary restitution but some worker or workers to whom such restitution is due cannot be located, the Contracting Officer shall collect such restitution and forward it to the Disbursing Officer for forwarding to the General Accounting Office, accompanied by a list of such workers, their last known addresses, and the amount due each one. Voluntary restitution cannot be considered completed as to workers who cannot be located until this procedure has been followed.

§ 601.404–11 Contract terminations. Whenever a contract is terminated for violation of labor standards provisions, a report containing the information set forth in § 411–404–11 of this title shall be forwarded by the Contracting Officer through channels to The Judge Advocate General (Attn: Chief, Industrial Relations Branch) (except that such reports on Corps of Engineers contracts shall be processed in accordance with the procedures established by the Office of the Chief of Engineers). This report shall be accompanied by a report of the investigations of the violations resulting in termination setting forth the information required by § 601.404–7 (b). If such investigation has not been completed, an interim report, setting forth as much of the information required by § 601.-404–7 (b) as is currently available, shall accompany the report of termination, and the complete report shall be forwarded when available.

§ 601.404–12 Cooperation with the Department of Labor. In connection with the enforcement of labor standards, either the Contracting Officer or an officer conducting an investigation is free to call upon the Department of Labor Regional Attorney for informal opinions, advice, or assistance, except as otherwise set forth in this part. The addresses of the Regional Attorneys and their geographical jurisdictions are the same as those set forth for the Regional Offices in § 601.653.

§ 601.404–50 Nonassessment of Eight-Hour Law penalty. The Department of Labor has announced that in appropriate cases where an employer acting in good faith has failed to pay the daily overtime compensation required by the Eight-Hour Law, and subsequently makes delayed payment of the extra amount due his employees, said employer will be considered in compliance with the Eight-Hour Law and will not be subject to the 5-dollar per day penalty for its violation. A case is appropriate for such nonassessment of the penalty when failure to pay at the regular pay period was inadvertent, but not when it was wilful, negligent, or without reasonable excuse. If the investigating officer believes nonassessment may be appropriate, he shall transmit through channels to The Judge Advocate General (Attn: Chief, Industrial Relations Branch) (except that Corps of Engineers cases shall be processed in accordance with procedures established by the Chief of Engineers), the report called for by § 601.404–7 (b), plus a recommendation as to nonassessment of the penalty, and his reasons therefor, with special reference to whether the original nonpayment was inadvertent and nonnegligent, or whether it was due to carelessness, negligence, wilfulness, or otherwise without reasonable excuse.

§ 601.450 List of debarred, ineligible, and suspended bidders. The list of persons and firms found by the Comptroller General to have violated the requirements of statutes relating to labor standards is incorporated by the Office of the Under Secretary of the Army (Assistant Judge Advocate General) in the consolidated list issued in accordance with § 590.601–1 of this subchapter. The list is for the use and guidance of all interested agencies of the Army Establishment. Contracting Officers will comply with the prohibitions contained in the list of such persons and firms published by the Comptroller General, prior to incorporation of such information in the Department of the Army consolidated list.

SUBPART F—WALSH-HEALEY PUBLIC CONTRACTS ACT

§ 601.602 Applicability. The publication "Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act, Rulings and Interpretations No. 3" has been issued with changes and amendments as of 30 April 1953. Copies may be obtained from the United States Department of Labor Regional Offices listed in § 601.653.

§ 601.603 Responsibilities of Contracting Officers. (a) Contracting officers are responsible for ascertaining that Contractors are "manufacturers" or "regular dealers" within the meaning of the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act when it is applicable. When doubt exists as to whether a bidder is a "manufacturer" or "regular dealer" a request for determination by the Department of Labor may be made through the Head of the Procuring Activity. A determination by the Department of Labor may be made through the Head of the Procuring Activity. A determination by the Department of Labor that a bidder is a "manufacturer" or "regular dealer" is conclusive. Such qualification, however, does not relieve the Contracting Officer of the duty to determine the responsibility of the bidder. (See § 590.357 of this subchapter.)

(b) Contracting Officers, when the Walsh-Healey Act is applicable, will be responsible for forwarding to the Contractor at the place of manufacture Department of Labor Forms PC 12 (Rev. 3/49) and PC 13 (Rev. 1/50). These forms may be requisitioned through normal publication supply channels.

§ 601.650 Exceptions not stated in the publications furnished Contracting Officers. Certain of the exceptions stated in the publications furnished Contracting Officers which contain no specific expiration date may have been rescinded by the Secretary of Labor since date of publication. In case of doubt inquiry may be directed to the appropriate Regional Director, Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, United States Department of Labor, indicated in § 601.653, or to The Judge Advocate General (Attn: Chief, Industrial Relations Branch).

§ 601.651 Procedure for obtaining exemptions with respect to stipulations required by the act. Section 6 of the act permits the Secretary of Labor to make exceptions to the requirement that the representations and stipulations of section 1 of the act be included in department proposals or contracts which are subject to the act.

(a) Requests for exceptions and review thereof. All requests of present or prospective Contractors for exceptions under section 6 of the act will be addressed to the Head of the Procuring Activity concerned. Such requests will be in writing, and will be transmitted through the appropriate Contracting Officer, and will set forth all pertinent information, including the nature of the requested exception, the need therefor, and any action already taken by the Contractor to avoid the necessity for the exception. The Contracting Officer will review each request received from a Contractor for—

(1) The urgency of the particular procurement.

(2) The relation of existing production schedules to Army requirements.

(3) The relation of present and past deliveries to production schedules.

(4) The extent to which labor supply is a limiting factor in production and the reasons therefor.

(5) The steps, if any, which have been taken either by the Contractor or by any Government agency to resolve the labor supply problem.

(6) The extent to which factors inherent in the production processes involved necessitate the requested exception.

(7) The extent to which the productive capacity of the facility or facilities in question is being utilized for Army procurement; and

(8) Any other pertinent data.

(b) Consultation with regional directors, Department of Labor, and forwarding requests to heads of procuring activities. (1) If the Contracting Officer believes that the requested exception is appropriate under the circumstances and necessary to meet vital procurement schedules, he will—

(i) Inform the appropriate regional director of the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Division, United States Department of Labor, of the request for exception and the necessity therefor (a list of such regional directors is given in § 601.653).

(ii) After joint consideration with such regional director, if still of the opinion that the requested exception is appropriate, transmit the request, together with (a) his written recommendation relative thereto, (b) a statement of all the information upon which the recommendation is based and (c) a recital of the steps taken in compliance with the procedure set forth in subdivision (1) (i) of this paragraph and this subdivision to the Head of the Procuring Activity concerned.

(2) This procedure of consulting with such regional directors will be complied with unless such compliance would result in undue delay. The Contracting Officer, in consulting with appropriate regional director, will furnish the Director any pertinent information in his possession which the Director may require for rendering a report in connection with the need for the exception to the Administrator of the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions.

(c) Review and processing of requests by Head of Procuring Activity. If the Head of the interested Procuring Activity concurs in the recommendation of the Contracting Officer, after review of the request and consideration as to whether the need for an exception can be avoided by utilization of alternative facilities, he will forward the request to The Judge Advocate General (Attn: Chief, Industrial Relations Branch) through the Assistant Chief of Staff, G–4, Department of the Army, Attn: Chief, Purchase Branch, together with—

(1) A statement of all pertinent data.

(2) His recommendation.

(3) A draft of a letter setting forth the need for the exception, addressed to the Secretary of Labor and prepared for the signature of the Secretary of the Army.

(4) Accompanying draft of a Findings of Fact as required by section 6 of the act, prepared for the signature of the Secretary of the Army.

§ 601.652 List of debarred, ineligible, and suspended bidders. (a) The consolidated list issued by the Office of the Under Secretary of the Army (Assistant Judge Advocate General) in accordance with § 590.601 of this subchapter will include the following:

(1) Persons or firms found by the Secretary of Labor to have breached or violated contractual representations and stipulations required by the Walsh-Healey Act, published by the Comptroller General.

(2) Persons and firms which have been held ineligible to be awarded contracts subject to the Walsh-Healey Act, published by the Department of Labor.

(b) This information is published for the use and guidance of all interested agencies of the Department of the Army. Contracting Officers will comply with the prohibitions contained in the list published by the Comptroller General relating to firms and individuals disqualified for the reason stated in paragraph (a) (1) of this section, and the restrictions contained in the Department of Labor Circular Letters relating to firms and individuals disqualified for the reasons stated in paragraph (a) (2) of this section prior to incorporation of such information in the Department of the Army consolidated list.

SUBPART G—FAIR LABOR STANDARDS ACT OF 1938

§ 601.701 Basic statute. Section 6 (a) of the act requires every employer to pay to each of his employees "who is engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce" not less than 75 cents per hour. Section 7 (a) of the act prohibits every employer from employing any of his employees "who is engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce" for a workweek longer than 40 hours, unless such employee receives compensation for his employment in excess of such 40-hour workweek at a rate not less than one and one-half times the regular rate at which he is employed. The Act is applicable within the United States, its Territories and possessions. The United States Supreme Court has ruled that the act is applicable to the Bermuda defense area leased to this country in 1940. The provisions of sections 6 and 7 of the act, however, do not apply with respect to certain categories of employees enumerated in the act, nor under certain circumstances also enumerated in the act.

§ 601.702 Suits against Government Contractors. Cost-plus-a-fixed-fee Contractors and subcontractors should be advised that immediately upon receipt of process in any legal action filed against them they must furnish a copy of all papers to the Contracting Officer. The Contracting Officer will make immediate report of the legal action direct to The Judge Advocate General, Department of the Army, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 601.750 Regulations of the Administrator. The act provides that the Administrator shall by regulation define certain terms used in the act and may grant certain exemptions from its provisions. Regulations issued by the Administrator, as revised from time to time, should be consulted in these respects.

§ 601.751 Reimbursement of cost-plus-a-fixed-fee contractors for payments in accordance with the act. (a) Any employer who violates the provisions of sections 6 or 7 of the act is liable to the employee or employees affected in the amount of their unpaid minimum wages, or their unpaid overtime compensation, and may be liable in an additional equal amount as liquidated damages; and in the event the employee institutes suit therefor, the costs of the action and a reasonable attorney's fee as allowed by the court. Violations also may be restrained by injunction and may subject the employer to criminal penalties. In this connection, however, attention is invited to the Portal-to-Portal Act of 1947 (Act of May 14, 1947; 29 U. S. Code 251) which limits the liability of an employer under certain circumstances.

(b) Determinations of the liability of the Government to reimburse Contractors for any amounts paid in settlement of claims under the act will be made by the Head of the Procuring Activity after appropriate coordination with The Judge Advocate General. Attention is invited to the Comptroller General's decision of 15 December 1943 (B–38642, 23 Comp. Gen. 439) to the effect that amounts paid in settlement of such claims may be reimbursed even though the settlements necessitated a compromise of disputed questions of law or fact, provided that such settlements are in amounts less than the total amounts (including liquidated damages, court costs, and attorneys' fees) which would be required to be paid in the event the employee sued and obtained judgment and that it is administratively determined that the settlement in each instance was fully warranted as being in the best interest of the Government. Vouchers covering such payments should be supported by evidence setting forth the basis for such administrative determination and any questions of law with respect to the application of the Act should be determined only after thorough consideration has been given the matter by competent Government attorneys, and a showing to that effect should also be made a part of the evidence submitted with the vouchers.

§ 601.752 Investigations and inspections. (a) The act provides that each employer subject to the act must make and preserve certain records of the persons employed by him and of the wages, hours and other conditions and practices of employment maintained by him. The act also provides that the Administrator, or his designated representatives, may investigate and gather data regarding the wages, hours, and other conditions and practices of employment in any industry subject to the act, and may enter and inspect such places and such records, question such employees and investigate such facts, conditions, practices, or matters as he may deem necessary or appropriate to determine whether any person has violated any provision of the act, or which may aid in the enforcement of the act.

(b) With respect to cost-plus-a-fixed-fee Contractors, to the extent consistent with security and other regulations governing admission of visitors to plants and projects, representatives of the Administrator should be accorded access to the facilities and records of Army Contractors for the purpose of making investigations to determine applicability of and compliance with the act. Investigations will be conducted at such time and in such manner as to interrupt or interfere least with operations. They should be confined whenever possible to the inspection of records in the office of the Contractor. Inspections of the areas in the facility where construction or production is in progress will be held to a minimum. Necessary interviewing of employees should, whenever possible, be conducted outside work hours or at such other times as will interfere least with construction or production operations. The Administrator has stated that his investigators will advise cost-plus-a-fixed-fee Contractors approximately 1 week before they plan to arrive at the project to make an investigation under the act.

SUBPART H—NONDISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT

§ 601.801 Basic requirement. The requirement is applicable in the United States, its Territories and possessions, except as indicated in § 601.850 (j).

§ 601.850 Interpretations of Executive Order 9346 by the Committee on Fair Employment Practice. Pursuant to the authority vested in it by Executive Order 9346 (3 CFR, 1943 Cum. Supp.), the Committee on Fair Employment Practice issued the following interpretations under the Order:

(a) The words "all contracts hereafter negotiated or renegotiated" include all contracts made, amended, or modified.

(b) A nondiscrimination provision is required in leases, grants or easements, rights of way, etc., to the same extent that it is required in other contracts.

(c) The obligation to include the nondiscrimination clause exists even though the contract involves nonwar (or nondefense) activity.

(d) The obligation to include the nondiscrimination clause exists even though the contract is required to be awarded to the lowest bidder.

(e) The obligation to include the nondiscrimination clause exists even though the contract is between a Federal Government agency and a State agency or subdivision of a State.

(f) The obligation to include the nondiscrimination clause does not depend on the amount of money or other consideration involved in the performance of the contract.

(g) The nondiscrimination provision required does not refer to, extend to, or cover the activities or business of the Contractor which are not related to or involved in the performance of the contract entered into.

(h) Inclusion of a nondiscrimination provision is not required in contracts the performance of which does not involve the employment of persons.

(i) Inclusion of a nondiscrimination provision is not required in contracts with foreign contractors for work to be performed outside the continental or territorial limits of the United States where no recruitment of workers within the said limits of the United States is involved.

(j) The nondiscrimination clause is not required in contracts renewed pursuant to an option to renew, in accordance with the terms, conditions, and provisions contained in the original contract.

(k) The requirement that parties to contracts with the Government of the United States (or agencies of said Government) include a nondiscrimination clause "in all subcontracts" is not applicable to lessors of space in buildings except in cases where the Government of the United States (or any agency thereof) is the only tenant involved, or unless a subcontract is entered into solely for the purpose of performing an obligation (or obligations) imposed by the Government lease.

(l) The requirement that parties to contracts with the Government of the United States (or agencies of said Government) include a nondiscrimination clause "in all subcontracts" is applicable only in those cases in which the subcontract is entered into solely for the purpose of enabling the Prime Contractor to fulfill an obligation (or obligations) imposed by the Government contract.

SUBPART I—EMPLOYMENT RESTRICTIONS FOR SECURITY PURPOSES

§ 601.950 Administration. Administrative implementation of the policy governing the security clearance of private Contractor employees and industrial facilities is set forth in detail in SR 380-405-6 (Armed Forces Industrial Security Program).

SUBPART O—REMOVAL OF ITEMS FROM FACILITIES AFFECTED BY WORK STOPPAGES

§ 601.1501 Basic considerations. Policy and procedure governing the removal of items from facilities affected by work stoppages prescribe that principal reliance with respect to such removals be placed on cooperative arrangements and voluntary concurrence. In this connection, it is emphasized that the Department of Defense Policy Governing Participation in Industrial Labor Relations Matters Affecting Military Procurement, provides that agencies of the Department shall remain impartial in, and shall refrain from taking a position on the merits of, a labor dispute and shall not undertake the mediation of such a dispute. Removal of items by Procuring Activities will be in accordance with that expressed policy.

§ 601.1550 Determination of urgency. Before action leading to the removal of any item is initiated, assurance will be secured that the item in question is urgently needed. Among the factors to be considered in determining urgency are—

(a) Whether the product is in such short supply that unless it is removed there will be a failure to meet schedules for urgently needed military items.

(b) Whether there are alternative sources of supply of such products reasonably available to furnish the particular item within the time within which delivery is required.

§ 601.1551 Administrative procedure. Where urgency is clearly established, Procuring Activities may seek the removal of military items from facilities affected by a work stoppage in accordance with the following procedures:

(a) An attempt will be made to work out an arrangement with plant management and the local union involved for the removal of the required items by the shipping means normally used by the company.

(b) If the course prescribed in paragraph (a) of this section is not successful, an effort will be made to obtain the concurrence of both parties to the labor dispute for removal of the items by military vehicles and, if necessary, by military personnel.

(c) If the procedures prescribed in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, and upon a determination by the Head of the Procuring Activity that additional efforts should be made to accomplish removal of the items in question, the Head of the Procuring Activity will submit the matter to The Judge Advocate General (Attn: Chief, Industrial Relations Branch) with appropriate recommendation and comment to insure effective and coordinated action. Referral of removal cases to The Judge Advocate General will include the following information:

(1) Name, address, and telephone number of company from which items are to be removed.

(2) Name, address, and telephone number of company official who may be contacted for purposes of effectuating removal.

(3) Identification, address, and telephone number of local union.

(4) Name, address, and telephone number of local union official who may be contacted for purposes of effectuating removal.

(5) Brief statement relating to the reasons for the necessity of removing the items in question.

(6) Description of items to be removed: nature of items, amount, approximate weight, purchase order number, and shop order number.

(7) Amount of work required preparatory to shipment of items.

(8) Mode of transportation by which items are to be removed.

(9) Destination of items.

(d) All action taken pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, will be reported, through channels, to The Judge Advocate General (Attn.: Chief, Industrial Relations Branch).

§ 601.1552 Coordination. (a) Where two or more Procuring Activities are, or may become, involved in the removal of urgent items from a facility affected by a work stoppage, efforts will be made by the Procuring Activities concerned to agree on a single Procuring Activity, where practicable, to effectuate removal arrangements.

(b) In situations affecting one or both of the other removal military departments, removal arrangements should be similarly coordinated, where practicable, by the Procuring Activities involved, with representatives of other military departments.

§ 601.1553 Avoidance of detrimental incidents. It is emphasized that the express policy of the Department of Defense with respect to the removal of items from facilities affected by work stoppages is to avoid the use of force or the appearance of force, and care will be taken to prevent the occurrence of incidents detrimental to harmonious relations with labor and management.

SUBPART P—PROCUREMENT OF STEVEDORING SERVICES DURING LABOR DISPUTES

§ 601.1650 Basic policy. It is the policy of the Department of the Army to procure stevedore services by contract with commercial stevedoring firms except where military considerations make it evident that the best interests of the Government will be served by the employment of direct-hire Civil Service workers.

§ 601.1651 Procedure. Wherever stevedoring services are furnished by Contractors to an Army installation and the performance under the contract, although urgently required, is delayed through a labor dispute, the following will govern:

(a) Attempt will first be made to have management and labor voluntarily agree to exempt military supplies from the labor dispute by continuing the movement of such material.

(b) If a voluntary arrangement cannot be obtained and diversion of the vessel to another port is impracticable, then the command will consider contracting with reliable alternative sources of supply within the stevedoring industry.

(c) To the extent stevedoring services cannot be secured by the method of alternate Contractors described in paragraph (b) of this section, then Civil Service stevedores will be utilized to perform the work hitherto performed by contract stevedores.

(d) To the extent that methods prescribed in paragraphs (a) (b) and (c) of this section are unsuccessful, then the command will utilize military personnel to handle the cargo which was being handled by contract stevedores prior to the labor dispute. To the maximum extent possible, the use of military personnel will be avoided and such personnel will be used only as a last resort.

§ 601.1652 Reports. Where the exigencies of a situation require deviations from the policies outlined above, the command concerned will submit a prompt report of the action taken, with justification therefor, through channels to The Judge Advocate General (Attn.: Chief, Industrial Relations Branch).

§ 602.050 Policy. It is the policy of the Department of the Army that Contractors will be required to furnish materials, special tooling, and industrial facilities, except that the Government may furnish such materials and industrial facilities when it is considered essential to meet necessary production or program schedules, or when otherwise considered to be in the best interest of the Government. When determined to be necessary or in the interest of National Defense, the furnishing of materials, special tooling, and industrial facilities may be in the form of (a) Government property for incorporation in an end item, (b) for installation in the Contractor's plant to aid in the production of supplies or services, (c) sales, gifts, and loans by the Army Establishment of property related to national defense, (d) sales of property by Contractors, and (e) sale and/or exchange of property for like items. (a) and (b) of this section will be furnished with appropriate reduction in contract price; (c) and (d) of this section are authorized by appropriate statutes and utilized only when applicable; (e) of this section is authorized by P. L. 152, 81st Congress, and is utilized when in the best interests of the Government for replacement of items obsolete or in an unusable condition. As a general policy, available special tooling shall be furnished contractors only when such furnishing does not interfere with essential production or program schedules.

SUBPART A—GENERAL

§ 602.101 Definitions. As used in this subpart, the following terms have the meanings stated below:

§ 602.101–50 Contractor inventory. The term "contractor inventory" means (a) any property acquired by and in the possession of a Contractor or subcontractor (including Government-furnished property) under a contract pursuant to the terms of which title is vested in the Government, and in excess of the amounts needed to complete full performance under the entire contract; and (b) any property which the Government is obligated or has the option to take over under any type of contract as a result either of any changes in the specifications or plans thereunder or of the termination of such contract (or subcontract) thereunder, prior to completion of the work, for the convenience or at the option of the Government.

SUBPART D—INDUSTRIAL FACILITIES

§ 602.406 Nonseverable industrial facilities. The policies and procedures outlined in § 412.406 of this title are applicable to all nonseverable industrial facilities acquired at Government expense, irrespective of whether they are acquired by or installed in the plant of a prime contractor or any tier of subcontractor. As defined in §§ 412.101–6, and 412.101–7 of this title, nonseverable industrial facilities are inclusive of both separately identifiable items and improvements to existing facilities. Accordingly capital improvements to contractor's plants, such as roads, parking lots, power and lighting systems, etc., which are normally capitalized in commercial accounting are governed by the policies and procedures of § 412,406–1 of this title.

§ 602.406–50 Cost-type contracts. Prior to the execution of cost-type contracts, all items of facilities whether set forth separately in the schedules or included in plant rearrangement, rehabilitation, and incidental construction contemplated in the contract and related schedules will be carefully reviewed to identify any capital improvements therein which constitute nonseverable industrial facilities. One of the following actions will be taken with respect to each nonseverable facility, and the contract involved will be submitted through Assistant Chief of Staff, G–4, to the Secretary of the Army for approval.

(a) Contract terms will be negotiated for the contractor to buy facilities back from the Government after completion of the contract(s) for which provided, at cost less specified rates of depreciation. Ordinarily a separate rate will be appropriate for each contract line item. Frequently the principal factor in the depreciation of facilities is their lesser value for the contractor's normal or future operations than for the Government contract(s). This factor, combined with the sometimes indefinite duration of Government contracts may make negotiation of uniform annual rates of depreciation impracticable. In such circumstances it may be more equitable to negotiate a relatively high rate for the first year with a reduced rate per year thereafter.

(b) If it is determined that the useful life of the facilities will not extend beyond the useful life of the contract no special contract terms other than those required by § 412.406–2 of this title will be necessary. Any such determinations will be fully justified in the contract negotiation file. The unsupported assertions of contractors that the facilities are not needed or have no value for future operations, are not of themselves sufficient justification for abandonment of the Government's right therein.

(c) In the event neither of the above actions are feasible or appropriate in the circumstances, the proposed contract together with the recommended alternate terms and justification therefore will be forwarded for approval.

§ 602.406–51 Negotiated fixed-price contracts. When the price proposals for negotiated fixed-price contracts provide for any substantial capital improvements whether labeled preproduction expense or otherwise, the items making up such expense will be analyzed to determine whether there is included therein any capital improvements or additions which constitute nonseverable facilities. Where such items are found one of the following actions will be taken:

(a) Under negotiated firm fixed-price contracts, negotiation will be undertaken to determine the residual value of the facilities and the Contractor will be requested to reduce his price proposal in that amount, unless such reduction was made by the Contractor in preparing his proposal.

(b) If the contract is to include provisions for price redetermination, the percentage of residual value for the various nonseverable facilities items will be negotiated, and the Contractor will be requested to show in his first cost statement, submitted for price redetermination, the actual cost of the facilities involved. These costs will then be reduced by application of the negotiated percentage to arrive at the amount to be accepted for price redetermination purposes.

(c) If the useful life of the facilities will not extend beyond the life of the contract a determination to that effect will be made and fully justified in the negotiation record.

(d) If satisfactory negotiations cannot be concluded under paragraphs (a) or (b) of this section, and if paragraph (c) of this section is not applicable, a separate contract for facilities at cost, or such other contractual arrangements as are feasible and appropriate in the circumstances, will be negotiated and submitted to the Assistant Chief of Staff, G–4 for appropriate action, including approval by the Secretary of the Army when required.

§ 602.450 Contractor operated motor vehicles. Certain Government installations are being operated by private Contractors who are given full operating control of the plant facilities, including vehicles, by the terms of their contracts with the Government. Vehicles which are thus operated by private Contractors, but are owned by the Government, are classed as "Contractor Vehicles," in order to distinguish them from "Military Vehicles." The operation, maintenance, supply, and control of Contractor vehicles are, by provisions of contract, in the hands of the private Contractor, and fall within the category of Government-furnished property. The term "Contractor Vehicle" as used herein is defined as any vehicles, supplied under written contract to Contractors, for use at class II Contractor-operated installations and other Government-owned Army Establishment controlled industrial facilities, and/or Contractor-owned facilities under contract with the Army Establishment.

(a) It is the basic policy of the Department of the Army that Contractors will, to the greatest extent practicable, procure their vehicles, fuels, lubricants, tires, and repair items in the open market. When motor vehicles, except materials handling equipment, are procured by a contractor for the account of the Government, application on DA Form 9–73 (Data for Registration—Motor Vehicle) for proper registration number will be made through the contracting officer to Department of the Army Motor Vehicle Central Records Office, Rossford Ordnance Depot, Toledo 1, Ohio, in accordance with AR 700–10. (Registration of Motor Vehicles.) However, when necessary, Army Establishment items may be reclassified and supplied as Government-furnished property. Prior to the negotiation of contracts or amendments thereto, Contracting Officers will ascertain through their command channels probable availability of the necessary vehicles within the Army Establishment. Request for the furnishing of any items listed in this section will be made by the Contracting Officer, through channels to the appropriate supply source. Nothing in this section shall preclude a Contractor from being reimbursed for such items which he may procure when properly allocable to the contract.

(b) When a standby-industrial installation is reactivated and operated by a Contractor under a contract, the terms of which require and authorize the furnishing of vehicles by the Government, the army commander shall transfer such vehicles as are on hand at the installation and which have been determined by the technical service concerned as suitable for the functions to be performed by the Contractor. Vehicles transferred will be reclassified as Contractor Vehicles and transferred to the contract account as Government-furnished property. Vehicles which are not authorized under the terms of the contract or are not suitable for use thereunder will be declared excess to the needs of the installation and returned to appropriate supply channels.

(c) When an industrial installation is placed in a standby status the owning technical service shall prepare and furnish the army commander a list of the vehicles at the installation which are necessary to its operational activities and which should not be removed or replaced unless authorized by the technical service concerned. The disposition of all other vehicles which have not been included in the above list will be made in the following order, (1) as requested by the army commander concerned, for use in the maintenance of the installation, (2) as required by the owning technical service for use in the performance of other contracts, (3) turned into appropriate supply channels. Vehicles which have been determined by the army commander as suitable for the purpose of maintaining the installation in a standby status will be reclassified as Military Vehicles and transferred to the appropriate account. Vehicles which the owning technical service requires for use in the performance of other contracts will be transferred to such contract accounts if authorized by the terms thereof. All remaining vehicles will be turned into appropriate supply channels.

(d) Contractor vehicles will not be included in the bulk allowances of administrative vehicles. When applicable, requests for changes in these allowances caused by compliance with paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section will be made by Army Commanders in accordance with SR 57–20–5. (Authorization, distribution and inventory of general transport administrative vehicles—continental United States.)

(e) Military Vehicles transferred to Contractor Vehicle classification and Contractor-procured vehicles registered by the Department of the Army Motor Vehicle Central Records Office are not under the control of the army commander but are the responsibility of the technical service administering the contract. The supervision and accomplishment of all functions and obligations assumed by the Contractor in connection with the operation, utilization of minimum essential vehicles, maintenance, storage, etc., as well as the protection of the Government's interest with respect to Contractor Vehicles rests with the Contracting Officer. For the purpose of distinguishing Contractor Vehicles from vehicles in use by the Army, the Contractor, immediately upon the receipt of a vehicle, either by transfer from the Army Establishment or by procurement in the open market, will immediately remove all Army insignia and/or markings and will paint in a conspicuous place on both sides of the vehicle the following:

Contractor Vehicle
Operated by [Name and Address of Contractor]

The "U. S. A." registration number will be permanently painted on the face of the dash under the hood. On trailers and semitrailers, the U. S. A. registration number will be stamped into a noncorrosive metal plate of approximately one by three inches in size which will be permanently affixed to the vehicle next to the manufacturer's nameplate.

(f) Whenever license plates are required for Government-owned Contractor-operated vehicles, arrangements will be made through channels to procure United States Government license plates. The requests will be directed to the Commanding Officer, Transportation Materiel Command, Marietta, Pa. Information to be forwarded with the request will include the name of the technical service administering the contract, name and location of project, and or name and address of the Contractor, proper nomenclature of vehicle(s), and the U. S. A. registration number(s) if previously assigned and known.

(g) Statutory restrictions limiting the use of Government-owned vehicles to official business are equally applicable to Contractor vehicles. Information governing the use of such vehicles under Army Establishment control is contained in AR 700–105 (Motor Vehicles). Contractor vehicles including buses will not be used to transport employees or any other personnel between their places of residence and employment. In the absence of adequate public transportation facilities, service can be augmented or inaugurated under AR 55–90, provided the other conditions therein set forth are satisfied.

SUBPART E—CONTRACT CLAUSES

§ 602.550 Government-furnished property clause for fixed-price construction contracts. The following clause will be used in fixed-price contracts, for construction, alteration or repair of buildings, bridges, roads or other kinds of real property, under which the Army Establishment is to furnish to the contractor, material, special tooling, or such industrial facilities as is authorized under § 412.402 (b) of this title.

GOVERNMENT-FURNISHED PROPERTY

[1] (a) The Government shall deliver to the Contractor, for use in connection with and under the terms of this contract, the property which the schedule or the specifications state the Government will furnish (hereinafter referred to as "Government-furnished property"). The completion date of this contract is based upon the expectation that Government-furnished property of a type suitable for use will be delivered to the contractor at the times stated in the schedule or if not so stated in sufficient time to enable the Contractor to meet such completion date. In the event that Government-furnished property is not delivered to the Contractor by such time or times, the Contracting Officer shall, if requested by the Contractor, make a determination of the delay occasioned the Contractor thereby, and shall grant to the Contractor a reasonable extension of time for completion of performance hereunder. The Government shall not be liable to the Contractor for damages or loss of profit by reason of any delay in delivery of or failure to deliver any or all of the Government-furnished property, except that in case of such delay or failure, upon the written request of the Contractor, an equitable adjustment shall be made in the completion date of this contract, or price, or both, and in any other contractual provision affected thereby, in accordance with the procedures provided for in the clause of this contract entitled "Changes."

[1] [Alternative] (a) The Government shall deliver to the Contractor for use in connection with and under the terms of this contract, the property which the schedule or the specifications state the Government will furnish (hereinafter referred to as "Government-furnished property"). The completion date of this contract is based upon the expectation that Government-furnished property of a type suitable for use will be delivered to the contractor at the times stated in the schedule or if not so stated in sufficient time to enable the contractor to meet such completion date. In the event that Government-furnished property is not delivered to the contractor by such time or times, the Contracting Officer shall, if requested by the Contractor, make a determination of the delay occasioned the Contractor thereby, and shall grant to the Contractor a reasonable extension of time for completion of performance hereunder.

(b) By notice in writing the Contracting Office may decrease the property furnished or to be furnished by the Government under this contract. In any such case, upon the written request of the Contractor, an equitable adjustment shall be made in the completion date, or price, or both, and in any other contractual provisions affected by such decrease, in accordance with the procedures provided for in the clause of this contract entitled "Changes."

(c) Title to the Government-furnished property shall remain in the Government. Title to Government-furnished property shall not be affected by the incorporation or attachment thereof to any property not owned by the Government, nor shall such Government-furnished property, or any part thereof, be or become a fixture or lose its identity as personalty by reason of affixation to any realty. The Contractor shall maintain adequate property control records of Government-furnished property in accordance with the provisions of the "Manual for the Control of Government Property in the Possession of Contractors" March 1951.

[1] Delete subparagraph (a) not used. If alternative subparagraph (a) is used, delete "[Alternative]" from such clause.

(d) The Government-furnished property shall, unless otherwise provided herein, be used only for the performance of this contract.

(e) The Contractor shall maintain and administer, in accordance with sound construction practice, a program for the maintenance, repair, protection and preservation of Government-furnished property, until disposed of by the Contractor in accordance with this clause. In the event that damaged or defective Government-furnished property is delivered to the Contractor, or any other damage occurs to Government-furnished property the risk of which has been assumed by the Government under this contract, the Government shall replace such items or the Contractor shall make such repair of the property as the Government directs; provided, however, that if the Contractor cannot effect such repair within the time required, the Contractor may reject such property. The contract price includes no compensation to the Contractor for the performance of any repair or replacement for which the Government is responsible, and an equitable adjustment will be made in the contract price for any such repair or replacement of Government-furnished property made at the direction of the Government. Any repair or replacement for which the Contractor is responsible under the provisions of this contract shall be accomplished by the Contractor at its own expense.

The following provision (f) is for use in advertised fixed-price contracts:

(f) Unless otherwise provided in this contract, the Contractor, upon delivery to it of any Government-furnished property, assumes the risk of, and shall be responsible for, any loss thereof or damage thereto except for reasonable wear and tear and except to the extent that such property is consumed in the performance of this contract.

The following provision (f) is for use in negotiated fixed-price contracts:

(f) (i) Except for loss, destruction or damage resulting from a failure of the Contractor, due to willful misconduct or lack of good faith of any of the Contractor's managerial personnel as defined herein, to maintain and administer a program for the maintenance, repair, protection and preservation of the Government-furnished property as required by paragraph (e) hereof, and except as specifically provided in clause(s) ____ of this contract or in the clause or clauses of this contract as designated in the Schedule, the Contractor shall not be liable for loss or destruction of or damage to the Government-furnished property (A) caused by any peril while the property is in transit off the Contractor's premises, or (B) caused by any of the following perils while the property is on the Contractor's or subcontractor's premises, or on any other premises where such property may properly be located, or by removal therefrom because of any of the following perils:

(1) Fire; lightning; windstorm, cyclone, tornado, hail; explosion; riot, riot attending a strike, civil commotion; vandalism and malicious mischief; sabotage; aircraft or objects falling therefrom; vehicles running on land or tracks, excluding vehicles owned or operated by the Contractor or any agent or employee of the Contractor; smoke; sprinkler leakage; earthquake or volcanic eruption; flood, meaning thereby rising of a body of water; hostile or warlike action, including action in hindering, combating, or defending against an actual, impending or expected attack by any government or sovereign power (de jure or de facto), or by any authority using military, naval, or air forces, or by an agent of any such government, power, authority, or forces; or (II) Other peril, of a type not listed above, if such other peril is customarily covered by insurance (or by a reserve for self-insurance) in accordance with the normal practice of the Contractor, or the prevailing practice in the industry in which the Contractor is engaged with respect to similar property in the same general locale.

The perils as set forth in (A) and (B) above are hereinafter called "excepted perils."

The term "Contractor's managerial personnel" as used herein means the contractor's directors, officers and such of its managers, superintendents, or other equivalent representatives who have supervision or direction of (I) all or substantially all of the contractor's business; (II) all or substantially all of the contractor's operation at any one plant or separate location at which the contract is being performed; (III) a separate and complete major construction, alteration or repair operation in connection with the performance of this contract.

(ii) The Contractor represents that it is not including in the price hereunder, and agrees that it will not hereafter include in any price to the Government, any charge or reserve for insurance (including self-insurance funds or reserves) covering loss or destruction of/or damage to the Government-furnished property caused by any excepted peril.

(iii) Upon the happening of loss or destruction of or damage to any Government-furnished property caused by an excepted peril, the Contractor shall notify the Contracting Officer thereof, and shall communicate with the Loss and Salvage Organization, if any, now or hereafter designated by the Contracting Officer, and with the assistance of the Loss and Salvage Organization so designated (unless the Contracting Officer has directed that no such organization be employed), shall take all reasonable steps to protect the Government-furnished property from further damage, separate the damaged and undamaged Government-furnished property, put all the Government-furnished property in the best possible order, and furnish to the Contracting Officer a statement of: (A) the lost, destroyed and damaged Government-furnished property, (B) the time and origin of the loss, destruction or damage, (C) all known interests in commingled property of which the Government-furnished property is a part, and (D) the insurance, if any, covering any part of or interest in such commingled property. The Contractor shall be reimbursed for the expenditures made by it in performing its obligations under this subparagraph (iii) (including charges made to the Contractor by the Loss and Salvage Organization, except any of such charges the payment of which the Government has, at its option, assumed directly), to the extent approved by the Contracting Officer and set forth in a Supplemental Agreement.

(iv) With the approval of the Contracting Officer after loss or destruction of or damage to Government-furnished property, and subject to such conditions and limitations as may be imposed by the Contracting Officer, the Contractor may, in order to minimize the loss to the Government or in order to permit resumption of business or the like, sell for the account of the Government any item of Government-furnished property which has been damaged beyond practicable repair, or which is so commingled or combined with property of others, including the Contractor, that separation is impracticable.

(v) Except to the extent of any loss or destruction of or damage to Government-furnished property for which the Contractor is relieved of liability under the foregoing provisions of this clause, and except for reasonable wear and tear or depreciation, or the utilization of the Government-furnished property in accordance with the provisions of this contract, the Government-furnished property (other than property permitted to be sold) shall be returned to the Government in as good condition as when received by the Contractor in connection with this contract, or as repaired under paragraph (e) above.

(vi) In the event the Contractor is reimbursed or compensated for any loss or destruction of or damage to the Government-furnished property, caused by an excepted peril, it shall equitably reimburse the Government. The Contractor shall do nothing to prejudice the Government's rights to recover against third parties for any such loss, destruction or damage and, upon the request of the Contracting Officer, shall at the Government's expense, furnish to the Government all reasonable assistance and cooperation (including the prosecution of suit and the execution of instruments of assignment in favor of the Government) in obtaining recovery.

(vii) [Where applicable.] In the event any aircraft are to be furnished under this contract, any loss or destruction of, or damage to, such aircraft or other Government-furnished property occurring in connection with operations of said aircraft will be governed by the clause of this contract captioned "Flight Risks," to the extent such clause is, by its terms, applicable.

(g) The Government shall at all reasonable times have access to the premises wherein any Government-furnished property is located.

(h) Upon the completion of this contract, or at such earlier date as may be fixed by the Contracting Officer, the Contractor shall submit, in a form acceptable to the Contracting Officer, inventory schedules covering all items of Government-furnished property not consumed in the performance of this contract (including any resulting scrap), or not theretofore delivered to the Government, and shall deliver or make such other disposal of such Government-furnished property, as may be directed or authorized by the Contracting Officer. Recoverable scrap from Government-furnished property shall be reported in accordance with a procedure and in such form as the Contracting Officer may direct. The net proceeds of any such disposal shall be credited to the contract price or shall be paid in such other manner as the Contracting Officer may direct.

(i) Directions of the Contracting Officer and communications of the Contractor issued pursuant to this clause shall be in writing.

§ 602.551 Government property clause for cost-reimbursement type construction contracts. The following clause will be used in cost-reimbursement type contracts, for construction, alteration or repair of buildings, bridges, roads or other kinds of real property under which the Army Establishment is to furnish to the contractor, material, special tooling, or such industrial facilities as is authorized under § 412.402 (b) of this title.

GOVERNMENT PROPERTY

(a) The Government shall deliver to the contractor the property described in the schedule or the specifications at the times stated therein, or if not so stated, in sufficient time to enable the Contractor to perform this contract. If any of such property is not delivered to the Contractor by such time or times, the Contracting Officer, upon written request of the Contractor, shall equitably adjust the time of completion of this contract. In no event shall the Government be liable to the Contractor for damages or loss of profit by reason of any delay in or failure to deliver any or all of the items set forth in the schedule or specifications.

(b) Title to all property furnished by the Government shall remain in the Government. Title to all property purchased by the Contractor, for the cost of which the Contractor is entitled to be reimbursed as a direct item of cost under this contract, shall pass to and vest in the Government upon delivery of such property by the vendor. Title to other property, at cost of which is reimbursable to the Contractor under this contract, shall pass to and vest in the Government upon (i) issuance for use of such property in the performance of this contract, or (ii) commencement of processing or use of such property in the performance of this contract, or (iii) reimbursement of the cost thereof by the Government, whichever first occurs. All the items to be furnished by the Government, as set forth in Schedule or Specifications, together with all property acquired by the Contractor title to which vests in the Government under this paragraph, are subject to the provisions of this clause and are hereinafter collectively referred to as "Government Property."

(c) Title to the Government property shall not be affected by the incorporation or attachment thereof to any property not owned by the Government, nor shall such Government property, or any part thereof, be or become a fixture or lose its identity as personalty by reason of affixation to any realty. The Contractor shall maintain adequate property control records of the Government property and shall identify the Government property as such in accordance with the provisions of the "Manual on the Control of Government Property in the Possession of Contractors" dated March 1951, which is incorporated herein by reference.

(d) The Government property provided or furnished pursuant to the terms of this contract shall, unless otherwise provided herein, be used only for the performance of this contract.

(e) The Contractor shall maintain and administer, in accordance with sound construction practice, a program for the maintenance, repair, protection and preservation of Government property, so as to assure its full availability and usefulness for the performance of this contract. The Contractor shall take all reasonable steps to comply with all appropriate directions or instructions which the Contracting Officer may prescribe as reasonably necessary for the protection of Government property.

(f) (i) The Contractor shall not be liable for any loss of or damage to the Government property, or for expenses incidental to such loss or damage, except that the Contractor shall be responsible for any such loss or damage (including expenses incidental thereto) (A) which results from willful misconduct or lack of good faith on the part of any of the Contractor's directors or officers, or on the part of any of its managers, superintendents, or other equivalent representatives, who has supervision or direction of (I) all or substantially all of the Contractor's business, or (II) all or substantially all of the Contractor's operations at any one plant or separate location in which this contract is being performed, or (III) a separate and complete major construction, alteration or repair operation in connection with the performance of this contract; or (B) which results from a failure on the part of the contractor, due to the willful misconduct or lack of good faith on the part of any of its directors, officers, or other representatives mentioned in subparagraph (A) above, to maintain and administer, in accordance with sound construction practice, the program for maintenance, repair, protection and preservation of Government property as required by paragraph (e) hereof, or reasonable steps to comply with any appropriate written directions of the Contracting Officer under paragraph (e) hereof; or (C) for which the Contractor is otherwise responsible under the express terms of the clause(s) ---- of this contract, or of the clause or clauses designated in the Schedule; or (D) which results from a risk expressly required to be insured under this contract, but only to the extent of the insurance so required to be procured and maintained, or to the extent of insurance actually procured and maintained, whichever is greater; or (E) which results from a risk which is in fact covered by insurance or for which the Contractor is otherwise reimbursed, but only to the extent of such insurance or reimbursement; provided that, if more than one of the above exceptions shall be applicable in any case, the contractor's liability under any one exception shall not be limited by any other exception.

(ii) The Contractor shall not be reimbursed for, and shall not include as an item of overhead, the cost of insurance, or any provision for a reserve, covering the risk of, loss of, or damage to the Government property, except to the extent that the Government may have required the Contractor to carry such insurance under any other provision of this contract.

(iii) Upon the happening of loss or destruction of or damage to the Government property, the Contractor shall notify the Contracting Officer thereof, and shall communicate with the Loss and Salvage Organization, if any, now or hereafter designated by the Contracting Officer, and with the assistance of the Loss and Salvage Organization so designated (unless the Contracting Officer has designated that no such organization be employed), shall take all reasonable steps to protect the Government property from further damage, separate the damaged and undamaged Government property, put all the Government property in the best possible order, and furnish to the Contracting Officer a statement of (A) the lost, destroyed and damaged Government property, (B) the time and origin of the loss, destruction or damages (C) all known interests in commingled property of which the Government property is a part, and (D) the insurance, if any, covering any part of or interest in such commingled property. The contractor shall make repairs and renovations of the damaged Government property or take such other action, as the Contracting Officer directs.

(iv) In the event the Contractor is indemnified, reimbursed, or otherwise compensated for any loss or destruction of or damage to the Government property, it shall use the proceeds to repair, renovate or replace the Government property involved, or shall credit such proceeds against the cost of the work covered by the contract, or shall otherwise reimburse the Government, as directed by the Contracting Officer. The Contractor shall do nothing to prejudice the Government's right to recover against third parties for any such loss, destruction or damage and upon the request of the Contracting Officer, shall, at the Government's expense, furnish to the Government all reasonable assistance and cooperation (including the prosecution of suit and the execution of instruments of assignment in favor of the Government) in obtaining recovery.

For use where applicable:

(v) In the event any aircraft are to be furnished under this contract, any loss or destruction of, or damage to, such aircraft or other Government property occurring in connection with operations of said aircraft will be governed by the clause of this contract captioned "Flight Risks," to the extent such clause is, by its terms, applicable.

(g) The Government shall at all reasonable times have access to the premises where any of the Government property is located.

(h) The Government property shall remain in the possession of the Contractor for such period of time as is required for the performance of this contract unless the Contracting Officer determines that the interests of the Government require removal of such property. In such case the Contractor shall promptly take such action as the Contracting Officer may direct with respect to the removal and shipping of Government property. In any such instance, the contract may be amended to accomplish an equitable adjustment in the terms and provisions thereof.

(i) Upon the completion of this contract, or at such earlier date as may be fixed by the Contracting Officer, the Contractor shall submit to the Contracting Officer in a form acceptable to him, inventory schedules covering all items of the Government property not consumed in the performance of this contract (including any resulting scrap), or not theretofore delivered to the Government, and shall deliver or make such other disposal of the Government property as may be directed by the Contracting Officer. Recoverable scrap shall be reported in accordance with a procedure and in such form as the Contracting Officer may direct. The net proceeds of any such disposal approved by the Contracting Officer shall be credited to the cost of the work covered by the contract or shall be paid in such manner as the Contracting Officer may direct.

(j) Directions of the Contracting Officer and communications of the Contractor issued pursuant to this clause shall be in writing.

§ 602.552 Contractor-furnished special tooling clause for fixed-price construction contracts. The following clause shall be used in fixed-price contract, for construction, alteration or repair of buildings, bridges, roads, or other kinds of real property under which the Contractor furnishes special tooling, under the conditions set forth in § 412.301 (b) (1), of this title, but is not for use in contracts in which special tooling is called for as a separate item in the Schedule. (See § 412.302 (a) of this title.)

CONTRACTOR-FURNISHED SPECIAL TOOLING

(a) The term "special tooling" as used in this clause, includes all jigs, dies, fixtures, molds, patterns, special taps, special gauges, special test equipment, and other special articles of equipment and construction aids acquired or manufactured by the Contractor for use in the performance of this contract, and replacements thereof, which are of such a specialized nature that, without substantial modification or alteration, their use is limited to the construction, alteration or repair work called for by this contract, as are peculiar to the needs of the Government. The term does not include: (i) items of tooling or equipment heretofore acquired by the contractor, or replacements thereof, whether or not altered or adapted for use in the performance of this contract; (ii) items of tooling or equipment which are usable in construction, alteration or repair work which is not peculiar to the needs of the Government, or (iii) general or special machine tools or similar capital items.

(b) The Contractor agrees not to use items of special tooling except in the performance of this contract, or except as otherwise provided by the clause, without prior written approval of the Contracting Officer. The Contractor may, with the approval of the Contracting Officer, use the special tooling in the performance of other contracts with the Government, or subcontracts under Government contracts, provided that the Contractor agrees not to include in the prices for any such contracts or subcontracts, involving the use of such special tooling, the cost of such tooling or any allowance or charge to cover depreciation or amortization which has previously been charged against this contract.

(c) As and when any substantial portion of usable special tooling is no longer needed by the contractor for the performance of this contract, and of other Government contracts and subcontracts as to which approval has been obtained under paragraph (b) above, the contractor shall promptly notify the Contracting Officer thereof, and shall furnish to the Contracting Officer a list of the structures, parts of structures, and uses for which such special tooling was designed. Upon completion or termination of all work under this contract, or of this contract and other Government contracts and subcontracts as to which approval has been obtained under paragraph (b) above, the Contractor shall furnish a final list in the same form covering all items not previously reported under this paragraph. Special tooling which has become obsolete as a result of changes in design or specification need not be reported, except as provided for in paragraph (d).

(d) In the event of any changes in design or specifications which affect interchangeability of parts, the Contractor shall, unless otherwise agreed to by the Contracting Officer, give the Contracting Officer notice of any part which is not interchangeable with the new or superseding part and the usable special tooling for each part covered in such notice shall be retained by the contractor subject to the provisions of paragraph (i), pending disposition under paragraph (f).

(e) At the time it furnished any list or notice under (c) or (d) above, the Contractor may designate those items of special tooling (either specifically or by listing the particular construction, alteration or repair work for which such items were used or designed) which it desires to retain, together with a written offer: (i) to retain any or all of such items, free and clear of any Government interest, for an amount designated therein, which should ordinarily not be less than the then fair value of such items (which fair value takes into account, among other things, the value of such items to the contractor for use in further work by it); or (ii) to retain any or all such items for such period of time and subject to such terms and conditions as may be agreed to by the parties hereto, subject to ultimate retention or disposition of such items in accordance with paragraph (f) hereof.

(f) Within 90 days after receipt of any list or notice under paragraph (c) or (d) hereof, or such further period as may be agreed upon by the parties, the Contracting Officer shall furnish to the Contractor: (i) a list specifying the particular structure, parts of structures, or the construction, alteration or repair work performed under the contract for which the Government may require special tooling, together with a request that the Contractor transfer title and deliver to the Government all usable items of special tooling which were used or designed for the construction, alteration or repair of any designated portion of such structure, parts of structures or other construction work and which were on hand when construction of such structures, parts of structures or other construction work ceased; or (ii) an acceptance or rejection of any offer made by the Contractor under paragraph (e) above, or a request for further negotiation with respect thereto; or (iii) subject to the provisions of paragraph (j) hereof, a direction to the contractor to sell, or to dispose of as scrap, for the account of the Government, any or all of the special tooling covered by such list; or (iv) a statement with respect to any or all of the special tooling covered by such list that the Government has no further interest therein and waives its rights therein; or (v) any combination of the foregoing, as the circumstances warrant. The Contractor shall promptly comply with any request by the Contracting Officer under this paragraph to transfer title to any items of special tooling, and shall, subject to the provisions of paragraph (j) hereof, (1) immediately prepare such items for shipment by proper packaging, packing, and marking, in accordance with any instructions which may be issued by the Contracting Officer, and shall promptly deliver such items to the Government, as directed by the Contracting Officer, or (2) if a storage agreement has been entered into, prepare such items for storage in accordance therewith, as directed by the Contracting Officer. Any items of special tooling so delivered or stored shall be accompanied by such operation sheets or other appropriate data as are necessary to show the construction operation or processes for which such items were used or designed. If the Contracting Officer has requested further negotiations under (ii) of this paragraph, the contractor agrees that it will enter into such negotiations in good faith with the Contracting Officer. Any items of special tooling which are not disposed of by transfer of title and delivery to the Government under this paragraph, or by acceptance of an offer of the contractor made under paragraph (e), or of such offer as modified in the course of negotiations, shall be disposed of in the manner set forth in (iii) or (iv) of this paragraph.

(g) If the Contracting Officer accepts an offer of the Contractor to retain any items of special tooling, or if any such items are sold to third parties or disposed of as scrap, the net proceeds shall: (i) be deducted from the amounts due to the Contractor under this contract and the contract amended accordingly; or (ii) be otherwise paid as the Contracting Officer may direct.

(h) The Contractor agrees that it will follow its normal construction practice in maintaining property control records on all the special tooling, and that it will make such records available for inspection by the Government at all reasonable times. The Contractor further agrees that, to the extent practicable, it will identify by appropriate stamp, tag or other mark all special tooling subject to this clause.

(i) The Contractor agrees that between the date any usable items of special tooling are no longer needed by it, within the meaning of this clause, and the date of final disposition of such items under this clause, it will take all reasonable steps necessary to maintain the identity and existing condition of such items, unless the Contracting Officer has directed that such items be disposed of as scrap or has given notice under (f) (iii). The Contractor shall not be required to keep any such items in place.

(j) Any preparation of items for shipment required of the Contractor under paragraph (f) of this clause, or any disposal as scrap under paragraph (f) (iii), or any action required of the Contractor under paragraph (i), shall be taken pursuant to written instructions of the Contracting Officer, which shall (i) provide for an equitable adjustment of the contract price to cover any additional cost, to the Contractor, not taken into account in the negotiation of this contract, of complying with such instructions, which adjustment shall be made in accordance with the proceedure set forth in the clause of this contract entitled "Changes," or (ii) otherwise provide for payment to the Contractor of any such additional cost. Any failure of the Contracting Officer to issue the Contractor specific disposition instructions shall be construed as an instruction to the Contractor to take the action required under paragraph (i) with provision for equitable adjustment or payment as provided for above.

The following paragraph relating to subcontracts shall be used in cases where the Contracting Officer deems the use of such paragraph to be necessary in order to protect the Government's interest in special tooling which may be acquired under such subcontracts:

(k) The Contractor agrees that, in placing any subcontracts or purchase orders under this contract which involve the use of special tooling, the full cost of which is charged to such subcontract or purchase order, it will include therein appropriate provisions to obtain rights comparable to those granted to the Government by this clause, and agrees that it will exercise such rights for the benefit of the Government, as the Contracting Officer may direct.

In appropriate cases, the following alternative clause relating to subcontracts may be used:

(k) The Contractor agrees that, in placing any subcontracts or purchase orders under this contract which involve the use of special tooling, the full cost of which is charged to such subcontract or purchase, it will to the extent consistent with its normal business practice include appropriate provisions therein to obtain rights comparable to those granted to the Government by this clause, and agrees that it will exercise such rights for the benefit of the Government, as the Contracting Officer may direct.

§ 602.553 Government-furnished property (short form). Where Government-furnished property is involved, the following short form of clause will be used:

(a) In the case of fixed-price contracts, when the amount of the contract is not in excess of $1,000; or

(b) In the case of construction, alterations, or repair of buildings, bridges, roads, or other kinds of real property and appurtenances when the value of the property (estimated, if not known) to be furnished is not in excess of $1,000.

GOVERNMENT-FURNISHED PROPERTY

(a) The Government shall deliver to the Contractor, for use in connection with and under the terms of this contract, the property which the schedule or specifications state the Government will furnish (hereinafter referred to as "Government-furnished property").

(b) Title to the Government-furnished property shall remain in the Government. The Contractor shall maintain adequate property control records of Government-furnished property in accordance with the provisions of ASPR—Appendix B "Manual for the Control of Government Property in the Possession of Contractors" dated March 1951.

(c) Except for reasonable wear and tear, depreciation or the utilization of the Government-furnished property in connection with the contract, the contractor shall be liable for any loss or destruction of or damage to such property and shall return any unused residue thereof to the Government.

SUBPART O—SALE OF PROPERTY

§ 602.1501 Sales of materials and special items. Heads of Procuring Activities are authorized to approve the sale to employees, both Contractor and governmental, engaged in military production or construction, any uniforms, safety clothing and equipment, plant protective clothing, and other special articles necessary in the production or operation of national defense industries or establishments. Contracts for such sales will be made under the authority cited in § 606.401 of this subchapter; and will comply with the requirements of §§ 606.416, 606.417 and 606.418 of this subchapter, and regulations approved by the Secretary of Defense, dated 17 July 1951.

§ 602.1502 Exchange or sale of personal property and application of proceeds to purchase of similar items. This section prescribes rules under which the Army Establishment may exchange or sell similar items and apply the exchange allowance or proceeds of sale in whole or in part payment for the property acquired.

§ 602.1502–1 Scope. Exchange of personal property by the Army Establishment and the application of the exchange allowance or proceeds of sale of personal property in the acquisition of personal property by the Army Establishment under section 201 (c), Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949 (63 Stat. 378; 41 U. S. C. 231 (c)), shall be made only in accordance with the provisions of this section.

§ 602.1502–2 General authorization. Subject to the provisions of this section, Heads of Procuring Activities are hereby authorized, in acquiring personal property within the United States or elsewhere, to exchange or sell similar items and apply the exchange allowance or the proceeds of sale in such cases, in whole or in part payment for the property acquired. Any transactions carried out under this authorization shall be evidenced in writing.

§ 602.1502–3 Restrictions and limitations. (a) This section authorizes the application of exchange allowances or proceeds of sale in whole or part payment for personal property acquired only when—

(1) The items sold or exchanged are similar to the items acquired (see paragraph (b) of this section for clarification of the word "similar");

(2) The items acquired are to be used (whether or not intended for additional uses) in the performance of all or substantially all of the tasks or operations in which the items exchanged or sold would otherwise be used, but the items acquired need not be the same in number nor used in the same location as the items sold or exchanged: Provided, That the limitation prescribed in this section shall not apply with respect to parts or containers: And provided further, That detailed cross-identification between old and new items will not be required in the absence of specific requirements of law, but in the absence of such cross-identification, there shall be furnished to the General Accounting Office sufficient accounting data to establish that the items acquired were similar to the items exchanged or sold, that any exchange allowances or proceeds of sale applied in whole or part payment of property acquired were in fact available for such application, and that the transaction was otherwise in accordance with the provisions of this subpart; and

(3) There has been at the time of transfer or sale an administrative determination to apply the exchange allowance or proceeds of sale in acquiring property in accordance with this section, which determination shall support each schedule of collections covering such proceeds of sale.

(b) Items shall be deemed "similar" for the purpose of this section when—

(1) They are substantially alike in all material aspects and characteristics, excluding, however, condition, year model, size or capacity, and manufacturer; or

(2) The Head of a Procuring Activity or his representative duly authorized for the purpose, finds in writing that they resemble each other in most materials aspects and characteristics and are adaptable to the same or comparable uses, which finding shall support each purchase document covering property acquired pursuant thereto; or

(3) They constitute parts of or for assembled items, or containers for items, which items are similar within the meaning of paragraph (b) (1) or (b) (2) of this section.

(c) This section shall not be construed to authorize—

(1) The acquisition of personal property by a procuring activity when such acquisition is not otherwise authorized by law;

(2) The acquisition of personal property by a procuring activity in contravention of (i) any restriction upon the procurement of a commodity or commodities, or (ii) any replacement policy or standard, prescribed by the President or by the Administrator of General Services pursuant to the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949 (P. L. 152, 81st Congress) (63 Stat. 378, 41 U. S. C. 231).

(3) The purchase or acquisition of personal property otherwise than under a consolidated purchasing or stores program or Federal Supply Schedule contract where procurement under such program or contract is required by regulations or other directives prescribed by the Administrator: Provided, That a procuring activity acquiring an item or items under and in accordance with such program or contract may sell or exchange similar items and apply the exchange allowance or proceeds of sale as provided in this section; or

(4) The sale, transfer, or exchange of excess or surplus property in connection with the purchase or acquisition of personal property; Provided, That a procuring activity obtaining items of excess or surplus property as authorized by law may thereafter exchange or sell such items and apply the exchange allowance or proceeds of sales in accordance with this section.

§ 602.1502–4 Sale. (a) Heads of Procuring Activities are encouraged to utilize the services of property disposal officers with respect to the sale of oroperty as authorized in paragraph 36, AR 755–5 (Disposition of Excess and Surplus Personal Property Other Than Foreign Excess Personal Property).

(b) Disposition of proceeds of sales will be in accordance with paragraph 52b, SR 755–5–2 (Surplus Personal Property).

§ 602.1502–5 Books and periodicals. Notwithstanding any other provisions of this section procuring activities may exchange, without monetary appraisal or detailed listing or reporting, books and periodicals in their libraries not needed for permanent use for other books and periodicals.

§ 602.1503 Sales, gifts, and loan of drawings and certain other property. (a) The Heads of Procuring Activities are authorized to sell, give, or lend drawings, manufacturing and other information, and samples of supplies and equipment to be manufactured or furnished, to Contractors and private firms which are or may likely be manufacturers or furnishers of supplies and equipment for the use of the Army, Navy, or Air Force under approved production plans, whenever they determine that such action is necessary in the interest of national defense: Provided, however, That no sale or gift of such items shall be made if the item is to be the subject of recurring procurement, and would be suitable for the purpose for which purchased by the Government, and not obsolete, after serving as a sample, pattern, or guide to a manufacturer or supplier.

(b) The Heads of Procuring Activities, or their authorized representatives, are authorized in connection with Off-Shore Procurement, to sell, give, or lend drawings, manufacturing and other information, and samples of supplies and equipment to be manufactured or furnished, to foreign suppliers who are or may likely be manufacturers or furnishers of supplies and equipment, for the use of the Army, Navy, or Air Force under approved Off-Shore Procurement programs, whenever they determine that such action is necessary in the interest of national defense.

(c) Such drawings, manufacturing and other information, and samples of supplies and equipment to be manufactured or furnished shall be sold, given, or loaned by appropriate written agreement, reciting the above determination, pursuant to the act of 27 July 1937, as amended (50 Stat. 535; 10 U. S. C. 1192a).

(d) The foregoing determination and requirement for a written agreement will not be mandatory in the case of Invitations for Bids and Requests for Proposals. Drawings, specifications and data furnished need not be returned unless otherwise directed by Contracting Officer.

(1) The determination to request the return of such specifications, drawings or any other data furnished the Contracting Officer should take into consideration the following factors:

(i) The current or probable future need of the Government for the items.

(ii) The residual value of such items.

(iii) Administrative and other expenses incident to handling and storage of such items.

(iv) The probable cost of reproduction of such items in event of future procurement.

(2) Classified material as a general rule will be required to be returned regardless of the criteria as established in this section.

SUBPART P—RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

§ 602.1601 Loan of equipment. Government property acquired for research and development may be loaned to private industrial firms and educational institutions for use in privately financed research and development programs, if such programs are of interest to the Government, and the results of the research will be furnished the Government without cost to the Government. Any such loan should be reflected in a written agreement setting forth the terms of the loan, and the benefits to be derived by the Government.

SUBPART Q—IMPLEMENTATION OF MANUAL FOR CONTROL OF GOVERNMENT PROPERTY IN POSSESSION OF CONTRACTORS

§ 602.1700 Scope of subpart. This subpart is devoted to the implementation of the "Manual for Control of Government Property in Possession of Contractors" (Appendix B, Part 413, of this title). The term Manual as hereinafter referred to in this subpart means the "Manual of Control of Government Property in Possession of Contractors." The number in parenthesis after each section indicates the number of the paragraph in the Manual which is being implemented. [101.]

§ 602.1701 Definitions. [104.]

§ 602.1701–50 Custodial records. Custodial records are written memorandums of any description or type used for the purpose of accounting for items issued to plant employees from tool cribs, toolrooms, stockrooms, etc., such as requisitions, issue slips, receipts, tool receipts, tool checks, stock record books, etc. [304.1 (c).]

§ 602.1703 Designation of Property Administrator. Property Administrators serve in the capacity of an authorized representative of the Contracting Officer, and will be designated in accordance with §§ 590.451 and 590.452 of this subchapter. Post, camp, or station supply officers designated property administrators as an additional duty should be familiar with the industrial property control procedure and must be able to devote the time necessary to industrial property matters as part of the Contracting Officers Staff. The Contract Administrator will not perform the duties of the Property Administrator without prior approval of the Head of the Procuring Activity. [202 (a).]

§ 602.1704 Sources from which Government property may be furnished or acquired. [205.]

§ 602.1704–1 Military installations or other contractors' plants. Property may also be acquired by an operating Contractor as a result of new facility construction by other Contractors under construction contracts with the Department of the Army. [205.1.]

§ 602.1705 General. (a) The authority to authorize exceptions is delegated to Heads of Procuring Activities with power of redelegation to the chiefs of field purchasing offices, the acting chiefs of field purchasing offices, or alternates for the chiefs of field purchasing offices, selected personally by Heads of Procuring Activities. Class or group exceptions are not authorized. Each exception must relate to a specific contract; specific invitation for bids, or specific request for proposals, and be covered by a suitable change in the contract clause. [301 (a).]

(b) In connection with the approval of the Contractors' control records and procedures the Contract Administrator will require that all documents or types of documents run in one or more unbroken series and that all unused or destroyed numbers are accounted for or that equivalent controls exist which will assure that all documents pertinent to any single contract are considered in the property record of that contract. [301 (b).]

(c) Accounting for identical items of plant equipment valued at $500 or less on individual stock record cards or historical record forms in accordance with paragraph 304.3 of the Manual is not required. Individual item accounting is not required for identical items of furniture, office, medical, and cafeteria equipment, regardless of price. [301 (g).]

(d) Departmental deviations:

(1) Property shipped out for repair with no parts or material furnished and/or no significant scrap resulting therefrom, may be accounted for as a suspense item in the Military Property Account from which shipped. Accounting for property under Appendix B, Part 413 of this title, is not required of Contractors covering property shipped out for repair under § 596.150–5 of this subchapter.

(2) (i) Parts or materials furnished to a Contractor on a contract under § 596.150–5 of this subchapter (other than time and material contracts) will be considered as expended at the time of shipment from military accounts, provided such shipments are made only on the basis of specific job requirements. Shipping documents will be used as credit vouchers to the military accounts and will show the name of the officer administering the contract and the contract number in the consignee space. Copies of such documents will be furnished the officer administering the contract. Determination of the amount of any item to constitute a "specific job requirement" and what quantities should be furnished in any single shipment, will be the responsibility of the Contracting Officer.

(ii) The Contracting Officer will establish such controls as he determines expedient, considering the value of such expended items, to insure the proper consumption of the articles furnished. Any residual quantities of Government-furnished parts and materials will be returned to stock. Any consequential scrap shall be handled under appropriate disposal procedures. The Contracting Officer shall maintain in the contract file such record of actions taken as is considered by him to be necessary to protect the interests of the Government.

(3) When a purchase order or contract does not exceed $5,000, jigs, patterns, fixtures, gages, and other manufacturing aids which are furnished to a Contractor from stocks to aid in the performance of work may, at the option of the Contracting Officer, be accounted for as a suspense item in the Military Account from which shipped, provided that the total cost thereof does not exceed $1,000. Accounting for such property under Appendix B, part 413 of this title, is not required. [301 (h).]

(e) Individual item accounting is required for those items which are included in a standard departmental registration numbering system as indicated in § 602.1711–1 (a) (2), regardless of price. [301 (i).]

NOTE. This section is also applicable to 207.1, Appendix C.

§ 602.1706 Records to be maintained by Government personnel. [303.]

§ 602.1706–1 Records of specific contracts where property is involved. (a) Where the Government maintains property control records, the Property Administrator will maintain such of the records mentioned in paragraph 304 of the Manual, as may be required to maintain effective property control. [303.1.]

(b) The Contracting Officer will require that the Contractor furnish the historical record or other acceptable receipt for contract-or-acquired Government industrial facilities with his claim for reimbursement. If the contract does not contain the records clause prescribed in § 406.203–7 of this title, the historical record or receipts required for the Property Administrator will be in addition to and separate from those required to be attached as supporting documents to the original copy of the public voucher. The receipts will be transmitted to the Property Administrator by the Contracting Officer after his certification of the voucher for payment. [303.1 (c).]

NOTE: Paragraph (b) of this section permits the auditor to verify the Contractor's receipts, prior to submission to the Contracting Officer.

§ 602.1707 Records to be maintained by the Contractor.

§ 602.1707–1 Records of plant equipment. The form of property records to be maintained for plant equipment shall be prescribed by the respective technical service, giving due consideration to the provisions of SR 715–5–25. In addition to the exceptions provided for in subparagraphs (a) and (b) of the Manual, the following exception also is applicable:

Records of plant equipment priced at $500 or under with the exception provided for in § 602.1705 (g). Items of plant equipment of identical nomenclature and operating performance for which individual item accounting is not required may be recorded on a single record. In the event such items of property listed on a single record have serial numbers and/or manufacturer's number, these numbers will be listed on the appropriate record or on a single supporting list. [304.3.]

§ 602.1708 Numbering property accounts. Property account serial numbers specified in paragraph 15b, AR 35–6520, need not be obtained from Army commanders for accounts established under contracts to which appendix B or C of Part 413 of this title, are applicable, but rather the property account will be identified by the contract number and the appropriate regional office of the Army Audit Agency will be advised as specified in § 606.206–8 (c) of this subchapter. For the purposes of paragraph 401.1 of the Manual, the digits which designate the army, technical service, and procurement center in the property identification number specified in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section will be accepted.

(a) Technical service code. The two-digit technical service code symbol established in paragraph 5n, SR 715–5–25, will designate the owning technical service. The two-digit code symbol is as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY

Field Force elements	00
Ordnance Corps	01
Quartermaster Corps	02
Corps of Engineers	03
Transportation Corps	04
Signal Corps	05
Chemical Corps	06
Army Medical Service	07

(b) A two-digit procurement center code symbol established for each of the procurement centers or installations having nation-wide procurement responsibilities within the technical service will designate the center having jurisdiction over the item. For example, the Ordnance Ammunition Center may be designated "01" and the Ordnance Tank Automotive Center may be designated "02," etc. In the case of Corps of Engineers' construction activities, division engineer offices may be designated as procurement centers and assigned procurement center code symbols in accordance with this procedure. [305.]

§ 602.1709 Contractor's responsibility and liability. [402.]

§ 602.1709–1 Contractor liability. No separate file of letters of advice will be maintained for the property auditors although copies of such letters when questions are raised by auditors may be furnished upon request. Channels through which such letters are reviewed by audit personnel lie within the scope of audit instructions. If such letters, however, are submitted to the Chief, Army Audit Agency, for review and he concludes that further action is desirable, he will so state in writing to the chief of the technical service concerned. Upon review of the above communication, the head of the technical service will initiate such further action as he considers is warranted by the facts. In all cases, he will advise the regional auditor as to the decision reached. [402.2 (e).]

§ 602.1709–2 Shipment and receipt of Government-furnished property. (a) It shall be considered adequate for property control purposes and within the scope of the Manual for operating contractors to acknowledge receipt for new facilities constructed under separate construction contracts direct with construction contractors on OCE Form 290, if accompanied with supporting documents. The above shall be considered as a shipment and receipt of Government property under this section.

(b) In the absence of a transportation officer or agent, the Property Administrator must initiate and follow to conclusion necessary action with respect to any discrepancies incident to the shipment or receipt of property made on a Government B/L or on a commercial B/L for conversion to Government B L at destination. For appointment of transportation officer or agent see paragraph 3, AR 55–105. (Transportation by commercial means.) [402.3]

§ 602.1710 Reports and inspection. (a) The Property Administrator shall secure from the Contractor (at such intervals and at times appropriate to the particular contract concerned, as determined by the Contract Administrator) reports showing the Contractor's program for the maintenance, repair, protection and preservation of Government Property in the possession of the Contractor and also showing the extent to which the Contractor is following and adhering to said program. Where the Contractor has a well-established maintenance and protection schedule for his own equipment, and such schedule is approved by the Property Administrator, the requirements of this section shall be deemed met by a written statement to the effect that Government Property will receive the same treatment as that received by the Contractor's own equipment.

(b) The Property Administrator shall conduct periodic inspections of the physical condition of such property to determine the adequacy of the Contractor's performance of the scheduled program. He shall report promptly in writing to the Contract Administrator any noncompliance by the Contractor with the requirement that he shall properly care for Government Property. [201.]

§ 602.1711 Identification of Government property. Effective immediately, procurement center code symbols will be assigned and all Government property acquired hereafter for Department of the Army account for Contractor use will be identified as prescribed in this section. This identification shall be accomplished prior to delivery as part of the purchase agreement, by the Contractor, or by the procuring service, as applicable. Government property on hand or on order will be identified as prescribed in this section when the equipment is prepared for storage, reactivated, or at any other convenient occasion.

§ 602.1711–1 Identification marking of Government property. (a) The identification marking of Government property will be physically affixed to the item in accordance with paragraph 401 of the Manual. The identification markings shall consist of the following as may be applicable for the particular item being identified:

(1) United States ownership. "U. S." This identification symbol is applicable to all Government property except as may be exempted in accordance with paragraph 401.1 of the Manual. The letters "U. S." will be permanently affixed to the item to indicate Government ownership. For those items not requiring a registration number or United States Government tag number, the owning technical service code symbol, as prescribed in § 602.1708a, will be permanently affixed immediately following the letters "U. S.", for example, "US–01," etc.

(2) Registration number. This number is applicable to those items included within a standard military registration numbering system such as motor vehicles (§ 602.450 (a)), materials handling equipment, railroad equipment, and any other applicable items. For these items, application for a registration number will be made to the appropriate technical service. Assigned registration numbers will be physically affixed to the item in accordance with applicable instructions.

(3) Government tag number. This number is applicable to those items for which individual item accounting is required as stipulated in §§ 602.1705 (g) and 602.1707–1, except those items having a registration number as prescribed in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph. This number shall be the Government property identification number assigned in accordance with paragraph 401.1 (c) of the Manual, which is as follows for the Department of the Army:

(i) The first part shall be the letters "U. S." to indicate Government ownership as prescribed in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph.

(ii) The second part shall consist of the code symbols which designate the technical service and procurement center involved. The two-digit code which indicates technical service ownership is given in § 602.1708 (a). The two-digit code which indicates procurement center jurisdiction is given in § 602.1708 (b).

(iii) The third part shall consist of a six-digit serial number. The assignment of serial numbers shall be in numerical sequence beginning with 000,001. Each procurement center having a code symbol as prescribed in § 602.1708 (b) will be assigned six digits beginning with 000,001 or a total of 999,999 numbers for property control purposes.

(4) Standard commodity classification code. This code number is applicable to metalworking machinery (SCC codes 3411 through 3419 and 3441 through 3449) included in or subject to inclusion in the Department of Defense publication "The Directory of Metalworking Machinery." This identification marking shall be the expanded 10-digit Standard Commodity Classification Code prescribed in paragraph 5a, SR 715–5–25.

(b) Based upon the above identification marking system, a vertical milling machine purchased from Government funds for production of medium tanks on a procurement program assigned to the Ordnance Tank Automotive Center could have the following identification marking:

US–01–02–000,001
SCC–3417–23–40–42

SUBPART R—AUDIT OF INDUSTRIAL PROPERTY RECORDS

§ 602.1801–1 Continental United States. Within the continental United States, and for contracts administered from the continental United States, the Army Audit Agency, operating as a functional activity of the Comptroller of the Army, is charged with the operational performance of audits of industrial property accounts.

§ 602.1801–2 Overseas. Commanders of major oversea commands or similar areas are responsible for the operational performance of audits of industrial property accounts of contracts administered by their commands. The performance of these audits will be through audit agencies established within their commands and in accordance with basic techniques prescribed by the Army Audit Agency.

§ 602.1802 Purpose of audits. The purpose of audits of industrial property accounts is to determine and report to those responsible for contract administration and to all echelons of command, whether accounting for and disposition of Government property has been accomplished in accordance with applicable regulations, whether the controls being exercised are adequate and, where the need exists, to make appropriate recommendations for the improvement of controls or the corrections of deficiencies.

§ 602.1803 Performance of audits.

§ 602.1803–1 Frequency. Audits normally will be performed on an annual basis. Special or more frequent audits may be performed at the discretion of the regional auditor concerned or as directed by the Chief, Army Audit Agency. Requests by installations for special or more frequent audits will be submitted through the Head of the Procuring Activity to the regional auditor. Initial audits normally will be made as soon as practicable after inception of contract activity.

§ 602.1803–2 Scope of audit. Selective audit principles will be employed in the performance of audits. A selective audit reflects the overall condition of the account and the adequacy of the accounting controls.

§ 602.1804 Reports of audits. The report of audit is a Government administrative report for the information of all echelons of command and operations concerned with contract administration. The report of audit will not be transmitted to the Contractor, but information necessary to form the basis for corrective action may be discussed with or extracted and transmitted to the Contractor by the Contracting Officer, or his authorized representative.

§ 602.1804–1 Distribution and action on reports. (a) Distribution of reports will be made as follows:

(1) The original and one copy will be forwarded to the installation commander responsible for the administration of the contract or contracts. When more than one contract is included in an audit report the original will be filed with the contract property control records of the first contract shown on the schedules attached to the report and an entry will be made in the property control records of all other contracts covered by the audit showing the report of audit number, date, period covered, and the contract number under which the report of audit is filed. The copy of the report of audit will be retained at the installation headquarters for administrative use.

(2) One copy will be furnished the Head of the Procuring Activity administering the contract for information, for followup action where required, and for retention in command headquarters. Coordination will be effected by the Head of the Procuring Activity with other interested services, where necessary.

(b) Upon receipt of a Report of Audit the installation commander will report within 15 days to the Head of the Procuring Activity the action taken or contemplated and target date for completion with respect to any deficiencies or recommendations contained in the Report of Audit. Information copy of this report will be forwarded to the regional auditor by the installation commander.

(c) The Head of the Procuring Activity will review the report of audit and the corrective action reported by the installation commander to determine the propriety and sufficiency of corrective action taken and will notify the regional auditor when any deficiencies reported have been adjusted. If adjustment of deficiencies will be delayed more than 90 days he will furnish the regional auditor an interim advice of progress being made in connection therewith.

§ 602.1804–2 Clearance of deficiencies. After verification at account level, deficiencies listed on reports of audit will be cleared by appropriate entry in a subsequent report of audit, or by issuance of supplemental reports of audit which will be given the same distribution as the original reports.

§ 602.1805 Accounts not in condition for audit. Accounts will be reported not in condition for audit when audit is found to be impracticable due to missing or incomplete records or an abnormal number of errors.

§ 602.1805–1 Distribution of reports. Reports of accounts not in condition for audit will be distributed in the manner prescribed for reports of audit in § 602.1804–1 (a), except that the Chief, Army Audit Agency, will furnish a copy to The Inspector General.

§ 602.1805–2 Action. (a) Upon receipt of a report of an account not in condition for audit, the installation commander will immediately take forceful action necessary to have the records placed in an acceptable condition for audit. He will advise the Head of the Procuring Activity within 15 days of the action taken and the probable date of completion.

(b) The Head of the Procuring Activity will review the report of account not in condition for audit and the installation commander's report of corrective action to determine any further action necessary and will advise the regional auditor promptly of the action being taken and the probable date the account will be in condition for audit. In the event corrective action is not completed within 90 days from the date account is reported not in condition for audit, the regional auditor will be advised every 90 days of the progress toward correction until the account is found to be in an acceptable condition for audit.

(c) If the circumstances are such as to justify a waiver of accounting requirements the case will be prepared and submitted in accordance with SR 735–275–15 (Deviations and waivers of industrial contract property accounting requirements).

603.103 Inspection requirements.
603.105 Contract clauses.

Subpart B—Acceptance

603.200 General.
603.202 Acceptance of supplies or services not conforming with contract requirements.
603.250 Marking and shipping.
603.251 Joint procedures.
603.252 Rejections.

§ 603.000 Scope of part. This part deals with requirements for the inspection and acceptance of supplies and services procured by the technical services and all other authorized procuring activities of the Army Establishment.

SUBPART A—INSPECTION

§ 603.101 General. All supplies and services procured by the Army Establishment (including those manufactured in the plants owned and operated by it) shall be inspected and accepted in accordance with the procedures set forth in this Part and in SR 715–20–1 (Procurement Inspection Policies). Supplies and Services shall be inspected and tested by or under the supervision of an inspector representing the Government unless otherwise expressly provided in the contract. All military procurement inspection at a plant shall be conducted by a single military inspection activity unless such single service inspection is determined to be impracticable.

§ 603.102 Responsibility for inspection. (a) In instances where inspection is to be performed at destination, arrangements normally will be made to have the receiving activity perform the necessary inspection.

(b) Ports of embarkation will not be required to perform procurement inspection of a technical nature for other activities on supplies received in transit for oversea shipment.

(c) Perishable subsistence destined for oversea shipment will be inspected for condition and quantity at ports of embarkation. The Transportation Corps will call on the Quartermaster Corps to make such arrangements as may be necessary to provide the technical inspection required. Brand name items purchased for authorized resale normally will be inspected and accepted at destination.

(d) Inspection at ports of embarkation of supplies destined for overseas shipment will be accomplished by Contracting Officers or their designated representatives on the basis of tally sheets evidencing receipt of shipment signed by port transportation officers or other designated officials at trans-shipment points.

§ 603.102–1 Inspection interchange agreements. In arranging for inspection, consideration will be given to the utilization of the inspection services of other Government agencies. Agreements on the following procedural matter will be included in all interchanges of inspection responsibilities:

(a) Inspection procedures.
(b) Reporting of shipments.
(c) Accomplishment of paper work, including production status reports.
(d) Processing of shipping documents.
(e) Agency to furnish inspection gages, measuring instruments, and laboratory facilities; the location of such facilities as well as the expected delivery date of inspection gages and measuring instruments, if such devices are required.

§ 603.103 Inspection requirements. Inspection shall be conducted in accordance with (a) provision of the contract, (b) subchapter A of this title, (c) subchapter G of this title, (d) SR 715–20–1, and (e) instructions issued by the Procuring Activity. Requirements for acceptance, inspection, testing, or other provisions of any contract are not waived by inclusion of items on Qualified Products Lists.

§ 603.105 Contract clauses. The contract clauses required for use in connection with inspection and acceptance are set forth in Part 406 of this title.

SUBPART B—ACCEPTANCE

§ 603.200 General. Acceptance will be made as promptly as practicable after delivery; however, interests of the Government shall be given primary consideration in this connection. When the contract provides for inspection at source and it has been determined to be in the best interests of the Government to ship prior to inspection, such shipment may be made if the Contractor agrees to bear the costs which may be incurred as a result of a rejection upon completion of the required inspection.

§ 603.202 Acceptance of supplies or services not conforming with contract requirements. Each Procuring Activity will clearly define the extent to which its subdivisions are authorized to approve deviations from contract requirements. Such approvals should be made at levels which will provide the utmost rapidity of decision consistent with the best interests of the Government. Where desirable, for reasons of urgency, practicality, or economy, supplies or services which fail to meet all contract requirements may be accepted under special circumstances, subject to equitable adjustments pricewise or otherwise provided for by the contract and which are in the best interests of the Government.

§ 603.250 Marking and shipping. (a) At the time supplies are finally accepted by the inspector, Department of Defense stamps will be used as necessary to show evidence of acceptance.

(b) Each Procuring Activity will prepare and distribute to their inspection organizations detailed instructions covering proper handling of shipments at Government expense, Government bills-of-lading, parcel post shipments, shipment by Government-owned transportation, emergency shipments, guarding of shipments containing classified supplies and services, shipments at Contractor's expense, and all other necessary instruction.

§ 603.251 Joint procedures. All inspection of supplies and services by Army procuring activities will be consistent with approved standards promulgated by the Department of Defense.

§ 603.252 Rejections. (a) Notification of rejections will be given the Contractor and will include the reasons for rejection, and if deemed advisable, any suggestions that might help him in correcting the cause of rejection.

(b) Suitable methods of properly identifying rejected material will be established by the procuring activity and will be employed by inspectors in order to eliminate any possibility of the Contractor's resubmitting rejected supplies on which the deficiencies have not been corrected. Such methods also will include provisions for tagging, marking, or isolating provisionally rejected supplies until accepted or finally rejected.

(c) Each Procuring Activity will clearly define the extent to which its subdivisions are authorized to suspend work on contracts involving the use of Government-furnished property when it appears that considerable spoilage will result. The technical service will prescribe in detail the channels for reporting such conditions. In each case, the Contractor shall be notified in writing to suspend any work on the item which includes or follows the operation responsible for the defect until the dispute is resolved by higher authority.

§ 605.000 Scope of part. This part sets forth instructions for the use of approved contract forms, Standard Department of Defense, and Department of the Army, which are prescribed for use within the Army Establishment. Although most forms used in procurement appear either in Part 415 of this title or this part, some forms appear in the part covering the subject to which they are related. For example, Part 407 of this title and Part 597 of this subchapter—Termination of Contracts list forms used in connection with termination of contracts. Another example is the coverage of DD Form 448 (Military Interdepartmental Purchase Request) Part 403 of this title and Part 593 of this subchapter—Coordinated Procurement.

§ 605.001 Temporary format of part. This part follows the temporary format used in Subchapter A of this title, where applicable. In addition, a temporary Subpart O—General Policy and a temporary Subpart P—Additional Approved Contract Forms of this part are added.

§ 605.004 Forms for formally-advertised construction contracts exceeding $10,000. Section 415.004 of this title prescribes forms for mandatory use in formally advertised construction contracts exceeding $10,000. Because the prescribed forms include labor provisions required to be inserted in construction contracts by Part 411 of this title, use of the forms is recommended in formally advertised construction contracts in amounts in excess of $2,000 up to and including $10,000. For related forms, see § 605.1604.

§ 605.004–3 Instructions for use. (a) The use of additional contract provisions consistent with those contained in the standard forms is authorized; and, where required elsewhere in Subchapter A of this title or this subchapter, the use of such additional provisions is mandatory. Changes or additional provisions inconsistent with those contained in the standard forms shall be incorporated when required by any other part of Subchapter A of this title or this subchapter, and may be incorporated when authorized on an optional basis by any other part of Subchapter A of this title or this subchapter. In the event that a change or additional provision inconsistent with those contained in the standard forms is neither required nor authorized by any other part of Subchapter A of this title or this subchapter, request for authority to make such change or incorporate such additional provision in any construction contract to be let pursuant to formal advertisement shall be submitted for approval to the Office of the Assistant Chief of Staff, G–4, Department of the Army, Washington 25, D. C., Attn: Chief, Purchases Branch. If approval is granted, a copy of the change or additional provision so approved shall be forwarded by the approving authority to the General Services Administration.

(b) Standard Form 23 (Construction Contract) and Standard Form 23A (General Provisions) also may be utilized for negotiated lump-sum construction contracts.

§ 605.004–4 Reproduction of forms. Die-impressed stencils of Standard Forms 20 and 21 are stocked in adjutant general publications depots. To distinguish requisitions for stencils from cut sheet forms, include the word "stencil" in parentheses. For example: Standard Form 21 (Stencil).

§ 605.005–1 Conditions for use. (a) The form shall be used in conjunction with Standard Form 32 (General Provisions) or such provisions as may be authorized for incorporation in particular classes of contracts. Standard Form 36 (Continuation Sheet) may be used to provide additional space if DD Form 351–1 (Schedule Page) is not sufficient. As to incorporation by reference of Standard Form 32 (General Provisions), see § 605.1502–1.

(b) Authority is granted in effecting procurement outside the United States, its Territories and possessions, to deviate from the following forms to the extent indicated:

(1) Negotiated Contract (Signature Page)—DD Form 351–2. Delete from the form:

"The Contractor represents that the aggregate number of employees of the Contractor and its affiliates is ☐ 500 or more, ☐ less than 500."

(2) General Provisions—Standard Form 32. Same deviations as prescribed in § 605.1602–1 (e) (2).

§ 605.006 Negotiated contract form for stevedoring services (DD Form 674). The text of DD Form 674 (Contract for Stevedoring Services), 1 November 1952, is published in Transportation Corps Procurement Instructions. Since the form will not be printed and stocked, local reproduction is authorized, as required. It is necessary only for those Contracting Officers who have occasion to execute contracts for stevedoring services to be in possession of the text of DD Form 674.

(a) Instructions for use of this form are published in SR 420–470–2. (Utility service contracts.)

(b) Multiple Service Locations Clause and Connection Charge Clause are authorized also for use in connection with this short form. See § 605.1607–2.

(c) Authority is granted in effecting procurement outside the United States, its Territories and possessions, to deviate from this form to the extent indicated:

(1) Paragraph 7—Convict Labor: Delete paragraph.

(2) Paragraph 8—Nondiscrimination in employment: Delete paragraph. See § 596.050 (b) (1) (iv) of this subchapter.

(3) Paragraph 9—Disputes: Substitute "Disputes" clause prescribed in § 596.103–12 (c) of this subchapter.

§ 605.008 Order and voucher for purchase of supplies and services (DD Form 738). Authority is granted in effecting procurement outside the United States, its Territories and possessions, to deviate from DD Form 738 to the extent indicated:

(a) Clause 1—Disputes: Substitute "Disputes" clause prescribed in § 596.103–12 (c) of this subchapter.

(b) Clause 2—Convict Labor: Delete clause.

(c) Clause 3—Nondiscrimination in Employment: Delete clause. See § 596.050 (b) (1) (iv) of this subchapter.

§ 605.009 Master contract for repair and alteration of vessels (DD Form 731)—(a) Applicability. DD Form 731 is prescribed for use in ConUS for contracting for the repair and alteration of vessels and other floating equipment, except for minor repairs accomplished while the vessel remains in the possession of the Government.

(b) Conditions for use. (1) Provisions of this subchapter such as those that are applicable to approval of awards, pre-award surveys, procurement action reporting, advertising, and authority to negotiate apply to the placement of individual job orders rather than to the master contract itself.

(2) The provisions of DD Form 731 relating to Government property do not conform to Part 412 of this title. Job orders placed under DD Form 731 contracts are exempt from the requirements of Part 412 and Appendix B of Part 413 of this title. However, provisions not in conflict with DD Form 731 may be included in individual job orders making Government property furnished under such job orders subject to specific requirements of Appendix B of Part 413 of this title.

(3) Clause 3 (b) of DD Form 731 is in substance a provision for the placement of letter contracts for vessel repair work. Accordingly, all orders placed under Clause 3 (b) are subject to the provisions of subchapter A, chapter IV and this subchapter relating to letter contracts.

(4) For all contracts entered into by the Department of the Army on DD Form 731, all of Clause 8, paragraph (e), will be deleted except the last sentence.

(5) Clause 23 of DD Form 731 entitled "Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act" is not applicable to contracts for the repair and alteration of vessels entered into by the Army. The Davis-Bacon Act is not applicable to contracts for the repair or alteration of vessels when the work is placed through competitive bidding and the place of performance is not known at the time when bids are invited or to job orders of $2,000 or less in amount. The following additional clause shall be included in all contracts entered into by the Army on DD Form 731:

Clause 39. Alteration in Contract.

The following alterations have been made in the provisions of this contract:

(a) Clause entitled "Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act, is deleted.

(b) In each case where the Davis-Bacon Act is applicable to a job order issued under this contract, such job order will have attached thereto, and will incorporate by reference, the standard Davis-Bacon clause prescribed by the Armed Services Procurement Regulation together with the schedule of wage determinations made by the Secretary of Labor for the work covered by such job order.

(6) Contracts entered into on DD Form 731 will be numbered in accordance with § 606.203–4 of this subchapter. Each job order issued under such contracts shall contain a reference to the number of the master contract under which it is issued.

SUBPART O—GENERAL POLICY (TEMPORARY)

§ 605.1501 Applicability. See § 596.050 of this subchapter. Use of procurement forms is governed by subchapter A, Chapter IV of this title, this subchapter, Army Procurement Circulars, or such other special regulations or directives as may be indicated for the particular contract concerned.

§ 605.1502 Contract clauses—(a) Incorporation by reference. Some contract clauses, which are to be included when a particular contract form is used, are not set forth in the form but are incorporated by reference to sections of subchapter A, Chapter IV or this subchapter.

(b) Modification. Some of the short contract forms contain shorter or modified versions of contract clauses. In such cases, the use of the shorter or modified versions is authorized notwithstanding the provisions of this subchapter.

§ 605.1502–1 Incorporation by reference of general provisions (U. S. Standard Form 32). To facilitate bidding by prospective bidders on formally advertised invitations for bids and requests for proposals, and to eliminate unnecessary distribution of Standard Form 32 (General Provisions (Supply Contract)) and other general provisions normally incorporated into the contracts entered into by the particular purchasing office, Heads of Procuring Activities may authorize the incorporation by reference of Standard Form 32 and such other general provisions as are determined to be desirable and appropriate in invitations for bids and requests for proposals in accordance with the procedure outlined below:

(a) The Standard Form 32 and additional general provisions as determined appropriate may be combined in a single booklet. Such booklet must be identified as Standard Supply Contract Provisions and show the agency responsible for its issuance, the effective date, and the date of latest revision as it is revised from time to time. The provisions of Standard Form 32 incorporated in the booklet must be properly identified as such and printed as a unit. As an alternative, copies of Standard Form 32 may be requisitioned and bound with or attached to additional general provisions authorized by the Head of the Procuring Activity.

(b) The word "attached" will be deleted from the face sheet of Invitations for Bids and Requests for Proposals, and the attached schedule or continuation sheet will contain a statement to the effect that "Standard Contract Provisions (properly identified by title and date), receipt of a copy of which is acknowledged by the bidder, are incorporated herein and made a part hereof with such deletions, additions, and amendments, if any, as are set forth below." Copies of the "Standard Supply Contract Provisions" will not be distributed to all prospective bidders on the agency's mailing list. Instead, one copy will be furnished to each prospective bidder each time such bidder is invited to bid on a particular procurement.

(c) Appropriate steps will be taken to insure proper distribution of the general provisions to all Government agencies and activities concerned with the performance and payment of contracts to which the provisions apply. Once such distribution has been made, no additional copies need be furnished to such agencies and activities, unless specifically requested, until such time as the general provisions are revised.

(d) This procedure is proper for use in formally advertised contracts, requests for proposals, negotiated contracts, and purchase orders.

(e) General provisions developed or approved by the Head of a Procuring Activity may be modified from time to time to increase or limit their scope as determined to be necessary or desirable provided that the requirements of this section are met and provided that any modifications do not deviate from the policies set forth in subchapter A, chapter IV and this subchapter.

§ 605.1503 Deviations from approved forms—(a) General. Deviations in format, size, or contents of approved forms are prohibited except as authorized by subchapter A, chapter IV of this title or this subchapter unless prior written approval is obtained in each case from the Chief, Purchases Branch, Office of the Assistant Chief of Staff, G–4, Department of the Army.

(b) Local reproduction. The fact that authority may have been previously granted for local reproduction, or for procurement of reproducible masters, of certain approved forms does not of itself authorize deviations in the format or size. Separate authority for such deviations is necessary. However, approval of The Adjutant General for the first procurement of a reproducible master will suffice for subsequent procurements of the same master until otherwise notified by The Adjutant General.

(c) Translations. To facilitate procurement in foreign countries, authority is granted to reproduce a translation of any form. Either a bilingual form may be utilized, or the translation may be printed as a separate form. When the foreign language translation is printed as a separate form, it will be attached to its corresponding approved form. In either instance both the foreign language translation and the approved English text will contain a statement that in the event of a disagreement in the text of the English and foreign translations, the English text will govern.

§ 605.1504 Procuring activity contract forms. Some Procuring Activity forms previously have been approved for particular use by the Chief, Purchases Branch, Office of the Assistant Chief of Staff, G–4, Department of the Army. Because of their special nature, the forms are excluded from the provisions of §§ 605.1501 and 596.050 of this subchapter. Procuring Activities may continue to use such forms provided the forms are not inconsistent with policies of subchapter A, chapter IV of this title or this subchapter. See § 596.050 of this subchapter.

§ 605.1505 Statutory authority. During the period of national emergency, negotiation of contracts will be accomplished in accordance with § 402.201 of this title and § 592.201 of this subchapter. The contract document will cite as authority Section 2 (c) (1) of the Armed Services Procurement Act of 1947 and Presidential Proclamation 2914. See § 592.201–2 (a) of this subchapter. When a printed contract form citing some other authority is used to prepare a contract, the outdated authority will be lined out and the correct citation substituted therefor.

§ 605.1506 Supply of forms. Quantities of forms requisitioned or procured by using installations will be limited to provide for minimum stocks consistent with economical procurement, necessary to meet current requirements.

§ 605.1506–1 Forms stocked by adjutant general publications depots. Unless otherwise stated, the procurement forms listed in this subchapter are procured by The Adjutant General and are stocked in adjutant general publications depots. Requisitions for forms will be submitted through normal publications supply channels. Most procurement forms are printed either as cut sheet forms or as multiple part manifold forms.

(a) Cut sheet forms. An example of a cut sheet is Standard Form 30 (Invitation and Bid) which is printed on tissue paper. This weight of paper permits preparation of an original and nine carbon copies at a time. Another example is Standard Form 32 (General Provisions), which also is printed as a cut sheet. In this case, however, because no typing is required and because the form is printed on both sides of the paper, a heavier weight paper is used.

(b) Multiple part manifold forms. An example of a multiple part is DD Form 738 (Order and Voucher for Purchase of Supplies or Services). This form is an eight-part, carbon interleaved, manifold form of snap out construction. The first part is the original; each of the other parts is a memorandum copy of the original.

§ 605.1506–2 Forms not stocked by adjutant general publications depots. Certain forms of limited application are the responsibility of the principal using service or of an agency having primary interest. For example, DD Form 674 (Contractor for Stevedoring Services) is the responsibility of the Transportation Corps. The form is neither procured nor stocked by The Adjutant General. In this case, the Transportation Corps has printed and distributed the text of the form, authorizing local reproduction as required. See also § 605.1504.

§ 605.1506–3 Reproducible masters—(a) General. The Adjutant General generally will not stock reproducible masters for procurement forms. He may, however, authorize local procurement of reproducible masters where the Head of a Procuring Activity has approved their use.

(b) Excessive duplication and distribution of contractual documents prohibited. It is the policy of the Department of the Army that the number of copies of contractual documents for any particular procurement be kept to a minimum. Copies will be limited to those required for essential administration and transmission of contractual information. Excessive duplication and distribution is prohibited.

(c) When required. Some installations may be unable to utilize the multiple part forms or may require more than 10 copies, including the original, of cut sheet forms. Where authorized in such cases, reproducible masters (hectograph, stencil, offset) may be utilized to produce multiple copies.

(d) Requests and justification. Except where otherwise provided in this subchapter, requests for the use and local procurement of reproducible masters will be submitted by letter to the Head of the Procuring Activity concerned. Requests will include the proposed distribution list of the form together with the number of copies required for each addressee. The requesting installation must justify the requirement for each copy. The requesting installation will state also the number of procurements for which the form is used in a particular period.

(e) Approval of requests. (1) Normally, blanket approval for the use of reproducible masters should not be given. Preferably, requests should be approved on an installation basis. When the Head of the Procuring Activity concerned is satisfied that the requirements of this section have been met, he may approve the use of reproducible masters. However, such approvals must be forwarded to The Adjutant General, Department of the Army, Attn: Chief, Publication Branch for authority for local procurement of reproducible masters in compliance with AR 310–40 (Forms).

(2) Exceptions to the procedure stated in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph are approvals of requests for reproducible masters of DD Forms 738 and 738–1. Requests will be forwarded by the Head of the Procuring Activity to The Adjutant General, Department of the Army, Attn: Chief, Publications Branch, Through: Assistant Chief of Staff, G–4, Department of the Army, Attn: Chief, Purchases Branch. Generally, requests will be disapproved because the form is used mainly for purchases of $1,000 or less. The purpose of small purchase procedures is to achieve minor procurement with a minimum of administrative time and effort. For the bulk of small purchases, adequate distribution is provided by the multiple part forms. However, unusual local circumstances may require reproducible masters. If in such cases it would be advantageous to the Government, approval may be granted.

(f) Use. The Contracting Officer at installations authorized to procure and use reproducible masters will insure that such masters do not deviate from the approved format. See APP § 605.1503 (b). He will be responsible also for their use in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(g) Quantities procured. Factors considered by Contracting Officers in determining quantities of reproducible masters to be procured will include: (1) Current operational needs and (2) economical procurement. As a guide, installation stocks normally should not exceed a 6-month supply level.

§ 605.1506–4 Preprinted backs. The terms and conditions of the Invitation for Bids which appear as the back of Standard Forms 30 and 33 are identical and have been printed as one standard back. The standards back will be used as runoff paper when reproducing multiple copies of the face of the forms from reproducible masters. Supplies of the standard backs are available from adjutant general publications depots.

See in this connection § 605.1506–4 as to the separate form of preprinted back of Standard Form 30.

(c) The statement of availability of funds and citation of the appropriation allotment will be inserted in the "Accounting and Appropriation Data" block of Standard Form 31. Invitations for bids which will result in indefinite quantity contracts will contain a statement in the "Accounting and Appropriation Data" block to the effect that certification of availability of funds will be made on delivery orders issued under the contract.

(d) General provisions, in addition to those contained in Standard Form 32 (General Provisions), may be added to the contract as required by Subchapter A, Chapter IV of this title, this subchapter, and directives, with appropriate reference in the Schedule. Any other contract clauses that are approved for use may be added as additional general provisions and incorporated by reference in the Schedule, or may be placed in the Schedule, provided they are not inconsistent with the General Provisions in the Form.

GOVERNMENT-OWNED PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASE AGREEMENT

This lease agreement, entered into this ____ day of _____ 19__ by and between the United States of America, hereinafter called the Government, represented by the Contracting Officer executing this agreement, and _____[1] a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of _____[1] a joint venture consisting of _____[1] a partnership consisting of _____[1] an individual trading as _____ of the City of _____ in the State of _____, hereinafter called the Lessee, Witnesseth That,

1. The Government hereby leases to the Lessee the personal property listed in Schedule A, attached hereto and made a part hereof. This property is owned by the Government and it is now located at _____ Schedule A may be supplemented from time to time whenever property is added to or withdrawn from the scope of this lease. Each such supplement shall be signed on behalf of the Lessee and the Government.

2. Upon notification by the Contracting Officer that the property is ready for delivery, the Lessee agrees to receive the same without delay at the present location thereof, in its present condition, as is, without any warranty, express or implied, on the part of the Government as to condition or serviceability.

3. The term of this lease shall commence on the ____ day of _____ 19__, and shall continue from that date to the ____ day of _____, unless sooner terminated in accordance with the provisions hereof. The term of this lease may be extended by mutual consent from time to time, provided, that in no event shall said term including any extensions thereto run for more than three years from the effective date hereof.

4. This lease may be terminated by the Government by giving ____ days' written notice at any time subsequent to the effective date of this lease. The Lessee may terminate this lease by returning the property listed in Schedule A to the Government at _____ or such other place as may be designated by the Contracting Officer.

5. The Lessee shall pay rental during the term of this lease at the rate prescribed in Schedule A. The rental accrued at the end of any calendar month shall be paid to the Government on or before the 10th day of the following month. Upon the expiration or termination of this lease and in the event that the Government shall direct that the property be returned to a place other than _____ the Lessee shall not be obligated to pay rental for any greater period of time than would be required to return said property to _____.

6. The Lessee at its own expense will maintain the property in good condition and repair and make all necessary replacements of components and parts during the term of this lease. All fuel and lubricants will be furnished by the Lessee. The Lessee will make no changes or alterations in the property except with the consent of Contracting Officer.

7. The Lessee shall not mortgage, pledge, assign, transfer, sublet or part with the possession of any of the property in any manner to any third party either directly or indirectly, except that this provision shall not preclude the Lessee from permitting the use of the property by a third party with the prior written approval of the Contracting Officer; and the Lessee shall not do or suffer anything whereby any of the property shall or may be seized, taken in execution, attached, destroyed, or injured.

8. The property shall be returned to the Government upon the expiration or termination of the lease in as good condition as when delivered to Lessee, reasonable wear and tear excepted. If in the opinion of the Contracting Officer, the Lessee shall have failed to comply with the requirements of the lease in this respect, the Lessee shall pay to the Government as damages the amount necessary to place the property in as good condition as when delivered to Lessee, reasonable wear and tear excepted, or if it is determined by the Contracting Officer that such property cannot be placed in such condition. Lessee shall pay the Government an amount equivalent to the value of such property as stipulated in Schedule A, less the sum of the amount determined by the Contracting Officer to represent reasonable wear and tear, and the scrap value of such property.

9. Between the time of delivery of the property to the Lessee and the time of its return to the Government as provided for in this lease, the Lessee shall be solely responsible for any loss, damage or destruction of said property, irrespective of whether such loss, damage or destruction results from the failure of the Lessee to exercise reasonable care. Such responsibility shall be measured by the value of the property as set forth in Schedule A, less the amount determined by the Contracting Officer to represent reasonable wear and tear for the period during which said property was used. The Lessee shall take all necessary steps to protect the interest of the Government in said property and the Contracting Officer may require the Lessee, at its own expense, to take such specific measures, including but not limited to the procurement of insurance, as may be necessary to protect said interest.

10. Upon the expiration or termination of this lease the Lessee agrees to return the property set forth in Schedule A to the Government at _____ or such other place as the Contracting Officer may designate. The Lessee agrees to reimburse the Government immediately, upon presentation of a statement thereof, for all packing, and handling costs incurred by the Government in the performance of this lease. The Lessee further agrees to pay all other necessary packing, handling, and transportation charges, provided, that the Lessee's responsibility for return transportation charges shall not exceed the amount required to return said property to the point of delivery above stated.

11. The property is rented without operators. Any operator deemed incompetent by the Contracting Officer shall be removed from the property.

12. Upon request of the Lessee, the Contracting Officer shall furnish without charge, copies of such drawings, specifications or instructions as the Lessee may require for the operation or repair of the property and as may in the discretion of the Contracting Officer be reasonably available.

13. The Government shall not be responsible for damages to property of the Lessee or property of others, or for personal injuries to the Lessee's officers, agents, servants, or employees, or to other persons, arising from or incident to the use of the property herein leased, and the Lessee shall save the Government harmless from any and all such claims: Provided, That nothing contained in this Clause 13 shall be deemed to affect any liability of the Government to its own employees.

14. At all times the Contracting Officer shall have access to the job site whereon any of the property is situated, for the purposes of inspecting or inventorying the same, or for the purpose of removing the same in the event of the termination of this lease.

15. Officials not to benefit: No member or delegate to Congress, or resident commissioner, shall be admitted to any share of part of the contract, or to any benefit that may arise therefrom; but this provision shall not be construed to extend to this contract, if made with a corporation for its general benefit.

16. Covenant against contingent fees: The Lessee warrants that no person or selling agency has been employed or retained to solicit or secure this lease upon an agreement or understanding for a commission, percentage, brokerage, or contingent fee, excepting bona fide employees or bona fide established commercial or selling agencies maintained by the Lessee for the purpose of securing business. For breach or violation of this warranty the Government shall have the right to annul this lease without liability or in its discretion to require the Lessee to pay, in addition to the contract price or consideration, the full amount of such commission, percentage, brokerage, or contingent fee.

17. Disputes: Except as otherwise provided in this lease, any dispute concerning a question of fact arising under this lease which is not disposed of by agreement shall be decided by the Contracting Officer, who shall reduce his decision to writing and mail or otherwise furnish a copy thereof to the Lessee. Within 30 days from the date of receipt of such copy, the Lessee may appeal by mailing or otherwise furnishing to the Contracting Officer a written appeal addressed to the Secretary, and the decision of the Secretary or his duly authorized representative for the hearing of such appeal shall be final and conclusive: Provided, That, if no such appeal is taken, the decision of the Contracting Officer shall be final and conclusive. In connection with any appeal proceeding under this clause, the Lessee shall be afforded an opportunity to be heard and to offer evidence in support of its appeal. Pending final decision of a dispute hereunder, the Lessee shall proceed diligently with the performance of the lease and in accordance with the Contracting Officer's decision.

18. Adjustment of rentals—State or local taxation: Except as may be otherwise provided, the rental rates established in this lease do not include any State or local tax on the property herein leased. If and to the extent that such property is hereafter made taxable by State and local governments by Act of Congress, then in such event the rental rates of this lease shall be equitably adjusted.

§ 606.000 Scope of part. This part sets forth general policies of the Department of the Army with respect to procurement which are not specifically covered or related by part or subpart to subchapter A, chapter IV of this title.

SUBPART A—DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY PROCUREMENT POLICY

§ 606.101 Purpose. The purpose of this subpart is to restate in general terms the current policy of the Department of the Army on methods of procurement. It will not be construed as governing in detail any individual procurement action. It is expected that all procurement personnel will exercise sound judgment in contractual matters, including the selection and operation of the best method to accomplish any procurement.

§ 606.102 Applicability. The following sections apply to continental United States purchasing, and are for optional application by Purchasing Acitivities of the Department of the Army outside of the continental United States.

§ 606.103 Methods of procurement. (a) Wherever practicable and feasible, procurement by formal advertising is preferred. In the purchase of competitive commercial or semicommercial type items, formal advertising will be considered to be the normal method. Negotiation for such items should be used sparingly and only in those cases where advertising is considered to be improper or ineffective. This does not imply, however, that full use should not be made of call and open-end contracts, Federal Supply Schedules, or local purchases where appropriate.

(b) Negotiation may properly be employed in any circumstance authorized by Subpart B, Part 402 of this title and Subpart B, Part 592 of this subchapter. During a period of national emergency it is anticipated that there will be many cases requiring the use of negotiation where, in peacetime, formal advertising normally would be mandatory. Abuse of the broader degree of authority vested in Contracting Officers to negotiate procurement will, however, inevitably result in a withdrawal of this authority. When negotiation is justified, the maximum practicable and reasonable degree of competition will be developed as a required part of the negotiation.

§ 606.104 Types of contracts. (a) Regardless of the method of contracting utilized, the straight fixed-price contract is generally the preferred type to be entered into. Except as indicated in the following sections, the straight fixed-price contract should always be sought by Contracting Officers. First consideration should be given this type of contract because of the ease of administration, relative simplicity, elimination of audit requirements, assumption of full responsibility by the Contractor, and maximum incentive to the Contractor. Only where this type may contain unacceptably large contingencies, or where the nature of the work performed will contain factors of uncertainty, should other forms be regarded as suitable.

(b) Where contract performance may involve contingencies of labor and material costs to an appreciable degree, the use of fixed-price contracts with escalation should be used. Escalation must be on specified materials or types of labor only, and should bo so selected and defined that detailed audit of the contract will not be required. In the majority of cases where only labor or material cost contingencies are involved in production, escalation can be used to better advantage than cost reimbursement or price redetermination types of contracts.

(c) The use of fixed-price contracts containing price redetermination clauses is proper in only a limited number of applications. Conditions for use of price redetermination clauses are covered in § 596.152 of this subchapter. Use of this type of contract should be restricted to supply contracts for military type items involving long production time where no sound estimate of costs can be made, and in some research and development contracting where the scope of work is such that costs cannot be accurately forecast. Price redetermination will not be used as an expedient or substitute for fixed-price contracting (with or without escalation) where it is possible to use this preferred type. Because of overuse in the past of price redetermination clauses, particularly in small contracts and for commercial type items, it is the Department of the Army policy to minimize their employment of price redetermination. Further, the contract administration load, auditing requirements, and length of time such contracts remain open after deliveries have been completed, all tend to make the use of price redetermination clauses inadvisable for wide use.

(d) Cost-plus-fixed-fee or cost-reimbursement contracting, despite the administrative burden involved, may be used properly in many cases where the exact amount or type of work to be performed is not known. In addition to its use in construction contracting, it has a wider application in the research and development field than has been recognized. Wherever close control over expenditures is needed, or where the Government is supplying an abnormal amount of "government-furnished" property or facilities to the Contractor, cost-plus-fixed-fee contracting should be considered. Cost-reimbursement contracting with nonprofit research organizations has the attractive feature of rapid reimbursement capabilities, if so arranged by the Contracting Officer, thereby eliminating the need for large working funds on the part of the Contractor. Use of these types of supply contracts, however, must be viewed with caution since there is no incentive to the Contractor to reduce costs, and the Contracting Officer does not have the intimate contact with work progress necessary to control costs closely. The same administrative disadvantages are incurred in these types as in the use of price redetermination clauses, and the unfavorable factors must be considered prior to employment. This method is adapted also to the initial production phase on large contracts for military type items in lieu of price redetermination, where accurate costs cannot be predicted, to establish sound basic costs and production rates. Further production can then be based on fixed-price contracting, with or without escalation, as circumstances dictate.

(e) Time and material contracting is the most hazardous of all types of contracts available to purchasing offices. The strict controls on its use are necessary and cannot be waived. Inherent dangers in the Time and Materials method of contracting must be recognized. The potential payroll and nonproductive time charge abuses can be prevented only by diligent and continuous administrative vigilance by the Contracting Officer and his staff, working together with the Contractor. Selection of a Contractor for placement of a Time and Materials contract must be made only after a thorough preaward survey. This survey should concern itself with the Contractor's integrity and productive efficiency to a greater degree than in any other type of contracting. This type of contract is the least preferred of all contract types, and will be used only in extreme cases where no other available type will suffice in furnishing the required supplies or services.

§ 606.105 Open-end contracts. Open-end contracts provide a simple, efficient means of securing small quantities of supplies as and when needed, over a period of time. Execution of open-end contracts is encouraged where the number of transactions with any concern warrant such action. The more stringent mandatory requirement for use of Federal Supply Schedules and General Services Administration supply services are contained in Part 404 of this title. Attention of all Contracting Officers is directed to those provisions.

§ 606.106 Call type contracts. Call contracts will be utilized for commercial type items to effect, wherever practicable, direct shipment of supplies from producer or commercial distributor to the user, avoiding unnecessary receipt, storage, and issue in Army depots. Although similar in many respects to open-end contracts, call contracts enable the immediate obligation of all or part of the funds available for procurement of an item. This form is flexible and can be executed in a variety of forms to accomplish deliveries over a period of time in the manner and at any rate desired. Its use in economical procurement, supply, and distribution operation is encouraged.

§ 606.107 Simplified local purchase procedure. Simplified procedures (Standard Form 44 (Purchase Order—Invoice—Voucher) and imprest fund) are available and are to be used on all very small local purchases. Further developments in the small purchase procedure will continue. In conjunction with the Army depot supply system and with the increased use of call contracts, it is anticipated that greater use of local purchase of small quantities of commercially available items will be authorized and required at all posts, camps, and stations in lieu of the requisitioning of such items. In particular, the use of the cash method of small purchases should be reviewed and placed in effect by purchasing offices.

SUBPART B—ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEDURES

§ 606.201 Documentary evidence of purchases—(a) Requirement. All purchase transactions made by a Contracting Officer will be evidenced by written contracts (§ 400.201–6 of this title) on approved contract forms, as prescribed in Part 415 of this title and Part 605 of this subchapter, and in applicable Procuring Activity instructions, except—

(1) Those in which payments are made coincidentally with receipt of the supplies or services.

(2) As authorized by §§ 606.409–1 and 592.409 (c) of this subchapter.

(b) Negotiated Purchases not in Excess of $1,000. Negotiated purchases not exceeding $1,000, which are based on an oral quotation and involve only one payment, shall not require a written agreement, but shall require a written acceptance (Purchase Order) signed by the Contracting Officer. If the purchase order is based upon a written quotation signed by the Contractor, or if the Contractor delivered some written instrument evidencing the Contractor's assent, the original of such written quotation or instrument must be attached to the original purchase order intended for the General Accounting Office. (See Subpart F, Part 592, of this subchapter.)

§ 606.202 Execution of contracts; requirements—(a) Statement as to availability of funds. The appropriation and allotment chargeable will be cited on all contracts, purchase orders, and delivery orders. The signature of a Contracting Officer on a contract, purchase order, or delivery order constitutes a certification of the availability and sufficiency of the funds cited.

(b) Contracting Officer's signature. In the case of formal advertising, the personal signature of the Contracting Officer on the award consummates the contract. In the case of negotiated contracts, the Contracting Officer will personally sign on behalf of the United States after the Contractor has signed, except where otherwise required by the particular contract form, as for example when DA Form 47 is used. In addition, the Contracting Officer's rank or title will be indicated. Proxy and facsimile signatures are not permissible.

(c) Signature by agents of Contractors. Contracts executed on behalf of Contractors by agents must be accompanied by evidence, satisfactory to the Contracting Officer, of the agent's authority so to do. In the case of corporations the amount and type of evidence to be required to determine the authority of a particular agent to bind a corporation is for administrative determination by the Contracting Officer, subject to the limitation that the interest of the Government should be protected. The Contracting Officer need not require that corporations execute a certificate in the form included in DD Form 351–2, provided he obtains other evidence which satisfactorily shows that the agent is empowered to bind the corporation.

(d) Contracts with partnerships. Contracts entered into with partnerships will be executed in the partnership name and will enumerate the names of all the partners. The partnership contract need be signed by only one partner, provided the authority of the particular partner to effectively bind the partnership has been established. The Contracting Officer need not require that partnerships execute a certificate of attestation substantially in the form included in DD Form 351–2 provided he obtains other evidence which satisfactorily shows that the partner is empowered to bind the partnership.

§ 606.203 Numbering of contractual documents.

§ 606.203–1 Purpose. Contracts are numbered with approved letter symbols and serial numbers primarily for use of the General Accounting Office, for identification, audit, and filing.

§ 606.203–2 Scope. (a) Documents coming within the purview of this section will include purchase orders, contracts, letter orders, letters of intent, leases, easements, proposal and acceptance documents or other documents evidencing in whole or in part an agreement between the parties, which involves the payment of appropriated funds or collection of funds for credit to the Treasurer of the United States, and hereinafter referred to as contracts.

(b) Purchase agreements utilizing DD Form 738 (Order and Voucher for Purchase of Supplies or Services) do not come within the purview of this section and as such are not subject to any of the provisions contained in this section.

§ 606.203–3 Contracts required to be numbered. (a) All contracts involving the payment of $20,000 or more on a single payment voucher shall be numbered and forwarded to the General Accounting Office without delay. (See § 606.206–3.)

(b) All contracts involving the payment of less than $20,000 on a single payment voucher, may or may not be numbered depending upon the needs of the Procuring Activity, and shall be attached to the related voucher upon which payment is made and accompany such voucher in the regular transmission of the Disbursing Officer's account to the General Accounting Office. See § 606.–206–4.

(c) All multiple payment contracts regardless of amount shall be numbered except as authorized in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph. In case of doubt as to whether the amount to be paid under a contract is more or less than $20,000 or whether more than one payment may be necessary, the contract shall be numbered.

(1) When any related supplemental document, required to be deposited with the General Accounting Office, is transmitted in connection with an unnumbered contract, and if such related supplemental document serves to remove the contract from the category of contracts not required to be numbered, a number will be assigned to the original contract and will be shown on such supplemental document in addition to the voucher citation in the event any payments have been made prior to the issuance of the supplemental document.

(2) Where later determination is made that more than one payment and/or collection is involved, payments, not to exceed five in number on any given contract may be made with respect to partial deliveries under unnumbered contracts, provided that the original signed contract is attached to the first payment voucher, and the following information is included on each subsequent payment voucher with respect to all preceding payments under the contract: Name of Disbursing Officer, period of account, voucher number, amount paid.

(3) Where more than five payments and/or collections become necessary, a number must be assigned to such contract.

(4) Where later determination is made that the amount to be paid or collected equals $20,000 or more, a number must also be assigned to such contract.

(d) In instances cited in paragraphs (c) (1), (3) and (4) of this section, in which payments have been made, a citation to the name of the Disbursing Officer, period of account, and number of the disbursement or collection voucher to which the original unnumbered contract was attached will be furnished promptly to the General Accounting Office by the Contracting Officer concerned.

(e) The instructions contained in this section do not apply to DD Form 738 used in connection with the Small Purchases Procedure (Subpart F, Part 592 of this subchapter).

§ 606.203–4 System of numbering—(a) Contracts. Contract numbers, when required, will be placed in the space provided therefor on the printed contract form, or, if no such space is provided, in the upper right-hand corner of the contract separate from all other information. A typical example of the general scheme of numbering is illustrated below.

DA–09–177 AIII–1

(1) The capital letters "DA" represent the Army Establishment.

(2) "09–177" represents the station number of the contracting installation, SR 35–218–1 (fiscal and disbursing station numbers) contains a list of domestic and foreign station numbers which will be used. Request for assignment of station numbers not included in the publications cited herein will be addressed to the Office, Chief of Finance Attn: Accounting Division.

(3) "AIII" represents letter symbols assigned to the agency (in this case, Third Army) that normally would receive allocations of funds from the Comptroller of the Army and under whose jurisdiction the installation commander has received authority to obligate funds and execute a contract.

(i) Letter symbols for use in numbering contracts must be approved by the Comptroller General of the United States prior to use.

(ii) Requests for assignment of letter symbols to activities not included herein will be by letter addressed to the Office, Chief of Finance Attn: Receipts and Disbursements Division, which will secure the necessary approval from the Comptroller General of the United States.

(iii) The following letter symbols have been approved by the Comptroller General of the United States for use by the agencies indicated below:

(4) The figure "1" represents the first contract made by the particular installation. Contracts will be numbered by each installation in numerical sequence beginning with number 1 and going through 999,999 without regard to the fiscal year, type of contract, or contracting activity. Contracts issued at each installation beyond 999,999 will be identified by a new series of numbers distinguished by the use of the capital letter "A" at the end thereof. Likewise, any additional series necessary beyond the same symbol will be distinguished by additional capital letters "B," "C," "D," etc. This subparagraph, of itself, does not require that a new series of numbers beginning with No. 1 be instituted.

(b) Supplemental agreements and change orders. Supplemental agreements and change orders will bear the same identification as the contract which is modified or amended thereby. In addition thereto, such supplemental agreements and change orders will be identified further by adding the numerals 1, 2, 3, etc., respectively, following the words "Supplemental Agreement" or "Change Order." The same series of consecutive numbers will be used for both supplemental agreements and change orders. Example: 1st Modification—Supplemental Agreement No. 1 to Contract DA–09–177 AIII–1; 2d Modification—Change Order No. 2 to Contract DA–09–177 AIII–1.

(c) Subcontracts. Contracting Officers will urge Contractors holding prime contracts with the Army Establishment to include in their subcontracts a reference to the number of the prime contracts involved. Prime contractors will also be asked to urge their subcontractors to include a reference to the number of the applicable prime contract in sub subcontracts, and so on down the line. This practice will materially assist in accounting and auditing and particularly in the settlement of terminated subcontracts of all tiers.

§ 606.203–5 Determination of numbering agency.—(a) General. Letter symbols are a requirement of the Comptroller General of the United States to indicate command control rather than appropriation chargeable. Contracts which are executed under supervision of a Procuring Activity, regardless of the source of funds used to finance the contracts, are to be regarded and designated by numbering as that Activity's responsibility.

(b) Commanding officer acting in dual capacity. Where the commanding officer of an installation is acting in a dual capacity as commanding officer of a class II installation and commanding officer of a class I activity, and the installation has only one station number which is assigned for the Class II installation, a request may be submitted to the Chief of Finance Attn: Accounting Division, in accordance with paragraph 4, SR 35–218–1 (fiscal and disbursing station numbers), for the assignment of a station number to be used in connection with procurement relating to post activities (class I). The request must contain the correct title of the Procuring Activity, which title must be different from the one presently assigned. If desirable, the title may be changed by the addition of the word "Post" to the present title.

§ 606.203–6 Delivery orders. Section 606.203–3 is not applicable to delivery orders placed against contracts of another technical service, military department, or Federal agency, or delivery orders not in excess of $1,000 executed on DD Form 702 or DD Form 738. Delivery orders in excess of $1,000 shall not be numbered pursuant to the system described in § 606.203–4, but may be given such other identification as may be prescribed by the Heads of Procuring Activities. When partial payments through unforeseen contingencies later become necessary, the total number of all payments will not exceed four, and similar action will be taken as indicated in § 592.650–5 (b) (2) of this subchapter.

§ 606.203–7 Assignment, cancellation, or alteration of contract number. The elements of a contract number (including letter symbol and station number) shall not be altered in any way without the express approval of the Chief of Finance. Requests for assignment, cancellation, or alteration of letter symbols should be addressed to the Office of the Chief of Finance Attn: Receipts and Disbursements Division, which will secure the necessary approval from the Comptroller General of the United States. (d) Additional copies will be prepared and distributed as directed in appropriate Department of the Army publications or by the Head of the Procuring Activity concerned. Such copies may be distributed prior to the distribution of the signed numbers, provided each is plainly marked as an "Advance Copy," and other adequate safeguards are taken to insure that there will be no improper fiscal charges because of contracts not being carried through to execution.

§ 606.206–5 Supplemental agreements and change orders. Signed numbers and copies of supplemental agreements and change orders will be distributed in the same manner as is prescribed for the contracts to which they pertain and the Contracting Officer will note on his retained copy of the supplemental agreement or change order the date on which the Contractor's number was delivered or mailed to him.

§ 606.206–6 Purchases under contracts of other Military Departments and other Government agencies. (a) Delivery orders covering such purchases will be distributed in accordance with § 606.206–4.

(b) The Head of the Procuring Activity concerned will secure compliance with all special instructions of the respective agencies which make the contracts.

(c) Vouchers submitted to the General Accounting Office, Army Audit Branch, may relate to less than all of the items covered by the delivery order. If the original signed number of the delivery order has not already been so submitted, it will be submitted with the first voucher; and when vouchers are submitted covering subsequent payments, a reference will be made to the first voucher. The reference should contain the date on which the invoice covered by the first voucher was paid and the name of the Disbursing Officer by whom such payment was made.

§ 606.206–7 Distribution to the Army Audit Agency of procurement contracts and other documents. (a) Contracting Officers of the Department of the Army will distribute authenticated copies of signed contracts and other information as specified below to the regional offices of the Army Audit Agency.

(1) One copy of all cost (or cost sharing), cost-plus-a-fixed-fee, time and material contracts and fixed-price contracts containing cost reimbursement provisions for portions of the contract performance (including letter contracts); also one copy of all changes, amendments, and supplements to such contracts.

(2) One copy of any other type of negotiated contract (including letter contracts), where the total compensation to be paid the Contractor is based, in whole or in part, on the actual costs incurred, the quantity of work or service performed, the time element in performing the work or service, or on other similar variable factors; also one copy of all changes, amendments, and supplements to such contracts.

(3) One copy of all contracts (including letter contracts) which provide for price redetermination, price escalation, incentive price adjustment, advance payments, or progress payments; also one copy of all changes, amendments, and supplements to such contracts.

(4) One copy of all contracts which have been terminated for convenience and which were not previously forwarded under requirements of subparagraphs (1), (2), or (3) of this paragraph.

(5) When a contract supplement reflecting (i) redetermined prices under a price redetermination type contract or (ii) a termination settlement is forwarded to a regional office of the Army Audit Agency in accordance with the requirements of subparagraph (1), (2), (3) or (4) of this paragraph, one copy of the record of negotiations will be attached to the supplement. This record will be an extra copy of summary of negotiations necessary for proper documentation in the contract file, or for review by a board of awards (if appropriate). No special record is required to be prepared to meet the requirements of this section.

(b) In addition to the contractual documents required by paragraph (a) of this section, the Contracting Officer will forward promptly an original and one copy of all cost statements, settlement proposals in connection with contracts terminated for the convenience of the Government, financial data, termination settlement proposals (including inventory schedules and DD Form 546 (Schedule of Accounting Information)), and other information furnished by the Contractor in accordance with each contract referred to in paragraph (a) of this section, or requested or acquired by the Contracting Officer. The copy of the cost statements and other data furnished will be retained by the Army Audit Agency and filed with the audit work papers, and the original returned at the time of submission of the audit report or at the time the Army Audit Agency determines that an audit is not to be initiated.

(c) For contracts involving industrial property as defined in paragraph 104.4, Appendix B, Part 413 of this title, Contracting Officers will furnish to the regional auditor, Army Audit Agency, of the region in which the official property records are maintained, a letter notification showing contract number, name, and address of Contractor, address of office administering the property records and location of the property records. Notifications may be consolidated and furnished weekly or monthly, depending on volume, but separate letters will be furnished for each location of records. Special arrangements may be made between a purchasing office and the Army Audit Agency in furnishing this information.

(d) Distribution of the above indicated contractual documents and supplementary information will be made by the purchasing office to the Army Audit Agency regional office of the area in which the performance will be accomplished and will include one extra copy when contracts are to be performed outside the continental limits of the United States. Special arrangements may be made by written agreement between a purchasing office and an Army Audit Agency regional office. The addresses and jurisdictional areas of the Army Audit Agency regional offices are as follows:

(e) Contracts other than those specified in paragraph (a) of this section will not be distributed to the Army Audit Agency.

§ 606.206–8 Excessive distribution prohibited. See § 605.1506–3 (b) of this subchapter.

§ 606.207 Audits of procurement contracts by the Army Audit Agency. Requirements and procedures pertaining to audits of procurement contracts are set forth in the following sections.

§ 606.207–1 Cost-reimbursement type contracts—(a) Mandatory Audits. The Army Audit Agency will schedule and perform audits on the types of contracts included under § 606.206–7 (a) (1), including termination settlement proposals thereunder.

(b) Differences and disputes. (1) Where questions arise during the course of an audit of a cost-reimbursement type contract which appear to be in need of either amplification, substantiation, or clarification by the Contracting Officer prior to the submission of the formal report, the Auditor, without delay, will attempt to obtain such amplification, substantiation, or clarification from the Contracting Officer. The Contracting Officer, in turn, will cooperate fully in the prompt resolution of any such problem.

(2) If the audit referred to above discloses any costs which, in the Auditor's opinion, do not appear to be reimbursable under the terms of the contract, or because they appear to be excessive or otherwise unreasonable, the Auditor will recommend such costs for nonacceptance. If the Contracting Officer does not concur in the recommendations, he will, within 5 days after receipt thereof, advise the Regional Auditor in writing of his reasons for nonconcurrence and, pending resolution of differences, will not approve the disputed items for payment in whole or in part. The costs on which the Regional Auditor and the Contracting Officer are in agreement may be paid pending dispostion of the differences. The Regional Auditor will consider the comments of the Contracting Officer and will reappraise his original recommendations in the light thereof. If the Regional Auditor believes that his original recommendations should be changed, he will revise or supplement his recommendations accordingly. However, should the Regional Auditor still believe that his original recommendations are proper, he will prepare and submit to the Contracting Officer any additional information and data in support thereof as he may consider pertinent under the circumstances. In either case the Regional Auditor's written reply will be transmitted within 5 days of receipt of the Contracting Officer's comments.

(3) Generally, any differences in opinion with respect to allowability of costs should be capable of resolution at the Contracting Officer and Regional Auditor level. However, if agreement cannot be reached after the exchange of correspondence required in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, the Contracting Officer, within 5 days after receiving the Regional Auditor's reply to his previous comments, will transmit the complete file direct to the Head of the Procuring Activity involved, forwarding a copy of the transmittal letter to the Regional Auditor. Upon receipt of copy of the transmittal letter, the Regional Auditor will forward his complete file, including the audit work papers to the Chief, Army Audit Agency, sending a copy of his transmittal letter to the Contracting Officer.

(4) Within 7 days after receipt of the files, the designated representative of the Head of the Procuring Activity concerned and the designated representative of the Chief, Army Audit Agency, acting as an informal board, will make a final decision on the items in dispute and jointly will advise the Contracting Officer direct with respect thereto with an information copy to the Regional Auditor. All decisions of the informal board will have the written approval of the Head of the Procuring Activity concerned and of the Chief, Army Audit Agency.

(5) In the event that the Head of the Procuring Activity and the Chief, Army Audit Agency, are unable to agree, the dispute will be referred direct to the Secretary, who will render a final decision on the issues involved.

(6) Determination reached by the informal board will have the effect of a directive and will be so recognized by both the Contracting Officer and the Regional Auditor. Decisions by the Secretary will also be in the form of a directive and will have the same effect. Payment then will be made in accordance with the decisions reached. Such decisions do not preclude a contractor from seeking redress under any applicable provisions of the contract.

§ 606.207–2 Fixed-price contracts—(a) When audits will be performed. (1) Audits of cost data submitted by Contractors in connection with the negotiation or revision of prices and settlement proposals of contracts terminated for convenience under fixed-price contracts will be performed—

(i) When requested by the Contracting Officer. As a matter of policy, Contracting Officers should request audits in those cases where in their judgment an audit is desirable to protect the interest of the Government after giving full consideration to the amount involved, the nature and acceptability of the cost data furnished by the contractor, unusual circumstances that might adversely affect the Government's interest, or any other available information that would be of value in arriving at the decision.

(ii) Whenever the Regional Auditor deems it advisable (provided the Government has the right of audit) after giving full consideration to the amount involved, the nature and acceptability of the cost data furnished by the Contractor, knowledge (or lack thereof) of the Contractor's accounting policies and procedures, the adequacy of the Contractor's cost system, unusual circumstances that might adversely affect the Government's interest, or any other available information that would be of value in arriving at the decision.

(2) It is not considered sound policy to arbitrarily exempt from the requirement of audit any contract or group of contracts in which pricing or payment is based on cost information furnished by the Contractor. However, in the application of paragraph (a) (1) (i) and (ii) of this section in those cases where there is adequate knowledge of the Contractor's accounting policies and cost system, and previous favorable experience, both the Contracting Officer and the Regional Auditor should consider the propriety of accepting the Contractor's cost information after a satisfactory review and analysis by qualified personnel in either or both offices. This procedure is particularly adaptable to contracts of limited amounts.

(3) As promptly as possible but not later than 10 days after receipt of the financial data set forth in § 606.206–7 (b), the Contracting Officer will be advised of the decision by the Regional Auditor under paragraph (a) (1) (ii) of this section or of any recommendation in connection with paragraph (a) (2) of this section which might warrant reconsideration of the request for an audit.

(b) Action required upon receipt of request for or the initiation of an audit. Promptly upon receipt of the audit request set forth in paragraph (a) (1) (i) of this section or when initiating an audit under paragraph (a) (1) (ii) of this section, but no later than 10 days after receipt of an audit request or receipt of the data set forth in § 606.206–7 (b), the Army Audit Agency will advise the Contracting Officer of the approximate date the audit will be started, and within 5 days after the actual starting date, the Auditor will further advise the Contracting Officer of the estimated date of submission of the audit report. In the event that conditions which arise during the performance of the audit indicate the audit report cannot be completed within the estimated period and in order not to delay unduly any needed payment of acceptable items of cost to the Contractor, the Auditor will promptly advise the Contracting Officer of the cause of the extension of the estimated date of completion and will furnish a brief interim report indicating the amount which, in the Auditor's opinion, and subject to the Contracting Officer's approval may be provisionally paid at that time; in the case of pending precontract negotiations, the Contracting Officer may, in his discretion, proceed with negotiations without delay until completion of the audit report, should the situation so warrant.

(c) Scope of audits. The scope of each audit requested by a Contracting Officer will be the minimum required in the opinion of the Auditor under the circumstances to justify him in giving an opinion regarding the reasonableness and fairness of the Contractor's claims regarding costs actually incurred or estimated to be incurred, either as a basis for actual contract settlement or for price negotiation, as the case may be. The scope of the audit will depend upon the Auditor's judgment regarding the Contractor's financial and accounting policies and procedures, including the reliability of his cost system and internal controls; in no case will a detailed audit of transactions or price estimates be made beyond the extent necessary under the circumstances. Whenever the Auditor determines to expand the scope of auditing to include extensive detailed work, an explanation of the reasons therefor will be furnished in the audit report.

(d) Disclosure of audit results to Contractors. In order to facilitate negotiations and to insure that the audit findings are in keeping with the facts after full consideration has been given to the Contractor's accounting policies and procedures, the Auditor may discuss his audit findings with the Contractor in respect to the costs questioned and the accounting basis therefor. The Auditor will, in each case where the audit results are discussed with the Contractor, inform the Contractor that the audit findings as approved by the Regional Auditor are advisory only and do not restrict the Contracting Officer in his negotiation with the Contractor. Upon completion of the audit report and review thereof, the Regional Auditor should normally furnish the Contractor with copies of the pertinent schedules relating to the costs questioned, at the same time as the audit report is submitted to the Contracting Officer.

(e) Action of Contracting Officer upon receipt of audit report. Contracting Officers are primarily responsible for determination of prices negotiated under fixed-price contracts, including those containing price redetermination clauses. Audit reports on negotiated fixed-price contracts, while advisory only, are necessary and important in that they furnish Contracting Officers adequate information with which to negotiate fairly with the Contractor's representatives, and must be fully considered. In accordance with the requirements of § 606.206–7 (a) copies of contractual documents reflecting the determination of prices or settlements must be furnished promptly by the Contracting Officer to appropriate regional officers of the Army Audit Agency.

(f) Action of Army Audit Agency upon receipt of contractual documents indicating settlement of price redeterminations, etc. Upon receipt of the contractual documents indicating revision of prices (or final settlements), the Army Audit Agency will evaluate the new prices in the light of the advisory audit report and other available information for overall reasonableness. A reaudit or reexamination of the Contractor's accounts will NOT be performed. In those cases where the new prices appear largely disproportionate to the information available, a report will be submitted through the Chief, Army Audit Agency to the Assistant Chief of Staff, G–4, Department of the Army, Attn: Chief, Purchases Branch. The Comptroller of the Army will be furnished with information indicating disposition of the report.

§ 606.207–3 General—(a) Accounting counsel. Contracting Officers may utilize, and the Army Audit Agency will furnish accounting counsel at the request of the Contracting Officer, whenever the Contracting Officer determines that such counsel is desirable and appropriate in the negotiation of a contract either in its initial pricing stage or during or at the completion of its performance.

(b) Reports of irregularities. If the basis for an audit request, or if discovered in the course of an audit, information as to irregularities or unusual matters will be furnished promptly to the Auditor, or to the Contracting Officer, for appropriate consideration. Reports by the Auditor indicating suspicion of fraud will be furnished to the Contracting Officer who will be governed by Subpart F, Part 590 of this subchapter.

§ 606.208 Vendor's certificate. The Comptroller General has prescribed the following simplified form of certificate to be used by Contractors and vendors on invoices and bills:

I certify that the above bill is correct and just and that payment therefor has not been received.

SUBPART C—PROCUREMENT ACTION REPORTING

§ 606.301 General. To conform with the provisions of Public Law 413, 80th Congress, Armed Services Procurement Act of 1947, and with instructions of the President of the United States, and to provide the Assistant Chief of Staff, G–4, Department of the Army, with management data essential to staff control over Army procurement, procurement action reports will be prepared on the forms and submitted at the times herein prescribed. Heads of Procuring Activities (as defined in § 400.201–4 of this title) may issue implementing instructions, as required to their Contracting Officers. A copy of each such implementation will be forwarded, as issued, to the Assistant Chief of Staff, G–4, Department of the Army, Attn: Chief, Purchases Branch.

§ 606.302 Data to be included. Data reported will cover all procurement actions (see § 606.307) transacted under the provisions of subchapter A, Chapter IV of this title and this subchapter by all Contracting Officers of the Army Establishment. Procurement actions for civil functions, such as Engineers Civil Works and Alaskan Communications System, are not included in this reporting requirement.

§ 606.303 Forms. Reports will be prepared on DA Form 377 (Monthly Summary of Procurement Actions) (Reports Control Symbol CSGLD–534) and DD Form 350 (Individual Procurement Action Report) (Reports control Symbol CSGLD–525). Supply of forms will be requisitioned through normal publications supply channels.

§ 606.304 Number of copies and routing. (a) The original of each DD Form 350 will be forwarded to the Assistant Chief of Staff, G–4, Department of the Army, Attn: Chief, Purchases Branch, in all cases except where the chief of a technical service requires the original of the report for coding purposes. In cases where the original of the report is forwarded to the chief of the technical service, a copy of the report will be forwarded to the Assistant Chief of Staff, G–4, Department of the Army, Attn: Chief, Purchases Branch. Heads of Procuring Activities may require extra copies of DD Form 350 to be furnished by their Contracting Officers. The original of DA Form 377 will be forwarded to the Assistant Chief of Staff, G–4, Department of the Army, Attn: Chief, Purchases Branch, and a copy of the report will be forwarded to the appropriate Heads of Procuring Activities. DA Form 377 will not be forwarded to the Department of Labor, Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Division. Letters of transmittal will not be used in submitting either individual or monthly reports.

(b) For each unclassified or restricted procurement action having a value of over $10,000 and subject to the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act (Subpart F, Part 411, of this title), two additional copies of the top portion of DD Form 350 (first 13 items) will be prepared by the installation which effects the procurement and forwarded direct to Department of Labor, Washington 25, D. C., Attn: Wage, Hour and Public Contracts Division. These additional copies will not be prepared for actions bearing a security classification higher than confidential.

(c) One additional copy of DD Form 350 will be submitted to the Assistant Chief of Staff, G–4, Department of the Army, Attn: Chief, Purchases Branch, when the dollar value of the action reported is $500,000 or more.

Four copies of this supplementary report will be appended to the four additional copies of DD Form 350 and forwarded to Assistant Chief of Staff, G–4, Department of the Army, Attn: Chief, Purchases Branch. The supplementary report will contain the following information:

(1) Manpower requirements (on basis of information obtained from contractor).

(i) Current total employment (number of persons) of Contractor at place of manufacture shown in item 6 of DD Form 350. Indicate month.

(ii) Estimated employment at the same facility for work solely on the new contract during peak month of operation on that contract. State month and year.

(iii) Net additional manpower required (actual new hires) at the same facility for work on new contract to attain employment shown in subparagraph (1) (ii) of this paragraph. (This figure cannot be larger than the figures noted in subparagraph (1) (ii) of this paragraph but may in some instances be smaller due to transfer of employees from other military or civilian work which is phasing out.)

(2) If the entry in subparagraph (1) (iii) of this paragraph is 200 or more—

(i) A brief statement of information and advice furnished by local Employment Service Office.

(ii) A brief explanation of the overriding factors which made placement of the contract in the labor shortage area necessary or advisable despite adverse manpower conditions. (In the case of formally advertised procurements, the making of an award, pursuant to existing procurement directives, to a Contractor located in a Group I area will be considered as a sufficient overriding factor for this purpose.)

Item 1—Report number. This number will represent the serial number of DD Form 350 submitted by each office, installation, activity, or individual within the current fiscal year, suffixed by the last two digits of the fiscal year. The report covering the first procurement action taken in fiscal year 1954 by each office will bear the number "1–54," and consequently thereafter for subsequent procurement actions. The report covering the first procurement action taken in each succeeding fiscal year, beginning 1 July, will again bear the number "1," followed by the last two digits of the fiscal year. In those instances where more than one activity in a purchasing office utilizes the same station number, blocks of numbers will be assigned to each activity by the purchasing office to avoid duplication of report numbers. The numbering will be in accordance with the date of the report, item 39, and not according to the date of the procurement action, item 11. If the report covers a modification (amendment, change order, or supplemental agreement) with respect to a procurement action previously reported, also enter the number of the most recent procurement action report number related to the contract involved.

If block (3), (4), (5), (6), or (7) of item 8 has been checked, this space should have a previous report number in addition to the number for this report.

Item 2—Department. Enter "Army" if not so preprinted.

Item 3—Bureau, technical service, or command. Enter the name of the Procuring Activity having responsibility for the procurement action; such as Quartermaster Corps, European Command, Third Army, National Guard, etc. (See § 606.309 (d) of this subpart.)

Item 4—Procuring office and address. Enter title, address, and station number in sufficient detail to establish readily the identity of the office, installation, activity, or individual preparing the report.

Item 5a—Contractor name and business address. Enter the name and business address, including street or post office box, of the Contractor or vendor with whom the procurement action was transacted.

Item 5b—Division of. In cases where the Contractor or vendor identifies himself as a division of a parent company, enter the name of the parent company concerned.

Item 6—Place of performance. Enter the actual location of the vendor's place of business from which the items will be supplied or the plant in which the items will be produced. If the items are to be supplied from a vendor or plant to which the Contractor subcontracts the order, or for which the Contractor acts as a broker or factor, the name and location of the vendor or plant from which the items will be supplied will be entered. In case of construction and design contracts, enter actual site of construction and design. If more than one location is entered, and one of the locations is a surplus labor area, the surplus labor area must be listed first. (See item 17.) If the supply or production source is unknown, not available, or identical with item 5a, so indicate.

The place of performance should be carefully checked with item 17 to ascertain that, if this contract has been placed in a labor surplus area, the numerical designation is the same as the place of performance. (See DMP No. 4.) If there is more than one place of performance mentioned in item 6, and only one of the locations is "labor surplus" there should be an entry in "Remarks" to show the actual amount awarded to the "labor surplus area."

Item 7—Contractual instrument number. Enter the complete number of the contract to which this report pertains in accordance with § 606.203.

Item 8—Kind of procurement action. Place an "X" mark in the appropriate box to show whether—

(1) Action is a preliminary instrument such as a letter of intent or letter contract;

(2) Action is a new definitive contract (includes Purchase Order and notice of award);

(3) Action is a definitive contract superseding a preliminary instrument, if this is the case, record under item 10 only the change (debit or credit) from value reported for preliminary instrument; (if there is no change in dollar value from the preliminary instrument, the report must still be prepared and submitted, but no entry will be made in item 10);

(4) Action is an order other than Purchase Order such as Job Order, Task Order, or Delivery Order against open-end contracts;

(5) If action is a modification, place another "X" mark in the appropriate box to show whether it is an amendment,

(6) Change order, or

(7) Supplemental agreement, and enter the number thereof.

If this item is checked in block (3), pull previous report to determine that a letter order was previously reported, check "Remarks" (item 24) to see that necessary letter contract information appears.

Item 9a—Item number. For identification of item numbers in block 25 on all procurements involving MSA funds.

Item 9b—Description of commodity or service and end use of commodity. Enter a brief, explicit description of the major items being procured. This description must be in sufficient detail to permit identification of the commodity for determining purchase assignment. In making this determination, the use of the commodity is frequently a deciding factor, especially in the case of spare parts for trucks, for radios, for clocks, etc. Accordingly, the use of the commodity will be indicated, where applicable, in addition to the brief description of the item. In the case of research and development contracts this description must be in sufficient detail to permit identification of the project for the Congressional report required under Public Law 557, 82d Congress. Heads of Procuring Activities may require, by supplemental instructions, detailed lists of all the separate items to be appended. This entry should be checked with items 9f and 9g to determine that correct coding has been accomplished.

Item 9c—Unit. Enter, if practicable, the unit of measure of the item being procured: viz, each, ton, square feet, etc.

Item 9d—Quantity. Enter, if practicable, the quantity of the item being procured. In case of amendments or supplemental agreements enter only the increase or decrease in quantity.

Item 9e—Unit price. Insert unit price which appears in the contract.

Item 9f—Commodity code or class. Use first two digits of the Standard Commodity Code Classification, Volume No. 1, 1946.

Item 9g—DDCP No. A notation will be made in item 9g showing the Department of Defense Claimant Program Code Number (applicable to use of DO ratings); this may be abbreviated as DDCP A4, etc.

Procurement Program Definitions

These program definitions are published here in order to assist in the uniform compilation of reporting data in the area of funds, materials, end item requirements, and procurement schedules. They will be used in the completion of item 9g of the Individual Procurement Action Report (DD Form 350).

1. Department of Defense Procurement Programs are groupings of items in terms of CMP allocations (materials), dollar value, or end item quantitative requirements.

2. These programs have been developed in order to group for reporting purposes consistent and reconcilable information in terms of materials, funds, and end items.

3. When planned use is known at the time of purchase, each procurement program will include all items pertaining to the following:

a. Crating, packaging materials and dunnage.

b. Conversion, maintenance and repair:

(1) Materials.

(2) Services (performed by civilian contractors).

(3) Operating supplies.

(4) Parts and spares.

c. Related training equipment and devices (including technical manuals and publications).

d. Related research and development and preproduction materials and equipment (but excluding construction of research and development facilities which are included in Program C-2).

When planned use is not known, a and b above will be identified to Program C-3; c and d above to Program C-9.

The subprograms noted in certain programs are for guidance purposes in enabling the military services and other Government agencies to determine more readily and uniformly under which procurement program certain types of equipment should be included. Specific directives concerning the areas of funds, materials, and items of equipment and supplies will specify those instances in which reporting by such subprograms may be required, and any deviations from these general definitions.

Other programs which are not pertinent to overall treatment are included in the Priorities and Allocation Manual, i. e., C-8, W-1, C-4, B-5, etc.

§ 606.309 Monthly summary of procurement actions (DA Form 377) (Reports Control Symbol CSGLD–534). (a) This summary will include every new procurement action, as defined in § 606.307, transacted during the month, covered by this report, irrespective of the dollar value of any such action. It will include every modification (amendment, change order, or supplemental agreement) to contracts negotiated under paragraph 2c (11) and 2c (16) of Public Law 413, 80th Congress, irrespective of the dollar value of any such contract or modification thereto. This summary will include also every modification involving an increase or decrease of $10,000 or more. Modifications not pertaining to paragraphs 2c (11) or 2c (16) of Public Law 413 which involve an increase or decrease of less than $10,000 will be completely excluded from this summary.

(b) For the purpose of this summary only those reportable modifications made pursuant to the provisions of the basic contract will be reported in the columns headed "number of modifications." New actions and reportable modifications not made pursuant to the provisions of the basic contract will be reported in the columns headed "number of new actions."

(c) The dollar value entries in this summary will reflect the net total of all debit and credit procurement actions reportable under paragraph (a) of this section. If during the month the credit actions exceed the debit actions for any item, a credit entry will be shown. Such entry will be preceded by the symbol CR (for credit). Dollar value entries will not include cents. (Example: $500 not $500.25 nor $500.00.)

(d) Monthly summaries will be consolidated at the following levels and in the following manner prior to submission to the Assistant Chief of Staff, G–4, Department of the Army. (See § 606.305.)

(1) At class I installations all reportable actions will be consolidated each month on one DA Form 377 regardless of the source of the funds involved in any of the actions. The appropriate army area having responsibility for the class I installation will be indicated in the space for "Technical Service or Command." The original of each DD Form 350 of those actions shown in line 8, columns d and g, will be attached to the DA Form 377.

(2) At class II installations those reportable actions which have been transacted for the purpose of class I activities will be consolidated on one DA Form 377, and the appropriate army area having responsibility for the class I activities will be indicated in the space for "Technical Service or Command." All other reportable actions at class II installations will be consolidated on one DA Form 377, and the technical service having responsibility for the class II installation will be indicated in the space for "Technical Service or Command." The governing factor in the aforementioned breakdown will be whether the action was executed for the purpose of class I activities or for the purpose of class II activities. Where the contractual instrument has been assigned a number pursuant to § 606.203 the letter symbol of this number may be used as a guide. As an exception to the above, general depots will submit one DA Form 377 for each Procuring Activity located at the depot.

(e) In order to present an accurate picture of procurement separate monthly reports on new obligations and on deobligations will be submitted in two parts on separate pages as follows:

(1) Part I of DA Form 377 will show all new procurements entered into by each purchasing office. This will include all new obligations such as letter orders, notices of award, and definitive contracts, as well as additional obligation of funds by modifications to existing contracts. No deobligations will be included in this procurement report.

(2) Part II of DA Form 377 will show all deobligations for the reporting period. Such deobligations will be entered in the appropriate lines and columns of subject form. Do not include new procurement in the deobligation report.

Where information for DA Form 377 is obtained from Individual Procurement Action Report (Reports Control Symbol CSGLD–525) (DD Form 350) the date of the report (Item 39, DD Form 350) will be the controlling factor in determining which monthly summary (DA Form 377) will include the action reported. For example, a procurement action executed 28 November but having a "date of report" of 2 December will be reported in the monthly summary of December actions, the only exception being the close of the fiscal year, when all actions taken in the month of June will be reported on the monthly summary regardless of the "date of report."

(1) Amendments of contracts without consideration.

(a) To approve all requests for amendments of contracts without consideration.

(b) To approve correction of all mistakes in contracts.

(c) To approve correction of mutual mistakes and ambiguities in contracts, and contracts formalizing informal commitments, irrespective of amount.

(d) To consider, adjust, and make final determinations of all requests for relief under this subchapter and the authorities referred to in § 606.401.

(e) All authority not otherwise expressly delegated in this subchapter is reserved to the Board.

(c) The exercise of authority hereunder is not intended as an alternative to compliance with the Armed Services Procurement Act of 1947, Public Law 413, 80th Congress. The design of the act, Executive order, and regulations referred to in § 606.401, is to accomplish the actions therein authorized under such authority only when normal procurement procedures are inapplicable.

(e) (1) Proper exercise, or recommendation of exercise, of the authority granted under Title II of the First War Powers Act, 1941, as amended, and E. O. 10210, will be facilitated, if it is clearly understood that the basic law is in part substantive, and, in part, procedural.

(2) With respect to amendment of contracts without consideration; elimination of the general requirement of advertisement, competitive bidding and certain bonds; and formalization of informal commitments, the authority is substantive, in that such authority is in derogation of existing substantive law. For example, existing law requires that no official of the Government may amend a contract so as to disburse Government funds or release a vested right of the Government, without consideration. The authority granted herein changes that law as long as this procedure is effective.

(3) With respect to such matters as the correction of mistakes, or remission of liquidated damages in cases where delays are not excusable, the authority granted herein does not change substantive law, but only changes procedure. For example, except for the authority herein granted mistakes in bid, etc., particularly after award, can be corrected only by the Comptroller General; likewise, remission of liquidated damages on an equitable basis; advance payments could be approved by the Secretary only. This authority permits other officials to perform these functions, but does not change the basic law as to the circumstances under which these functions may be performed.

(4) Therefore, when acting, or recommending action in cases which are in derogation of substantive law (such as paragraph (2) of this section), the justification for such action must be clear and convincing because, on one hand, the Contractor has no further recourse to the courts; and on the other hand, the Government would not be in a position to correct errors other than in cases of fraud.

(5) However, when acting, or recommending action in cases where procedure only has been changed (such as paragraph (3) of this section), any doubts as to the propriety of granting relief should be resolved in favor of the Government, because the Contractor is still in a position, after denial of relief, to pursue his normal remedies. And if the official passing on the case is of the opinion that normal channels should be followed, e. g. to the Comptroller General, there is no prohibition against following them.

(6) Even if the applicant appears to be entitled to relief under basic law and regulation, however, it is reiterated and emphasized that such relief cannot be granted under this authority unless a finding can be made to the effect that the granting of such relief will facilitate the national defense.

(f) Applications for relief will be reviewed and passed upon only with full consideration of the provisions of this section.

(g) All determinations and findings required by § 606.405 will be made.

(h) The determination of whether in a particular case a contract amendment to be entered into without consideration, or the correction of a mistake or ambiguity in a contract, or the formalization of an informal commitment will facilitate the national defense is a matter of sound judgment to be made on the basis of all of the facts of such case. Although it is obviously impossible to predict or enumerate all the types of cases with respect to which relief may appropriately be granted, examples of certain cases or types of cases where relief may be proper are set forth below. Such enumeration is not intended to exclude other cases where the circumstances are such as to warrant the granting of relief, and even in the enumerated cases other factors may result in a denial of relief.

§ 606.405 Determinations and findings. (a) Any action taken or recommended to higher authority under this subpart, must be based on a written finding that the national defense will be facilitated thereby.

(b) With respect to the correction of mutual mistakes, as defined in § 606.408–1 (a) and ambiguities, and the formalization of informal commitments, the Under Secretary of the Army has made general determinations and findings in paragraphs (2) (b) and (c) respectively, of Part II of the regulation cited above in § 606.401 (c) which may be referred to in contracts, amendments to contracts, and reports and recommendations.

(c) As to all amendments of contracts without consideration and correction of mistakes, other than mutual mistakes as defined in § 606.408–1 (a) each contract and amendment to contracts will contain an individual affirmative finding and each report and recommendation will contain an individual affirmative or negative finding, with respect to the facilitation of the national defense.

§ 606.406 Amendments to contracts without consideration.

§ 606.406–1 Conditions under which relief may be granted or recommended. (a) Where an actual or threatened loss on a defense contract, however caused, will impair the productive ability of a Contractor whose continued operation as a source of supply is found to be essential to the national defense, the contract generally will be equitably adjusted to the extent necessary to avoid such impairment of the Contractor's productive ability.

(b) Where a Contractor suffers a loss (not merely diminution of anticipated profits) on a defense contract as a result of Government action, the character of the Government action generally will determine whether any adjustment in the contract will be made and its extent.

(1) Where the Government action is directed primarily at the Contractor and is taken by the Government in its capacity as the other contracting party, the contract may be equitably adjusted if fairness so requires. Thus where such Government action, although not creating any liability on its part, increases the cost of performance, considerations of fairness may make appropriate some equitable adjustment in the contract.

(2) When the action is not taken by the Government in its capacity as the other contracting party, but in its sovereign capacity, relief will generally not be granted. However, exceptional cases, depending on the nature of the action, the circumstances, and the effect on the Contractor, may require an equitable adjustment in the contract when necessary to insure maximum cooperation and production in the national defense effort.

(c) Relief recommended in appropriate cases may include such action as (1) termination of contract without cost to either party, (2) amendment to contract increasing the contract amount, (3) revision of delivery schedules, (4) other actions appropriate in the circumstances.

§ 606.406–2 Administrative procedures—(a) Contractor's application. (1) Written requests for amendments of contracts without consideration shall be filed by Contractors with the Contracting Officer administering the contract or his properly appointed successor, in quadruplicate.

(2) In the event that such request refers to contracts with more than one Purchasing Office or Procuring Activity, it shall be submitted initially to the Contracting Officer administering the contract or contracts involving the greatest amount (or aggregate amount if administering more than one contract) of the Procuring Activity under which the largest total dollar value of contracts has been awarded as of the date of the application.

(3) The Contractor's request for relief shall be substantially in the form set forth in § 606.406–3 (a), and shall contain, as a minimum requirement, the information requested in such form. Necessary adaptations may be made when required, as in applications involving more than one contract.

(b) Action by Contracting Officer. (1) The Contracting Officer will review the application and verify the contents thereof.

(2) If further information is required, request the Contractor to furnish the same, in writing.

(3) If in the opinion of the Contracting Officer the application does not justify the granting of the relief sought after consideration of §§ 606.404 and 606.404–1, a written finding may be furnished to the Contractor in substantially the form indicated in § 606.406–3 (b), providing such action is authorized by Procuring Activity instructions.

(4) If in the opinion of the Contracting Officer, after consideration of the provisions of §§ 606.404 and 606.404–1, the application should be granted, and when otherwise required by Procuring Activity instructions, an indorsement in triplicate, inclosing three copies of the Contractor's application, exhibits, and contractual documents, shall be forwarded to the Head of the Procuring Activity, in accordance with instructions issued by such Head of the Procuring Activity setting forth as a minimum the following information. (See suggested form for indorsement in § 606.406–3 (c)):

(i) That the application has been reviewed and the facts therein stated are certified to be substantially correct except as specifically indicated.

(ii) A brief description of the contract, including reference to any special pricing clauses.

(iii) Whether final payment has been made, or any final administrative determination made of the amount due.

(iv) The importance of the contract or the Contractor to the furtherance of the national defense effort, indicating present or future need for the item.

(v) The quality of performance by the Contractor.

(vi) Present status of deliveries and payments.

(vii) Probable future orders to the Contractor on other national defense work.

(viii) Other available sources of supply in comparison with the Contractor.

(ix) A statement of the factors causing financial distress.

(x) If relief is recommended involving an increase in price, whether appropriated funds are sufficient to cover the proposed or requested additional payment to the Contractor.

(xi) Whether appropriated funds allocated to other Departments are involved; if such funds are involved, name the Department.

(xii) An opinion on the merits as to whether the requested relief should be granted, or to what extent the same or alternative relief should be granted.

(xiii) A specific recommendation as to the nature of, and extent to which relief should be granted.

(xiv) A statement of opinion as to whether the granting of such relief will facilitate the national defense effort.

(5) Contractual documents and invitations to bid or requests for proposals, and abstracts thereof, will be submitted in duplicate.

(6) The Contracting Officer's indorsement will be forwarded through such channels and be reviewed and approved by such intermediate offices and commands as may be required by Procuring Activity instructions.

(c) Action by intermediate reviewing agencies. (1) Each echelon reviewing and passing upon such applications subsequent to the Contracting Officer's review and verification will review and verify the contents of the application to the fullest extent practicable: Provided, however, That in any case such echelons of review are authorized to rely fully upon the verification made by the Contracting Officer unless unusual circumstances require further verification.

(2) Make specific findings on the merits and specific recommendations with respect to whether, and the extent to which, the application should be approved or denied.

(3) Make a specific finding as to whether the national defense would be facilitated by the granting of the application.

(4) Heads of Procuring Activities are authorized to require all applications to be forwarded and initial determinations denying applications to be made in the office of the Head of Procuring Activity or in any lower echelon, including the Contracting Officer.

(d) Action by Heads of Procuring Activities. (1) Heads of procuring activities will take appropriate action as required by § 606.406–2 (c).

(2) Heads of Procuring Activities are authorized to deny applications without further reference to the Army Contract Adjustment Board. Appropriate written findings and determinations will be made and furnished to applicants by such agencies as may be designated by the Head of the Procuring Activity for that purpose, including the Contracting Officer.

(3) If in the opinion of the Head of the Procuring Activity, after consideration of the provisions of §§ 606.404 and 606.406–1 the application should be granted, an endorsement in duplicate, enclosing copies in duplicate of the Contractor's application, all indorsements and findings, and attached papers, shall be forwarded direct to the Army Contract Adjustment Board, Office of the Under Secretary of the Army, Washington 25, D. C., recommending approval to the extent noted in such indorsement.

(e) Action in cases of general public interest or doubt. (1) In any case where any of the officers abovementioned is of the opinion that the application should not be granted in whole or in part, but when in their judgment there is a serious doubt as to whether the relief should be granted or denied, or when the matter is believed to be of such general public interest that the initial determination denying the application should be made by a higher echelon, such officer may forward such application to the next higher echelon, including the Army Contract Adjustment Board with appropriate findings, recommendations, and determinations.

(2) Cases forwarded under the authority of this paragraph should explain fully the reasons why it is believed that consideration should be given to the application by the higher echelon.

§ 606.406–3 Forms—(a) Contractor's application.

§ 606.407 Correction of mistakes in contracts (other than mutual mistakes and ambiguities).

§ 606.407–1 Conditions under which relief may be granted. Criteria for determination and recommendations with respect to correction of mistakes in contracts (other than mutual mistakes, as defined in § 606.408–1 (a)), and ambiguities, are identical with those contained in § 606.406–1.

§ 606.407–2 Administrative procedures. (a) The procedure set forth in § 606.406–2 is applicable to applications for correction of mistakes other than mutual mistakes (as defined in § 606.408–1 (a)) and ambiguities.

(b) In addition to information required by paragraph (a) of this section, the applicant will be required to submit supporting evidence of the alleged mistake such as work sheets or other data used in preparing the bid or proposal, as well as the complete facts on which the allegation of mistake is based.

(c) The Contracting Officer will indicate in his indorsement the date when a notice of the alleged mistake was received and annex copies of any written notice thereof received by him, as well as triplicate copies of (1) the invitation for bids or request for proposals; (2) abstract of bids or summary of proposals; (3) contractual documents.

§ 606.407–3 Forms. Forms set forth in § 606.406–3 are applicable.

§ 606.408 Correction of mutual mistakes and ambiguities.

§ 606.408–1 Conditions under which relief may be granted. (a) For the purpose of exercising authority, under the statutory and administrative authority cited in § 606.401, only, the term "mutual mistake" includes:

(1) A mistake which consists of the failure to express in a written contract the agreement as both parties understood it.

(2) A mistake on the part of the Contractor which is so obvious that it was, or should have been apparent to the Contracting Officer.

(3) A mutual mistake as to a material fact.

(b) Mutual mistakes, as defined in paragraph (a) of this section, and ambiguities may be corrected by the Assistant Chief of Staff, G–4, or at the level of the Head of a Procuring Activity under the authority of the statutory and administrative authorities cited in § 606.401 only if—

(1) The actual or estimated increase in cost to the Government will not, in the opinion of the Head of the Procuring Activity, exceed $50,000. Such opinion must be affirmatively stated as a finding of fact.

(2) The requested correction of mutual mistake or ambiguity must not deal with or directly affect any matter under the contract which has been referred to, or is pending before, or has been decided by, the General Accounting Office.

(3) The Contractor has furnished written notice of the mistake or ambiguity to the Contracting Officer (i) before completion of performance of the contract by the Contractor or (ii) prior to the issuance of a Notice of Termination for Convenience or Default, as the case may be.

(4) Final payment, approval of a final voucher, or a final administrative determination of the amount due has not been made under the contract.

(5) The correction will not result in payment to the Contractor of a sum, which, when added to other payments made under the contract, exceeds the amount of the next lowest responsive bid of a responsible bidder (in the case of contracts entered into after formal advertising).

(6) The correction will not result in payment to the Contractor of a sum, which, when added to other payments made under the contract, exceeds the amount of any other proposal considered in the negotiations (in the case of negotiated contracts). Where the contract was placed on the basis of considerations other than price, this limitation shall not be applicable.

(7) Notice of allegation of mistake, oral or written, has not been furnished to the Contracting Officer (i) before award of a contract entered into after formal advertising or (ii) before award of a negotiated contract upon a form not requiring execution of both contracting parties or (iii) before execution of negotiated contracts entered into on forms requiring signatures of two or more parties.

(c) Mutual mistakes (as defined in § 606.408–1 (a)) and ambiguities, notice or allegation of which has been furnished to the Contracting Officer (1) prior to opening of bids or (2) before award of contracts will be corrected and processed as required by the provisions of §§ 401.405 of this title and 591.405 of this subchapter. Such alleged mistakes will not be processed under the authority of this subpart.

(d) Cases involving an estimated or actual increase in the amount to be paid to the Contractor, exceeding $50,000, or in which final payment or final determination of the amount due has been made, will be processed to the Army Contract Adjustment Board in accordance with § 606.408–2 and procedures issued by the Board.

§ 606.408–2 Administrative procedure. (a) This procedure is applicable to the type of mistake and ambiguity only as set forth in § 606.408–1 (a).

(b) Contractor's application: The contractor will submit, in quadruplicate, an application for relief, substantially in the form set forth in § 606.408–3 (a). In addition thereto, he will submit supporting evidence of the alleged mistake such as work sheets used in preparing the bid or proposal or other data, as well as the complete facts on which the allegation of mistake is based.

(c) Action of Contracting Officer:

(1) The Contracting Officer will examine and review the application.

(2) If further information is required request the Contractor to furnish the same in writing.

(3) If, after consideration of the elements set forth in §§ 606.404 and 606.408–1 he determines that the application under this authority should be denied, and provided such action is authorized by Procuring Activity instructions, he will prepare written findings of fact and a determination which will be mailed, or otherwise furnished to the Contractor. The Contractor will be informed that he may, if he so desires, submit a claim to the Comptroller General under existing law and regulation other than Title II of the First War Powers Act, 1941, as amended; and that denial of relief under this authority is not necessarily a determination that the Contractor is not entitled to relief under normal procedures.

(4) If after consideration of the elements set forth in §§ 606.404 and 606.408–1 the Contracting Officer is of the opinion that the application should be granted, or if otherwise required by Procuring Activity instructions, the Contracting Officer will prepare an indorsement in triplicate setting forth as a minimum the following facts:

(i) That the Contractor's application has been examined and reviewed.

(ii) A brief description of the contract including any special pricing clauses.

(iii) That the facts therein stated are certified to be substantially correct except as specifically indicated.

(iv) The date when notice of the alleged mistake was received, annexing copies of any written notice.

(v) The quality of performance by the Contractor.

(vi) Present status of deliveries and payments.

(vii) That final payment has not been made, nor any final administrative determination made of the amount due.

(viii) Other available sources of supply in comparison with the Contractor.

(ix) The importance of the contract or the Contractor to the furtherance of the national defense effort, including present or future need for the item.

(x) An opinion on the merits as to whether the requested relief should be granted, and the extent thereof recommended for approval. In the alternative, a recommendation of what relief should be granted other than that requested by the Contractor.

(xi) If relief is recommended involving an increase in price, whether appropriated funds are sufficient to cover the proposed additional payment to the Contractor.

(xii) Whether appropriated funds allocated to other Departments are involved; if such funds are involved, name the Department.

(xiii) That the granting of such relief will facilitate the national defense effort. Reference may be made to the general finding of the Under Secretary of the Army contained in paragraph (2) (b), Part II of the Regulations quoted in § 606.419–1.

(5) The following documents will be inclosed in triplicate:

(i) Invitation for Bids or request for proposals.

(ii) Abstract of bids or summary of proposals.

(iii) Contractual documents.

(6) The Contracting Officer's indorsement and inclosures will be forwarded in triplicate, through such channels and be reviewed and approved by such intermediate offices and commands as may be required by Procuring Activity instructions.

(d) Action by intermediate reviewing agencies:

(1) Each echelon reviewing and passing upon such applications, subsequent to the Contracting Officer's review and verification will review and verify the contents of the application to the fullest extent practicable, provided, however, that in any case such echelons of review are authorized to rely fully upon the verification made by the Contracting Officer unless unusual circumstances require further verification.

(2) Make specific findings on the merits and specific recommendations with respect to whether the application should be approved or denied.

(3) Make a specific finding as to whether the national defense would be facilitated by the granting of the application.

(4) Heads of Procuring Activities are authorized to require all applications to be forwarded and initial determinations denying applications to be made in the office of the Head of the Procuring Activity or in any lower echelon, including the Contracting Officer.

(e) Action by Heads of Procuring Activities: (1) Heads of Procuring Activities will take appropriate action as required by § 606.408–2 (d).

(2) Heads of Procuring Activities are authorized to deny applications without further reference to the Army Contract Adjustment Board. Appropriate written findings and determinations will be made and furnished to applicants by such agencies as may be designated by the Head of the Procuring Activity for that purpose, including the Contracting Officer.

(3) If in the opinion of the Head of Procuring Activity, after consideration of the provisions of §§ 606.404 and 606.408–1 and subject to the limitation contained in § 606.408–1 (d), that the application should be granted, written findings of fact will be prepared and furnished to the Contracting Officer together with proper instructions relative to amendment or termination of the contract.

(4) In cases involving an increase in price in excess of $50,000, if in the opinion of the Head of the Procuring Activity, the application should be granted, an indorsement in duplicate, inclosing two copies of the Contractor's application and all indorsements and findings, shall be forwarded direct to the Army Contract Adjustment Board, Office of the Under Secretary of the Army, Washington 25, D. C., recommending approval to the extent noted in such indorsement.

(f) Action in cases of general public interest or doubt:

(1) In any case where any of the officers above-mentioned is of the opinion that the application should not be granted in whole or in part, but when in their judgment there is a serious doubt as to whether the relief should be granted or denied, or when the matter is believed to be of such general public interest that the initial determination denying the application should be made by a higher echelon, such officer may forward such application to the next higher echelon, including the Army Contract Adjustment Board with appropriate findings, recommendations, and determinations.

(2) Cases forwarded under the authority of this paragraph should explain fully the reason why it is believed that consideration should be given to the application by the higher echelon.

§ 606.408–3 Forms—(a) Contractor's application.

(1) Application shall be made on a form substantially similar to that set forth in § 606.406–3 (a), except that:

(i) Subject will be referred to as follows:

Subject: Request for Correction of Mistakes Under Title II, First War Powers Act, 1941; as Amended.

(ii) Heads of procuring Activities may authorize omission of replies to items 3*j* and 3*p* of the form.

(2) The applicant will submit satisfactory evidence of the alleged mistake, including, but not limited to, original work sheets.

(b) Denial of application. Form set forth in § 606.406–3 (b) may be adapted.

(c) Contracting officer's indorsement recommending approval of application. Form suggested in § 606.406–3 (c) may be used and/or adapted.

§ 606.409 Formalization of informal commitments.

§ 606.409–1 Conditions under which relief may be granted. (a) Where any person has arranged to furnish or has furnished, on or after June 25, 1950, to a contracting agency of the Department of the Army or (at the request of such agency) to a defense Contractor any materials, services, or facilities relating to the national defense, without a formal contract, relying in good faith upon the apparent authority of an officer or agent of such contracting agency, written or oral instructions, or any other request to proceed from a contracting agency, such contracting agency may enter into an appropriate contract providing fair compensation therefor. The formalization of informal commitments may be finally approved at the level of the Head of a Procuring Activity when the amount involved does not exceed $50,000. Where the amount involved exceeds $50,000, the case will be processed to the Army Contract Adjustment Board in accordance with § 606.409–2 (d) and procedures issued by the Board.

(b) The above authority shall not be used (1) as a substitute for modification of existing contracts in accordance with existing regulations or (2) for the purpose of eliminating competition. Where the instruction or request to proceed were of the type which, when given, could properly have been embodied in a change order, supplemental agreement, or other amendment under a then existing contract, this authority will not be exercised if final payment has been made under such contract.

(c) Informal commitments shall be made only in situations where the need therefor is compelling and of unusual urgency, as when the national defense would be seriously impaired or impeded, if the supplies or services were not furnished before the contracting agency has an opportunity to prepare the necessary contractual forms. See also § 592.409 (c) of this subchapter. The following are illustrative of circumstances with respect to which this authority may be used:

(1) Supplies or services needed at once because of a fire, flood, explosion or other disaster.

(2) Essential equipment for or repair to a ship when such equipment or repair is needed at once for compliance with the orders of the ship.

(3) Essential equipment for, or repair to, aircraft grounded or about to be grounded, when such equipment or repair is needed at once for the performance of an operational mission.

(4) Suplies or services needed at once because of requirements of operational missions or emergencies, and so certified in advance by the Head of a Procuring Activity.

(d) Resultant contracts formalizing informal commitments shall contain a finding of fact justifying the informal commitment as well as the action of formalization.

(e) Compensation shall be awarded or recommended in an amount which provides fair compensation for the services or supplies furnished. Fair compensation normally will be the reasonable market value of the supplies or services furnished at the time and place furnished, including such considerations as extra cost involved in immediate compliance with informal commitment or necessary performance and delivery during other than normal business hours.

§ 606.409–2 Administrative procedure—(a) Contractor's application. Written requests for formalization of informal commitments shall be filed by Contractors with the purchasing office which entered into the commitment, in quadruplicate, within 10 days after completion of performance of the informal commitment. The request shall be substantially in the form set forth in § 606.409–3 (a).

(b) Action by Contracting Officer. (1) The Contracting Officer will review the application and verify the contents thereof.

(2) If further information is required, request the Contractor to furnish the same in writing.

(3) If in the opinion of the Contracting Officer (i) an informal commitment was not entered into, or (ii) such informal commitment was made by an unauthorized person, or (iii) the Contractor should not as a reasonably intelligent businessman have relied upon the apparent authority of a person who ordered the supplies, services, or construction, a written finding will be furnished to the Contractor to that effect, setting forth appropriate findings of fact, providing such action is authorized by Procuring Activity instructions.

(4) If in the opinion of the Contracting Officer, after consideration of the provisions of §§ 606.404 and 606.409–1, the application should be granted, an indorsement in triplicate, inclosing three copies of the Contractor's application, shall be forwarded to the Head of the Procuring Activity, in accordance with instructions issued by such Head of Procuring Activity, setting forth as a minimum, the following information (see suggested form in § 606.409–3 (b).

(vi) Whether appropriated funds are sufficient to cover the proposed payment to the Contractor.

(vii) Whether appropriated funds allocated to other Departments are involved; if such funds are involved, name the Department.

(viii) A statement of the reasons why an informal commitment was necessary, and why an authorized form of contract could not have been prepared and processed before the supplies or services involved were furnished to the Government.

(ix) That the informal commitment was entered into by an authorized individual, and, if prior approval was required that such prior approval was obtained from the proper authority.

(x) That the fair compensation for the supplies or services furnished or construction performed is as stated. Justification shall be set forth as to amount by reference to the reasonable market price or other reasonable price at the time and place of delivery or performance.

(xi) A specific recommendation as to the proposed contract or purchase order or modification of a then existing contract to be issued, including unit price (where applicable) and total contract amount. The proposed contract or modification should be annexed.

(5) The Contracting Officer's indorsement will be forwarded through such channels and be reviewed and approved by such intermediate offices and commands as may be required by Procuring Activity instructions.

(3) If in the opinion of the Head of the Procuring Activity, after consideration of the provisions of §§ 606.404 and 606.409–1 and subject to the limitation contained in § 606.409–1, the application should be granted, written findings of fact will be prepared and furnished to the Contracting Officer together with proper instructions as to the form of and required clauses to be inserted in resultant contracts.

(4) In cases involving contracts exceeding $50,000 in amount, if in the opinion of the Head of the Procuring Activity, the application should be granted, an indorsement in duplicate, inclosing two copies of the Contractor's application and all indorsements and findings, shall be forwarded direct to the Army Contract Adjustment Board, Office of the Under Secretary of the Army, Washington 25, D. C., recommending approval to the extent noted in such indorsement.

(e) Action in cases of general public interest or doubt. (1) In any case where any of the officers above-mentioned is of the opinion that the application should not be granted in whole or in part, but when in their judgment there is a serious doubt as to whether the relief should be granted or denied, or when the matter is believed to be of such general public interest that the initial determination denying the application should be made by a higher echelon, such officer may forward such application to the next higher echelon, including the Army Contract Adjustment Board with appropriate findings, recommendations and determinations.

(2) Cases forwarded under the authority of this paragraph should explain fully the reason why it is believed that consideration should be given to the application by the higher echelon.

§ 606.419 Regulations issued or approved by Department of Defense.

§ 606.419–1 Regulations dated 21 February 1951, as amended 1 January 1954.

REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE EXERCISE OF CERTAIN AUTHORITY GRANTED BY TITLE II OF THE FIRST WAR POWERS ACT, AS AMENDED, AND EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 10210, ISSUED THEREUNDER

PART I—GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS

(1) By Title II of the First War Powers Act, 1941, 50 U. S. Code App. Sec. 611, as amended by Public Law 921, 81st Congress (herein referred to as the "Act") and Executive Order No. 10210, dated February 2, 1951, set forth respectively in inclosures (1) and (2) hereto, the Secretaries of Defense, Army, Navy and Air Force have authority, under such regulations as may be prescribed or approved by the Secretary of Defense, to enter into contracts and into amendments or modifications of contracts, heretofore or hereafter made, and to make advance, progress, and other payments thereon, without regard to the provisions of law relating to the making, performance, amendment, or modification of contracts.

(2) These regulations set forth the standards governing the exercise of certain of the authority made available by said Act and Executive Order. These regulations do not purport to cover all the authority conferred by the Act and Executive Order, but are confined to (a) amendments of contracts without consideration, (b) correction of mistakes in contracts, and (c) formalization of informal commitments. The exercise of other authority conferred by the Act and Executive Order will await the issuance of supplemental regulations.

(3) The authority granted by the Act and the Executive Order as described herein is an extraordinary one and its exercise must be carefully administered. Carelessness and laxity on the part of contractors should not be encouraged by the practice of granting relief to such contractors even though denial of relief in a particular case may result in some lack of cooperation on the part of a contractor.

PART II—STANDARDS GOVERNING EXERCISE OF AUTHORITY

(1) Any action taken under this Part II must be based on a finding that the national defense will be facilitated thereby.

(2) The determination of whether in a particular case a contract amendment to be entered into without consideration, or the correction of a mistake or ambiguity in a contract, or the formalization of an informal commitment will facilitate the national defense is a matter of sound judgment to be made on the basis of all of the facts of such case. Although it is obviously impossible to predict or enumerate all the types of cases with respect to which relief may appropriately be granted, examples of certain cases or types of cases where relief may be proper are set forth below. Such enumeration is not intended to exclude other cases where the circumstances are such as to warrant the granting of relief, and even in the enumerated cases other factors may result in a denial of relief.

(a) Amendments without consideration.

(1) Where an actual or threatened loss on a defense contract, however caused, will impair the productive ability of a contractor whose continued operation as a source of supply is found to be essential to the national defense, the contract will generally be equitably adjusted to the extent necessary to avoid such impairment of the contractor's productive ability.

(2) Where a contractor suffers a loss (not merely diminution of anticipated profits) on a defense contract as a result of Government action, the character of the Government action will generally determine whether any adjustment in the contract will be made and its extent.

(a) Where the Government action is directed primarily at the contractor and is taken by the Government in its capacity as the other contracting party, the contract may be equitably adjusted if fairness so requires. Thus, where such Government action, although not creating any liability on its part, increases the cost of performance, considerations of fairness may make appropriate some equitable adjustment in the contract.

(b) When the action is not taken by the Government in its capacity as the other contracting party, but in its sovereign capacity, relief will generally not be granted. However, exceptional cases, depending on the nature of the action, the circumstances, and the effect on the contractor, may require an equitable adjustment in the contract when necessary to insure maximum cooperation and production in the national defense effort.

(b) Correction of mistakes.

(1) Effecting amendments of contracts with the least possible delay to correct mutual mistakes and ambiguities will facilitate the national defense by expediting the procurement program and by giving contractors proper assurance that such mistakes and ambiguities, unavoidable in an expanded defense program, will be corrected expeditiously and fairly. As used herein the term "mutual mistakes" shall include—

(a) A mistake which consists of the failure to express in a written contract the agreement as both parties understood it;

(b) A mistake on the part of the contractor which is so obvious that it was or should have been apparent to the contracting officer; and

(c) A mutual mistake as to a material fact.

(c) Formalization of commitments.

(1) Where any person has arranged to furnish or has furnished, on or after June 25, 1950, to a contracting agency of the Department of Defense or to a defense contractor any materials, services or facilities relating to the national defense, without a formal contract, relying in good faith upon the apparent authority of an officer or agent of such contracting agency, written or oral instructions, or any other request to proceed from a contracting agency, such contracting agency may enter into an appropriate contract providing fair compensation therefor. Formalization of such commitments under such circumstances will facilitate the national defense by assuring contractors, who have taken action to expedite performance or delivery without a formal contract, that they will be treated fairly and paid expeditiously.

PART III—CONTRACTUAL PROVISIONS AND RECORD REQUIREMENTS

(1) All contracts and amendments to contracts made under the authority of the foregoing regulations shall—

(i) Make reference to the Act and the Executive Order;

(ii) Contain a statement of the fact and circumstances which justify action;

(iii) Include a finding that the national defense is facilitated thereby; and

(iv) Include the following clause:

"Examination of Records.

"(a) The Contractor agrees that the Comptroller General of the United States or any of his duly authorized representatives shall, until the expiration of three years after final payment under this contract, have access to and the right to examine any directly pertinent books, documents, papers and records of the Contractor involving transactions related to this contract.

"(b) The Contractor further agrees to include in all his subcontracts hereunder which may hereafter be made, a provision to the effect that the subcontractor agrees that the Comptroller General of the United States or any of his duly authorized representatives shall, until the expiration of three years after final payment under the subcontract, have access to and the right to examine any directly pertinent books, documents, papers and records of such subcontractor involving transactions related to the subcontract. The term 'subcontract' as used in this clause excludes (i) purchase orders not exceeding $1,000 and (ii) subcontractor purchase orders for public utility services at rates established for uniform applicability to the general public."

(2) Complete data shall be maintained by each Department as to all contracts and amendments to contracts made pursuant to the Act, Executive Order, and this subchapter.

PART IV—EXERCISE OF AUTHORITY

(1) (a) The authority to approve any contractual amendment without consideration which increases the stated contract price or unit price may not be delegated below the level of a contract adjustment board established in each department, except in extraordinary cases or classes of cases as to which the Under or Assistant Secretary for Procurement of the department involved finds that there are special circumstances clearly justifying delegation to a lower level. Any such delegation, including the finding relating thereto, shall be reported promptly to the Secretary of Defense.

(b) The authority to approve all other types of contractual amendments without consideration may be delegated in whole or in part to such lower levels as the Under or Assistant Secretary for Procurement shall deem appropriate without the necessity for the finding required of him in the case of the contractual amendments referred to in subparagraph (1) (i) of this paragraph.

(c) Any delegation of authority with respect to contractual amendments without consideration may include the power of final determination.

(2) The authority to approve requests for correction of mistakes and ambiguities in contracts and for formalization of informal commitments, as referred to in paragraph B of this section will not be delegated below the level of the Head of a Procuring Activity, as defined in § 400.201–4 of this title without specific approval of the Under or Assistant Secretary for Procurement.

(3) The exercise of authority under this section will be in accordance with detailed instructions or directives, which shall be uniform to the extent practicable, issued by each department concerned.

SUBPART E—CONSTRUCTION

§ 606.501 New construction. The term "new construction" as used in this subchapter includes the advance, planning, preparation of plans, specifications and estimates, design, erection, budgeting and allocation of funds, issuance of directives and provisions of necessary labor, material, equipment, supplies and transportation necessary for initial erection or installation of any building structure, plant, ground facility, utility system, wharves, airfields, etc., or other real property for the Army built separately or apart from existing facilities.

§ 606.502 Responsibility. The Chief of Engineers is charged with the direction of all work pertaining to new construction for the Army Establishment except as otherwise directed. (b) Major commanders in United States Territories and possessions.

(c) Attachés.

(d) Chiefs of foreign missions (Army).

(e) Chiefs of Army sections of any joint military missions not operating under the jurisdiction of a major oversea command.

§ 606.504 Formal advertising Unless within the authorizations set forth in Part 402 of this title and Part 592 of this subchapter, or unless authorized by law, all construction contracts shall be entered into after formal advertising on a lump sum or unit price basis.

SUBPART F—REPURCHASE OF FORMER GOVERNMENT SURPLUS PROPERTY

§ 606.601 Authority. The authority to approve the repurchase of former Government surplus is delegated to the Heads of Procuring Activities, with power to redelegate, subject to the restrictions below.

(a) That monetary limitations on the authority to approve contracts involving the repurchase of former Government surplus property will not exceed the monetary limitations on authority to approve contracts for purchase of new material as prescribed in current regulations and directives.

(b) That adequate records be maintained on each transaction and that full justification be filed as a part of the permanent record of the particular contract in cases where former surplus is repurchased.

(c) That the former Government surplus must in all respects meet the conditions of the contract, price and all other factors considered.

(d) That the utmost prudence be exercised to insure that the Government will not be subjected to criticism and that in cases where the office making the award feels that criticism may result, that the proposed award with all supporting information regarding the procurement and the necessity for repurchasing surplus be forwarded through channels for approval. Any office in the chain of command has the authority to grant such approval.

SUBPART H—PROCEDURES TO INTEGRATE CURRENT PROCUREMENT WITH THE PRODUCTION ALLOCATION PROGRAM

§ 606.801 Statement of policy. The following procedures are established to integrate current procurement with the Production Allocation Program. They are applicable to all contracts for equipment and supplies in excess of $100,000. As used in these procedures, a producer becomes a "planned producer," and capacity becomes "allocated" when management has accepted a "Tentative Schedule of Production"—MB Form 103 or DD Form 405 or 406 (see Step 11, page 31 of the Production Allocation Manual).

§ 606.802 Procurement by negotiation. (a) When it has been determined that procurement shall be by negotiation under any of the applicable Sections of the Armed Services Procurement Act of 1947 (Public Law 413, 80th Congress), the Contracting Officer shall solicit quotations in accordance with Part 402 of this title. He will insure that planned producers of the item are appropriately included. The quotations shall be evaluated on the basis of normal business considerations, giving proper weight to such factors as price, quality, delivery, etc., as prescribed in subchapter A, chapter IV, of this title. The extent to which production allocation planning has progressed and the investment by the Government and the firm in such planning, will be factors for consideration.

(b) Subject to paragraph (a) of this section, the Departments will endeavor to place contracts without requiring the use of capacity planned for use by another Military Department and accepted by management. No Military Department shall place a negotiated contract, having deliveries scheduled for a period in excess of 6 months after date of award of the contract, in capacity allocated to another Military Department without prior approval of the Department to which the capacity has been allocated. If conflicts arise which can not be settled by mutual agreement, they will be presented to the Department of Defense for resolution.

§ 606.803 Procurement by formal advertising. When procurement of any item is to be by formal advertising, the contract may be placed without regard to schedules developed under the Production Allocation Program. However, inclusion of planned firms in bidders' lists is mandatory for planned items.

§ 606.804 Contracts in production planned facilities. When any contract, regardless of duration, is placed in a facility for which production planning has been initiated, the ASPPO will be informed and will, in turn keep all affected claimant agencies informed so that they may take, or in the event of an M-Day be prepared to take, appropriate action. He will also notify them when, in his opinion, current procurement is of such nature or volume as to require a revision of production schedules.

§ 606.805 Requests for production allocations. For important military type items, the departments will request a production allocation or will initiate a revision to an existing allocation, as appropriate, in the following circumstances:

(a) When contracts are placed with facilities not included in the Production Allocation Program.

(b) When contracts are placed with facilities previously scheduled for other items.

(c) Where contracts are placed with a scheduled facility but the rate of production substantially exceeds the planned rate of production.

SUBPART I—PROCUREMENT OF ITEMS CONTAINING COTTON OR WOOL

§ 606.901 Purpose. The purpose of this subpart is to provide Procurement Officers with uniform policies and procedures for use in the procurement of items containing cotton or wool in compliance with the provisions of Section 644, Public Law 179, 83d Congress, Department of Defense Appropriation Act, or an equivalent succeeding statutory requirement.

§ 606.902 General provisions. The provisions of this subpart will be complied with by all Procuring Activities in the continental United States and oversea commands when procuring items containing cotton or wool where such procurement involves the expenditure of appropriated funds or the use of foreign credits (including currencies) as provided in Section 1313, Supplemental Appropriation Act of 1954 (P. L. 207, 83d Cong.; D. A. Bul. 14, 1953).

(a) Small purchases in amounts not exceeding $5,000 shall, for the purposes of this subpart, mean a procurement action involving a total dollar amount not in excess of $5,000, as distinguished from a single line item.

(b) Attention is directed to the exception of certain procurements from the statutory requirement, particularly the exception based on nonavailability. Caution shall be exercised in the use of exception for nonavailability. The Quartermaster General will, upon receipt of information as to items, quantities, and delivery time required, advise Procuring Activities as to whether quartermaster type supplies can be furnished from domestic (ConUS) sources as and when needed. Where a statement of nonavailability is made by The Quartermaster General on the basis of inability to meet a needed or specified delivery schedule or date, any determination of emergency resulting therefrom shall clearly state that the need for the supply is compelling and of unusual urgency, and that a delay until available from domestic (ConUS) sources would not be in the public interest. In the making of local procurements attention is directed also to AR 715–8. (Local Procurement of items available from civilian economy.)

(c) To the extent that application of the formulae referred to in this subpart may result in awards of contracts to producers using any percentage of foreign cotton or wool, the provisions of this subpart shall be considered a determination that a satisfactory quality and sufficient quantity of any article of clothing or any form of cotton or wool grown, reprocessed, reused, or produced in the United States or its possessions cannot be procured as and when needed at United States market prices.

(d) With regard to loan support prices referred to in §§ 606.906 and 606.907, the formula for wool procurement is based on such prices established annually for domestic wool by the Department of Agriculture. Since annual changes may be made in the loan support prices, interested Procuring Activities shall arrange with the Department of Agriculture to obtain the latest loan support prices for use in bid evaluation.

(e) Any questions concerning the interpretation of this subpart will be referred through channels to the Assistant Chief of Staff, G–4, Department of the Army, Washington 25, D. C., Attn.: Chief, Purchases Branch, to reach that office in quadruplicate.

§ 606.903 Applicability. The procedures outlined in this subpart shall be applicable to all purchases of products containing cotton or wool and involving the expenditure of funds appropriated by the above act except the following:

(a) Procurements by vessels in foreign waters, procurements outside the United States in support of combat operations, emergency procurements and procurements authorized under a determination by the Under Secretary of the Army as to unavailability of domestic cotton or wool as authorized by the act cited above.

(b) Small purchases in amounts not exceeding $5,000.

(c) Contracts for items of which the value of the cotton or wool component is estimated to be 10 percent or less of the total value or price of the item, where the estimated value of such cotton or wool component does not exceed $10,000 or 3 percent of the item value, whichever is higher.

§ 606.904 Procurement of items containing upland cotton. (a) Invitations for bids or requests for proposals for items containing cotton, other than long or extra long staple, in significant amount shall contain the following provision:

Domestic food, clothing, cotton or wool. The Contractor agrees that there will be delivered under this contract only such articles of food, clothing, cotton or wool (whether in the form of fiber or yarn or contained in fabrics, materials or manufactured articles) as have been grown, reprocessed, reused, or produced in the United States or its possessions.

(b) Award will be made to that responsible bidder or prospective supplier who warrants compliance with the above provision, and who would otherwise receive an award under the provision of Parts 401 and 402 of this title.

§ 606.905 Procurement of items containing significant amounts of cotton of long or extra long staple, other than upland. (a) Invitations for bids or requests for proposals for items containing significant amounts of cotton of long or extra long staple (other than the upland type mentioned in § 606.904) will be solicited on the following bases:

(1) Manufactured from 100 percent domestic cotton.

(2) Manufactured from 100 percent foreign cotton.

(3) Manufactured from the blending of (__ percent) domestic cotton and (__ percent) foreign cotton.

(b) For the purpose of the evaluation of bids or proposals submitted on the above bases and in order to give preference to the use of domestic cotton, an amount computed in accordance with the following formula will be added to each bid or proposal with any percentage of foreign cotton:

Differential per item: $A \times .1 \times B \times C$.

where:

A is the percent of foreign cotton content per item (expressed as a decimal figure not greater than 1.00).

B is the weight (pound or fraction thereof) of cotton content.

C is the estimated price of foreign cotton of the specified grade, staple, and growth landed in the United States (1) on the day of the bid opening in the case of formally advertised procurements and (2) on the date of final evaluation of the proposals, in the case of negotiated procurements.

(c) In the event of tie bids or proposals after applying the appropriate differential prescribed in paragraph (b) of this section, award will be made to that qualified bidder or prospective supplier who will use the highest percentage of domestic cotton.

§ 606.906 Procurement of items containing wool. (a) Invitations for bids or requests for proposals for items in which virgin wool is a component part will be solicited on an alternative basis:

(1) Manufactured from domestic wool.

(2) Manufactured from foreign wool.

(3) Manufactured from the blending of domestic wool (__ percent) and foreign wool (__ percent).

(b) Each invitation for bids or request for proposals will contain the following stipulations:

(1) It is the policy of the Congress as expressed in Section 644, Public Law 179, 83d Congress, Department of Defense Appropriation Act (with such change in statutory reference as may be appropriate), to accord preference for the use of domestic grown wool in the procurement program of the Department of Defense to the extent that such articles containing wool can be procured as and when needed at "United States Market prices."

(2) As a consequence of the policy in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, the factor of the content of domestic and foreign wool will be considered in the award of the contract, in addition to the otherwise existing factors.

(3) In the event that on the date of bid opening or evaluation of proposals, the average market price of domestic wool of the usable grades (as reported in the four issues of the Department of Agriculture "Market News" immediately preceding the date of bid opening or evaluation of proposals) is not more than 10 percent above the applicable loan support prices, award will be made for production using 100 percent domestic wool, provided that bids or proposals using 100 percent domestic wool are considered otherwise acceptable.

(4) In the event that on the date of bid opening or evaluation of proposals the average market price of domestic wool of the usable grades (as reported in the four issues of the Department of Agriculture "Market News" immediately preceding the date of bid opening or evaluation of proposals) is greater than the loan support price plus 10 percent; or in the event that adequate coverage of requirements has not been achieved by making awards to bidders or prospective suppliers using 100 percent domestic wool under subparagraph (3) of this paragraph, either by reason of unreasonableness of bid or proposal prices or otherwise, then bids or proposals submitted in response to this invitation or request offering 100 percent domestic wools will be considered for award provided such bids or proposals do not exceed those which offer 100 percent foreign wool by more than ____ per yard (or per item). Bids or proposals using blends of domestic and foreign wools shall also be evaluated in competition with those using 100 percent domestic or 100 percent foreign wools. The differential for consideration of bids or proposals using blends in relation to those offering 100 percent foreign wools shall be in proportion to the percentage of the foreign wools to be used.

(5) Although bids or proposals based on the use of foreign wool will be considered and evaluated as set forth in subparagraph (4) of this paragraph, all stages of manufacturing of the foreign wool must be performed in the United States or its possessions, in conformity with the provisions entitled "Domestic Food or Clothing, Cotton or Wool" (subparagraph (6) of this paragraph).

(6) In the event and to the extent that the award of a contract contemplates the use of American wool in the manufacture of the items called for in this subpart, the Contractor warrants that he will comply with the following provision:

Domestic food, clothing, cotton or wool. The Contractor agrees that there will be delivered under this contract only such articles of food, clothing, cotton, or wool (whether in the form of fiber or yarn or contained in fabrics, materials, or manufactured articles) as have been grown, reprocessed, reused, or produced in the United States or its possessions.

(7) In the case of items made wholly or partially of wool noils, reprocessed or reused wool, the following explanatory note will be added to subparagraph (6) of this paragraph:

NOTE: If the Contractor uses wool noils, reprocessed or reused wool in compliance with the specifications in production of the items upon which bids or proposals are submitted, the above agreement will be satisfied as to such wool noils, reprocessed or reused wool if the reprocessing, i. e., garnetting or combing and manufacture is done in the United States or its possessions.

§ 606.906–1 Bid evaluation and award. (a) In the event that the Procurement Officer finds, in accordance with § 606.906 (b) (3), that the market price of domestic wool of the usable grades is not more than 10 percent above the applicable loan support prices, and that bids or proposals considered reasonable have been received for the advertised quantity using 100 percent domestic wools, the contract will be awarded for production using such domestic wools, and the differential computation prescribed in paragraphs (b), (c), and (d) of this section will be disregarded.

(b) Provision will be made for the application of a differential to bids or proposals based on all or part foreign wool for purposes of bid or proposal evaluation. The differential will be 10 percent of the average of the current loan value of representative types and grades of domestic wools. On the basis of military specification requirements domestic wools may be broken down into three broad categories as follows:

Grades 60s and finer

Category 1. Approximately 75 percent is Staple and Good French (worsted type).

Category 2. 25 percent is Short French Combing and Clothing (woolen type).

Grades 50s–60s

Category 3. Approximately 86 percent is Staple and Good French (worsted).

Category 4. Approximately 14 percent woolen type.

Grades below 50s

Category 5. All Staple and Good French.

For items the specifications for which require use of the above categories, the differential will be 10 percent of the average of the loan value established by the Department of Agriculture determined as follows:

Category 1. The average of the grades listed under classes A–2 and B–1 of Territory Original Bag Wools and A–2 and B–1 of Graded Fleece Wools.

Category 2. The average of the grades listed under classes A–4 and B–2 of Territory Original Bag Wools and A–3 and B–2 of Graded Fleece Wools.

Category 3. The average of the grades listed under classes C–1 and D–1 of Graded Territory and C–1 and D–1 of Graded Fleece Wools.

Category 4. The average of the grades listed under classes C–2 and D–2 of Graded Territory and C–2 and D–2 of Graded Fleece Wools.

Category 5. The average of the grades listed under classes E–1 and F–1 of Low Quarter Blood.

Examples of the determination of the differential for several military items are set forth below.

(c) In the event a bid or proposal using domestic wool is within the range of the differential above computed, award will be made by the Procurement Office to the extent of its otherwise existing authority.

(d) In the event of tie bids or proposals, after price adjustments and based on the use of domestic or foreign wool, award will be made to the bidder or prospective supplier utilizing domestic wool or the highest percentage of domestic wool.

(e) In the event the differential is not sufficient to provide coverage of the entire quantity required through awards to bidder(s) or prospective supplier(s) offering 100 percent domestic wool, a report will be submited through channels to the Department Procurement Secretary after awards. Upon receipt of such report the Secretary may then determine the adequacy of the differential for future purchases.

(c) "Contracting Agency" means that agency or department of the United States Government which authorizes payment by the United States for the unamortized cost of an Emergency Facility.

(d) "Payment" means an amount received by a contractor or subcontractor, directly or indirectly from the United States, as compensation for the unamortized cost of an Emergency Facility because (1) a contract with the United States or subcontracts thereunder involving the use of the Emergency Facility have been terminated by the terms thereof or by cancellation, or (2) the taxpayer had reasonable ground (either from provisions of a contract with the United States or subcontracts thereunder involving the use of the Emergency Facility, or from written or oral representations made under the authority of the United States) for anticipating future contracts involving the use of the facility, which future contracts have not been made.

(e) "Payment Certificate" means a certificate made pursuant to section 124A (g) of the Internal Revenue Code certifying that a payment made by the United States to a taxpayer is compensation for the unamortized cost of an Emergency Facility.

SEC. 2. Application for Payment Certificate. An application for a Payment Certificate shall conform with the standard form approved by the Certifying Authority and shall be executed in the manner and by the person prescribed by the form. Such form may be obtained from and filed with the Contracting Agency within such time as shall be prescribed.

SEC. 3. Responsibility of Certifying Authority. The Certifying Authority shall direct and control the activities of the Contracting Agency and other agencies under section 124A (g) of the Internal Revenue Code and this regulation. The Certifying Authority or his delegate shall make the findings provided for by sections 124A (g) (1) (A) or (B) and 124A (g) (2) of the Internal Revenue Code and by section 1 (d) of this regulation and shall certify to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue pursuant thereto. Such certification shall set forth the payment made for each separate Emergency Facility.

SEC. 4. Conclusiveness of Payment Certificate. A Payment Certificate shall be binding upon the Commissioner of Internal Revenue as to the fact of payment. The treatment of amounts received and the amount of the amortization or depreciation deduction allowable by reason of such amounts shall be governed by the applicable provisions of the Internal Revenue Code.

SEC. 5. Referral of application. The Certifying Authority or his delegate may request information relevant to the performance of his functions from all other agencies and departments of the United States.

SEC. 6. Amendment or cancellation. Any Payment Certificate may be amended or cancelled for fraud, misrepresentation, error or other sufficient cause.

SEC. 7. Delegation. The Certifying Authority under section 124A (g) of the Internal Revenue Code in carrying out his functions may provide, by redelegation or otherwise, for their performance, in whole or in part by the appropriate Contracting Agencies.

TITLE 33—NAVIGATION AND NAVIGABLE WATERS

Chapter I—Coast Guard, Department of the Treasury

Subchapter C—Aids to Navigation

[CGFR 54-27]

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS TO SUBCHAPTER

The purpose of the following amendments to the regulations is to:

(a) Elaborate upon existing requirements and to clarify ambiguities found to exist;

(b) Define with greater particularity the procedures to be followed;

(c) Announce the policy of the Coast Guard when handling claims arising in stated situations; and,

(d) Publish tables on costs and charges for the use of Coast Guard property, equipment, and personnel in stated situations. The schedules of rates for costs and charges covering the employment of vessels and materials used were originally estimated. Experience has shown that the presently published rates do not always reflect a fair and equitable basis to support charges for such work, and for settling claims arising from the performance of that work when performed by Coast Guard vessels and personnel. Since the Coast Guard performs this work as an incident to the performance of other statutory operations, it is administratively impossible to determine, in advance, with definite exactness the costs to repair or replace each particular aid to navigation which may be damaged or destroyed.

The statutory requirement in section 642 of Title 14, United States Code, contemplates collection of the costs of replacement of damaged or destroyed aids to navigation in a manner that would not be a greater expense than would be applicable to other property of the Government damaged by tortious acts. Since the functions of the Coast Guard are more than just the establishment, maintenance and repair of aids to navigation it is not possible to compare these schedules with those in private industry performing such work. The schedules of rates for costs and charges herein are based on the average costs and charges taken from available Coast Guard records. In recalculating these schedules of rates and costs, some variation from earlier schedules will be noted. Because of the urgency of fairly and equitably settling current claims arising in the performance of such work, as well as anticipated claims, and in view of other considerations given above, it is hereby found that compliance with the notice of proposed rule making, the public rule making procedure thereon, and effective date requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act is impracticable and contrary to the public interest. By virtue of the authority vested in me as Commandant, United States Coast Guard, by Treasury Department Order No. 167-3 (18 F. R. 2962) to promulgate regulations in accordance with the statutes cited in the regulations below, the following amendments to the regulations are prescribed which shall become effective upon the date of publication of this document in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

PART 62—UNITED STATES AIDS TO NAVIGATION

SUBPART 62.10—RECOMMENDATIONS AND REQUESTS

Section 62.10-5 (c) is amended to read as follows:

§ 62.10-5 Armed forces. • • •

(c) Requests and recommendations should be made as far in advance as possible of the time of actual need in order that the funds required may be considered in preparing Coast Guard budget estimates. When such requests and recommendations require work not normally covered by or specifically included in the Coast Guard appropriations, such work will be undertaken on a reimbursable or advance of funds basis. Reimbursements or advances in connection therewith will be arrived at by the determinations made by the Coast Guard District Commander and approved by the Commandant, United States Coast Guard. In minor cases, such as the temporary placement of an aid, charges will be made in accordance with Part 74 of this subchapter when such work is clearly apart from routine operation. Charges are not made by the Coast Guard for the servicing and maintenance of aids to navigation established for the Armed forces except for cost of original establishment as set forth above.

(63 Stat. 503, as amended; 14 U. S. C. 92. Interpret or apply 63 Stat. 500, 501, 504 as amended; 14 U. S. C. 81, 87, 93)

PART 70—INTERFERENCE WITH OR DAMAGE TO AIDS TO NAVIGATION

SUBPART 70.05—COLLISION WITH OR DAMAGE TO AIDS TO NAVIGATION

Section 70.05-30 to 70.05-50, inclusive, are cancelled and the following inserted in lieu thereof:

Sec.
70.05-30 Claim for damage or destruction.
70.05-32 Restoration by responsible interests.
70.05-35 Computation of repair costs.
70.05-40 Computation of replacement costs.
70.05-45 Incidental expenses.
70.05-50 Table of charges.
70.05-55 Other tender work.

AUTHORITY: §§ 70.05-30 to 70.05-55 issued under 63 Stat. 503, as amended; 14 U. S. C. 92. Interpret or apply 30 Stat. 1152, 1153; 33 U. S. C. 408, 411, 412.

§ 70.05-30 Claim for damage or destruction. (a) When an aid to navigation, fixed or floating, is damaged and can be repaired, or is damaged to the extent that the cost of repair will exceed its value (and thereby it has become a constructive total loss), or is totally destroyed, claim shall be promptly made upon the party responsible for the damage or destruction for the full cost to the Government to make repairs to the aid, or for the cost to make replacement with an identical aid or replacement with a substitute aid acceptable to the Coast Guard, and for all other costs to the Government incident to and directly caused by reason of the damage or destruction. See §§ 70.05-45 and 70.05-50. Claim for cost of replacement with an identical or substitute aid (as prescribed in this paragraph) shall be made whether or not the aid is actually replaced, and whether or not the new aid is established at the same or different location as that of the aid being replaced.

(b) Because of advancement in engineering practices, and fluctuation of capital plant values and maintenance expenses, it is impracticable to announce an inflexible standard applicable to all situations involving repair or replacement of aids to navigation. The policy of the Coast Guard respecting such claims is that it looks to the responsible interests to reimburse the government for all expenses which flow from, or are chargeable to, repair or replacement of aids. The Coast Guard does not wish to derive any pecuniary profit from these incidents; nor does it intend to assume any financial losses therefrom.

§ 70.05-32 Restoration by responsible interests. The repair or replacement with an identical, or substitute aid (as prescribed in § 70.05-30) may be accomplished by the responsible interests, or by contractors employed for that purpose provided any normal delay incident thereto is acceptable to the Coast Guard.

§ 70.05-35 Computation of repair costs. The cost to make repairs shall be the cost of restoring the damaged aid to operating condition acceptable to the Coast Guard. This shall include the cost of all labor, material, and overhead involved whether furnished by private contract or by the government. Incidental expenses described in § 70.05-45 shall also be added and made a part of the claim.

§ 70.05-40 Computation of replacement costs. The cost to make replacement shall be actual, present day cost to reproduce an identical aid or an aid having similar general characteristics and permanence satisfactory to the Coast Guard. Incidental expense described in § 70.05-45 shall also be included as a part of the claim.

§ 70.05-45 Incidental expenses. (a) The expenses referred to in this section are in addition to those set forth in §§ 70.05-35 and 70.05-40, and shall be included as a part of the total claim against the responsible party.

(b) Expenses incident to and directly caused by reason of the damage or destruction of an aid to navigation shall include costs of the following items, whichever are applicable:

(1) Cost of placing a replacement aid in operation on station, whether as a permanent substitute or to serve as a temporary or auxiliary aid for that which was damaged or destroyed. Such cost shall be determined in accordance with § 70.05-50;

(2) Cost of removing a replacement aid which was placed in operation on station to serve as a temporary or auxiliary aid for that which was damaged or destroyed. Such cost shall be determined in accordance with § 70.05-50;

(3) Cost of searching for, recovering and removing or attempting to recover and remove the damaged or destroyed aid or any of its component parts which may require recovery or removal. Such costs shall be determined in accordance with § 70.05-50;

(4) Cost of replacing all aids to navigation equipment and material lost or destroyed in the performance of work described in this section, or cost of the labor, materials and overhead incurred if such damaged equipment or material is repaired by the Coast Guard;

(5) Cost or value of time consumed by Government personnel (excluding ship's complement), including such services as inspections, supervision, etc., on projects where necessary to insure that the project is being completed in accordance with prepared plans and/or contract. These costs shall include:

(i) Actual travel expenses incurred and paid all personnel from public funds;

(ii) Actual payroll value of time of all personnel expended upon the project, including travel time during paid status.

(6) Cost or value of time consumed by Government vessel, including ship's complement, employed by reason of and directly attributed to the damage or destruction. In the performance of this work no charge shall be made for the time and expense of Coast Guard vessels, including ship's complement, when the aid can be or is repaired or restored on station by the vessel on routine schedule duty where only minimum interruption of that assignment occurs. If such vessel time is charged, it will be charged in accordance with the type of damaged aid which must be serviced as set forth in § 70.05-50.

§ 70.05-50 Table of charges. Charges for preparation of a replacement aid, and charges for vessel time as indicated in § 70.05-45 shall be in accordance with the following table:

Table A—Standard Charges

Type of aid	Preparation of replacement aid	Vessel time per hour according to § 70.05–45

Chapter II—Corps of Engineers, Department of the Army

PART 207—NAVIGATION REGULATIONS

WILLAMETTE RIVER, OREGON

Pursuant to the provisions of section 7 of the River and Harbor Act of August 8, 1917 (40 Stat. 266; 33 U. S. C. 1), § 207.680 governing the use, administration, and navigation of the canal and locks at Willamette Falls, Oregon, is hereby revised to provide for signals for entering and leaving the canal and locks and to provide for the protection of lock structures and other minor changes, as follows:

§ 207.680 Willamette River, Oregon; use, administration, and navigation of canal and locks at Willamette Falls, Oregon—(a) Administration—(1) Administrative jurisdiction. The canal and locks and all appurtenances shall be in charge of the District Engineer, Portland District, Corps of Engineers, Department of the Army, 628 Pittock Block, Portland, Oregon. The representative of the District Engineer at the locality shall be the lock master, who shall receive his orders and instructions from the District Engineer. In case of emergency, however, the lock master shall have authority to take such steps as may be immediately necessary without waiting for instruction from the District Engineer.

(2) Operational jurisdiction. The lock master shall be charged with the immediate control and management of the canal and locks and the grounds and public property pertaining thereto. He shall see that all laws, rules and regulations, for the use of the canal and grounds are duly complied with, to which end he is authorized to give all necessary orders and directions in accordance therewith, both to employees of the Government and to any and every person within the limits of the canal and locks or grounds pertaining thereto, whether navigating the canal or not. In case of the absence or disability of the lock master, his duty shall be performed by an assistant or other employee to be designated by the District Engineer.

(b) Use and navigation—(1) Authority of lock master. The lock master or his assistants shall direct the movement, operation, and moorage of all vessels, boats, rafts, barges, or other floating things using the locks, while they are in the locks, the canal basin, or in either the upstream or downstream lock approaches. Crews of vessels, boats, rafts, barges, or other floating things seeking lockage shall render such assistance as the lock master or his assistants may require.

(2) Signals. All vessels desiring lockage shall signal the same by one long and one short blast of the whistle, delivered at a distance of approximately 1,000 feet from the locks. Requests for lockage may also be made by telephoning or otherwise notifying the lock master's office. Notice to vessels desiring lockage will be given by red and green traffic lights. Vessels may enter locks on green lights, but must await green signal when lights are red. Permission to leave the lock will be given in the same manner. In the event a failure occurs and the referenced lights cannot be operated, the lock master will indicate by voice or by hand or lantern signals when vessels may enter or leave the docks.

(3) Controlling dimensions. For lockage purposes the maximum length of space available is 175 feet and the maximum clear width available is 37 feet. All vessels, boats, rafts, barges, or other floating things of less size than the foregoing dimensions can pass through the locks. The controlling water depth over the intermediate miter sills throughout the locks is 6:5 feet. However, the depth on the sill of the upstream gate at low water is 7.5 feet and over the downstream sill is 8.4 feet. The elevation of the upstream sill is 43.7 feet and of the downstream sill is 6.4 feet, corresponding to the elevations shown on the gages provided at both the downstream and upstream approaches to the locks. All vessels, boats, rafts, barges, and other floating things of which the dimensions or draft are greater than will permit clearing any of the above indicated elevations shall be prohibited from entering the locks. All vessels, boats, rafts, barges or other floating things entering the locks in violation of the above shall be responsible for all resulting damages.

(4) Preference at locks. Ordinarily the vessel, boat, raft, barge, or other floating thing arriving first at the lock will be locked through first. In the event of a simultaneous approach from opposite directions ascending craft will ordinarily be locked through first. When several boats are to be passed through the locks, the order of precedence shall be as follows:

(i) To boats owned by the United States or employed upon river and harbor improvement work.

(ii) To passenger boats.

(iii) To freight and tow boats.

(iv) To rafts.

(v) To small vessels and pleasure craft.

The lock master shall have authority to digress from the above precedence in order to eliminate reversing the flow of traffic through the locks when both upbound and downbound lockages are in waiting.

(5) Entrance to locks. The lock master shall decide whether one or more vessels may be locked through at the same time. No one shall attempt to enter the locks with a vessel or attempt to cause a vessel to enter the locks until he is authorized by the lock master to do so. No one shall take a vessel, or cause a vessel to be taken, within the limits of 500 feet above the upper gate and 300 feet below the lower gate, except for the purpose of entering the locks; and not for this purpose until it has been indicated to him by a proper person by signal that the lock is ready to receive the vessel. All vessels within the foregoing limits must be operated under "slow bell" and be kept constantly under control.

(6) Lockage of small boats. Pleasure boats, skiffs, fishing boats, and other small craft may be passed through the locks singularly, in groups, or as part of a lockage of other than pleasure craft. A continual flow of traffic in one direction will not be interrupted or reversed to accommodate these small pleasure boats. However, any such small boat will be accommodated at such time as the lock master upon receipt of a request for lockage deems such action will not interfere with other traffic. The decision of the lock master shall be final as to whether craft requesting lockage is defined as a pleasure boat.

(7) Use of canal and locks. No person, unless authorized by the lock master or his assistants, shall open or close any bridge, lock gate, wicket gate, or operate any lock machinery, or in any way interfere with any mechanism or appliance connected with the operation of the locks, nor shall anyone interfere with the employees in the discharge of their duties. The lock master or his assistants may call for aid from the persons in charge of any craft, vessel, or raft using the lock, should such aid be necessary. Persons rendering such assistance shall be strictly under the orders of the lockmaster. The Government reserves the right to refuse lockage to any vessel, craft or raft when the persons in charge thereof refuse to give such assistance when it is requested. The persons in charge of vessels with tows or rafts, barges and other craft must provide sufficient personnel, lines and towing equipment of sufficient power to insure at all times full control of such tows, rafts, barges and other craft while moving into and through the locks, unless otherwise prearranged with the lock master. A copy of these regulations shall be kept at all times on board each vessel regularly engaged in navigating the locks. Copies may be obtained without charge from the lock master or from the District Engineer, Corps of Engineers, Department of the Army, 628 Pittock Block, Portland 5, Oregon.

(8) Petroleum vessels. All tankers, barges, and other floating equipment, used for transporting inflammable liquids, either with or without cargo, shall be equipped with fixed timber fenders and, if not so equipped, shall have aboard an adequate number of suitable fenders of timber, rubber, or rope which are to be placed between the vessel and unfendered lock structures. All such barges or other vessels navigating without power within the canal or locks must be assisted by one or more tugs of sufficient power to insure full control at all times whether passing upstream or downstream through the locks with or without cargo.

(9) Mooring in locks. All boats, barges, rafts, and other craft when in the locks shall be moored by head and spring lines and such other lines as may be necessary to the fastenings provided for that purpose; and the lines shall not be unloosed until the signal is given for the vessel to leave the lock.

(10) Mooring while waiting for lockage. The mooring of boats, tows or other craft in the approaches to the locks where such mooring will interfere with navigation or other vessels to or from the locks is prohibited.

(11) Delays. Boats, barges, rafts, or other craft must not obstruct navigation by unnecessary delay in entering or leaving the locks. Vessels failing to enter the locks with reasonable promptness, when signaled to do so, and vessels arriving at the locks with their tows in such shape so as to impede lockage shall forfeit their turn.

(12) Landing of freight. No freight or baggage shall be unloaded on or over the walls of the canal or locks. Freight and baggage consigned to the Willamette Falls locks shall be unloaded only at such places as may be provided for this purpose or as directed by the lock master.

(13) Refuse in canal or locks. No refuse or other material shall be thrown or dumped from vessels into the canal and locks, or deposited in the lock area, or placed on the berm of the canal so that it is liable to be thrown or washed into the waterway. Violations of this subparagraph shall be subject to sections 13 and 16 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899 (33 U. S. C. 407, 411).

(14) Damage to locks or other structures. The regulations contained in this section shall not affect the liability of the owners and operators of vessels for any damage caused by their operations to the locks or other structures. Persons in charge of vessels and log rafts passing through the locks must use great care to prevent the vessels or log rafts from striking any gate or appurtenance thereto. All boats or barges with metal nosings, or projecting irons, or rough surfaces, and log rafts with dragging cables that may damage any part of the lock structures will not be permitted to enter the locks unless said craft are provided with suitable protective buffers and fenders and log rafts are free of loose, dragging cables.

(c) Statistics. Masters or pursers of vessels shall, upon each passage through the locks or upon each passage to an intermediate point of terminus within the locks system, furnish the lock master with information concerning the number of passengers, the amount of freight, the net registered tonnage and such other statistics as may be required on the prescribed forms which shall be furnished by the lock master for this purpose. Failure to furnish such information shall be construed as sufficient cause to refuse the offending vessel passage through the locks.

(d) Trespass. No one shall trespass on the grounds or buildings, and everyone shall be deemed guilty of trespass within the meaning of this paragraph who shall willfully or carelessly damage or disfigure the canal and locks or any part thereof, or any building or appliance on the grounds, or who shall carry on business or trading of any sort, or shall build any fishing stand or lead, or set any fish net within the limits of the reservation, or do any act to or on the grounds or buildings which would be recognized by law as a trespass.

(e) Definitions. Except as otherwise provided in subparagraph (6) of paragraph (b) of this section, whenever such a word as "vessel", "boat", "barge", "raft", or the like is used in this section, it shall include all types of floating things which may be subject to lockage. Failure to refer specifically to a type of floating thing by its name shall not mean exclusion thereof from applicability of this section.

Appendix C—Public Land Orders

[Public Land Order 1001]

ALASKA

PARTIALLY REVOKING PUBLIC LAND ORDER NO. 103 OF MARCH 27, 1943

By virtue of the authority vested in the President and pursuant to Executive Order No. 10355 of May 26, 1952, it is ordered as follows:

Public Land Order No. 103 of March 27, 1943, (11 F. R. 8364) withdrawing an area of approximately 519,000 acres of public and non-public lands, including small islands and rocks, in Alaska for use of the War Department for military purposes, is hereby revoked, except so far as such order affects the following-described land:

A tract of land on the Alaska Peninsula lying between latitude 55° 06′ N. and Izembek Bay, an arm of Bering Sea; and between longitudes 162° 40' 30" W. and 162° 50' W., containing approximately 49,070 acres.

This order shall not otherwise become effective to change the status of the released lands until 10:00 a. m. on the 35th day after the signing of this order, at which time the lands shall, subject to valid existing rights and the provisions of existing withdrawals, be opened to settlement under the homestead laws and if non-mineral, to the homesite act of May 26, 1934 (48 Stat. 809; 48 U. S. C. 461), and to those forms of appropriation only by qualified veterans of World War II and the Korean conflict for whose service recognition is granted by the act of September 27, 1944 (58 Stat. 747; 43 U. S. C. 279–284), as amended, and by other qualified persons entitled to credit for service under the said act. Commencing at 10:00 a. m. on the 126th day after the date of this order, any of such land not settled upon by veterans or other persons entitled to credit for service shall become subject to settlement and other forms of appropriation by the public generally in accordance with appropriate laws and regulations.

Veteran's preference-right applications under the act of September 27, 1944 (58 Stat. 747; 43 U. S. C. 279–284) as amended, may be filed on or before 10:00 a. m., of the 35th day after the date of this order, and those covering the same land shall be treated as though simultaneously filed at that time. Applications filed under the act after that time and during the succeeding 91 days shall be considered in the order of filing. Applications by non-veterans under the public land laws, filed on or before 10:00 a. m., of the 126th day after the date of this order shall be treated as though simultaneously filed at that time, where the applications are for the same lands; otherwise, priority of filing shall govern.

Of the released lands, and area of 278,630 acres, more or less, is included in an application for withdrawal filed by the Fish and Wildlife Service. With respect to such lands, applications under the public-land laws will be suspended in accordance with 43 CFR 295.10 until final action on the application for withdrawal has been taken.

Applications for the lands, which shall be filed in the Land Office, Bureau of Land Management, Anchorage, Alaska, shall be acted upon in accordance with the regulations contained in § 295.8 of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations to the extent that such regulations are applicable. Applications under the homesite or homestead laws shall be governed by the regulations contained in Parts 64 to 66, inclusive, of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

Inquiries concerning the lands shall be addressed to the Manager, Land Office, Bureau of Land Management, Anchorage, Alaska.

TITLE 47—TELECOMMUNICATION

Chapter I—Federal Communications Commission

[Docket No. 10743; FCC 54-1107]

[Rules Amdt. 16-10]

PART 16—LAND TRANSPORTATION RADIO SERVICES

MOTOR CARRIER RADIO SERVICE

In the matter of amendment of Part 16, rules governing Land Transportation Radio Services, to establish a Motor Carrier Radio Service and to make other related changes; Docket No. 10743.

1. This proceeding was commenced on November 4, 1953, by a notice of proposed rule making (18 F. R. 7255). The Commission in this Notice proposed to amend Part 16 of its rules so as to create a Motor Carrier Radio Service which would replace the Highway Truck, Intercity Bus and Urban Transit Radio Services presently set up as three separate services. The proposal sought to satisfy a need of the trucking industry for intracity communication and generally to achieve greater frequency utilization, wider use of radio and simplification of administration by combining the three separate services into one.

2. Interested persons were allowed a two months period for filing comments. This period has now expired. Comments were filed by individual licensees, equipment manufacturers and trade associations. These comments are discussed below.

3. On the basis of the comments and the experience gained from administering the Highway Truck and the other services involved, we have concluded that the objectives which we have been seeking to acomplish will be best achieved by adopting, at this time, the proposed new Motor Carrier Radio Service in part. The new service, as made final herein, will replace the intercity Bus and Urban Transit Radio Services. With respect to the Highway Truck Radio Service, we are initiating further rule making which proposes to include it in the new Motor Carrier Radio Service with changes in the eligibility provisions and frequency allocation.

4. The proposed rules applicable to the use of radio by common and contract carriers of persons (formerly Intercity Bus and Urban Transit Radio Services) contemplated that the same frequencies would be available to both urban transit vehicles and intercity buses. The American Transit Association (ATA) and the National Bus Communications, Inc. (NBCI), objected to this aspect of the proposal. Their opposition may be briefly summarized as follows:

The sharing of frequencies between intercity and urban carriers is impracticable because the functions of the two services and their use of radio differ materially. The former uses radio primarily for communications with buses outside urban areas to insure the safe and efficient conduct of the carriers' highway operation. The latter uses it chiefly within a metropolitan area for communications between the terminals and supervisory and maintenance vehicles. The areas covered by the operations of intercity buses in most cases overlap those of urban transit. Because of this, both comments expressed fear that the proposed sharing of frequencies would lead to serious interference and degradation of service.

5. In the light of these comments we have revised the proposed allocation so as to provide two separate groups of frequencies available for exclusive assignment to urban transits and intercity carriers, respectively.

6. Specifically, we have allocated four frequencies in the 44.46 to 44.58 Mc band for use by urban transits. This number of exclusive frequencies in the 44 Mc band is sufficient to satisfy the requirements of these users.

7. With respect to the frequency requirements of intercity carriers, the National Bus Communications, Inc., requested that these carriers be allocated a minimum of ten frequencies in the 43.90 to 44.26 Mc band, where the present assignments in the Intercity Bus Radio Service are mainly concentrated.

8. As proposed in the notice, intercity and urban carriers would share the eleven frequencies between 44.18 Mc and 44.58 Mc. Since four of these frequencies (44.46 Mc to 44.58 Mc) are being exclusively allocated to urban carriers, we must look elsewhere for three frequencies if the request of the NBCI for ten frequencies is to be satisfied. It is desirable that these additional frequencies be adjacent to the others allocated to intercity carriers. We propose, therefore, to obtain these frequencies by shifting to intercity carriers three of the frequencies (44.06 Mc, 44.10 Mc and 44.14 Mc) proposed in the Notice for use by trucks.[1] Although the NBCI appears to have justified the intercity carriers' need for approximately ten exclusive frequencies in the 44 Mc band, we believe that in the forthcoming further rule making proceeding in this docket,[2] the trucking industry should have an additional opportunity to compete with the buses for the allocation of these frequencies. Accordingly, the ten frequencies between 44.06 Mc and 44.42 Mc are being allocated for use by intercity passenger carriers with a proviso that the frequencies 44.06, 44.10 and 44.14 Mc remain subject to the outcome of the further rule making proceeding hereby instituted and shall not be assigned to any applicant until the conclusion of that proceeding.

9. Those licensees who as a result of the reallocation of frequencies ordered herein will have to shift from one frequency to another are given until 60 days prior to the expiration of their license to accomplish this change. In view of the comparatively small cost involved in such a shift we do not feel that a longer amortization period is indicated. It should be noted that in Dockets 9703 and 10742 we proposed to grant a five year amortization period only to those licensees who would become altogether ineligible under the new Special Industrial rules.

10. We have been requested to provide a pair of frequencies in the 450–460 Mc band for the operational fixed requirements of intercity passenger carriers. This request raises a broad question concerning the utilization of the 450–460 Mc band for fixed operations in the land transportation services. It will be noted that fixed operations have been accommodated in this band on a secondary basis in the industrial services but not in the land transportation services. The question of the desirability of the latter use is beyond the scope of this proceeding. We feel, therefore, that it would be premature now to allocate any frequencies in this band for operational fixed use by intercity passenger carriers.

11. Comments have been filed urging the Commission to adopt a general allocation of frequencies available for assignment to all stations in the Motor Carrier Radio Service without regard to whether they are carriers of property or passengers. For the reasons already discussed and because the communication needs of property and passenger carriers differ, we believe that such a general allocation would be impracticable.

12. It has been recommended that the Commission adopt certain standards for licensing operational fixed stations in the 72–76 Mc band. This matter was the subject of a recently completed rule making proceeding where the criteria for the authorization and use of frequencies within this band have been adopted. (See Report and Order in Docket 10315, FCC 54-814, released July 2, 1954.)

13. Objections have been recorded to the proposed consideration of requests for point-to-point facilities on a case-by-case basis. As stated in the proposed rule (§ 16.253), extensive licensing of these facilities must await further development of the Commission's microwave program. Similarly, it would be premature to allocate the frequencies to the new service on a 20 kc channel separation basis, as recommended in one of the comments.

14. The foregoing disposes of the comments directed to the portion of the proposal applicable to urban transit and intercity passenger carriers which is being adopted herein. The final text of the rules, which includes the changes in the allocation of frequencies discussed above, is set forth below.

15. The remaining comments were addressed to the proposed use of radio by carriers of property, i. e., the trucking industry. We are not adopting this part of the proposal.

16. Presently the use of radio by the trucking industry is governed by the Highway Truck Radio Service. The service is designed primarily to provide communication along intercity highways for trucks operating on a route basis; communications within "a single metropolitan area" are prohibited. (§ 16.301). Both common and contract carriers as well as the private trucks owned by the non-trucking business concerns are eligible in this service.

17. The outstanding proposal, in addition to including this service in the new Motor Carrier Radio Service, proposed (1) to eliminate the restriction on communications within metropolitan areas, in order to accommodate the need of the trucking industry for such communications; and (2) to transfer the trucking operations other than those of common and contract carriers to the Special Industrial Radio Service (Part 11 of the rules) together with six of the seven[3] frequencies now allocated exclusively to the Highway Truck Service (see the notice of proposed rule making in Dockets 9703 and 10742). The transfer was predicated on the theory that, on the basis of the functions performed, the persons who are not engaged in the trucking business as such, but operate trucks only as an adjunct to their regular business, i. e., the private truckers should be licensed in one of the industrial services rather than a land transportation service. The proposed separation of these two types of the trucking functions received favorable comments and we are retaining this concept. These comments, however, which were directed toward the substantive merits of the proposal as it would apply to the private truckers will be considered in connection with the proceeding in Dockets 9703 and 10742 and need not be dealt with here.

18. Our decision not to adopt the outstanding proposal to the extent that it would apply to carriers of property is based on the following considerations: The proposal, by lifting the existing limitation on communications within a single metropolitan area, would permit a host of miscellaneous cartage and delivery vehicles in every city to qualify in the new service. Such widespread use for dispatching, pickups and deliveries would soon result in overloading the frequencies, degrading the service and seriously impairing its usefulness. While the trucking industry presently operating in the Highway Truck Service appears to have a requirement for intracity use of radio and we intended to answer that need in our proposal, we had no evidence of the existence of a similar need on the part of the above-mentioned purely local operators of delivery services. Nor have they shown a need in this proceeding. Similarly, we have no sufficient evidence that such need as the trucking industry may have for intracity use of radio may not be adequately met by something less than a complete removal of the existing metropolitan area restriction. Finally, we are unable on this record to determine which frequencies are best suited for these intracity communication needs. It would appear that these needs could in many cases be met by the use of the frequencies in the 450–460 Mc band, with the 43 Mc frequencies used only for longer range communication.

19. Accordingly, it is ordered that, pursuant to the authority contained in sections 4 (i) and 303 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, Part 16 of the Commission's rules is amended, effective October 15, 1954, as set forth below.

(Sec. 4, 48 Stat. 1066, as amended; 47 U. S. C. 154. Interprets or applies sec. 303; 48 Stat. 1082, as amended; 47 U. S. C. 303)

Adopted: September 1, 1954.

Released: September 3, 1954.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,
[SEAL] MARY JANE MORRIS,
Secretary.

Amend Part 16, rules governing Land Transportation Radio Services as follows:

1. In § 16.6 Definition of terms, delete the present terms and definitions in paragraphs (g), and (u) and substitute therefor the following new definitions and add a new paragraph (x):

(g) Motor Carrier Radio Service. A radiocommunication service for use in connection with the operation of a motor carrier. As used in this part, the term "motor carrier" means any streetcar, bus or other land motor vehicle operated by a common or contract carrier and used for the transportation of passengers: Provided, however, That motor vehicles used as taxicabs, school buses, or for sightseeing purposes or as livery vehicles are not included within the meaning of this term as used in the Motor Carrier Radio Service.

• • • • • •

(u) Common carrier. As used in the Motor Carrier Radio Service any person who holds himself out to the general public to engage in the transportation of passengers by motor carrier for compensation as a regular occupation or business.

• • • • • •

(x) Contract carrier. As used in the Motor Carrier Radio Service, any person who under individual contracts or agreements engages in the transportation of passengers by motor carrier for compensation as a regular occupation or business.

2. Delete Subpart J (§§ 16.451 through 16.454) Urban Transit Radio Service.

3. Delete the title and text of Subpart F (§§16.251 through 16.255) Intercity Bus Radio Service, and substitute the following:

SUBPART F—MOTOR CARRIER RADIO SERVICE

Sec.
16.251 Eligibility for license.
16.252 Frequencies available for base and and mobile stations.
16.253 Frequencies available for operational fixed stations.
16.254 Limitation on installation of mobile units.

AUTHORITY: §§ 16.251 to 16.254 issued under sec. 4, 48 Stat. 1066, as amended; 47 U. S. C. 154. Interprets or applies sec. 303; 48 Stat. 1082, as amended; 47 U. S. C. 303.

§ 16.251 Eligibility for license. Authorizations for stations in the Motor Carrier Radio Service will be issued only to:

[1] The 35 Mc frequencies presently utilized by the trucking industry are in the process of being shifted to the Special Industrial Radio Services (see Dockets 9703 and 10742).

[2] See paragraphs 15–18 infra and the Notice of Further Proposed Rule Making adopted today in this docket.

[3] The seventh frequency, 35.98 Mc, has recently been allocated to the Automobile Emergency Radio Service, Docket 10744, FCC 54-556, released April 29, 1954.

(a) Persons regularly engaged in the operation of a common or contract carrier transportation service by motor carrier. For the purpose of establishing eligibility under this paragraph, a certified copy of a certificate of public convenience and necessity issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission, or similar document issued by a state or local regulatory body will be accepted. If such certificate is not available, complete details of applicant's operations, including a satisfactory explanation of why such a certificate is not available, must be submitted.

(b) A non-profit corporation or association organized for the purpose of furnishing a radiocommunication service on a cost-sharing basis solely to persons who are actually engaged in the activities set forth in paragraph (a) of this section.

§ 16.252 Frequencies available for base and mobile stations. (a) The following frequencies are available to the Motor Carrier Radio Service for assignment to base stations and mobile stations of common and contract carriers of passengers operating between urban areas.

Mc	Mc
44.00 [1]	44.26
44.10 [1]	44.30

[1] Subject to the outcome of the further rule making proceeding in Docket 10743.

(b) The following frequencies are available to the Motor Carrier Radio Service for assignment to base stations and mobile stations of common and contract carriers of passengers within a single urban area.

Mc	Mc
44.46	44.54

(c) The following frequencies are available to the Motor Carrier Radio Service on a shared basis with other services, for assignment to base stations and mobile stations of common and contract carriers of passengers within a single urban area.

§ 16.253 Frequencies available for operational fixed stations. (a) Frequencies listed in this Section are available for assignment for fixed service operations in this service on a limited basis; however, extensive licensing of point-to-point systems must await further development of the Commission's microwave program. Accordingly, requests for point-to-point facilities will be considered on a case-by-case basis. In general, requests for such point-to-point facilities should clearly establish either (1) that a number of fixed stations at permanent locations are required to provide communications between isolated establishments or from such establishments to points at which established communication facilities are available, or (2) that the use of a remotely located base station, with which a requested fixed control and fixed relay link is proposed to be used, is necessary to maintain communications with mobile units for the conduct of authorized communications. Point-to-point facilities will not be authorized for the transmission of any type of signal or communication between two locations within the same Standard Metropolitan Area except for the purpose of providing a fixed control and fixed relay link where the remote placement of a base station has been justified.

(b) Subject to the conditions that no harmful interference will be caused to reception of television channel No. 4 or 5, the following frequencies are available for assignment to operational fixed stations in the Motor Carrier Radio Service on a shared basis with other services:

§ 16.254 Limitation on installation of mobile units. Mobile units authorized in this service may be installed only in vehicles used for the carriage of passengers and/or property, and in vehicles used to supervise, tow, repair and maintain such vehicles and, in the case of streetcar systems, associated trackage, rights-of-way and electric power facilities, if any.

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Agricultural Marketing Service

[7 CFR Part 987]

[Docket No. AO 252]

HANDLING OF MILK IN THE CENTRAL MISSISSIPPI MARKETING AREA

DECISION WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED MARKETING AGREEMENT AND ORDER

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was conducted at Jackson, Mississippi, on March 15–19, 1954, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued February 16, 1954 (19 F. R. 978), upon a proposed marketing agreement and order regulating the handling of milk in the Central Mississippi marketing area.

Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record thereof, the Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, on August 12, 1954, filed with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, his recommended decision. Said decision containing notice of opportunity to file written exceptions thereto was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on July 10, 1954 (19 F. R. 4235).

Within the period reserved therefor, interested parties filed exceptions to certain of the findings, conclusions and actions recommended by the Deputy Administrator. In arriving at the findings, conclusions, and regulatory provisions of this decision, each of such exceptions was carefully and fully considered in conjunction with the record evidence pertaining thereto. To the extent that findings, conclusions and actions decided upon herein are at variance with any of the exceptions, such exceptions are overruled.

To the extent that suggested findings and conclusions proposed by interested persons are inconsistent with the findings and conclusions contained herein, the specific or implied requests to make such findings and reach such conclusions are denied on the basis of the facts found and stated in connection with the conclusions herein set forth.

The material issues of record related to:

1. Whether the handling of milk in the market is in the current of interstate commerce or directly burdens, obstructs or affects interstate commerce in milk or its products;

2. Whether marketing conditions justify the issuance of a marketing agreement or order; and

3. If an order is issued what its provisions should be with respect to:

(a) The scope of regulation;

(b) The classification of milk;

(c) The level and method of determining class prices;

(d) The method to be used in distributing proceeds to producers; and

(e) Administrative provisions.

Findings and conclusions. Upon the evidence adduced at the hearing and the record thereof, it is hereby found and concluded that:

1. Character of commerce. Milk which would be regulated under the proposed marketing agreement and order is in the current of interstate commerce or directly burdens, obstructs or affects interstate commerce in milk or its products.

The marketing area specified in the proposed order, hereinafter known as the Central Mississippi marketing area, includes all of the territory within the counties of Claiborne, Copiah, Covington, Forrest, Hinds, Jasper, Jefferson Davis, Jones, Madison, Marion, Perry, Rankin, Scott, Simpson, Smith, Walthall, Warren, Wayne, Lamar (except beat 2 thereof), and Lawrence (except beats 1, 2 and 3 thereof). Approximately 800 dairy farmers, located in more than 30 Mississippi counties, supply more than 80 million pounds of milk annually to fluid milk plants primarily for disposition to consumers in this area. This milk is purchased in competition with milk which is marketed outside the State of Mississippi and it is sold in competition with milk and milk products produced in other States.

Some of the Class I milk marketed in the Central Mississippi area comes from out-of-State sources. Handlers who would be regulated under the proposed order find it necessary in order to fill the needs of their fluid or Class I markets to supplement the milk received from producers with milk or products of milk from outside sources. These supplemental supplies are handled in the same plants and commingled with producer milk. The supplemental supplies may, and do, come from sources outside the State of Mississippi.

The record discloses that handlers serving the Central Mississippi marketing area import dry milk solids to supplement local supplies. Such imports are used primarily to produce, or build up the nonfat solids content of, butter-milk and chocolate milk drinks. These two products made up more than 12 percent of the total sales of fluid milk and fluid milk products by handlers. The State Health Regulations require that milk solids used for such purposes be derived from Grade A milk. Plants located in the Chicago and Wisconsin areas have been approved by the Mississippi Health Department as sources of supply. Complete data on the volume of nonfat milk solids used by handlers in the proposed marketing area are not available. The record shows, however, that nearly all the handlers are using supplemental supplies of such solids and that their use is more frequent during the fall and winter months when receipts of milk from farmers are at their lowest point. A comparison of actual data showing receipts and sales in the different sections of the proposed marketing area indicates that substantial quantities of nonfat solids are used. In the Jackson market, for example, during January and the months of October through December of 1951, handlers sold an average of 230,000 pounds monthly of fluid milk and fluid milk products, including cream, in excess of their total receipts of fluid milk from producers and plants both in and out of the State. Fluid sales in the Laurel-Ellisville portion of the marketing area also exceeded fluid receipts during three months of 1951. Under the health regulations, such differences would need be derived from nonfat solids from Grade A sources in the Chicago or Wisconsin areas. Although these comparisons do not reflect the full extent of the use of Grade A nonfat solids, they nevertheless show that substantial quantities of milk sold by handlers are derived from interstate sources.

Approvals to ship Grade A milk into Mississippi have been extended by the State Health Department to plants in several states, including Wisconsin, Indiana and Ohio. Health Department officials testified that Grade A bulk milk shipments have been received in the proposed area in the past from these plants when required.

A milk plant located in New Orleans, Louisiana, bottles milk which is purchased by a retail store chain and hauled to Forrest County, Mississippi, for sale to consumers through stores located in that portion of the proposed marketing area. Milk from this same plant is sold in southwestern Mississippi in competition with milk sold by handlers who would be regulated pursuant to the proposed order. Milk bottled on the gulf coast by a dealer who would be a handler under this proposed order is sold on a milk route in Jones County. Routes from the same plant in which this milk is bottled serve customers in the State of Alabama. One plant located in Washington County, which serves the proposed marketing area, received shipments of special milk from the State of Wisconsin from June to December 1953.

A large portion of the milk purchased within Mississippi for sale as Class I milk in the proposed marketing area is bought in competition with milk purchased for sale in other States. Approximately one-half of the Grade A producers supplying milk to the Central Mississippi market are located in counties that form a Grade A milkshed which serves plants directly engaged in the interstate shipment of milk.

All Mississippi producers of Grade A milk must conform to the health inspection requirements of the State Board of Health, which are uniform throughout the State. It is relatively easy, by virtue of their location and health approval, for farmers having Grade A approval to shift sales of milk between these alternative outlets in response to prices offered. The record shows that there has been shifting of producers between plants in those counties where such alternative outlets are available. Important competition of this nature occurs in the southern portion of the State. Three plants located in the southern portion of the Central Mississippi milkshed supply milk to New Orleans handlers. These plants are regulated under Federal Order No. 42. Another plant located in this same area has been shipping milk to Texas markets for fluid use.

These four plants receive milk from more than a thousand producers, most of whom are located in Mississippi. More than 400 of these producers are located in Walthall, Lincoln, Forrest, Marion, and Lamar Counties. More than 150 Central Mississippi producers are located in these counties.

Gulf coast handlers located in Mississippi who distribute milk on routes in competition with New Orleans and other handlers, and whose routes extend into Alabama, also compete for milk supplies from producers in the southern portion of the milkshed. Central Mississippi handlers sell milk to various outlets, including military installations, in competition with gulf coast distributors and distributors located in Alabama.

A plant located in Newton County sells milk in the current of interstate commerce. Some of its milk is sold to Central Mississippi handlers and much of the remainder goes to distributors in Alabama and Louisiana. This plant receives milk from farmers in four counties where many producers supplying Central Mississippi handlers are located.

At least two other Mississippi plants which sell bulk milk regularly in interstate commerce sell milk from time to time to Central Mississippi handlers. It is evident, therefore, that the prices paid by the plants which would be subject to the proposed order are affected by and have a direct effect upon the prices and quantities of fluid milk which is moved in interstate commerce.

Fluid milk handlers compete for milk supplies with nearby manufacturing plants selling manufactured milk products in interstate commerce. There are three such manufacturing plants located in the general production area from which the Central Mississippi marketing area draws its milk supply. These plants make products such as cheese, dry milk solids, butter, ungraded cream, condensed milk and evaporated milk. These plants purchase ungraded milk from dairy farmers whose farms are located in the same area that supplies Grade A milk for the marketing area. The products manufactured in these plants are disposed of both in and outside the State of Mississippi in competition with such products produced in out-of-State plants.

The record shows that when fluid milk plants serving the proposed marketing area have Grade A milk in excess of their needs for fluid uses, part of such excesses are used in the manufacture of ice cream and ice cream mix, and the remainder of such milk is disposed of to manufacturing plants. Some of this ice cream is sold to outlets outside the State of Mississippi.

Ice cream and ice cream mix are not required to be made from Grade A milk under the regulations of the State Board of Health, and therefore, graded milk used for such purposes is in direct competition with ungraded milk. Handlers disposed of approximately 2.5 million pounds of milk and cream derived from Grade A milk to manufacturing plants during the flush production months of 1951—the most recent data available at the time of the hearing. The volume of excess milk above Class I requirements has increased considerably since that time. The excess Grade A milk from Central Mississippi handlers which is disposed of to manufacturing plants is manufactured into products such as cheese and evaporated milk, and sold in other States and within Mississippi in competition with similar products produced in other States.

It is concluded, therefore, that milk which would be regulated under the proposed marketing agreement and order is in the current of interstate commerce and directly burdens, obstructs and affects interstate commerce in milk and its products.

2. Marketing conditions. The issuance of a marketing agreement or order will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

The testimony on marketing conditions and practices in the proposed marketing area was presented at the hearing by three associations representing producer-members in the proposed marketing area. These three associations formed an organization, identified as the Central Sales Committee, in order to coordinate their activities for the purpose of achieving stability of marketing conditions in the area.

The problems of unstable marketing encountered by producers in Central Mississippi are not uncommon in fluid milk markets. The problems, which have resulted in unrest and instability in this area, are similar to those characteristic of the fluid milk industry in the absence of regulations or a well-defined classified pricing plan. Attempts on the part of producers to establish such a plan have been ineffective.

Milk, because of its perishability, must be delivered regularly to the market as it is produced. Farmers cannot retain milk on their farms in order to await favorable price conditions. Production of milk for fluid use, under the sanitary requirements prevailing in the proposed marketing area, requires substantial investment.

A certain amount of reserve milk in excess of actual trade sales is necessary to assure an adequate supply of milk at all times. Fluctuations brought on by the seasonal nature of milk production, coupled with a relatively uniform pattern of consumption, necessitates the disposition of some of the Grade A milk produced for the market into manufacturing channels. Such excess milk must be manufactured into products and sold in competition with similar products produced from ungraded milk. Milk marketed in this manner returns considerably less than that marketed for fluid use. Consequently, a well-defined and uniformly applied plan of use classification and the proper pricing of milk in such uses is necessary to prevent such excess milk from depressing the market price of all Grade A milk. To be successful, the classification of milk in accordance with its use and the payments to producers on a use basis, requires full participation and cooperation of those engaged in the industry.

Orderly marketing of the milk produced for fluid consumption requires uniformly dependable methods for determining prices according to the use made of the milk. It also requires uniformity of pricing according to the use made of milk by each handler, and a means whereby lower average returns resulting from surplus may be shared equitably among producers.

The buying practices of handlers in the area are among the several factors causing instability in the marketing of milk. Producers have no means of ascertaining what utilization is made of milk by their handlers. Payment for milk is frequently made on whatever basis a handler may choose to use. Payment at substantially lower surplus prices by handlers for milk, which producers believe was needed for such handlers' fluid sales, is one of the sources of instability and uncertainty in the market. Some handlers who were alleged to be on a classified buying program do not inform producers what class prices are, nor what share of their milk is used in each class.

The record shows that on at least one occasion producers, being notified that a surplus of milk existed in the area, located an outlet which would have taken their excess milk at a price level higher than that prevailing among the local handlers. The producers attempted to make the necessary arrangements to transfer the milk but the handlers refused to make it available. In another instance, additional milk supplies were being sought by one handler who was paying producers for a considerable portion of their milk at excess prices.

The record discloses no overall plan operating in the Central Mississippi area which will assure producers of payment for their milk in accordance with its utilization and proper classification. Some handlers follow a form of the classified price plan. However, the products included in each class vary among handlers. Other handlers do not use a classified pricing plan, but have at times used the base and excess payment plan as a substitute for a classified pricing plan. Use of a base plan in this way does not result in uniformity of milk cost among handlers as a classified price plan does.

There has been little uniformity in the so-called base and surplus payment plans as operated by the various handlers. Handlers in the area differ in their methods of establishing base forming periods. There is lack of uniformity in the base rules of the various handlers as applied to new producers who enter the market or producers who transfer from one handler to another. The methods of operating these plans are solely subject to the decisions of handlers. Plans have been changed without prior consultations or notification of producers. All of these factors contribute to marketing instability and price uncertainty with the effect that returns to producers are reduced and production decisions are affected.

Producers have no voice in the determination of the prices which handlers pay. Attempts by producers to bargain for prices have failed. Generally speaking, producers have been forced to deal with handlers on an individual basis. Handlers have been unwilling to meet with representatives of organized producers for the purpose of discussing prices. Most handlers merely announce a price or prices to be paid, frequently at some time after the milk has been delivered.

Producers have been discouraged from engaging in cooperative marketing activity. Representatives of handlers and haulers have discouraged producers from joining any association which had such a purpose. Many producers have had the understanding that they would be cut off if they were to join a cooperative association or if they were to be active in its affairs. Some producers who have been active in association affairs have had unusual difficulty in marketing their milk. Milk has been returned to some of these producers in such a way that it was impossible for them to determine whether reasons given by the handler for such return were true. In some instances, the milk was held or treated so that it was impossible for the producer to use the milk for any purpose after it was returned to the farmers.

Most handlers in the area refused to make deductions for the associations as authorized by members. One handler who made some deductions discontinued doing so, and failed to remit all money so deducted to the association. One handler made a service charge for making the check-off authorized by producers.

Many producers have shifted to other markets and some have discontinued production because of unsatisfactory conditions in the Central Mississippi area at times when milk supply was inadequate to assure the market of sufficient supplies of pure and wholesome milk. Producers need assurance that their returns for milk will reflect general economic conditions and also be in accordance with local supply and demand conditions. A definite and uniform method of establishing minimum class prices which handlers would be required to pay for milk, in accordance with its use, would give this assurance. Dairy farmers could then plan their production on a long range basis and contribute to the assurance of an adequate supply of milk for the market.

Fluid milk producers, in general, are dissatisfied with the weights and butterfat tests reported to them by handlers. Check testing programs have not been adequate to give the full assurance that producers feel they need. The producers associations were successful in initiating a check-testing program at only two plants. The failure of the handlers to cooperate with producers in making the check-offs necessitated the discontinuation of the association's testing program.

The record indicates that there is a lack of detailed market information for this area. Such information is essential to the effectuation of orderly marketing. It is essential in achieving a level of Grade A milk production commensurate with consumer demand for Grade A fluid products. There are available in April of each year State Department of Agriculture data on receipts and utilization of milk for fluid and manufatured uses for the previous year. This information, however, is not fully satisfactory to the needs of the market, since current monthly data are required by both handlers and producers to evaluate changes in supply and demand conditions for the purpose of arriving at appropriate prices.

It is concluded that the issuance of a marketing agreement and order for the Central Mississippi marketing area would contribute substantially to the improvement of many of the conditions complained of and tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act; namely, to establish and maintain, by means of the regulatory provisions expressly provided for in the act for such purposes, such orderly marketing conditions in the area as will tend to establish prices to the producers of milk for the marketing area at a level as will reflect the factors set forth in section 8 (c) (18) of the act, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk for the marketing area, and be in the public interest.

3. Marketing area. The Central Mississippi marketing area should include all territory within the boundaries of the counties of Claiborne, Copiah, Covington, Forrest, Hinds, Jasper, Jefferson Davis, Jones, Lamar (except beat 2 thereof), Lawrence (except beats 1, 2 and 3 thereof), Madison, Marion, Perry, Rankin, Scott, Simpson, Smith, Walthall, Warren and Wayne. The largest urban centers in this area are Vicksburg, Jackson, Hattiesburg, Laurel and Columbia. This area represents a comparatively independent trade area so far as distribution of fluid milk is concerned. A certain amount of milk is carried across these boundaries in packaged form on routes, both into and out of the area.

It is not administratively feasible and is unnecessary to include within the marketing area all of the territory in which handlers may be distributing any portion of their sales of milk or milk products. It would be impossible to define a marketing area where no overlapping of sales areas would be involved. If the marketing area were to be extended to include the entire area in which regulated handlers distribute milk, there would be no practical limit as to how far the area would have to be extended. No possible boundary is recognized among the proposed areas which would result in materially less out-of-area sales by regulated handlers than that proposed herein.

The marketing area should be defined on the basis of counties rather than by cities or towns contained therein, because of the relatively large population adjacent to, but outside of, corporate limits of the cities and towns. Identical State health regulations, with respect to the production and sale of milk, are applied on a county-wide basis throughout the proposed area. All municipal corporations, Federal and State installations and facilities located within these counties should be included as part of the regulated area.

There is a community of competition by handlers for milk sales among and within the counties herein recommended for inclusion in the marketing area. Handlers in Vicksburg and Jackson sell milk in competition with each other throughout the northern portion of this proposed area. Handlers from Columbia, Hattiesburg and Laurel compete throughout the southern portion of the area, and handlers from the northern and southern sections compete with each other throughout the central portion of the area. The Health Department's uniform regulations throughout the State assure that the handlers may compete freely throughout the whole area so far as quality of the product is concerned.

The extension of the marketing area to include Washington, Adams, and other counties in the outlying areas, would serve no material purpose since these counties cannot be considered as being primarily associated with the proposed marketing area. Distribution of milk in any of these counties by Central Mississippi handlers represents a relatively small proportion of the total milk distribution of all handlers serving in the proposed area.

Regulation should not be extended into the southern portion of the proposed area. This would bring gulf coast handlers under the pricing provisions of the order. Historically, gulf coast handlers have paid substantially higher prices for milk than have handlers located in the proposed marketing area. So long as this relationship continues, regulated handlers will not be at a disadvantage, so far as cost of milk is concerned, in competing with such handlers for fluid sales.

4. Scope of the regulation. It is necessary to designate clearly what milk and what persons will be subject to the various provisions of the order. This can best be done by providing definitions which set forth the categories of persons, plants, and milk products for purposes of application of order provisions.

The minimum class prices of the order should apply to that milk eligible for distribution as Grade A milk in the marketing area which is received from dairy farmers at plants primarily engaged in supplying fluid milk for sale on retail and wholesale routes in the marketing area.

Order prices should not apply to so-called emergency or irregular shipments nor to reserve milk which might be transferred from other plants to a regulated handler during the season of flush production. Nor should classification and pricing be extended to plants only incidentally associated with the marketing area.

Milk sold for fluid consumption in the State of Mississippi must meet the Grade A inspection requirements of the Mississippi State Board of Health. This agency, through its county sanitary supervisors, issues permits to dairy farmers and to milk plants supplying Grade A milk in the State. The State requirements are based on the United States Public Health Ordinance and Code. Fluid milk may be imported into Mississippi for fluid consumption, provided that such milk meets the standards of the United States Public Health Ordinance and originates from a market with a United States Public Health Service rating of 90 or more. A permit to furnish imported milk must be obtained from the Mississippi State Board of Health by the supplier of milk.

Any milk plant or any dairy farmer, in order to qualify under the definitions of the order, should have approval of the appropriate health authority. Since approval to distribute milk in Mississippi may be extended to plants or farmers under the inspection of another health authority, no requirement should be made in the definitions that a qualification must be established on the basis of a permit actually issued by the appropriate health authority.

The record shows that milk plants supplying the Central Mississippi marketing area fall into two categories. These are distributing plants which package Grade A fluid products such as milk, cream, and milk drinks, which products are distributed to consumers, stores, restaurants and so on. The other category is supply plants from which distributing plants draw supplemental milk. Since these two classes of plants engage in different type operations, separate standards should be provided in order to distinguish which plants in each category will be subject to regulation.

The record discloses that the distributing plants which serve the Central Mississippi marketing area are primarily fluid milk operations. With few exceptions, a majority of their milk is distributed to outlets located in the marketing area. All plants which fall in this category should be fully regulated under the order.

Minor quantities of milk are distributed into the marketing area from plants located outside the marketing area. One of the major handlers in the gulf coast area bottles a small volume of milk which is distributed in the proposed area. This milk represents a small share of the total milk of such handler.

It is concluded that it would be inappropriate to extend regulation to any milk plant from which only minor quantities of milk are distributed in the marketing area. Such plants are selling primarily in competition with unregulated handlers outside the marketing area.

Regulation of such plants might place them in an untenable position outside the marketing area. So long as the limits as to the sales such a plant may make in the marketing area are kept low, the volume of unpriced milk in the market would not, under present circumstances, present an unstabilizing force in the market.

It is concluded that this limit should be placed at 5 percent of the Grade A milk received at such plant from all sources or an average of 1000 pounds of Class I milk a day, whichever is less. Any plant from which a volume of Class I milk equal to more than 1000 pounds per day or 5 percent of its receipts of Grade A milk, skim milk or cream is disposed of in the marketing area should be designated as a distributing plant and be fully subject to regulation.

Any plant from which Class I milk is disposed of in the marketing area, but which does not meet the standards for a distributing plant, should be defined as an approved plant and be required to file reports and submit to audits by the market administrator to verify the status of such plants.

There are a number of bulk supply plants in Mississippi which ship supplemental milk to distributing plants. Some of these plants are primarily in the business of furnishing milk to the Central Mississippi marketing area. These plants make year-round shipments to the distributing plants which would be regulated pursuant to the attached order.

In the months of lowest production, these shipments absorb virtually all of the milk received by such plants from producers. Supply plant standards should be provided in the order which will extend full regulation to these plants.

There are other supply plants which furnish limited quantities of seasonal reserve milk to the Central Mississippi market. These plants are primarily engaged in supplying milk to fluid markets in other States. Such plants should not be regulated under the order. To bring these plants under the order would extend regulation unnecessarily and might interfere with the acquisition of needed supplemental milk for the market. It is concluded, therefore, that any plant which ships Grade A milk, skim milk or cream during the months of January through July to a distributing plant, as defined under the order, should be designated as a supply plant and made fully subject to regulation. If such shipments amount to 50 percent of the receipts of Grade A milk from producers during the months of August through December, such plant should be fully regulated. This will exempt from regulation any plant not primarily in the business of supplying the proposed area.

Any plant which ships any Grade A milk, skim milk or cream to a distributing plant should be defined as an approved plant and required to submit reports to the market administrator. These reports should be subject to verification through audit of the handler's records to establish the appropriate status of the plant.

"Handler," to whom any of the regulatory provisions are applicable, should be defined as the operator of any plant from which milk is supplied directly or through another plant to the marketing area. The handler is the person who receives milk from producers and who is responsible for reporting receipts and utilization of milk and, if the milk is priced, for paying producers minimum prices. In case a person operates more than one plant at which milk is to be priced, he is to be a handler with respect to the combined operations of such plants. In case a handler operates unregulated plants, this definition is not intended to include such person in his capacity as an operator of such plants.

The handler definition should include operators of approved plants which do not qualify as fluid milk plants and producer-handlers to require such persons to report to the market administrator as is needed to determine their status.

"Producer" should be defined as any person, other than a producer-handler, who produces milk under a dairy farm inspection permit issued by a duly constituted health authority and whose milk is permitted to be used as Grade A milk for consumption in the marketing area if such milk is received at a fluid milk plant. Provision should be made so that the milk of producers regularly received at a fluid milk plant may be diverted for the account of a handler to a nonfluid milk plant during the flush production season without such producers losing their status as producers under the order. Diverted milk shall be deemed to have been received at the plant from which it was diverted.

Producers proposed that a cooperative association should be considered as a handler with respect to milk diverted for the account of such association. Under an individual-handler pool, such as is herein recommended, there is no need for such a provision. A cooperative association can pay its members for milk diverted by such association according to its own payment plan. There would be no advantage to the association or to the market to try to apply payment provisions of the order to such milk. All provisions concerning the classification of producer milk should apply also to the milk received from handlers' own herds.

"Other source milk" should be defined as all skim milk and butterfat contained in products utilized by the handler in his operations, except milk from producers and other Class I products received from other fluid milk plants. Thus, other source milk would represent butterfat and skim milk which may not be subject to the pricing provisions of this order.

"Producer-handler"—Persons who are engaged in producing milk and distributing only milk of their own production, should be subject to the order only to the extent that they must submit reports to the market administrator, as required, and maintain and make available to the market administrator accounts, records, and facilities so that the market administrator may verify that such persons are producer-handlers. It would be meaningless to require under the order that a producer-handler pay any particular price for milk produced on his own farm. Since producer-handlers dispose of most of their milk directly to consumers for fluid use, they could not, in any event, be required to pool their milk with other producers under a handler pool.

Classification provisions of the proposed order should provide that any milk, skim milk, or cream transferred by a handler to a producer-handler will be Class I milk. Any supplemental supplies of milk which they obtain from other handlers may, by virtue of the type of operation involved, be presumed to be needed by such handlers for fluid use and should be classified in the supplying handler's plant as Class I milk. A producer-handler may receive milk from other handlers and still maintain his status as a producer-handler. Pursuant to the proposed order, any milk which a handler receives from a producer-handler would be other source milk and would, therefore, be allocated to the lowest class utilization at the fluid milk plant(s) of a handler after the allocation of shrinkage on producer milk.

5. Classification of milk. Milk received by regulated handlers should be classified on the basis of the form in, or the purpose for which it is used, as either Class I milk or Class II milk.

The products which should be included in Class I milk are those required by the Mississippi State Board of Health to be obtained from milk or milk products from approved "Grade A" sources. The extra cost of getting approved milk produced and delivered to the market in the quantities required makes it necessary to provide a price for milk used in Grade A Class I products somewhat above the ungraded or manufacturing milk price. This higher price should be at such a level that it will yield a blend price to producers that will encourage production of enough milk to meet market needs.

Excess milk not needed seasonally or at other times for Class I use must be disposed of for manufactured products. These products are not required to be made from approved milk and must be sold in competition with products made from unapproved milk. Milk so used should be classified as Class II milk and priced in accordance with its value in such outlets.

In accordance with these standards, Class I milk should comprise all skim milk (including concentrated or reconstituted nonfat milk solids) and butterfat (1) disposed of in the form of milk, skim milk, buttermilk, flavored milk, flavored milk drinks, eggnog, yogurt, cream and any mixture of cream and milk or skim milk (excluding frozen storage cream, ice cream and ice cream mixes); (2) in inventory of Class I products on hand at the end of the month; and (3) not accounted for as Class II milk.

Class I products which contain concentrated skim milk solids, such as skim milk drinks to which extra solids have been added or concentrated whole milk disposed of for fluid use, should be included under the Class I milk definition. Products such as evaporated or condensed milk packaged in bulk or in hermetically sealed cans should not be considered as concentrated milk.

Handlers have inventories of milk and milk products at the beginning and end of each month which enter into the accounting for current receipts and utilization. Accounting procedure will be facilitated by providing that month end inventories of all products included in Class I milk, regardless of whether such products are held in bulk or in packages, should be classified in Class I milk. This is done since such products are normally used for Class I disposition the following month. Inventories of such products on hand will then be subtracted from Class I use the following month. If products thus classified as Class I are actually used in Class II during the following month, the milk so used will be offset against current month's receipts which are actually used in Class I.

Inventories of products designated as Class I milk on hand at a fluid milk plant at the beginning of any month during which such plant becomes a fluid milk plant for the first time should likewise be subtracted from the Class I utilization of the plant during the month. This will offset the classification of ending inventories as Class I when a plant loses status as a fluid milk plant. To safeguard against abuse of this method of classifying inventories by building up abnormal holdings, a handler should be assessed the difference between the Class I price and the Class II price on any amount by which inventories of Class I products are artificially built up at the beginning of such regulation and preserve priority for assignment of current receipts of producer milk to Class I use. Also, handlers should be assessed at the rate of such increase on any unusual buildup of inventories of Class I products when seasonal increases in Class I prices occur.

Skim milk and butterfat are not used in most products in the same proportions as contained in the milk received from producers, and therefore should be classified separately according to their separate uses. The skim milk and butterfat content of milk products, received and disposed of by a handler, can be determined through certain testing procedures. Some of these products, such as ice cream and condensed products, present a difficult problem of testing in that some of the water contained in the milk has been removed. It is desirable in the case of such products to provide an acceptable means of ascertaining the amount of skim milk and butterfat contained in, or used to produce, these products. This may be accomplished through the use of adequate plant records made available to the market administrator or by means of standard conversion factors of skim milk and butterfat used to produce such products. The accounting procedure to be used in the case of any condensed skim milk product should be based on the pounds of milk or skim milk required to produce such product.

Butterfat and skim milk used to produce Class II products will be considered to be disposed of when so used. Handlers will need to maintain stock records on such products, however, to permit audit of their utilization records by the market administrator. Class II products from any source used in the production of products included in Class I milk should be considered to be a receipt of other source milk. This will maintain priority of assignment of current receipts of producer milk to Class I utilization.

Handlers should be responsible for a full accounting of all their receipts of skim milk or butterfat in any form. A handler who first receives milk from producers should be responsible to the market administrator to establish the classification of, and make payment to producers for, such milk. All skim milk and butterfat which is received, and for which the handler cannot establish utilization, should be classified as Class I milk except for allowable shrinkage in Class II milk. This provision is necessary to remove any advantage to handlers who fail to keep complete and accurate records and to assure that producers receive full value for their milk on the basis of its use. It is necessary to place the burden of proof on the handler to establish the utilization of any milk as other than Class I.

All skim milk and butterfat used to produce products other than those classified in Class I milk should be Class II milk. Included as Class II milk are products such as ice cream, ice cream mix and other frozen desserts and mixes; butter, cheese, including cottage cheese; evaporated and condensed milk (plain and sweetened); nonfat dry milk solids, dry whole milk; condensed or dry buttermilk; and any other products not specified as Class I milk.

Cream which is placed in storage and frozen should be classified as Class II milk. Such cream is intended primarily for use in ice cream and ice cream mixes. Any frozen cream or other Class II products which are used later in a fluid milk plant would be considered as other source milk at the time of such use and assigned to the lowest priced utilization in the plant. Any skim milk which is disposed of and used for livestock feeding should be classified as Class II milk, as should skim milk which is dumped, if the market administrator is notified in advance and allowed to verify such dumping.

Shrinkage should be determined by subtracting from the total pounds of skim milk and butterfat received by the handler his total established utilization of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in various products. If his total receipts include both producer and other source milk, the total shrinkage should be prorated between producer and other source milk on the basis of the pounds received from each source. None of the shrinkage should be assigned to milk received from other fluid milk plants because shrinkage on such milk will be allowed to the transferring handler. A plant which is operated in a reasonably efficient manner and for which complete and accurate records of receipts and utilization are maintained should have total shrinkage of less than 2 percent of total receipts. It is concluded that shrinkage which is not more than 2 percent of total receipts of producer milk and other source milk should be classified as Class II milk and any shrinkage in excess of this quantity should be classified as Class I milk.

Transfers. Classification of butterfat and skim milk used in the production of Class II milk items should be considered to have been established when the product is made. Classification of Class I milk (except for inventories) should be established when the butterfat or skim milk is disposed of. However, since some of the Class I items may be disposed of to other plants for Class II use, classification of any product so transferred to another plant should be determined according to its utilization in the plant to which transferred.

Milk, skim milk or cream, or other products designated as Class I milk transferred by a handler to the fluid milk plant of another handler, except that of a producer-handler, should be classified as Class I milk unless both handlers indicate in their reports to the market administrator that they desire such milk to be classified as Class II milk. However, sufficient Class II utilization must be available at the transferee-plant for such assignment after prior allocation of shrinkage and other source milk as described below. On the other hand, if the transferring handler had other source milk during the month, the assignment of products transferred to another plant to the Class I utilization of such plant should be limited so that other source milk in the transferring handler's plant will not be allocated to Class I milk while producer milk is allocated to Class II milk in the transferee-handler's plant.

Milk, skim milk and cream disposed of to a nonfluid milk plant, including milk which is diverted (sent directly to the nonfluid milk plant from the producer's farm) should be classified as Class I milk, unless the nonfluid milk plant meets certain conditions. It must have no Class I milk in excess of that which may be assigned to receipts of milk from dairy farmers regularly supplying the plant, and the operator must submit a signed statement to the market administrator agreeing on Class II utilization. In addition, the operator of such nonfluid milk plant, if requested, must make his books and records available to the market administrator for the purpose of verifying the receipt and utilization of milk in such nonfluid milk plant. Provision for verification by the market administrator is reasonable and necessary to assure that producer milk will be paid for in accordance with its utilization. As mentioned heretofore, Class I milk transferred to a producer-handler should not be subject to reclassification.

In view of the fact that the order class prices apply only to producer milk, it is necessary, if a plant has butterfat or skim milk other than that received in milk from producers, to determine the quantities of milk in each class to be assigned to producers. The milk of producers who are primarily engaged in supplying the market should be assigned to Class I utilization first. This is necessary to insure the stability of the classified pricing program of the order. If the order permitted handlers to obtain other source milk whenever it was advantageous to do so for Class I use while producer milk in the plant was utilized in Class II, it could not be effective in carrying out the purposes of the act. Also, the market would be deprived of a dependable supply of milk. The system of assigning utilization of milk to receipts from different sources which will carry out this objective is set forth in § 987.46 of the order set forth below.

Since uniform prices paid producers by each handler are to be calculated monthly, the assignment of utilization described above should be carried out with respect to all milk received during each month.

6. Class prices. Class I prices should be established at a level which, in conjunction with Class II prices hereinafter concluded to be appropriate, will result in returns to producers high enough to maintain an adequate but not excessive supply of quality milk to meet the requirements of the marketing area.

The maintenance of stable conditions in the market requires that Class I prices be adjusted whenever the supply of milk is out of line in relationship to sales of fluid milk. If prices remain too low, insufficient milk will be produced to assure that the Class I market will be fully supplied. On the other hand, if prices are too high, production will be overstimulated and consumption curtailed, with the result that more milk will be produced than is needed to satisfy the demand for Class I, and unnecessary and uneconomic surpluses of Grade A milk will develop. Class I prices in the Central Mississippi area should not, in any case, be set at levels which will bring the cost of such milk above the cost of regular milk supplies from other sources.

Because of changing supply and demand conditions for milk in the market, it is necessary, in order to maintain an appropriate balance between supply and sales, to provide a method of flexible Class I pricing. Pricing formulas which cause prices to change automatically with changes in market conditions are in general use for the pricing of milk to farmers in fluid milk markets. Two general types of Class I formulae are employed: One, in which Class I prices are established at a differential over a basic formula price which reflects the value of milk for manufacturing uses; and the other, in which Class I price changes are made in accordance with relative changes in factors which reflect basic supply and demand conditions. The latter is referred to as the "economic type formula."

A basic formula plus differentials should be adopted at this time to establish the Class I price for Central Mississippi. As previously indicated in this decision, there is a substantial overlapping of the supply area of the Central Mississippi marketing area with supply areas of other markets. The record indicates that supply conditions in such other markets have changed materially during the past year. Demand for Grade A milk from Mississippi production areas has changed even more. Milk plants in Mississippi which normally sell their milk to markets located in other States have found that these areas are now more nearly supplied with locally produced milk. This milk has consequently remained in Mississippi. A large share of it has been manufactured. Some of the milk produced for the New Orleans market was not accepted by handlers. The milk not needed in out-of-State markets is approved by the appropriate health authorities, however, and may be sold for distribution in the marketing area. Producers whose milk is marketed primarily in surplus outlets may be expected to seek outlets where their returns may be higher. The record indicates that one handler serving the proposed area, who formerly purchased milk from more than 20 producers, discontinued receiving milk from producers and purchased his entire supply from a plant which formerly sold primarily to out-of-State outlets.

Distributors in the Central Mississippi area have been more fully supplied with Grade A milk during the past year by virtue of increased production. Prices paid producers have generally been lowered somewhat in response to this increase. A majority of the handlers were paying about $5.30 for base milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content at the time of the hearing. This represented a substantial reduction from the previous year.

Increasing volumes of ungraded milk are produced for manufacture in the Central Mississippi area. Prices received by the producers of this milk fluctuate in accordance with the general level of manufacturing milk values. Costs of producing this milk fluctuate to a considerable extent the same as the cost of Grade A milk. Changes in the relationship between the price of milk for manufacture and the prices received by Grade A producers may be expected to have considerable effect upon the level of supplies of Grade A milk.

Supplemental supplies of Grade A milk from outside the State of Mississippi are generally available from the States to the north. Prices of this milk fluctuate to considerable extent with the value of milk produced for manufacture. It is concluded, therefore, that a Class I price established on the basis of a basic formula price with differentials will maintain producer returns more appropriate in view of changing market conditions than a price fixed on any other basis.

The general level of fluid milk prices referred to fluctuates more, however, from flush production to low production seasons than does the price of milk for manufacture. For this reason, the Class I differential should provide some additional degree of automatic seasonal changes in Class I price. In the absence of such seasonal change, prices may be out of line with values of alternative milk and thus lead to displacement of producer milk. A seasonal price change also will provide added incentive for producers to maintain even seasonal production of milk.

The manufacturing milk values to be used as the basic formula price should be those which reflect the value of such milk at a national level. The formula proposed by handlers is based on widely known and accepted quotations. The yield and conversion factors are similar to those contained in other orders.

It is concluded that $1.85 should be added to such price in arriving at the price per hundredweight of Class I milk during the four months of flush production (March through June) and $2.25 during all other months. The price resulting from this formula will be in line with the level of price indicated to be necessary on the basis of production and sales experience, and will be somewhat less than the cost of obtaining regular supplies of bulk milk from surplus producing areas of the north.

Class I prices should be announced by the market administrator by the fifth day of the month. In order to do this, it is necessary to use price quotations for the previous month in calculating the basic formula price.

It was proposed at the hearing that a change be made on unpriced milk distributed for Class I use in the marketing area, and that money so collected be paid to the producers so affected. It was not shown, however, how it would be possible to determine which producer or producers were affected by the sale of such milk, nor how it would be feasible under authority of the act for a market administrator to make such distribution of funds.

Class II milk. The Class II price should be at such a level that handlers will accept and market whatever quantities of milk in excess of Class I needs may arise from time to time. The price, however, should not be so low that handlers will be encouraged to procure milk supplies solely for the purpose of converting them into Class II products.

All products included in Class II milk may be made from unapproved milk. Approved milk which may be used in such products by regulated handlers should be priced at the competitive price paid by local manufacturing plants for unapproved milk. The pricing of Class II milk on the basis of the average of the prices paid for unapproved milk by five manufacturing plants located in Central Mississippi, as proposed, will reflect competitive prices for manufacturing milk in this area.

Ice cream is one of the most important outlets for reserve supplies of milk in the marketing area. Several handlers are engaged in the manufacture of ice cream. The price of Class II milk at the competitive manufacturing price level should provide outlets for a substantial portion of any reserve supplies in this product.

There are a number of manufacturing plants located in or near the Grade A production area which are engaged in manufacturing evaporated milk, cheese, condensed milk, dried milk solids and butter. Some of the reserve milk received by handlers may have to be disposed of to these plants from time to time. The record indicates that during the flush production season handlers sometimes divert milk by having it hauled directly from the farm to such plants.

A proposal was made at the hearing that milk which is received at a fluid milk plant and then transferred to a manufacturing plant be priced 50 cents less than the Class II price. The record fails to support the need for a lower price for such milk. The manufacturing plants on which it is concluded the Class II price should be based may and do use receiving stations at which milk from farmers is dumped and hauled in bulk to the processing plant. Prices paid farmers delivering to such receiving stations are the same as those paid at the manufacturing plants.

The recommended Class II price is an average of prices paid by plants engaged in the production of different manufactured products. Prices paid by manufacturing plants may differ because of changes in the relative prices of the products which they manufacture. Handlers can dispose of reserve milk to the plants which are paying the highest price at the time of such disposal. Because of small volume and inefficient means of handling, it is possible that some handlers may, at times, incur losses in handling their necessary reserve supply of milk. The handling of such surplus milk is incidental, however, to the handling of fluid milk.

Provision is made in the attached order which will permit a handler to divert any milk clearly not needed in his own operations directly to manufacturing plants. Handlers who need and desire the entire output of producers during periods of short supply should assume the responsibility to pay producers at least the competitive manufacturing prices for Class II milk throughout the year.

Butterfat differentials. As pointed out previously herein, it is concluded that butterfat and skim milk should be accounted for separately for classification purposes. It will be necessary, therefore, to adjust Class I and Class II prices of milk in accordance with the average test of milk in each class by a butterfat differential which will reflect differences in value due to variations in the butterfat content of each product. The values resulting from multiplying the average price of 92-score butter at Chicago by 0.120 for Class I milk and by 0.110 for Class II milk will provide an appropriate basis for adjusting such prices in this market, since they will reflect changes in the central market prices of butterfat. The basing point from which such adjustments are made should be 4.0 percent butterfat. This is the basis now used in the Central Mississippi marketing area.

The use of butterfat differentials in this manner follows standard practices in most fluid milk markets for adjusting for butterfat variations. In order that the Class I butterfat differential may be announced early each month, it is provided that the Class I differential be based on the average price of butter in the preceding month. This will permit the announcement of the Class I differential at the same time that the Class I price is announced.

Class II prices and butterfat differentials will not be announced until after the end of the month. Although handlers will not know the cost of such milk as it is utilized, they will know that their cost will follow that of their principal competitors for manufactured outlets.

The butterfat differential used in making payments to producers should be calculated at the average of the return actually received from the sale of butterfat in producer milk. The rate to be used for this purpose would be the average of the Class I and Class II differentials weighted by the proportion of butterfat in producer milk classified in each class. Thus, producer returns for butterfat will reflect the actual sale value of their butterfat at the class prices provided in the order. The producer butterfat differential in no way affects the handlers' cost of milk but merely prorates returns among producers whose milk differs in butterfat test.

The record indicates that the average test of producer receipts exceeds that of Class I sales. The butterfat differentials recommended herein for Class I and Class II milk should tend to encourage the production of milk with a fat test more in line with the fat requirements of the market.

Location differentials. It was proposed at the hearing that handlers be allowed a location differential with respect to milk moved from a receiving plant to a processing plant.

The record discloses that some of the milk normally supplied to the marketing area is received by handlers at a distance from the plant which processes and distributes the milk. In addition, some of the milk is brought to the marketing area in packaged form.

The minimum Class I price to be paid for producer milk should not be dependent upon the type of plant receiving the milk. Neither should milk delivered to one point within the proposed marketing area be priced differently than that delivered to any other point in the area. However, to the extent that milk is received elsewhere from producers and brought to the marketing area by a handler, the handler has assumed a transportation cost which might otherwise be borne by producers. For this reason, the Class I price should be adjusted downward in the case of plants which assume the cost of hauling the milk to the marketing area.

The record discloses that handlers now pay producers delivering milk to receiving stations serving the area 10 cents less per hundredweight than producers delivering directly to bottling plants. To the extent that this represents a lower price because of the location of the milk, such difference in value should be recognized under the order. It is concluded, therefore, that the Class I price should be reduced for those receiving plants which are outside the marketing area by 10 cents. Bottling plants located outside the marketing area and receiving milk at some distance from the principal market should receive the same differential.

Jackson is the primary center of consumption in the proposed area, and is more or less centrally located. It is concluded, therefore, that the location differential should be calculated with respect to the city of Jackson and that any plant located more than 50 miles by nearest hard-surfaced highway from Jackson and outside the marketing area should receive the transportation differential on Class I milk herein found necessary.

Prices paid producers supplying plants to which location differentials apply should likewise be reduced by 10 cents to reflect the lower value of such milk f. o. b. the point to which delivered.

No adjustment should be made in the Class II price for location to which the milk is delivered. There is little difference in the value of milk for manufactured uses associated with the location of the plant receiving the milk. This is true because of the low cost per hundredweight of milk involved in transporting manufactured products. The prices shown in the record paid for ungraded milk received at various sections of the milkshed do not indicate any difference in value associated with location.

After a handler receives milk for Class II use, he should be expected to handle and dispose of the milk in the most advantageous possible method. Prices paid producers for such milk should not be made dependent upon the method employed by the handler in disposing of such milk, otherwise part of the incentive for keeping handling cost at a minimum is removed. To insure that milk will not be moved unnecessarily at producers' expense, the order should contain a provision to determine whether milk transferred between plants may receive the location differential credit. This should provide that any milk transferred be assigned to any Class II use remaining in the transferee plant after a maximum assignment of 5 percent of the direct producer receipts to Class II milk.

7. Distribution of the proceeds to producers. The individual-handler type of pool should be included in the order as a means of distributing to producers the returns from the sale of their milk. Under this type of pool, the minimum prices will be uniform to all producers delivering their milk to the same handler. The "blend," "base" and "excess" prices, as the case may be, will depend on the proportion of the producers' milk used in Class I and Class II milk by the handler. Although each handler will be required to pay minimum uniform prices to all the producers who deliver to him during each month, the prices paid by different handlers may differ because the proportion of milk used in each class may vary.

Under the conditions existing in this area, the individual-handler pool will tend to result in optimum allocation of producer milk among handlers according to Class I needs of the handler and in maximum returns to producers from their milk. The record indicates that no handler in the Central Mississippi area is carrying an undue proportion of excess milk in order to supply other handlers with supplemental milk.

Base and excess plan. A "base and excess" plan of distributing the returns for milk among producers should be employed in connection with the individual-handler pool.

Base and excess plans in one form or another are commonly used within the milkshed area at the present although these programs vary considerably among handlers. The base and excess method of distributing milk returns during the months of flush production has wide support among both producers and handlers and should be continued. Abandonment of such a plan at this time might result in increased seasonality of production to the detriment of the market.

The production of milk in the area shows considerable seasonal variation. Consequently, there is a need for an incentive to maintain production in the fall and winter months relative to spring and summer levels. Some handlers have difficulty in utilizing efficiently all milk delivered to them in the months of seasonally high production. By providing returns related directly to a producer's ability to deliver additional milk in the fall and winter as compared with deliveries during the season of flush production, a production pattern more closely fitted to the sales pattern of fluid milk and fluid milk products will be encouraged.

The base-excess plan proposed by producers would establish for each producer in the market a base equal to his average daily deliveries of milk during the five-month period September through January (total deliveries by such producer to all handlers divided by the number of days in this period). During these months, as well as in January and August all producers would receive the same "blend," or average, price paid by the handler to which they deliver their milk.

For each of the months of March through July, separate uniform prices for "base milk" and "excess milk" would be computed so that Class I sales would first be allotted to "base milk." Base milk would be that quantity of milk delivered by each producer up to his average daily base multiplied by the number of days in the month on which he delivers milk to any fluid milk plant. The "excess milk" price should be the minimum order Class II price, unless the total Class I sales of the handler exceed the total quantity of base milk received from producers in a given month. In this case, the fact that some excess milk was used for Class I sales would be reflected in the price of such milk, or in the excess blend price.

The proposed months for establishing bases (September through January) are normally those of relatively low milk production in relation to fluid milk sales. Producers who enter the market during the fall and early winter months, when additional milk is usually needed, should be permitted to establish a base on deliveries made during a portion of the base forming period. This may be accomplished by determining the base for a new producer on the basis of the total number of days in the base forming period on which he delivers milk, less the number of days in September during which he did not produce milk for sale to a handler.

The base operating period, during which payments are made under the base plan, need not include all months that are not included in the base forming period to achieve the objectives of this plan. By limiting the base operating period or payment for base and excess milk to the months of March through July, a desired degree of flexibility will be provided. Omission of August from the base operating period will permit all producers to adjust their production programs immediately preceding the fall shortage months without being influenced by the base plan operating during this month. Limitation of the base forming period to fewer months gives added incentive to increase production during the months included in such period. The record does not indicate that February is a month of low production.

The order should provide that the market administrator will notify each producer and the handler to whom he is currently selling milk of the amount of his daily base on or before March 1 of each year. The daily base established by each producer will be calculated by the market administrator from handlers' payroll records.

It is necessary to provide certain rules in connection with the establishment and transfer of bases in order to provide reasonable administrative workability of the plan. To accomplish this and to preserve the effectiveness of the base plan, transfers of bases should be limited to the entire bases of producers who retire from farming. In cases of death or dissolution of joint production arrangements, such as landlord-tenant relationships, similar transfers should be permitted. Since the base plan is effective in determining producer payments in only five of the twelve months in each year and since all producers must establish a new base each year, other provisions than those contained herein for the establishment and transfer of bases are unnecessary.

The uniform prices, including uniform base and excess prices, which are required to be paid producers by each handler should be computed for milk containing 4.0 percent butterfat which is in accordance with past and current market practices. In distributing proceeds to producers, a differential should be applied to recognize different values of milk in accordance with its butterfat content. This differential should be determined on the basis of the weighted average value of producer butterfat according to its utilization at the class prices of the order.

Location differentials heretofore discussed should be applied to prices paid producers.

Payment to producers. The order should provide that each handler make final payments to each producer for milk received at the appropriate uniform price(s) on or before the 15th day after the end of each month. Since it has been the practice in this area for handlers to pay producers bi-monthly, provision has been made for partial payments to producers on or before the last day of each month for milk delivered during the first 15 days of such month at not less than the Class II price per hundredweight for the preceding month. (No adjustment for butterfat content or location is required on such advance payment.) Provision should also be made for the handler, if authorized in writing by the producer, to make proper deductions for goods or services furnished or for payments made on behalf of the producer. At the time the final payment is made, each handler will be required to furnish to each producer a monthly statement. This should show the pounds and butterfat tests of milk received from him, together with the rate or rates of payment for such milk and a description of any deductions claimed by the handler.

8. Other administrative provisions. Certain other provisions should be included in the order to carry out administratively the purposes of the regulation.

In addition to the definitions discussed earlier in this decision which define the scope of the regulation, certain other terms and definitions are desirable in the interest of brevity and to assure that each usage of the term implies the same meaning. Definitions for base and excess milk are included. Such other terms as are defined in the attached order are common to many other Federal milk orders.

Market administrator. Provision should be made for the appointment by the Secretary of a market administrator to administer the order and to set forth the powers and duties for such agency.

Records and reports. Provisions should be included in the order for the purpose of requiring handlers to maintain adequate records of their operations and to make certain reports. Time limits must be prescribed for filing such reports and for making payments to producers. Dates must also be established for the announcement of prices by the market administrator. The following schedule will afford interested parties adequate time to perform the indicated function:

Day of Month and Function

6th—Announcement by market administrator of the Class I price and butterfat differential for the current month.

6th—Announcement by the market administrator of Class II price and Class II butterfat differential for preceding month.

6th—Submission by handlers of a monthly report of receipts and utilization for the preceding month.

10th—Announcement by market administrator of uniform prices for each handler and notification to handlers of the value of their producer milk received in the preceding month.

15th—Final payments by handlers to producers for milk received during preceding month and payments for marketing services.

20th—Submission of producer payroll report by handlers for preceding month.

Last—Partial payments to producers for milk received during first 15 days of the month.

Handlers should maintain and make available to the market administrator all records and accounts of their operations, together with facilities which are necessary to determine the accuracy of information reported to the market administrator or any other information upon which the classification of producer milk depends. The market administrator must likewise be permitted to check the accuracy of weights and tests of milk and milk products received and handled, and to verify all payments required under the order.

In addition to the regular reports required of handlers, provision is made for handlers to notify the market administrator of their intentions to import other source milk. Such information on a marketwide basis may assist handlers in locating local sources of producer milk and expedite the transfer of such milk among handlers. It is necessary that handlers retain records to prove the utilization of the milk and that proper payments were made to producers. Since the books and records of all handlers cannot be completed or audited immediately after the milk has been delivered to a plant, it therefore becomes necessary to keep such records for a reasonable period of time.

The order should provide limitations on the period of time handlers shall be required to retain such books and records and on the period of time in which obligations under the order shall terminate. Provision made in this regard is identical in principle with the general amendment made to all milk orders in operation on July 30, 1947, following the Secretary's decision of January 26, 1949 (14 F. R. 444). That decision covering the retention of records and limitation of claims is equally applicable in this situation and is adopted as a part of this decision.

Expense of administration. Each handler should be required to pay the market administrator, as his pro rata share of the cost of administering the order, not more than 5 cents per hundredweight, or such lesser amount as the Secretary may from time to time prescribe, on (a) producer milk (including such handler's own production), (b) other source milk in a fluid milk plant which is classified as Class I milk, and (c) Class I milk disposed of in the marketing area from a nonfluid milk plant.

The market administrator must have sufficient funds to enable him to administer properly the terms of the order. The act provides that such cost of administration shall be financed through an assessment on handlers. One of the duties of the market administrator is to verify the receipts and disposition of milk from all sources. The record indicates that other source milk is received by most handlers to supplement local producer supplies of milk and by a few handlers in their fluid milk plants for ice cream operations which are conducted in the same plant. Some handlers obtain a portion of their milk supply from their own herds. Equity in sharing the cost of administration of the order among handlers will be achieved, therefore, by applying the administrative assessment to all producer milk (including handlers' own production) and other source milk allocated to Class I milk.

Plants not subject to the classification and pricing provisions of the order may distribute limited quantities of Class I milk in the marketing area. These plants must be checked to verify their status under the order. Assessment of administrative expense with respect to such milk sold in the marketing area will help to defray the costs of such checks.

In view of the anticipated volume of milk and the costs of administering orders in markets of comparable circumstances, it is concluded that an initial rate of 5 cents per hundredweight is necessary to meet the expenses of administration. Provision should be made to enable the Secretary to reduce the rate of assessment below the 5 cents per hundredweight maximum without necessitating an amendment to the order. This should be done at any time experience in the market reveals that a lesser rate will produce sufficient revenue to administer the order properly.

Marketing services A provision should be included in the order for furnishing marketing services to producers, such as verifying of tests and weights and furnishing market information. These should be provided by the market administrator and the cost should be borne by the producer receiving the service. If a cooperative association is performing such services for any member producers and is approved for such activities by the Secretary, the market administrator may accept this in lieu of his own service.

There is a need for a marketing service program in connection with the administration of an order in this area. Orderly marketing will be promoted by assuring individual producers that payments received for their milk are based on the pricing provisions of the order, and reflect accurate weights and tests of such milk. To accomplish this fully, it is necessary that the butterfat tests and weights of individual producer deliveries of milk as reported by the handler be verified for accuracy.

An important phase of the marketing service program is to furnish producers with current market information. As previously discussed, detailed information regarding market conditions is not now regularly available either to producers or to cooperative associations. Efficiency in the production, utilization and marketing of milk will be promoted by the dissemination of current information on a marketwide basis to all producers.

To enable the market administrator to furnish such services, provision should be made for a maximum deduction of 7 cents per hundredweight with respect to receipts of milk from producers for whom he renders marketing services. Comparison of the extent of the milkshed and the volume of milk involved with that of several other markets now under Federal regulation leads to the conclusion that this will reflect the maximum cost of such services. If later experience indicates that marketing services can be performed at a lesser rate, provision is made for the Secretary to adjust the rate downward without the necessity of a hearing.

Handlers proposed that the marketing service deduction by the market administrator be no more than the deductions made by a cooperative association. However, they failed to show a need for the market administrator to make marketing service deductions, except those which are necessary to perform the services involved. No other standard should be applied in determining the rate of deduction.

General findings. (a) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply of and demand for milk in the marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and the order are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest; and

(c) The proposed order will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and will be applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

ORDER OF THE SECRETARY DIRECTING THE CONDUCT OF A REFERENDUM: DETERMINATION OF A REPRESENTATIVE PERIOD: AND DESIGNATION OF REFERENDUM AGENT

Pursuant to section 8c (19) of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 608c (19)), it is hereby directed that a referendum be conducted among the producers (as defined in the order set forth below regulating the handling of milk in the Central Mississippi marketing area) who, during the month of August 1954, which month is hereby determined to be the representative period for such referendum, were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area specified in the aforesaid order, to determine whether such producers favor the issuance of the order which is filed herewith.

A. T. Radigan is hereby designated agent of the Secretary to conduct such referendum in accordance with the procedure for the conduct of referenda to determine producer approval of milk marketing orders as published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on August 10, 1950 (15 F. R. 5177), such referendum to be completed on or before the 20th day from the date this decision is filed with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture.

Marketing agreement and order, as amended. Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled respectively, "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Central Mississippi Marketing Area," and "Order Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Central Mississippi, Marketing Area," which have been decided upon as the detailed and appropriate means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions. These documents shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

It is hereby ordered, That all of this decision, except the attached marketing agreement, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of said marketing agreement are identical with those contained in the order, which will be published with this decision.

This decision filed at Washington, D. C., this 3d day of September 1954.

§ 987.0 Findings and determinations—(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon a proposed marketing agreement and a proposed order regulating the handling of milk in the Central Mississippi marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply of and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest;

(3) The said order regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held;

(4) All milk and milk products handled by handlers, as defined in this order, are in the current of interstate commerce or directly burden, obstruct or affect interstate commerce in milk or its products; and

(5) It is hereby found that the necessary expense of the market administrator for the maintenance and functioning of such agency will require the payment by each handler as his pro rata share of such expense, 5 cents per hundredweight, or such amount not exceeding 5 cents per hundredweight as the Secretary may prescribe, with respect to all (a) receipts of producer milk, including such handler's own production, (b) other source milk at a fluid milk plant which is classified as Class I milk, and (c) Class I milk disposed of during the month on routes (including routes operated by vendors) to retail or wholesale outlets (except fluid milk plants) located in the marketing area from a nonfluid milk plant.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered that on and after the effective date hereof the handling of milk in the Central Mississippi marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the following terms and conditions:

(b) Class II milk. Class II milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat (1) used to produce any product other than those designated as Class I milk pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section; (2) disposed of and used for livestock feed; (3) contained in skim milk dumped, provided the market administrator is notified in advance and given opportunity to verify such dumping; and (4) in shrinkage not to exceed 2 percent of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in producer milk and other source milk.

§ 987.42 Assignment of shrinkage. The market administrator shall assign shrinkage at the fluid milk plant(s) of each handler as follows:

(a) Compute the shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat classified as Class II milk; and

(b) Assign the resulting amounts pro rata to the handler's receipts of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in producer milk and in other source milk.

§ 987.43 Responsibility of handlers and reclassification of milk. (a) All skim milk and butterfat shall be Class I milk unless the handler who first receives such skim milk or butterfat can prove to the market administrator that such skim milk or butterfat should be classified otherwise;

(b) Any skim milk or butterfat shall be reclassified if verification by the market administrator discloses that the original classification was incorrect.

§ 987.44 Transfers. Skim milk or butterfat disposed of each month from a fluid milk plant shall be classified:

(a) As Class I milk if transferred in the form of products designated as Class I milk in §987.41 (a) (1) to a fluid milk plant of another handler, except a producer-handler, unless utilization as Class II milk is claimed by both handlers in their reports submitted for the month to the market administrator pursuant to § 987.30: Provided, That the skim milk or butterfat so assigned to Class II milk shall be limited to the amount thereof remaining in Class II milk in the plant of the transferee-handler after the subtraction of other source milk pursuant to §987.46, and any additional amounts of such skim milk or butterfat shall be classified as Class I milk: And provided further, That if either or both handlers have other source milk during the month, the skim milk or butterfat so transferred shall be classified at both plants so as to allocate the greatest possible Class I milk utilization to the producer milk of both handlers;

(b) As Class I milk if transferred to a producer-handler in the form of products designated as Class I milk in § 987.41 (a) (1);

(c) As Class I milk if transferred or diverted in the form of bulk milk, skim milk, or cream to a nonfluid milk plant, unless the following conditions are met:

(1) The transferring handler claims utilization in a product specified in § 987.41 (b);

(2) The operator of the nonfluid milk plant keeps adequate books and records showing the utilization of all skim milk and butterfat received at such plant, and the market administrator is permitted to audit such books and records for the purpose of verification; and

(3) The Class I milk in the nonfluid milk plant does not exceed the receipts of butterfat and skim milk in milk received during the month from dairy farmers who the market administrator determines are the regular source of supply for such plant: Provided, That any Class I milk in excess of receipts from such dairy farmers shall be assigned to milk, cream, or skim milk so transferred or diverted.

§ 987.45 Computation of the skim milk and butterfat in each class. For each month, the market administrator shall correct for mathematical and for other obvious errors the reports of receipts and utilization for the fluid milk plant(s) of each handler and shall compute the pounds of butterfat and skim milk in Class I milk and Class II milk for such handler: Provided, That if any of the water contained in the milk from which a product is made is removed before the product is utilized or disposed of by a handler, the pounds of skim milk disposed of in such product shall be considered to be an amount equivalent to the nonfat milk solids contained in such product, plus all of the water originally associated with such solids.

§ 987.46 Allocation of skim milk and butterfat classified. After making the computations pursuant to § 987.45, the market administrator shall determine the classification of producer milk received at the fluid milk plant(s) of each handler each month as follows:

(a) Skim milk shall be allocated in the following manner:

(1) Subtract from the total pounds of skim milk in Class II milk the pounds of skim milk assigned to producer milk pursuant to § 987.42 (b);

(2) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in Class II milk the pounds of skim milk in other source milk: Provided, That if the pounds of skim milk in other source milk exceed the remaining pounds of skim milk in Class II milk, an amount equal to the difference shall be subtracted from the pounds of skim milk in Class I milk;

(3) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in Class I milk the pounds of skim milk contained in inventory of Class I products on hand at the beginning of the month;

(4) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in each class the skim milk contained in products designated as Class I milk in § 987.41 (a) (1) received from the fluid milk plants of other handlers, according to the classification of such skim milk as determined pursuant to § 987.44 (a);

(5) Add to the remaining pounds of skim milk in Class II milk the pounds of skim milk subtracted pursuant to subparagraph (1) of this paragraph; and

(6) If the remaining pounds of skim milk in both classes exceed the pounds of skim milk contained in producer milk, subtract such excess from the remaining pounds of skim milk in series beginning with Class II milk. Any amount so subtracted shall be known as "overage."

(b) Butterfat shall be allocated in accordance with the same procedure outlined for skim milk in paragraph (a) of this section;

(c) Determine the weighted average butterfat content of the Class I and Class II milk allocated to producer milk.

(a) Any distributing plant which would be subject to the classification and pricing provisions of another order issued pursuant to the act unless the Secretary determines that more Class I milk is disposed of from such plant to retail or wholesale outlets (except pool plants) in the Central Mississippi marketing area than in the marketing area regulated pursuant to such other order.

(b) Any supply plant which would be subject to the classification and pricing provisions of another order issued pursuant to the act unless such plant qualified as a pool plant pursuant to the provisions of § 987.8 (b) during each of the preceding months of August through December.

DETERMINATION OF UNIFORM PRICE

§ 987.70 Net obligation of handlers. The net obligation of each handler for producer milk received at his fluid milk plant(s) during each month shall be a sum of money computed by the market administrator as follows: (a) Multiply the pounds of such milk in each class by the applicable class price; (b) add together the resulting amounts; (c) add the amounts computed by multiplying the pounds of overage deducted from each class by the applicable class price; (d) add or subtract, as the case may be, an amount necessary to correct errors discovered by the market administrator in the verification of reports of such handler of his receipts and utilization of skim milk and butterfat for previous months; (e) in the case of a handler operating a fluid milk plant which was not a fluid milk plant under this order during each of the preceding 5 months, add an amount calculated by multiplying the difference between the Class I and the Class II prices adjusted by the appropriate butterfat differentials by any figure determined as follows: Any amount by which the hundredweight of skim milk or butterfat in inventory classified for such month, pursuant to § 987.41 (a) (2), is less than the least hundredweight of skim milk or butterfat, respectively, deducted pursuant to § 987.46 (a) (3) and (b) for such handler for any month since such plant was not a fluid milk plant; (f) add for each month of July an amount calculated by multiplying by 40 cents the hundredweight by which the inventory classified pursuant to § 987.41 (a) (2) for the preceding month exceeds any inventory so classified for the preceding February.

§ 987.71 Computation of uniform prices for handlers. For each of the months of August through February, the market administrator shall compute a uniform price for the producer milk received by each handler as follows:

(a) Add to the amount computed pursuant to § 987.70 the total of the location differential deductions to be made pursuant to § 987.90 (b) or (c);

(b) Add or subtract for each one-tenth percent that the average butterfat content of producer milk received by such handler is less or more, respectively, than 4.0 percent, an amount computed by multiplying such difference by the butterfat differential to producers, and multiplying the result by the total hundredweight of producer milk;

(c) Add the amount represented by any deductions made for eliminating fractions of a cent in computing the uniform price(s) for such handler for the preceding month;

(d) Divide the resulting amount by the total hundredweight of producer milk received by such handler. The result, less any fraction of a cent per hundredweight shall be known as the uniform price for such handler for milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content, f. o. b. market.

§ 987.72 Computation of the uniform price for base milk and for excess milk for handlers. For each of the months of March through July, the market administrator shall compute for each handler with respect to his producer milk a uniform price for base milk and for excess milk as follows:

(a) Add to the amount computed pursuant to § 987.70 the total of the location differential deductions made pursuant to § 987.90 (b) or (c);

(b) Add or subtract for each one-tenth percent that the average butterfat content of producer milk received by such handler is less or more, respectively, than 4.0 percent, an amount computed by multiplying such difference by the butterfat differential to producers, and multiplying the result by the total hundredweight of producer milk;

(c) Add the amount represented by any deductions made for eliminating fractions of a cent in computing the uniform price(s) for such handler for the preceding month;

(d) Subject to the conditions set forth in paragraph (e) of this section, compute the value of excess milk received by such handler from producers by multiplying the quantity of such milk by the Class II price;

(e) Compute the value of base milk received by such handler from producers by subtracting the value obtained pursuant to paragraph (d) of this section from the value obtained pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section: Provided, That if such resulting value is greater than an amount computed by multiplying the pounds of such base milk by the Class I price, such value in excess thereof shall be added to the value computed pursuant to paragraph (d) of this section;

(f) Divide the value obtained pursuant to paragraph (e) of this section by the hundredweight of base milk in producer milk. This result, less any fraction of a cent per hundredweight, shall be known as the uniform price for such handler for base milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content, f. o. b. market; and

(g) Divide the value obtained pursuant to paragraph (d) of this section by the hundredweight of excess milk in producer milk. This result, less any fraction of a cent per hundredweight, shall be known as the uniform price for such handler for excess milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content.

BASE RATING

§ 987.80 Determination of daily base. The daily base of each producer shall be calculated by the market administrator as follows: Divide the total pounds of milk received by all handlers from such producer during the months of September through January by the number of days from the first day milk is received from such producer during said months to the last day of January, inclusive, but not less than 120 days.

§ 987.81 Computation of base. The base of each producer to be applied during the months of March through July shall be a quantity of milk calculated by the market administrator in the following manner: Multiply the daily base of such producer by the number of days such producer's milk was received by such handler during the month.

§ 987.82 Base rules. The following rules shall apply in connection with the establishment of bases:

(a) A base shall be assigned to the producer for whose account milk is received at a fluid milk plant during the months of September through January;

(b) Bases may be transferred by notifying the market administrator in writing before the last day of any month for which such base is to be transferred to the person named in such notice only as follows:

(1) In the event of the death, retirement, or entry into military service of a producer, the entire base may be transferred to a member of such producer's immediate family who carries on the dairy operations.

(2) If a base is held jointly and such joint holding is terminated, the entire base may be transferred to one of the joint holders.

(3) The entire daily base of a producer may be moved from one handler to another handler.

§ 987.83 Announcement of established bases. On or before March 1 of each year, the market administrator shall notify each producer and the handler receiving milk from such producer of the daily base established by such producer.

PAYMENTS

§ 987.90 Payments to producers. Each handler shall make payment to each producer for milk received from such producer as follows:

(a) On or before the last day of each month for milk received during the first 15 days of the month at not less than the price per hundredweight for Class II milk for the preceding month;

(b) On or before the 15th day after the end of each of the months of August through February for milk received during such month at not less than the uniform price per hundredweight, computed for such handler pursuant to § 987.71, subject to the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 987.91 and the location differential computed pursuant to § 987.92, less proper deductions authorized in writing by such producer and less payment made pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section and deductions made pursuant to § 987.94;

(c) On or before the 15th day after the end of each of the months of March through July, after allowance for the amount of payment made pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section for deductions made pursuant to § 987.94, and for other proper deductions authorized in writing by such producer, as follows:

(1) At not less than the uniform price per hundredweight for base milk computed pursuant to § 987.72 for the quantity of base milk received from such producer during the month, subject to the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 987.91 and the location differential computed pursuant to § 987.92;

(2) At not less than the uniform price per hundredweight for excess milk computed pursuant to § 987.72 for the quantity of excess milk received from such producer during the month, subject to the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 987.91 and the location differential computed pursuant to § 987.92;

(d) In making the payments to producers pursuant to paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, each handler shall furnish each producer from whom he has received milk with a supporting statement in such form that it may be retained by the producer, which shall show for each month:

(1) The month and the identity of the handler and of the producer;

(2) The daily and total pounds and the average butterfat content of milk received from such producer;

(3) The minimum rate or rates at which payment to such producer is required pursuant to this part;

(4) The rate which is used in making the payment, if such rate is other than the applicable minimum rate;

(5) The amount or the rate per hundredweight and nature of each deduction claimed by the handler; and

(6) The net amount of payment to such producer.

§ 987.91 Butterfat differential to producers. The applicable uniform prices to be paid pursuant to § 987.90 to producers delivering milk to each handler shall be increased or decreased for each one-tenth of one percent which the butterfat content of his milk is above or below 4.0 percent, respectively, at the rate determined by multiplying the pounds of butterfat in the producer milk of such handler allocated to Class I and Class II milk pursuant to § 987.46 (b) by the respective butterfat differential for each class, dividing the sum of such values by the total pounds of such butterfat and rounding the resultant figure to the nearest half cent.

§ 987.92 Location differentials to producers. In making payment to producers pursuant to § 987.90, the applicable uniform prices to be paid for producer milk received at a fluid milk plant located outside the marketing area and more than 50 miles from the State Capitol Building in Jackson, Mississippi, by the shortest hard-surfaced highway distance, as determined by the market administrator, shall be reduced 10 cents per hundredweight.

§ 987.93 Adjustment of accounts. Whenever audit by the market administrator of any handler's reports, books, records, or accounts, or verification of weights and butterfat tests of milk or milk products discloses errors resulting in money due a producer or the market administrator from such handler, or due such handler from the market administrator, the market administrator shall notify such handler of any amount so due, and payment thereof shall be made on or before the next date for making payments, as set forth in the provisions under which such error occurred.

§ 987.94 Marketing services. (a) Except as set forth in paragraph (b) of this section, each handler, in making payments to producers for milk (other than milk of his own production) pursuant to § 987.90, shall deduct 7 cents per hundredweight, or such amount not exceeding 7 cents per hundredweight, as may be prescribed by the Secretary, and shall pay such deductions to the market administrator on or before the 15th day after the end of each month. Such moneys shall be used by the market administrator to provide market information and to check the accuracy of the testing and weighing of their milk for producers who are not receiving such service from a cooperative association;

(b) In the case of producers who are members of a cooperative association which the Secretary has determined is actually performing the services set forth in paragraph (a) of this section, each handler shall make, in lieu of the deduction specified in paragraph (a) of this section, such deductions from the payments to be made to such producers as may be authorized by the membership agreement or marketing contract between such cooperative association and such producers on or before the 15th day after the end of each month, and pay such deductions to the cooperative association of which such producers are members, furnishing a statement showing the amount of any such deductions and the amount and average butterfat test of milk received from each such producer. In lieu of such statement, a handler may authorize the market administrator to furnish such cooperative association the information reported for such producers pursuant to § 987.90 (d).

§ 987.95 Expense of administration. As his pro rata share of the expense of administration of this part, each handler shall pay to the market administrator on or before the 15th day after the end of the month for such month 5 cents per hundredweight, or such amount not exceeding 5 cents per hundredweight, as the Secretary may prescribe, with respect to all (a) receipts of producer milk, including such handler's own production; (b) other source milk at a fluid milk plant which is classified as Class I milk; and (c) Class I milk disposed of during the month on routes (including routes operated by vendors) to retail or wholesale outlets (except fluid milk plants) located in the marketing area from a nonfluid milk plant.

§ 987.96 Termination of obligations. The provisions of this section shall apply to any obligation under this part for the payment of money.

(a) The obligation of any handler to pay money required to be paid under the terms of this part shall, except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, terminate two years after the last day of the calendar month during which the market administrator receives the handler's utilization report on the milk involved in such obligation, unless within such two-year period the market administrator notifies the handler in writing that such money is due and payable. Service of such notice shall be complete upon mailing to the handler's last known address, and it shall contain, but need not be limited to, the following information:

(1) The amount of the obligation;

(2) The month(s) during which the milk, with respect to which the obligation exists, was received or handled; and

(3) If the obligation is payable to one or more producers or to an association of producers, the name of such producer(s) or association of producers, or if the obligation is payable to the market administrator, the account for which it is to be paid.

(b) If a handler fails or refuses, with respect to any obligation under this part, to make available to the market administrator or his representatives all books and records required by this part to be made available, the market administrator may, within the two-year period provided for in paragraph (a) of this section, notify the handler in writing of such failure or refusal. If the market administrator so notifies a handler, the said two-year period with respect to such obligation shall not begin to run until the first day of the calendar month following the month during which all such books and records pertaining to such obligation are made available to the market administrator or his representatives.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, a handler's obligation under this part to pay money shall not be terminated with respect to any transaction involving fraud or wilful concealment of a fact, material to the obligation, on the part of the handler against whom the obligation is sought to be imposed.

(d) Any obligation on the part of the market administrator to pay a handler any money which such handler claims to be due him under the terms of this part shall terminate two years after the end of the calendar month during which the milk involved in the claim was received if an underpayment is claimed, or two years after the end of the calendar month during which the payment (including deduction or set-off by the market administrator) was made by the handler if a refund on such payment is claimed, unless such handler within the applicable period of time, files, pursuant to section 8c (15) (A) of the act, a petition claiming such money.

EFFECTIVE TIME, SUSPENSION, OR TERMINATION

§ 987.100 Effective time. The provisions of this part or any amendment to this part shall become effective at such time as the Secretary may declare and shall continue in force until suspended or terminated pursuant to § 987.101.

§ 987.101 Suspension or termination. The Secretary may suspend or terminate this part or any provision of this part whenever he finds this part or any provision of this part obstructs or does not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act. This part shall terminate, in any event, whenever the provisions of the act authorizing it cease to be in effect.

§ 987.102 Continuing obligations. If, upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions of this part, there are any obligations thereunder, the final accrual or ascertainment of which requires further acts by any person (including the market administrator), such further acts shall be performed notwithstanding such suspension or termination.

§ 987.103 Liquidation. Upon the suspension or termination of the provisions of this part, except this section, the market administrator, or such liquidating agent as the Secretary may designate, shall, if so directed by the Secretary, liquidate the business of the market administrator's office, dispose of all property in his possession or control, including accounts receivable, and execute and deliver all assignment or other instruments necessary or appropriate to effectuate any such disposition. If a liquidating agent is so designated, all assets, books, and records of the market administrator shall be transferred promptly to such liquidating agent. If, upon such liquidation, the funds on hand exceed the amounts required to pay outstanding obligations of the office of the market administrator and to pay necessary expenses of liquidating and distribution, such excess shall be distributed to contributing handlers and producers in an equitable manner.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

§ 987.110 Agents. The Secretary may, by designation in writing, name any officer or employee of the United States to act as his Agent or Representative in connection with any of the provisions of this part.

§ 987.111 Separability of provisions. If any provision of this part, or its application to any person or circumstances is held invalid, the application of such provision and of the remaining provisions of this part, to other persons or circumstances shall not be affected thereby.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

[47 CFR Part 16]

[Docket No. 10743; FCC 54-1108]

LAND TRANSPORTATION RADIO SERVICES; MOTOR CARRIER RADIO SERVICE

NOTICE OF FURTHER PROPOSED RULE MAKING

In the matter of amendment of Part 16, rules governing Land Transportation Radio Services, to establish a Motor Carrier Radio Service and to make other related changes; Docket No. 10743.

1. Notice is hereby given of further proposed rule making in the above-entitled matter.

2. The proceeding in this docket was initiated on November 4, 1953, by a notice of proposed rule making (18 F. R. 7255) proposing to create a Motor Carrier Radio Service which would replace the Highway Truck, Intercity Bus and Urban Transit Radio Services. For the reasons stated in the First Report and Order adopted today, the Commission is making final the part of the Notice relating to the carriers of passengers, i. e., the former Intercity Bus and Urban Transit Radio Services and issuing this notice of further rule making with respect to the carriers of property, i. e., the Highway Truck Radio Service.

3. This notice looks toward the adoption of a rule limiting the eligibility of carriers of property to common carriers who would be allowed to use radio within cities for limited purposes, e. g., communications with vehicles for the purpose of routing or rerouting them to various terminals, or dispatching them to points outside the city to deliver a part of their cargo or collect freight to make up their load for further transportation in the same vehicles. Also, applicants desiring to use the frequencies in the 43 Mc band would be required to show a need therefor to justify their assignment.

4. The following nine frequencies are proposed for exclusive use by such carriers: 43.70, 43.74, 43.78, 43.82, 43.86, 43.90, 43.94, 43.98 and 44.02 Mc. The frequencies 44.06, 44.10 and 44.14 Mc have been tentatively allocated for use by intercity passenger carriers subject to the outcome of this proceeding (see paragraph 8 of the First Report and Order herein). The trucking industry is, therefore, having this additional opportunity to demonstrate the need for these three frequencies as against the intercity buses. The frequencies listed in §§ 16.252 (d) and 16.253 of the rules as amended today would become available to the carriers of property on the same basis as they are available to the carriers of passengers.

5. The issues we are seeking to resolve in this proceeding may be stated as follows:

(a) Whether eligibility of carriers of property in the Motor Carrier Radio Service should be limited to common carriers;

(b) Whether and, if so, to what extent contract carriers of property should be eligible in the Motor Carrier Radio Service; and

(c) To what extent should carriers of property eligible in the Motor Carrier Radio Service be permitted to use radio within the city limits of cities, under what conditions or limitations, if any, and on what frequencies.

6. The foregoing proposal, the authority for which is contained in section 4 (i) and 303 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, supersedes the part of the initial notice of proposed rule making which has not been made final in the First Report and Order adopted herein. The final rules resulting from this notice will be incorporated into the new rules governing the Motor Carrier Radio Service.

7. Interested persons may file with the Commission on or before October 1, 1954, written statements or briefs in support or in opposition to the foregoing proposal. Within 14 days from that date, comments or briefs in reply to the original comments or briefs may be filed. Equipment manufacturers are specifically invited to submit comments regarding the proposed frequency limitations. The Commission will consider all such comments that are submitted before taking action in this matter, and if any comments appear to warrant the holding of a hearing or oral argument, notice of the time and place of such hearing or oral argument will be given.

8. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.764 of the Commission's rules and regulations, an original and 14 copies of all statements, briefs, or comments shall be furnished the Commission.

Adopted: September 1, 1954.

Released: September 3, 1954.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,
[SEAL] MARY JANE MORRIS,
Secretary.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[17 CFR Part 230]

DEFINITIONS OF TERMS USED IN THE ACT

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Notice is hereby given that the Securities and Exchange Commission has under consideration a proposal to amend § 230.133 (Rule 133), adopted under the Securities Act of 1933, particularly under sections 2 (3), 5 and 19 (a) thereof. Rule 133, which is in the form of a definition of the terms "sale," "offer to sell," and "offer for sale," serves to make clear that the registration and prospectus requirements of the Securities Act are inapplicable to certain mergers, consolidations, reclassifications of securities and transfers of assets between two corporations.

The proposal now under consideration is to broaden the rule so as also to exclude from the registration and prospectus requirements certain cases involving a parent corporation, a controlled company, and a third corporation, where the assets of the third corporation are transferred to the controlled company in consideration of the issuance of securities of the controlling corporation. Specifically it is proposed to amend Rule 133 to read as follows:

§ 230.133 Definition for purposes of section 5, of "sale," "offer to sell," and "offer for sale." For purposes only of section 5 of the act, no "sale," "offer to sell," or "offer for sale" shall be deemed to be involved so far as the stockholders of a corporation are concerned where, pursuant to statutory provisions in the State of incorporation or provisions contained in the certificate of incorporation, there is submitted to the vote of such stockholders a plan or agreement for a statutory merger or consolidation or reclassification of securities, or a proposal for the transfer of assets of such corporation to another person in consideration of the issuance of securities of such other person or voting stock of a corporation which is in control, as defined in section 368 (c) of the Internal Revenue Code, of 1954, of such other person, under such circumstances that the vote of a required favorable majority (a) will operate to authorize the proposed transaction so far as concerns the corporation whose stockholders are voting (except for the taking of action by the directors of the corporation involved and for compliance with such statutory provisions as the filing of the plan or agreement with the appropriate State authority), and (b) will bind all stockholders of such corporation except to the extent that dissenting stockholders may be entitled, under statutory provisions or provisions contained in the certificate of incorporation, to receive the appraised or fair value of their holdings.

The proposal arises from the fact that section 368 (a) (1) (C) of the Internal Revenue Code, which defines tax-free "reorganizations," has just been amended in a somewhat similar manner.

All interested persons are invited to submit their views and comments on the proposed amendment in writing to the Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D. C., on or before September 30, 1954. Unless the person submitting any such comments or suggestions requests in writing that they be held confidential, they will be public records, available for public inspection.

By the Commission.

[SEAL] NELLYE A. THORSEN,
Assistant Secretary.

Commencing at 10:00 a. m. on the 126th day after the date of this order, any lands remaining unappropriated shall become subject to such application, petition, location, selection, or other appropriation by the public generally as may be authorized by the public-land laws. A veteran shall accompany his application with a complete photostatic, or other copy (both sides), of his certificate of honorable discharge, or of an official document of his branch of the service which shows clearly his honorable discharge as defined in § 181.36 of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations, or constitutes evidence of other facts upon which the claim for preference is based and which shows clearly the period of service. Other persons claiming credit for service of veterans must furnish like proof in support of their claims. Persons asserting preference rights, through settlement or otherwise, and those having equitable claims, shall accompany their applications by duly corroborated statements in support thereof, setting forth in detail all facts relevant to their claims.

BENSON AND HEDGES

NOTICE OF APPLICATION TO STRIKE FROM LISTING AND REGISTRATION, AND OF OPPORTUNITY FOR HEARING

SEPTEMBER 1, 1954.

The American Stock Exchange, pursuant to section 12 (d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and Rule X-12D2-1 promulgated thereunder, has made application to strike from listing and registration the common stock, $4.00 par value of Benson and Hedges.

The application alleges that the reasons for striking this security from listing and registration on this exchange are:

(1) By prospectus dated January 27, 1954, issued under the Securities Act of 1933, Philip Morris & Co., Ltd., Inc. offered to issue shares of its common stock, par value $5.00, on a share-for-share basis in exchange for the common stock, par value $4.00, of Benson and Hedges.

(2) Consummation of the Exchange offer was subject to the condition that not less than 355,460 shares of common stock of Benson and Hedges were deposited.

(3) The offer was declared effective on February 5, 1954, by which date 367,829 shares had been deposited.

(4) As of August 4, 1954, a total of 437,786 shares or 98.7 percent of the 443,398 outstanding shares, were owned by Philip Morris & Co. Ltd., Inc., leaving a net "public" distribution of 5,612 shares (1.3 percent of the issue) owned by 40 stockholders of record. There probably are more than 40 beneficial owners of the shares, since some of the stock of record is in brokers' names, but this would not affect the total number of shares available for dealings on the Exchange.

(5) To the present date the Exchange offer has not been terminated and holders of the common stock of Benson and Hedges desiring to tender their stock for exchange into the common stock of Philip Morris & Co. Ltd., Inc., may still do so upon deposit of their certificates with the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, Exchange Agent.

(6) At its meeting held on August 24, 1954, the Committee on Securities of the Exchange concluded that the number of shares of said stock which remained outstanding had become so reduced as to make inadvisable further dealings upon the Exchange.

Upon receipt of a request, prior to September 20, 1954, from any interested person for a hearing in regard to terms to be imposed upon the delisting of this security, the Commission will determine whether to set the matter down for hearing. Such request should state briefly the nature of the interest of the person requesting the hearing and the position he proposes to take at the hearing with respect to imposition of terms or conditions. In addition, any interested person may submit his views or any additional facts bearing on this application by means of a letter addressed to the Secretary of the Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D. C. If no one requests a hearing on this matter, this application will be determined by order of the Commission on the basis of the facts stated in the application, and other information contained in the official file of the Commission pertaining to this matter.

By the Commission.

SUPPLEMENTAL ORDER RELEASING JURISDICTION WITH RESPECT TO ACCOUNTING ENTRIES

AUGUST 31, 1954.

The Commission by order dated June 23, 1954, having permitted to become effective a declaration, as amended, of Standard Power and Light Corporation ("Standard Power"), a registered holding company, with respect to its proposal to pay a dividend of 30 cents per share, which it was represented would be paid out of capital surplus, to the holders of its outstanding common stock; and INCORPORATED INVESTORS AND PARKER CORP.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR TEMPORARY EXEMPTION FROM PROVISIONS REQUIRING APPROVAL BY STOCKHOLDERS OF INVESTMENT ADVISORY CONTRACT

SEPTEMBER 1, 1954.

Notice is hereby given that Incorporated Investors, Boston, Massachusetts, a registered, open-end, diversified investment company, and The Parker Corporation, the principal underwriter for Incorporated Investors, have filed an application pursuant to section 6 (c) of the act, seeking an exemption from the provisions of section 15 (a) of the act, to the extent that The Parker Corporation may be permitted to serve as investment adviser of Incorporated Investors until the conclusion of the latter's next annual meeting of shareholders under a written investment advisory contract to be executed between the applicants without having been approved by the shareholders of Incorporated Investors.

The present investment adviser of Incorporated Investors is Management Associates, a Massachusetts voluntary association which has transferable shares outstanding, all of which are owned by the same persons who own the outstanding capital stock of The Parker Corporation. Management Associates has acted as investment adviser of Incorporated Investors since 1929 pursuant to various written contracts, the contract now in effect having been executed on March 24, 1954, and approved by a majority of the outstanding shares of Incorporated Investors on that date.

It is proposed that the holders of the outstanding shares of Management Associates contribute their holdings of 100 percent of Management Associates' outstanding shares to The Parker Corporation and that Management Associates thereafter be liquidated. Under the terms of Management Associates' investment advisory contract with Incorporated Investors, the proposed contribution of the shares of Incorporated Investors would constitute an assignment of the investment advisory contract itself and would result in the termination thereof. Therefore, it is proposed that The Parker Corporation enter into a new contract with Incorporated Investors to serve the latter as investment adviser, which contract will be submitted for approval to the stockholders of Incorporated Investors at their next annual meeting expected to be held in March, 1955. The Parker Corporation will continue to act as principal underwriter for Incorporated Investors.

It is stated that the instant proposal involves only a formal change in the investment adviser of Incorporated Investors. In this connection, the application states that Management Associates has five trustees four of whom are officers of The Parker Corporation and constitute the latter company's entire board of directors, and that, as stated above, Management Associates and The Parker Corporation have the same stockholders. In addition, the application shows that each stockholder's proportionate interest in one company is the same as his interest in the other. Management Associates and The Parker Corporation each has outstanding 4,200 shares of capital stock of which 1,800 shares of each (42.8 percent) are owned by William A. Parker, 1,200 shares of each (28.6 percent) by Amory Parker and 1,200 shares of each (28.6 percent) by George D. Aldrich. The application also states that The Parker Corporation does not intend to make any changes in the policies or practices of Management Associates with respect to Incorporated Investors or in the services rendered by Management Associates to Incorporated Investors.

The application further states that it is proposed that shortly after September 1, 1954, Charles Devens, President of Incorporated Investors, The Parker Corporation and Management Associates, will acquire from The Parker Corporation about 600 shares of its capital stock for cash at a price equal to the book value of such stock. Upon such acquisition, the proportionate interest of the present shareholders of The Parker Corporation will be slightly reduced so that the ownership will then be 37½ percent by William A. Parker, 25 percent by Amory Parker, 25 percent by George D. Aldrich and 12½ percent by Charles Devens.

Section 15 (a) of the act provides, among other things, that no person shall serve as investment advisor of a registered investment company except pursuant to a written contract which has been approved by the vote of a majority of the outstanding voting securities of such registered company. Section 6 (c) of the act provides that the Commission, upon application, may exempt any person or transaction from any provisions of the act, if and to the extent such exemption is necessary or appropriate in the public interest and consistent with the protection of investors and the purposes fairly intended by the policy and provisions of the act.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than September 16, 1954, at 5:30 p. m., submit to the Commission, in writing, any facts bearing upon the desirability of a hearing on the matter and may request that a hearing be held, such request stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request and the issues, if any, of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such communication or request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D. C. At any time after said date, the application may be granted as provided in Rule N-5 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act.

By the Commission.

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter XI—Agricultural Conservation Program Service, Department of Agriculture

[Fair Price Regs., Revision 6]

PART 1101—NATIONAL AGRICULTURAL CONSERVATION

SUBPART—FIXING OF FAIR PRICES

FAIR PRICES FOR CONSERVATION MATERIALS AND SERVICES ACQUIRED BY MEANS OF PURCHASE ORDERS

The regulations governing the fixing of fair prices for conservation materials and services acquired by means of purchase orders, as issued by the Acting Secretary of Agriculture (18 F. R. 3635), are revised to read as follows:

§ 1101.0 Fair prices for conservation materials and services acquired by means of purchase orders—(a) Cancellation of existing fair prices. Fair prices for acquiring conservation materials and services by means of purchase orders heretofore established under preexisting regulations are hereby canceled.

(b) Conditions under which fair prices shall be established. A fair price for acquiring a conservation material or service by means of purchase orders shall be established hereafter only where the person or committee designated to establish fair prices determines that the establishing of a fair price for a given material or service is necessary because (1) the supply or availability of the material or service through local commercial channels is inadequate to meet the anticipated demand, and (2) the inadequate supply will result in commercial prices that are excessive in relation to such supply.

(c) Delegation to the Administrator, Agricultural Conservation Program Service. The Administrator, Agricultural Conservation Program Service, shall designate the conservation materials and services which may be furnished by means of purchase orders in connection with the Agricultural Conservation Program, the person or committee who shall establish the fair prices, the method of making such determinations, and shall prescribe the procedures under which materials and services may be furnished: Provided, however, That (1) if the State ASC Committee is designated to establish the fair prices such committee may redelegate the authority to county ASC committees; (2) any such fair prices shall be established in accordance with the provisions of paragraphs (b), (d), and (e) of this section, and (3) any such fair prices shall be subject to such review as may be required by the person or committee who has delegated the authority to establish fair prices.

(d) Conservation materials. A fair price shall be the price at which a vendor agrees to furnish the material at a given time under a given set of conditions, provided it is determined by the person or committee authorized to establish fair prices that the price is not excessive in relation to:

(1) The prices which farmers are currently paying for the same or similar material under the same or similar conditions.

(2) The prices at which farmers could obtain the same material through other than local channels, and

(3) The actual or estimated cost to the vendor and a reasonable margin for profit.

(e) Services. A fair price shall be the price at which a vendor equipped to perform a service agrees to furnish it at a given time and under a given set of conditions, providing it is determined by the person or committee authorized to establish fair prices that the price is not excessive in relation to:

(1) The prices which farmers are currently paying for the same or similar service under the same or similar conditions, and

(2) The actual or estimated cost to the vendor and a reasonable margin for profit.

(f) Defective materials and services. A material or service furnished under purchase orders shall be deemed to be defective if it is determined that the material or service does not meet quality specifications. In such case the material or service may be rejected and no payment made therefor by the Government. At the option of the person or committee designated to establish the fair price such materials or services may be accepted subject to a deduction equal to the difference between the price of the material or service of the quality specified and the value of the material or service furnished.

(g) Inspection and analysis. Materials and services shall be inspected and samples taken in accordance with instructions issued by the Administrator, Agricultural Conservation Program Service: Provided, however, That the inspection and analysis controls exercised by State regulatory authorities may be deemed a sufficient protection to the Government as to the quality standards of any material over which such authority is exercised: Provided, further, That this shall not prevent the taking of additional samples nor shall it satisfy the responsibility of the Government for the making of separate inspections of materials in any case where such further action is necessary to adequately protect the interests of the Government.

(Sec. 8, 49 Stat. 1149, as amended, Pub. Law 690, 83d Cong.; 16 U. S. C. 590h)

Done at Washington, D. C., this 2d day of September 1954.

EARL L. BUTZ,
Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

TITLE 32—NATIONAL DEFENSE

Chapter V—Department of the Army

Subchapter C—Military Education

PART 543—PROMOTION OF RIFLE PRACTICE

RIFLE AND PISTOL COMPETITIONS IN SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES

In § 543.5, subparagraphs (3) and (4) of paragraph (c) are amended as follows:

§ 543.5 Rifle and pistol competitions in schools and colleges. • • •

(c) Annual indoor rifle matches. • • •

(3) Army area intercollegiate and interscholastic matches. From January 1 to the last day of February, annually, institutions in each group listed in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, will fire matches with the other institutions of their group in the same army area under such regulations as the army commander may prescribe, the object being to rate the relative standing of the institutions in marksmanship. The institutions should be encouraged to enter as many competitors and teams as may be practicable. The marking of targets, announcing scores, awarding prizes, etc., will be arranged and prescribed by the army commander. Army commanders are authorized to delegate detailed supervision of the matches to the chiefs of military districts. The National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice will award badges for army area ROTC rifle championship matches. The course of fire, composition of competing teams, and other conditions will be as prescribed in subparagraph (4) of this paragraph for the national ROTC matches. At the conclusion of the army area ROTC matches, the results will be reported to the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice, which then will forward to the army commanders 10 medals for the winning team in each group in which at least 3 teams complete the match under the conditions prescribed.

(4) National ROTC intercollegiate and interscholastic matches—(i) When fired and report of entries. Between March 15 and April 15, annually, the national intercollegiate team matches will be conducted under the supervision of the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice for each of the groups listed under subparagraphs (1) of this paragraph. A Report of Teams Selected for National ROTC Intercollegiate Rifle Matches (Reports Control Symbol, SAOUS-3) (formerly Reports Control Symbol WDOUS-03) will be forwarded by army commanders to the executive officer, National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice, Department of the Army, Washington 25, D. C., as soon after the completion of the army area matches as practicable, in any case not later than March 1 of each year. This report will be in letter form with the report title and reports control symbol as the subject and will list the teams, with addresses, selected to represent the army area in the National ROTC Intercollegiate Indoor Rifle Matches. The army commanders are authorized to delegate detailed supervision of the matches to chiefs of military districts.

(ii) Composition of teams. Each team will consist of a minimum of 10 and a maximum of 15 members who are students regularly enrolled in the ROTC of the institution which they represent, and other students, authorized to pursue the ROTC course. The 10 highest individual aggregate scores will constitute the team score. For this competition, each army commander will designate from each group in his army area the high one-third of the number of teams which competed in that group in the army area ROTC matches. More than one team may be selected from an institution, in which case they will be designated and named accordingly. A student will fire as a member of one team only. The members of a team will be designated prior to record firing and no substitutions will be made for any member after a team has started record firing. Disqualification of a team member automatically disqualifies the entire team.

(xvi) Disposition of target. After completion of the firing of each stage of the national ROTC team match, the record targets for stage, accompanied by the above certificates, will be forwarded for official scoring to the chiefs of military districts or as directed by army commanders. Only targets issued and marked by the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice will be used for record firing in this match. The same number of targets received must be returned to army headquarters. Failure to return the same number of targets as received, whether used or not, will be grounds for disqualification of the team.

§ 20.23 Physical standards—(a) Powered aircraft. Applicant shall meet the physical standards of the third class prescribed in Part 29 of this subchapter: Provided, That an applicant who is unable to distinguish aviation signal red, aviation signal green, and white shall be issued an airman certificate appropriately endorsed to prohibit the holder thereof from exercising the privileges of such certificate except under such conditions, or with the use of such equipment, which would not require the ability to distinguish such aviation signal colors.

(b) Glider. Applicant shall have no known physical defect which renders him incompetent to pilot a glider, and shall so certify.

§ 20.24 Aeronautical knowledge—(a) Powered aircraft. An applicant for a powered aircraft rating shall have passed within the preceding 24 months a written examination based on Parts 43, 60, and 62 of this subchapter and on practical aspects of cross-country flight planning, weather recognition, pilotage, dead reckoning, and general safety practices in the operation of aircraft.

(b) Glider. An applicant for a glider rating shall demonstrate a knowledge of such portions of Parts 43, 60, and 62 of this subchapter as are pertinent to glider operations and of aeronautical charts, meteorology in relation to glider flights, navigation and other instruments used in the operation of gliders, theory of flight, and glider operating limitations.

§ 20.25 Aeronautical experience—(a) Powered aircraft. Each applicant for a powered aircraft rating, whether he has obtained his flight experience in spinnable, non-spinnable, two-control, or three-control aircraft, shall have not less than 25 hours of solo flight time and 15 hours of dual instruction time given by a rated flight instructor: Provided, That if the applicant holds a private or commercial pilot certificate with a glider rating, he may receive credit for not more than 10 hours of the required solo flight time for equal flight time obtained in gliders. Each applicant shall in addition meet the requirements of subparagraphs (1) through (3) of this paragraph.

(1) At least 10 hours of the required solo flight time shall be cross-country flight time. Each solo cross-country flight shall include a landing at a point more than 25 miles from the point of departure, and at least one flight shall include a landing at a point more than 100 miles from the point of departure.

(2) After the applicant's first solo flight, at least 5 hours of dual instruction time shall be given in cross-country flying, of which not less than 3 hours shall be given before his first solo cross-country flight.

(3) Dual instruction time shall include instructions in the prevention of and recovery from power-on and power-off stalls entered from all normally anticipated flight attitudes.

(b) Glider. Each applicant for a glider rating shall have made at least 100 glider flights, or have acquired 10 hours of glider flight time including at least 50 glider flights. § 20.26 Aeronautical skill. An applicant shall exercise reasonable judgment, coordination, and smoothness in the execution of all flight maneuvers, any of which, however, may be modified or eliminated if not consistent with the characteristics of the aircraft used in the flight test and if appropriate operation limitations are entered on the rating record. If an applicant's medical certificate shows a structural defect or limitation, such additional maneuvers and tests shall be required as may be necessary to demonstrate the competence of the applicant to pilot aircraft safely, and appropriate operation limitations shall be entered on the rating record. Except as thus provided, each applicant shall satisfactorily accomplish a practical examination with respect to the following procedures and maneuvers:

(a) Airplane. (1) Preflight inspection, starting, taxying, and run-up check of aircraft before take-off;

(2) Planning of a cross-country flight to a specified destination, reckoning with weather conditions, fuel requirements, check points, estimated time of arrival, and available alternate airports, and accomplishing such portion of the planned flight, including change of course to an alternate airport, as is necessary to demonstrate proficiency in cross-country flying;

(4) Turns while maintaining a constant radius, or track, around a point, or area, including a 720° turn in each direction in a banked attitude of more than 45°;

(5) Normal and cross-wind take-offs and landings following appropriate traffic control procedures of the airport involved, using power, flaps, and slips at the applicant's discretion for assistance in landing;

(6) Simulated emergencies, including one short or soft-field take-off, and one landing, if in single-engine aircraft, with engine throttled and using flaps, slips, or both, for assistance; or, if in multi-engine aircraft, in accordance with proper engine-out procedure.

(b) Glider. (1) At least 2 flights, one of which shall include a 360° approach to the right and one to the left, landing each time within 200 feet beyond a designated line or point;

(a) Powered aircraft. (1) A series of 3 landings from an altitude not to exceed 1,000 feet with engine throttled and a 180° change in direction, the aircraft touching the ground in normal landing attitude beyond and within 200 feet of a designated line or point. At least one landing shall be accomplished from a forward slip;

(2) A spiral in each direction of not less than 3 full turns in a banked attitude of not less than 60°, with engine throttled;

(3) 3 shallow oil-pylon figure eights, 3 steep on-pylon figure eights, and one 720° power turn in each direction in a banked attitude of at least 60°. During each of these maneuvers the total variation in altitude shall not exceed 100 feet;

(4) [Reserved]

(5) Straight climbs, climbing turns, slips, maneuvers at minimum controllable speeds, and emergency maneuvers such as simulated forced landings and recovery from power-on and power-off stalls entered from all normally anticipated flight attitudes.

[1] Paragraphs 2.4.1.3 (c) and (d) of Annex 1 (Personnel Licensing Standards) to the Convention on International Civil Aviation provides that an applicant for a commercial pilot certificate shall have 5 hours of night flight time and 10 hours of instrument flight instruction. An individual holding a pilot certificate with a commercial rating issued after October 1, 1951 who does not meet such requirements may not participate in international flight as a commercial pilot unless he receives permission from the State or States whose territory is entered. Further, pursuant to the provisions of Article 39 of the Convention on International Civil Aviation he shall have endorsed on his certificate the particulars in which he does not meet the International Standards. However, such endorsement on a commercial certificate issued by the Administrator does not prohibit the holder thereof from exercising all the privileges of a commercial pilot rating while flying within the United States and its possessions.

Any of the maneuvers required by this section may be modified or eliminated if such action is appropriate to the characteristics of the aircraft used in the test and appropriate operation limitations are entered on the rating record.

(b) Glider. (1) At least 2 flights, one of which shall include a 360° approach to the right and one to the left, landing each time within 100 feet beyond a designated line or point;

(2) A spiral in each direction of not less than 3 full turns in a banked attitude of not less than 45°;

(3) A demonstration of satisfactory technique in the performance of glider flight when towed by an automobile or a winch;

(4) A demonstration of satisfactory technique in the performance of glider flight when towed by an airplane during climb, and when above, below, and to one side of the towing airplane slipstream while in level flight; and

(5) Recovery from stalls entered from all normally anticipated flight attitudes. (Stall maneuvers may be demonstrated in airplanes.)

[1] For example, a pilot taxies to the warm-up apron and holds there for several minutes before taking off to permit the engine to warm up. Such taxi and warm-up time is not considered flight time. Flight time begins when the aircraft leaves the warm-up apron and ends when the pilot returns to the parking apron and turns the switches off.

C. Information is also available concerning such tables in the offices of the Civil Aeronautics Administration or the United States Weather Bureau.

Chapter I—Federal Trade Commission

Subchapter B—Trade Practice Conference Rules

PART 203—COSMETIC AND TOILET PREPARATIONS INDUSTRY

SUPERSEDURE

[File No. 21-286]

PART 221—COSMETIC AND TOILET PREPARATIONS INDUSTRY

PROMULGATION OF TRADE PRACTICE RULES

Due proceedings having been held under the trade practice conference procedure in pursuance of the act of Congress approved September 26, 1914, as amended (Federal Trade Commission Act), and other provisions of law administered by the Commission;

It is now ordered, That the trade practice rules of Group I, as hereinafter set forth, which have been approved by the Commission in this proceeding, be promulgated as of September 10, 1954.

Statement by the Commission. Trade practice rules for the Cosmetic and Toilet Preparations Industry, consisting of 18 Group I rules, were promulgated by the Federal Trade Commission on November 29, 1951. Thereafter, pursuant to industry request, proceedings were instituted by the Commission for consideration of amendment of Rules 6, 11, 14, 16, and 18. The trade practice rules hereinafter set forth consist of 18 Group I rules which, except as to Rules 6, 11, 14, and 18, are identical with those promulgated by the Commission for the industry on November 29, 1951, and the effective date of such rules remains unchanged.

Members of the industry are the persons, firms, corporations and organizations engaged in the business of manufacturing, importing, selling or distributing cosmetics or toilet preparations, or devices or accessories sold in combination therewith. Annual business of the industry, in terms of retail-sales volume, has reached an amount in excess of one billion dollars.

The rules are directed to the elimination and prevention of unfair trade practices to the end that the industry, the trade, and the public may be protected from the harmful effects of such competitive methods, and are designed to provide guidance and assistance to industry members in the maintenance of free and fair competition.

The proceedings for consideration of amendment of Rules 6, 11, 14, 16, and 18 of the trade practice rules promulgated on November 29, 1951, were instituted by the Commission upon application of an industry trade association representing approximately 90 percent by volume of the sales of perfume, cosmetics, and other toilet preparations. In such proceedings a draft of Rules 6, 11, 14, 16, and 18, in proposed amended form, was released by the Commission and, pursuant to notice published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, hearing was scheduled thereon for the purpose of affording opportunity to all interested and affected parties to express their views, suggestions, and objections respecting such proposed amended rules. Following such hearing, and upon full consideration of the entire matter, final action was taken by the Commission whereby it approved Rules 6, 11, 14, 16, and 18 in the form in which they appear in the trade practice rules hereinafter set forth.

The rules set out below constitute the complete set for this industry. Rules 6, 11, 14, and 18 thereof become operative thirty (30) days after promulgation, and the other rules, being unchanged, remain in effect as heretofore.

The rules. These rules promulgated by the Commission are designed to foster and promote the maintenance of fair competitive conditions in the interest of protecting industry, trade, and the public. It is to this end, and to the exclusion of any act or practice which suppresses competition, restrains trade, fixes or controls price through combination or agreement, or which otherwise injures, destroys, or prevents competition, that the rules are to be applied.

GROUP I

General statement. The unfair trade practices embraced in §§ 221.1 to 221:18 are considered to be unfair methods of competition, unfair or deceptive acts or practices, or other illegal practices, prohibited under laws administered by the Federal Trade Commission; and appropriate proceedings in the public interest will be taken by the Commission to prevent the use, by any person, partnership, corporation, or other organization subject to its jurisdiction, of such unlawful practices in commerce.

§ 221.1 Prohibited discrimination—(a) Prohibited discriminatory prices, or rebates, refunds, discounts, credits, etc., which effect unlawful price discrimination. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce,[1] in the course of such commerce, to grant or allow, secretly or openly, directly or indirectly, any rebate, refund, discount, credit, or other form of price differential (whether in the guise of samples, or so-called free deals, or otherwise), where such rebate, refund, discount, credit, or other form of price differential, effects a discrimination in price between different purchasers of goods of like grade and quality, where either or any of the purchases involved therein are in commerce,[1] and where the effect thereof may be substantially to lesson competition or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce,[1] or to injure, destroy, or prevent competition with any person who either grants or knowingly receives the benefit of such discrimination, or with customers of either of them: Provided, however—

(1) That the goods involved in any such transaction are sold for use, consumption, or resale within any place under the jurisdiction of the United States;

[1] As used in this section, the word "commerce" means "trade or commerce among the several States and with foreign nations, or between the District of Columbia or any Territory of the United States and any State, Territory, or foreign nation, or between any insular possessions or other places under the jurisdiction of the United States, or between any such possession or place and any State or Territory of the United States or the District of Columbia or any foreign nation, or within the District of Columbia or any Territory or any insular possession or other place under the jurisdiction of the United States."

(2) That nothing contained in this paragraph shall prevent differentials which make only due allowance for differences in the cost of manufacture, sale, or delivery resulting from the differing methods or quantities in which such commodities are to such purchasers sold or delivered: And, provided, further, That when all available purchasers in greater quantities are so few as to render differentials on account thereof unjustly discriminatory or promote of monopoly in any line of commerce,[1] and if and when the Federal Trade Commission shall have established quantity limits pursuant to the provisions of section 2 (a) of the Clayton Act (as amended), the foregoing shall not be construed to permit differentials based on differences in quantities greater than those so established;

(3) That nothing contained in this paragraph shall prevent persons engaged in selling goods, wares, or merchandise in commerce [1] from selecting their own customers in bona fide transactions and not in restraint of trade;

(4) That nothing contained in this paragraph shall prevent price changes from time to time where made in response to changing conditions affecting the market for or the marketability of the goods concerned, such as but not limited to, actual or imminent deterioration of perishable goods, obsolescence of seasonal goods, distress sales under court process, or sales in good faith in discontinuance of business in the goods concerned.

(b) Prohibited brokerage and commissions. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce,[1] in the course of such commerce, to pay or grant, or to receive or accept, anything of value as a commission, brokerage, or other compensation, or any allowance or discount in lieu thereof, except for services rendered in connection with the sale or purchase of goods, wares, or merchandise, either to the other party to such transaction or to an agent, representative, or other intermediary therein where such intermediary is acting in fact for or in behalf, or is subject to the direct or indirect control, of any party to such transaction other than the person by whom such compensation is so granted or paid.

(c) Prohibited advertising or promotional allowances, etc. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce [1] to pay or contract for the payment of advertising or promotional allowances or any other thing of value to or for the benefit of a customer of such member in the course of such commerce as compensation or in consideration for any services or facilities furnished by or through such customer in connection with the processing, handling, sale, or offering for sale of any products or commodities manufactured, sold, or offered for sale by such member, unless such payment or consideration is available on proportionally equal terms to all other customers competing in the distribution of such products or commodities.

(d) Prohibited discriminatory services or facilities. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce [1] to discriminate in favor of one purchaser against another purchaser or purchasers of a commodity bought for resale, with or without processing, by contracting to furnish or furnishing, or by contributing to the furnishing of, any services or facilities connected with the processing, handling, sale, or offering for sale of such commodity so purchased upon terms not accorded to all competing purchasers on proportionally equal terms.

(e) Inducing or receiving an illegal discrimination in price. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce,[1] in the course of such commerce, knowingly to induce or receive a discrimination in price which is prohibited by the foregoing provisions of this section.

(f) Exemptions. The inhibitions of this section shall not apply to purchases of their supplies for their own use by schools, colleges, universities, public libraries, churches, hospitals, and charitable institutions not operated for profit.

NOTE: In complaint proceedings charging discrimination in price or services or facilities furnished, and upon proof having been made of such discrimination, the burden of rebutting the prima facie case thus made by showing justification shall be upon the person charged; and unless justification shall be affirmatively shown, the Commission is authorized to issue an order terminating the discrimination: Provided, however, That nothing contained in this section shall prevent a seller rebutting the prima facie case thus made by showing that his lower price or the furnishing of services or facilities to any purchaser or purchasers was made in good faith to meet an equally low price of a competitor, or the services or facilities furnished by a competitor. (See section 2 (b) Clayton Act.)

(g) Clarification of requirements for supplying of marketing services, facilities or allowances. The following is presented for the purpose of clarifying the requirements of paragraphs (c) and (d) of this section with respect to the supplying of marketing services, facilities or allowances by industry members to their customers, but it is not intended to imply by such presentation that other methods which assure of proportional equality of treatment of competing customers may not also be used.

(1) An industry member may simultaneously offer to each of his customers competing in the resale of his products the same kind of promotional service, facility or allowance of a cost value equal to a uniform percentage of the sales (or purchases) of the industry member's products by each customer during a specified and identical period of time: Provided, however, That when the service, facility or allowance offered is of a type which under reasonable terms and conditions is not usable or suitable to the facilities and business of all customers, and is offered to any one customer, the member offer each of those customers to whom the service, facility or allowance is not usable or suitable an alternate type of promotional service, facility or allowance which is of equivalent measurable cost, is usable by the customer, and is suitable to his facilities and business, and promptly inform all competing customers of the kind and amount of services, facilities or allowances which he has offered to each and the respective terms and conditions under which such services, facilities or allowances are to be furnished by the industry member: And provided, further, That when the offer of any service, facility or allowance to any customer is conditioned on such customer supplying some reciprocal service, facility or payment, a reciprocal service, facility or payment be required in the offers to all other customers and there be an equality of ratio among all customers as to the measurable cost of that which is supplied by the industry member and the reciprocal service, facility or payment required of any customer. The industry member must take every reasonable precaution to see that services, facilities or allowances which he furnishes to customers are used in accord with the terms of his offer; and upon failure of the customer to perform any obligation on his part the industry member must cease supplying the customer any further service, facility or allowance.

(2) Explanatory analysis: In other words, one, but not the only, method of complying with paragraphs (c) and (d) of this section is as follows:

The industry member may offer, simultaneously, to each competing resale customer, the same kind of:

1. Promotional service, or
2. Facility, or
3. Allowance.

The value of which must be equal to a uniform percentage of dollar volume:

1. Of the sales or purchases by each customer of the industry member's products.
2. Computed for an identical, specified period of time.

However, if the same kind is not usable and suitable under reasonable terms and conditions to all such customers, and is offered to one, the others must be offered an alternate type of:

1. Promotional service, or
2. Facility, or
3. Allowance, and

The alternate type must be:

1. Of equivalent measurable cost, and
2. Usable by the customer and suitable with respect to his facilities and character of business; and

All such customers must be promptly informed of:

(a) The kind,
(b) The amount, and
(c) Terms and conditions of the offer.

Also: When the offer is conditioned upon something reciprocal to be furnished by the customer, the member

1. Must require of all customers the same proportionate reciprocity (equality of ratio as to the measurable cost of that supplied by the customer to that supplied by the member);
2. Must take every reasonable precaution to see that what he pays or furnishes is used in accordance with the terms of his offer; and
3. Must cease furnishing or paying it to the customer when the industry member knows, or has reason to believe, it is not so used.

[Rule 1]

§ 221.2 Misrepresentation in general. It is an unfair trade practice to use, or cause or promote the use of, any false, untrue, or deceptive statement, representation, guarantee, warranty, testimonial, or endorsement, by way of advertising (through newspapers, magazines, circulars, booklets, or by radio, or any other medium), oral representation, or otherwise, which has the capacity and tendency or effect of misleading or deceiving purchasers, prospective purchasers, or the consuming public with respect to the efficacy, permanency of the effects, medicinal or curative properties, grade, quality, quantity, substance, character, origin, size, preparation, manufacture, or distribution of any product of the industry, or concerning the purported approval or endorsement of such product by State, Federal, medical, or other authority, or in any other material respect.

NOTE: Among the inhibitions of this section is "false advertisement," as defined in section 15 of the Federal Trade Commission Act, of any "cosmetic" as such term is defined in the same section. Furthermore, nothing in the rules in this part is to be construed as relieving anyone of the necessity of complying with the cosmetic labeling requirements of the "Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act" and the general regulations thereunder.

[Rule 2]

§ 221.3 Deception as to origin. (a) It is an unfair trade practice to falsely represent, directly or by implication, through any means or device—

(1) The origin of any industry product or the origin of any ingredient thereof; or

(2) The place where any industry product was made, compounded, diluted, mixed, blended, assembled, bottled, or packaged; or

(3) The origin of the bottle or package containing any industry product.

(b) Under this section the use of any foreign words or phrases, or the use of any other terms, words, symbols, or picturizations indicative of foreign origin, which creates a false impression with respect to the origin of any industry product, or of any ingredient thereof, or of the container in which an industry product is sold or offered for sale, is to be considered as being among the practices which are inhibited by this section.

(c) Nothing in this section is to be considered as preventing truthful and nondeceptive representations as to the country of origin of imported products or any ingredient thereof: Provided, however, That when the product is composed of several ingredients, one or more of which is of foreign origin or manufacture and the remainder of domestic origin or manufacture, the foreign origin representation shall be clearly confined to the particular ingredients qualifying for such foreign origin representation and shall be accompanied in close conjunction with a statement setting forth clearly, conspicuously, and nondeceptively, the fact that such product was made, compounded, diluted, mixed, blended, or assembled in the United States, as the case may be.

NOTE: Nothing in this section shall be construed as relieving any member of the industry or other party of the necessity of complying with the requirements of the Customs laws or the "Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act," and regulations thereunder, or other applicable provisions of law or regulations relating to the marking of imported articles.

[Rule 3]

§ 221.4 Deceptive imitation of trade-marks, trade names, etc. The imitation of trade-marks, trade names, or other exclusively owned marks of identification of competitors, with the capacity and tendency or effect of misleading or deceiving purchasers, prospective purchasers, or the consuming public, is an unfair trade practice. [Rule 4]

§ 221.5 Misrepresentation as to character of business. It is an unfair trade practice for any concern, in the course of or in connection with the distribution of industry products, to represent, directly or indirectly, that it is a manufacturer of industry products, or that it owns or controls a factory making such products, when such is not the fact, or in any other manner to misrepresent the character, extent, or type of its business. [Rule 5]

§ 221.6 Use of the word "free." In connection with the sale, offering for sale, or distribution of industry products, it is an unfair trade practice to use the word "free," or any other word or words of similar import, in advertisements or in other offers to the public, as descriptive of an article of merchandise, or service, which is not an unconditional gift, under the following circumstances:

(a) When all the conditions, obligations, or other prerequisites to the receipt and retention of the "free" article of merchandise or service offered are not clearly and conspicuously set forth at the outset so as to leave no reasonable probability that the terms of the offer will be misunderstood; and, regardless of such disclosure:

(b) When, with respect to any article of merchandise required to be purchased in order to obtain the "free" article or service, the offerer (1) increases the ordinary and usual price of such article of merchandise, or (2) reduces its quality, or (3) reduces the quantity or size thereof.

NOTE: The disclosure required by paragraph (a) of this section shall appear in close conjunction with the word "free" (or other word or words of similar import) wherever such word first appears in each advertisement or offer. A disclosure in the form of a footnote, to which reference is made by the use of an asterisk or other symbol placed next to the word "free," will not be regarded as compliance.

§ 221.7 Fictitious prices. Offering merchandise for sale at prices purported to be reduced from what are, in fact, marked-up or fictitious prices, with the capacity and tendency or effect of misleading or deceiving purchasers, prospective purchasers, or the consuming public, is an unfair trade practice. [Rule 7]

§ 221.8 Passing off an industry product as and for the product of a competitor. The passing off, or causing to be passed off, of any industry product as and for the product of a competitor through appropriation or simulation of such competitor's trade-marks, labels, or by any other means or device, with the capacity and tendency or effect of thereby misleading or deceiving purchasers, prospective purchasers, or the consuming public, is an unfair trade practice. [Rule 8]

§ 221.9 Defamation of competitors or false disparagement of their products. The defamation of competitors by falsely imputing to them dishonorable conduct, inability to perform contracts, questionable credit standing, or by other false representations, or the false disparagement of the grade or quality of the goods of competitors, their credit terms, values, policies, services, the nature or form of the business conducted, or in any other material respect, is an unfair trade practice. [Rule 9]

§ 221.10 Commercial bribery. It is an unfair trade practice for a member of the industry, directly or indirectly, to give, or offer to give, or permit or cause to be given, money or anything of value to agents, employees, or representatives of customers or prospective customers, or to agents, employees, or representatives of competitors' customers or prospective customers, without the knowledge of their employers or principals, as an inducement to influence their employers or principals to purchase or contract to purchase products manufactured or sold by such industry member or the maker of such gift or offer, or to influence such employers or principals to refrain from dealing in the products of competitors or from dealing or contracting to deal with competitors. [Rule 10]

§ 221.11 Procurement of competitors' confidential information by unfair means and wrongful use thereof. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry to obtain information concerning the business of a competitor by bribery of an employee or agent of such competitor, by false or misleading statements or representations, by the impersonation of one in authority, or by any other unfair means, and to use the information so obtained so as substantially to injure competition or unreasonably restrain trade. [Rule 11]

§ 221.12 Inducing breach of contract. It is an unfair trade practice to induce or attempt to induce the breach of existing lawful contracts between competitors and their customers, or their suppliers, by any false or deceptive means whatsoever, or to interfere with or obstruct the performance of any such contractual duties or services by any such means, with the purpose and effect of unduly hampering, injuring, or prejudicing competitors in their business. [Rule 12]

§ 221.13 Use of lottery schemes, etc. It is an unfair trade practice to sell, distribute, or promote the sale or distribution of any industry product or other merchandise by means of a game of chance, gift enterprise, or lottery scheme. [Rule 13]

§ 221.14 Prohibited forms of trade restraints (unlawful price fixing, etc.).[1] It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry, either directly or indirectly, to engage in any planned common course of action, or to enter into or take part in any understanding, agreement, combination, or conspiracy, with one or more members of the industry, or with any other person or persons, to fix or maintain the price of any goods or otherwise unlawfully to restrain trade; or to use any form of threat, intimidation, or coercion to induce any member of the industry or other person or persons to engage in any such planned common course of action, or to become a party to any such understanding, agreement, combination, or conspiracy. [Rule 14]

§ 221.15 Unfair threats of infringement suits. The circulation of threats of suit for infringement of patents or trade-marks among customers or prospective customers of competitors, not made in good faith but for the purpose or with the effect of harassing or intimidating such customers or prospective customers, or of unduly hampering, injuring, or prejudicing competitors in their business, is an unfair trade practice. [Rule 15.]

§ 221.16 Selling below cost. The practice of selling industry products at a price less than the cost thereof to the seller, with the purpose or intent, and where the effect may be, to injure, suppres, or stifle competition or tend to create a monopoly in the production or sale of such products, is an unfair trade practice. As used in this section the term "cost" means the total cost to the seller of any such transactions of sale, including the costs of acquisition, processing, preparation for marketing, sale, and delivery of such products. [Rule 16]

§ 221.17 Exclusive deals. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry to contract to sell or sell any industry product, or fix a price charged therefor, or discount from, or rebate upon, such price, on the condition, agreement, or understanding that the purchaser thereof shall not use or deal in the products of a competitor or competitors of such industry member, where the effect of such sale or contract for sale, or of such condition, agreement, or understanding, may be substantially to lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce. [Rule 17]

§ 221.18 Push money. It is an unfair trade practice for any industry member to pay or contract to pay anything of value to a salesperson employed by a customer of the industry member as compensation for, or as an inducement to obtain, special or greater effort or service on the part of the salesperson in promoting the resale of products supplied by the industry member to the customer—

(a) When the agreement or understanding under which the payment or payments are made or are to be made is without the knowledge and consent of the salesperson's employer; or

(b) When the terms and conditions of the agreement or understanding are such that any benefit to the salesperson or customer is dependent on lottery or chance; or

(c) When any provision of the agreement or understanding requires or contemplates practices or a course of conduct unduly and intentionally hampering sales of products of competitors of an industry member; or

(d) When, because of the terms and conditions of the understanding or agreement, including its duration, or the attendant circumstances, the effect may be to substantially lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly; or

(e) When similar payments are not accorded to salespersons of competing customers on proportionally equal terms in compliance with section 2 (d) and (e) of the Clayton Act.

NOTE: Payments made by an industry member to a salesperson of a customer under any agreement or understanding that all or any part of such payments is to be transferred by the salesperson to the customer, or is to result in a corresponding decrease in the salesperson's salary, are not to be considered within the purview of this section, but are to be considered as subject to the requirements and provisions of section 2 (a) of the Clayton Act.

PART 208—FLOOD CONTROL REGULATIONS

TRENTON DAM AND SWANSON LAKE, REPUBLICAN RIVER, HITCHCOCK COUNTY, NEBRASKA

Pursuant to the applicable provisions of section 7 and 9 of the act of Congress approved December 22, 1944 (58 Stat. 890, 891; 33 U. S. C. 709), the following regulations are hereby prescribed to govern the use of storage capacity for flood-control purposes in Swanson Lake on the Republican River, Hitchcock County, Nebraska, and the operation of Trenton Dam for flood-control purposes.

§ 208.38 Trenton Dam and Swanson Lake, Republican River, Hitchcock County, Nebraska. The Bureau of Reclamation, Department of the Interior, represented by its appropriate Projects Manager, hereinafter referred to as the Projects Manager, shall operate Trenton Dam and Swanson Lake in the interest of flood-control as follows:

(a) The flood-control storage capacity of the Lake or reservoir, which initially amounts to 133,800 acre-feet between elevations 2752.0 and 2773.0 shall be regulated as follows:

(1) For local flood-control on the Republican River below the dam to effect the release of water through the river outlet works (having a capacity of approximately 3,500 c. f. s. with water surface at elevation 2752.0) and supplemented as required by releases through the gated spillway (having a capacity of about 11,000 c. f. s. with water surface at elevation 2752.0) to limit discharges, insofar as practicable, to the highest releases consistent with maintaining stages on the Republican River below the dam not to exceed 6.0 feet on the McCook and Cambridge gages.

(2) For coordination of flood-control regulations in Swanson Lake with existing and potential flood condition and the regulation of other flood-control reservoirs and projects in the Republican, Kansas, and Missouri River Basins, releases from and flood-control operation of the project will be adjusted as required for optimum effectiveness during all flood periods.

(b) The District Engineer, Corps of Engineers, Department of the Army, in charge of the locality, hereinafter referred to as the District Engineer, shall issue instructions to the Projects Manager for achievement of the necessary flood-control below the dam and coordination of flood-control regulation of the reservoir with flood conditions and flood-control operation of other reservoirs and flood-control projects in the Republican, Kansas, and Missouri River Basins during flood periods and whenever the reservoir may contain impounded water in the flood-control storage zone; and the District Engineer shall also issue special directions, if desirable, on the basis of flood conditions at the time, to the Projects Manager for temporary modification of the provisions for local flood-control regulation contained in paragraph (a) (1) of this section. Oral instructions from the District Engineer to the Projects Manager shall be confirmed in writing under date of the day issued.

(c) The discharge characteristics of the gated spillway (capable of discharging 76,000 c. f. s. with reservoir level at elevation 2773.0) and the river regulation outlet works (capable of discharging 4,300 c. f. s. with reservoir level at elevation 2773.0) shall be maintained in accordance with the construction plans (Bureau of Reclamation Specifications No. 3047 as modified by Drawing 328-D-945, dated April 21, 1950).

(d) Flood-control operations shall not restrict releases necessary for irrigation.

(e) Whenever the reservoir level reaches or exceeds elevation 2752.0 or flood discharges appear imminent, the Projects Manager shall report at once to the District Engineer by telephone, telegraph or radio and, as requested thereafter until the reservoir level falls to elevation 2752.0 or below and flood discharges cease.

(f) Proposed schedules of irrigation releases and storage changes, if available, and current operating data shall be provided to the District Engineer by the Projects Manager. These data shall be tabulated daily and furnished periodically as required, and shall include such items as: reservoir elevation, reservoir storage, inflow, discharge, and pertinent available hydrologic data.

(g) Releases made in accordance with the regulations of this section are subject to the condition that releases shall not be made at rates or in a manner that would be inconsistent with requirements for protecting the dam and reservoir from major damage or inconsistent with safe routing of the inflow spillway design flood.

(h) All elevations stated in this section are at the Trenton Dam and Swanson Lake and are referred to the datum in use at that location.

Such protection also applies to a member of the National Guard after he reports to a designated rendezvous pursuant to proper call.

[Docket No. E-6581]

SIERRA PACIFIC POWER CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR ORDER AUTHORIZING ISSUANCE OF COMMON STOCK AND FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

SEPTEMBER 3, 1954.

Take notice that on September 1, 1954, an application was filed with the Federal Power Commission, pursuant to section 204 of the Federal Power Act, by Sierra Pacific Power Company (Applicant), a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of Maine and doing business as a foreign corporation in the States of California and Nevada, with its principal place of business in Reno, Nevada, seeking an order authorizing the issuance of 34,807 shares of common stock (par value $15 per share), and $4,000,000, principal amount of first mortgage bonds, series due 1984.

The common stock is proposed to be offered for sale at a price of not less than $30 per share to Applicant's common and preferred stockholders as of October 7, 1954, or such other date as Applicant's Board of Directors shall determine, pursuant to preemptive rights, on the basis of one share for each five shares of Applicant's $100 par value preferred stock held and one share for each ten shares of Applicant's common stock held. The Applicant proposes to enter into an underwriting agreement for the purchase of all such shares of common stock not so subscribed and has requested an exemption from the competitive bidding requirements of the Commission's rules with respect to the issuance and sale of the common stock.

Applicant proposes to issue and sell the $4,000,000, principal amount, of first mortgage bonds in accordance with the competitive bidding requirements set forth in the Commission's rules.

The application states that the total proceeds to be derived from the proposed issuances will be used to repay bank loan obligations, to reimburse its treasury for construction expenditures heretofore made and to redeem $1,500,000, principal amount, of Applicant 3¾ percent First Mortgage Bonds Series due 1982; all as more fully appears in the application on file with the Commission.

Any person desiring to be heard, or to make any protest with reference to said application should, on or before the 23d day of September 1954, file with the Federal Power Commission, Washington, D. C., a petition or protest in accordance with the Commission's rules of practice and procedure. The application is on file with the Commission for public inspection.

[Docket Nos. G-2306, G-2311, G-2327, G-2328]

AMERICAN LOUISIANA PIPE LINE CO. ET AL.

ORDER FIXING DATES FOR ORAL ARGUMENT AND FOR FILING BRIEFS

In the matters of American Louisiana Pipe Line Company, Docket No. G-2306; Texas Gas Transmission Corporation, Docket No. G-2311; Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Company, Docket No. G-2327; Michigan Consolidated Gas Company, Docket No. G-2328.

The American Louisiana Pipe Line Company, Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Company and Michigan Consolidated Gas Company (hereinafter referred to as Applicants) on August 17, 1954, filed a joint "Application for Rehearing" requesting the Commission to rescind Paragraph (B) of the order issued in these consolidated proceedings on August 2, 1954, and to grant "rehearing" of the Commission's order issued August 13, 1954, denying Applicants" motion to separate the issues in these consolidated proceedings and to complete the hearing and determine the matters of public convenience and necessity insofar as they concern the application of American Louisiana Pipe Line Company.[1]

In the aforesaid joint motion Applicants specifically request that upon rehearing the Commission enter an order:

1. Directing the Presiding Examiner to certify immediately the completed record to the Commission and omitting the intermediate decision procedure.

2. Fixing the time for filing of briefs and the oral argument at the earliest possible dates so that the Commission may consider and determine the merits of the applications of American Louisiana and Texas Gas Transmission Corporation (Texas Gas) prior to October 1, 1954, the date by which American Louisiana must obtain a certificate of public convenience and necessity to prevent termination of its gas purchase contracts.

3. Reserving for subsequent hearing and determination subsidiary issues presented in the consolidated proceedings, such as determination of additional markets to be served by American Louisiana and Michigan Wisconsin and questions involving allocation of gas, rates and related matters which are customarily deferred for subsequent determination in certificate proceedings.

Further, in such application, Applicants represent or state as follows:

In its orders of August 2 and August 12, the Commission relies upon a legal technicality and erroneously concludes that it cannot grant a certificate to American Louisiana until the Commission has received and considered applications for certificates of public convenience and necessity from American Louisiana's gas suppliers.

• • • • •

Since August 6, 1954, the record of these proceedings has contained all the information necessary for the Commission to reach a determination on the certificate application of American Louisiana.

• • • • •

All evidence which anyone desired to present in opposition to American Louisiana and Texas Gas is now in the record and cross examination on this evidence has been completed.

• • • • •

The Applicants are convinced that they have presented a complete record which proves overwhelmingly that the public interest requires the issuance of a certificate to American Louisiana. If any doubt exists as to whether the facts or the law warrant the issuance of such a certificate, it should be resolved by the Commission only after all parties have had opportunity to present briefs and oral argument.

• • • • •

We will demonstrate (1) that the Commission has the full authority to grant a certificate to American Louisiana at this time, (2) that the Commission erred in its assumption and expectations that the gas producers would file applications for certificates prior to September 13 and (3) that the producers of natural gas are not required to file applications for such certificates at this time.

Further, however, even if the Commission believes that doubt exists as to its ability to grant a certificate to American Louisiana because of the legal status of its gas supply, this is a doubt which can only be resolved in a final decision of the Commission after an opportunity for briefs and oral argument.

In its order of August 12th the Commission said: "Our determination in these consolidated proceedings, will be based on the merits of the applications and the merits of the showing made by the Applicants in support thereof."

That is all the Applicants ask. They merely seek an opportunity to present the merits to the Commission in carefully prepared briefs and upon oral argument. Obviously, the merits include legal questions relating to gas supply as well as factual questions and they require at least consideration of such alternative methods of decision as may be available.

• • • • •

It has been argued during these proceedings that the Commission cannot issue a certificate to American Louisiana because two of its gas purchase contracts with the Gulf Refining Company and Humble Oil and Refining Company contain so-called "escape clauses". Even if this argument were correct, which it most certainly is not, the existence of the two contracts with such clauses does not provide a valid reason for the failure of the Commission to reach a final decision on the American Louisiana application.

This question of the so-called "escape clauses" in the Gulf and Humble contracts was discussed at considerable length in the reply brief (P. 13–14) submitted by the Applicants to the Commission on June 4 on the matter of American Louisiana's gas supply. It is sufficient to state here that these clauses, even if they should become effective, contain provisions which limit the sellers' rights in the event of cancellation and control their subsequent course of action to the extent that they cannot sell their gas to other interstate pipe lines without offering it to American Louisiana.

However, even if we were to assume that this supply would not be available, there are facts in the record which show that American Louisiana would still have an adequate gas supply to permit it to maintain delivery of its full capacity for approximately 16 years with declining deliveries thereafter.

• • • • •

Although it may be necessary for the gas suppliers of American Louisiana to obtain certificates of public convenience and necessity, the Commission can meet this problem merely by granting a certificate to American Louisiana which is conditioned upon its gas suppliers' receiving the necessary authorization from this Commission.

Further in the application, Applicants' counsel withdraws the request for permission to present additional market testimony on behalf of American Louisiana and the other applicants affiliated with that company.

In the application for rehearing the joint Applicants further request as follows:

Wherefore, it is respectfully requested that the Commission modify its orders of August 2 and August 12, 1954 as requested on pages 1 and 2 hereof. In the event the Commission is not prepared to grant this relief it is respectfully requested that in view of the public importance of this matter the Commission schedule immediate oral argument on this Petition.

In view of the foregoing representations and statements made by the joint Applicants in their application for rehearing and the joinder therein by Texas Gas Transmission Corporation, we are of the opinion that it would be in the public interest to hear oral argument and to require the filing of briefs upon the matters of fact and law presented by the applications for certificates of public convenience and necessity filed by American Louisiana Pipe Line Company and Texas Gas Transmission Corporation, and upon the matters of fact and law presented by the joint application for rehearing, and by the separate application for rehearing and joinder filed by Texas Gas Transmission Corporation. Our decision on the portion of the motion which seeks a waiver of the intermediate decision procedure must of necessity be deferred pending the filing of briefs and the hearing of oral argument. We therefore reserve decision on this point.

Wherefore, in view of the foregoing, the Commission orders:

(A) Decision on Applicants' request for omission of the intermediate decision procedure be and the same hereby is deferred without prejudice to such future disposition thereof as may be made after briefs have been received and oral argument has been heard by the Commission.

(B) For the purposes of hearing oral argument on the matters of fact and law presented by the applications filed by American Louisiana Pipe Line Company and Texas Gas Transmission Corporation, and on the matters of fact and law presented by the applications for rehearing filed herein, the Presiding Examiner hereby is directed to certify forthwith to the Commission the record in these proceedings, this certification, however, to be without prejudice to such action as may be taken by the Commission upon the applications of American Louisiana Pipe Line Company and Texas Gas Transmission Corporation and upon the applications for rehearing.

(C) All briefs of all parties shall be filed on or before September 8, 1954.

(D) Oral argument shall be held before the Commission on September 8, 1954, at 9:30 a. m., e. d. s. t., in a Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D. C.

(E) Each party to the proceedings filing a brief and desiring to participate in the oral argument shall notify the Secretary of the Commission on or before 12:00 o'clock noon September 7, 1954, of such intention and of the amount of time requested for the presentation of such argument.

Adopted: September 2, 1954.

Issued: September 3, 1954.

By the Commission.

LONE STAR GAS CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION AND ORDER FIXING DATE OF HEARING

TITLE 14—CIVIL AVIATION

Chapter I—Civil Aeronautics Board

[Civil Air Regs., Amdt. 42-27]

PART 42—IRREGULAR AIR CARRIER AND OFF-ROUTE RULES

AIRMAN REQUIREMENTS; PILOT TRAINING AND CHECK PROGRAM

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 8th day of September 1954.

Part 42 currently contains certain requirements for the training and checking of pilots operating in irregular air transportation. Revised Part 40, which became effective on April 1, 1954, and Part 41 contain similar requirements for scheduled air transportation. The scheduled air carriers conduct most of their operations under Parts 40 and 41 and thus organize their training programs in accordance with the requirements of these parts. However, these air carriers also conduct charter and special flights which they may operate in accordance with Part 42.

While the training requirements of Parts 40 and 41 are complete, there are some differences between them and the requirements of Part 42 which raise administrative problems for scheduled air carriers with respect to checking the qualifications of pilots to be assigned to a charter or special flight. For example, in revised Part 40 there is more flexibility in the requirements pertaining to the periodic checking of pilots. Since the pilots are continuously receiving training and experience in operations, it was believed that more flexibility would permit smoother administration by an air carrier of a program of periodic checks, without adversely affecting safety.

A pilot who may be engaged alternately in scheduled and irregular air carrier operations may be subject both to the applicable scheduled air carrier operating part and to Part 42. In view of the differences in form between the pilot training and qualification requirements of the scheduled and irregular air carrier rules, unnecessary duplication under these requirements results in such a case. The Board believes that the requirements of Parts 40 and 41 adequately fulfill the intent of the provisions of Part 42 even though there may be specific minor differences. Accordingly, this amendment provides that the recent flight experience and crew member proficiency provisions of Part 42 shall not apply to pilots who for the previous six months have been continuously in the employ of an air carrier which has established pilot training and check procedures in accordance with the requirements of Part 40 or Part 41.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this amendment, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

In consideration of the foregoing, the Civil Aeronautics Board hereby amends Part 42 of the Civil Air Regulations (14 CFR Part 42, as amended), effective October 13, 1954.

By amending § 42.40 (a) to read as follows:

§ 42.40 Airman requirements. (a) No air carrier shall utilize an individual as an airman unless he has met the appropriate requirements of the Civil Air Regulations: Provided, That the provisions of §§ 42.44 (a) and 42.45 shall not be applicable to pilots who for the previous six months have been continuously in the employ and participating regularly in the training program of an air carrier which has established pilot training and check procedures in accordance with the requirements of Part 40 or Part 41 of this subchapter.

(Sec. 205; 52 Stat. 984; 49 U. S. C. 425. Interprets or applies secs. 601, 604; 52 Stat. 1007, 1010, as amended; 49 U. S. C. 551, 554)

By the Civil Aeronautics Board.

[SEAL] M. C. MULLIGAN,
Secretary.

[Amdt. 73]

PART 610—MINIMUM EN ROUTE IFR ALTITUDES

Compliance with the notice, procedures, and effective date provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act would be impracticable and contrary to the public interest, and therefore is not required.

Part 610 is amended as follows: (Listed items to be placed in appropriate sequence in the sections indicated.)

1. Section 610.107 Amber civil airway No. 7 is amended to read in part:

From—	To—	Minimum altitude

SUBPART A—DEFINITION OF TERMS

§ 403.101 Definitions. As used in this subchapter, the following terms have the meanings set forth in §§ 403.101–1 to 403.101–5.

§ 403.101–1 Coordinated procurement. The term "coordinated procurement" refers to procurement (a) of supplies and services pursuant to the authority set forth in § 403.002, and (b) of supplies under single procurement as defined in § 403.101–2.

§ 403.101–2 Single procurement. The term "single procurement" refers to procurement of supplies pursuant to assignments of procurement responsibility made by the Secretary of Defense. The following are approved types of single procurement:

(a) "Single department procurement," whereby one Department procures certain supplies to satisfy the requirements of all the Departments.

(b) "Plant cognizance procurement," whereby one Department procures certain supplies from a particular plant to satisfy the requirements of all the Departments. This type of procurement is limited presently to airframes, aircraft engines, and propellers.

(c) "Joint procurement," whereby a jointly staffed and financed agency within the Department of Defense procures certain supplies to satisfy the requirements of all the Departments.

§ 403.101–3 Requiring Department. The term "Requiring Department" refers to the Department originating a requisition or purchase request for supplies.

§ 403.101–4 Procuring Department. The term "Procuring Department" refers to the Department or agency which is assigned the procurement responsibility for the supplies.

§ 403.101–5 Military Interdepartmental Purchase Request. This term, hereinafter referred to as "MIPR," refers to DD Form 448 (Military Interdepartmental Purchase Request) executed by a Requiring Department as a request for supplies to be procured or furnished by the Procuring Department.

SUBPART B—POLICIES AND GENERAL PRINCIPLES

§ 403.200 Scope of subpart. This subpart sets forth policies and general principles governing the single procurement of supplies by the Departments.

§ 403.201 Application of procurement assignment. Single procurement in the form of single department, joint agency, or plant cognizance procurement shall be effected whenever it will result in net advantages to the Department of Defense as a whole, except so far as it can be demonstrated that use of such a procurement method will adversely affect military operations.

§ 403.202 Responsibilities under single procurement.

§ 403.202–1 Single Department Procurement. The Procuring Department is generally responsible for the following, under single department procurement (for specific assignment of procurement responsibilities, see DOD publication "Procurement Assignments, List of Commodities"):

(a) Operational phases of procurement planning (phasing the submission of requirements, consolidating requirements, analyzing the market, and determining patterns for the phased placement of orders in such a manner as to assure meeting the needs of the Departments at the lowest possible price to the Government, and at the same time avoiding unnecessary peaks and valleys of production).

(b) Purchasing.

(c) Contract Administration, including arrangements for follow-up and expediting.

(d) Acquisition of licenses under patents or other proprietary rights covering the subject matter of the procurement and the settlement of patent infringement claims arising out of the procurement. Approval of the Department or Departments whose funds are to be charged for the acquisition of licenses or settlement of claims will be obtained.

(e) Arrangement for inspection.

(f) Arrangement for transportation.

(g) Development, under the policies of the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Supply and Logistics), of joint Military or Federal specifications when possible.

(h) Initiation and promotion, under the policies of the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Supply and Logistics), of the maximum degree of standardization.

§ 403.202–2 Joint procurement. Responsibilities for procurement by a joint agency are as set forth in the individual agency charter.

§ 403.202–3 Plant cognizance procurement. Responsibilities for procurement and mobilization planning are as set forth in the Munitions Board memorandum of 14 February 1949, subject: "Assignment of Procurement Responsibilities and Mobilization Planning Responsibilities in Selected Aviation Plants," and any amendments thereto.

§ 403.203 General principles governing implementation of procurement assignments.

§ 403.203–1 Standard format; development and promulgation of implementing procedures. Implementation of a procurement assignment shall be accomplished in accordance with Department of Defense Directive 4115.28, July 26, 1952, subject: "Implementation of Procurement Assignments," and any amendments thereto.

§ 403.203–2 Relationship between research and development and single procurement. Items are not subject to procurement assignment until they have reached the production stage.

§ 403.203–3 Small dollar value purchases. Requirements of small dollar value will be procured in accordance with the provisions of the approved implementing procedures covering the particular assignment.

§ 403.203–4 Emergency. In case of emergency, where the exigencies of the situation will not permit of the delay incident to following the normal channels of single procurement, purchases may be made without the prior authorization of the Procuring Department. When such emergency purchases are made, one copy of the contractual instrument, bearing or accompanied by a statement of the emergency, shall be transmitted promptly to the purchasing activity of the Procuring Department.

§ 403.203–5 Department of Defense manufacturing establishments. When procurement assignments have been made for items required by manufacturing establishments of the Departments, these items shall be obtained through the facilities of the Procuring Department unless such action will unduly hinder or delay production. When procurements are made other than through the Procuring Department, one copy of the contractual instrument bearing or accompanied by a statement of the circumstances necessitating such procurement shall be transmitted promptly to the purchasing activity of the Procuring Department. This section is not applicable when purchases are made pursuant to § 403.203–3.

§ 403.204 Items in short supply. In cases where shortages in supplies develop, the normal procedure will be to resolve the problem on a Departmental level. If mutual agreement cannot be reached, the subject shall be referred to the Joint Munitions Allocations Committee of the Joint Chiefs of Staff for decision.

§ 403.205 Transfer of uncompleted contracts.

§ 403.205–1 Effect of assignment of procurement responsibility. As a general rule, when the procurement responsibility for a commodity or class of commodities is assigned to one Department, uncompleted contracts of any other Department for any such commodity or class of commodities will not be transferred but will continue to be administered for all purposes by such other Department.

§ 403.205–2 Disputes under transferred contracts. In the case of any contract transferred, or to be transferred, from one Department to another Department, which contract refers to either the Navy Department Board of Contract Appeals or the Army Board of Contract Appeals, the contract shall be amended to provide that the Armed Services Board of Contract Appeals will hear and decide all disputes concerning questions of fact which are appealed pursuant to the "disputes" clause of such transferred contract.

§ 403.205–3 Contracting Officers under transferred contracts. In the case of any contract transferred, or to be transferred, to any Department, the successor to the Contracting Officer for each such contract shall be the Head of the Procuring Activity (or any Contracting Officer thereof) to which the administration of any such contract is assigned, and any such successor shall have all of the rights and responsibilities of a Contracting Officer under such transferred contract.

§ 403.206 Purchase authorization. MIPR's or other authorized procurement requests, when received by the Procuring Department, will be the authority to procure the supplies listed thereon or to furnish from stock, in accordance with agreements between the Departments concerned, subject to the provisions of § 403.208. Although the Procuring Department has no responsibility to determine the validity of a stated requirement in an approved procurement request, it should bring to the attention of the Requiring Department apparent or obvious errors in the requirement. Deviations from provisions of the MIPR or other authorized procurement request shall not be made by the Procuring Department without approval of the Requiring Department.

§ 403.207–1 Contractor-furnished components. In the procurement of end items where the Contractor normally secures all components thereof from his own source (not Government-furnished), the procurement assignment does not apply to the component items required by such Contractor.

§ 403.207–2 Government-furnished components. In the procurement of end items where the Government furnishes components which are covered by a procurement assignment, such components shall be procured in accordance with the procurement assignment. However, direct purchase may be made by a Requiring Department in exceptional cases where agreement is reached with the Procuring Department.

§ 403.207–3 Purchase of components over and above those initially purchased with the end item. The procurement of components covered by a procurement assignment, over and above those initially purchased with the end item, shall be effected in accordance with the procurement assignment. However, direct purchase may be made by a Requiring Department in exceptional cases where agreement is reached with the Procuring Department.

§ 403.208 Funds and payments. [Reserved] (Pending publication of this section, funds to be obligated by a Contracting Officer in response to a MIPR or other authorized procurement request shall not exceed the amounts certified by the requiring activity, in accordance with the provisions of Department of Defense Directive 7200.1, March 20, 1952, subject: "Administrative Control of Appropriations within the Department of Defense, and implementing Departmental regulations").

§ 403.209 Charges and surcharges. Items requested by one Department from another Department which are furnished from inventory stocks shall be billed at catalog or book price. However, when items do not fully conform to prescribed specifications or standards, or are considered excess or obsolete stock, the items shall be billed at a price mutually agreeable to both Departments. Items furnished from stocks financed by stock funds shall be handled in accordance with Department of Defense regulations governing the operation of stock funds. Costs of packing, crating, and handling such materials shall not be billed unless approved by the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Comptroller). Administrative costs shall be handled in accordance with § 403.210.

§ 403.210 Administrative costs. The Procuring Department shall bear, without reimbursement therefor, the administrative costs incidental to its procurement of supplies for another Department. However, when a procurement responsibility is transferred from one Department to another Department, funds appropriated or to be appropriated for defraying the administrative costs of such procurement responsibility shall be made available to the successor Procuring Department which shall assume budget cognizance at the earliest possible date.

§ 403.211 Inspection. Policies and procedures concerning inspection and acceptance for use in conjunction with this part are set forth in Part 413 of this subchapter.

§ 403.212 Execution and administration of contracts. Generally, the Procuring Department will execute a single contract where an award embodying the requirements of more than one Department is made to a single Contractor. Administration of contracts shall be in accordance with the procedures developed by the Procuring Department in accordance with § 403.203–1.

§ 403.213 Status reporting. Appropriate systems of followup shall be maintained by the Procuring Department in order that contracting personnel may be currently informed as to the performance by a Contractor and to further insure that Requiring Departments are apprised of the status of contracts.

§ 403.214 Specifications. The Procuring Department shall have the responsibility for the following specification activities, except as otherwise assigned:

(a) Obtaining from the Requiring Department a list of (or copies of) specifications used in the assigned field;

(b) Reviewing the specifications to determine those which are of such interest that military or Federal specifications should be prepared;

(c) Taking action to have initiated military or Federal specifications projects;

(d) Acting as custodian of military specifications in assigned fields.

Under no circumstances will the Procuring Department direct or authorize deviations from the specifications contained in the MIPR without express authority of the Requiring Department.

§ 403.215 Transportation of supplies. Subject to the provisions of § 400.306, every requisition or procurement request shall show the appropriation or fund and accounting classification chargeable for such transportation costs as may be incurred in effecting delivery at Government expense. Government bills of lading, when required, will generally be issued by the Procuring Department. In every instance, the Government bill of lading shall show (a) the Requiring Department as the Department to be billed, and (b) the appropriation or fund designated by that Department as the appropriation chargeable. Where Government bills of lading of the Procuring Department are used to cover shipment of supplies consigned to the Requiring Department, the bill of lading number shall be prefixed by the name of the Requiring Department.

Assistant Secretary of Defense (Supply and Logistics).

(2) Any termination inventory included in the determination of the amount of the settlement has been disposed of in accordance with the procedures set forth in § 407.614, except that the disposition of such inventory shall not (i) be subject to review by the Contracting Officer under the provisions of § 407.614–1 (a) or § 407.614–4, or (ii) be subject to the provisions of § 407.614–5 (a).

(3) Completed articles allocable to the terminated subcontract may also be disposed of without review by the Contracting Officer under § 407.614–1 (a) or § 407.614–4, and without screening under § 407.614–5 (a), provided that the amount thereof (at the subcontract price) when added to the amount of the settlement as determined under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph does not exceed $10,000. Except to this extent, § 407.614 shall apply to any disposal of completed articles allocable to the terminated subcontract.

(4) Each such settlement is accompanied by a certificate in the form set forth in § 407.708.

(b) The Contracting Officer granting the above defined authorization to a Contractor shall be responsible for periodically making a selective review of settlements to determine whether the Contractor is making adequate reviews and fair settlements, and whether such authorization shall remain in effect. Whenever the Contracting Officer determines that the Contractor's procedures are not adequate or that improper settlements are being made, he may revoke the authorization by written notice to the Contractor. The revocation of the authority shall take effect only from the date of receipt of written notice by the Contractor.

(c) Any number of separate settlements of $10,000 or less may be made with a single subcontractor. Claims which would normally be included in a single settlement proposal, such as those based on a series of separate orders for the same item under one contract, should be consolidated wherever possible, and must not be divided in such a way as to bring them within the authorization provided for in this paragraph.

2. Section 407.601–3 has been amended as follows: § 407.601–3, as revised facilitates disposal of Government-furnished property by eliminating the requirement that supplies must be surplus before disposition is authorized. It now reads:

§ 407.601–3 Government - furnished property. Government-furnished property which is included in termination inventory, delivery of which has not been required by the Government, may be disposed of in the same manner as other termination inventory after screening in accordance with the requirements of § 407.606, except that § 407.602 does not apply to the disposition of such Government-furnished property. The Contracting Officer is required to approve all such dispositions and may specify methods for preparing and routing inventory schedules covering such property.

3. Section 407.602 as revised authorizes Contractors to return Contractor-acquired property to their suppliers and to secure reimbursement and restocking charges or 15 percent of the cost of returned inventory, whichever is less; where proper use of retained contractor-acquired property requires moving of inventory, a Contractor may now be reimbursed for the reasonable cost of handling and transportation.

§ 407.602–1 Retention of property by contractors. Subject to the right of the Government to acquire any item of Contractor-acquired property and to the provisions of § 407.602–3, Contractors are encouraged to retain such property at cost and shall not include any part of the cost of property so retained in settlement proposals, except that in any instance in which a Contractor desires to retain any allocable Contractor-acquired property for the purpose of utilization at another plant location and such retention is deemed to be in the best interest of the Government, reasonable handling and transportation charges with respect to property so retained may be included in the Contractor's settlement proposal as "other costs."

§ 407.602–2 Return of property to suppliers. Subject to the right of the Government to acquire any item of Contractor-acquired property and to the provisions of § 407.602–3, Contractors are authorized and encouraged to return allocable quantities of such property to suppliers for full credit less the supplier's normal restocking charge, or 15 percent of cost, whichever is less. Contractors shall not include in their termination settlement proposals the cost of termination inventory returned to suppliers in accordance with this paragraph. The Contractor may include in his settlement proposal as "other costs" the transportation, handling, and restocking charges with respect to the property so returned.

§ 407.602–3 Cost-reimbursement type contracts. Whether or not the Government has previously acquired title thereto under the provisions of a cost-reimbursement type contract, the Contractor may, with the approval of the Contracting Officer, upon appropriate adjustment of any previously reimbursed costs retain or return to the supplier any items of Contractor-acquired termination inventory under the provisions of §§ 407.602–1 and 407.602–2.

4. Section 407.603–2 has been amended by the addition of a sentence. It now reads as follows:

§ 407.603–2 General classifications. Contractor-acquired property and Government-furnished property shall be listed separately to the extent practicable. Within each of these categories, separate sets of schedules shall be submitted (as set forth in Subpart G of this part) covering the following:

(a) Serviceable aircraft or aircraft components;

(b) Other serviceable or usable materials;

(c) Scrap or salvage.

To the extent that it may be practicable, separate sets of schedules will be submitted for property to be screened and property not to be screened under the provisions of § 407.606. The classification proposed by the Contractor in his schedules shall be subject to the approval of the Contracting Officer.

5. Section 407.606 Screening of serviceable and useable property has been amended as follows:

§ 407.606 Screening of serviceable and useable property.

§ 407.606–1 Scope of screening. (a) Subject to the provisions of paragraphs (b), (c), and (d) of this section serviceable and useable property included in the Contractor's inventory schedules will be screened as follows:

(1) Inventories of aircraft and aircraft components will be screened for possible redistribution within the Air Force and the Navy;

(2) Inventories of other items will be screened to the extent required by the Procuring Activity. Items which are reportable for further screening under applicable regulations will be so reported;

(3) Termination inventory to which the provisions of § 407.518–6 are applicable does not require screening.

(b) If the contractor has been directed by the Notice of Termination to deliver any items of termination inventory to the Government no further screening of those items will be required.

(c) If the total serviceable and usable property included in the Contractor's inventory schedules has an original cost of $500 or less, such property need not be screened unless the Contracting Officer determines that screening is desirable.

(d) Line items included in the Contractor's inventory, having an original cost of $300 ($1,000 in the case of foreign excess) or less, need not be screened (unless the Contracting Officer determines that screening is desirable), provided that such items are listed by the Contractor on a separate schedule or schedules. The term "line item" as used in this paragraph means all substantially similar articles under any one contract at any one location and which should be listed as a single entry in an inventory schedule.

§ 407–606–2 Screening period. If screening under § 407–606 has not been completed within 60 calendar days after the date the property involved is reported by the Procuring Activity to the Surplus Materials Division, Department of Defense, and no instructions with respect to such property have been received by the Contracting Officer within such 60-day period, the Contracting Officer shall promptly notify the Contractor and thereafter such property may be sold or otherwise disposed of as hereinafter set forth.

6. Section 407.607 Acquisition by Government is amended by deletion of the phrase, "and (c) other agencies of the Government" from the last sentence.

7. The amendments to § 407.608–3 result in substantial enlargement of the authority of Contracting Officers to permit disposition of termination inventory by negotiated sales. The amended section reads as follows:

§ 407.608–3 Other sales. (a) Acquisitions or sales, other than those under paragraph (b) of this section, may be authorized without competitive bids whenever in the opinion of the Contracting Officer the use of such method of disposal is essential in the interest of making a fair and prompt settlement (including the expeditious clearance of the Contractor's plant) and provided the interests of the Government are adequately protected. Acquisitions and sales under this paragraph shall be at a price which is (1) fair and reasonable, (2) not less than the proceeds which could reasonably be expected to be obtained if the property were offered for competitive sale at such time, (3) approved by the Contracting Officer, and (4) subject to the provisions of paragraph (c) of this section.

(b) After such appropriate screening as may be provided by the regulations of the various departments, scientific equipment allocated to terminated research and development contracts with educational institutions may be sold to the Contractor in possession for use in educational or research pursuits without obtaining competitive bids. Prices under which such equipment is transferred shall be based upon negotiations between the Contractor and the Contracting Officer: Provided, That such prices shall be fair and reasonable and not less than the proceeds that could reasonably be expected to be obtained if the property were offered for competitive sale at such time.

(c) Any acquisitions or sales made under paragraph (a) or (b) of this section without competitive bids shall be subject to the prior approval of a Property Disposal Review Board, or other designated reviewing agency, to the extent required by departmental procedures, in addition to the required approval of the Contracting Officer under § 407.608–1 and paragraph (a) (3) of this section: Provided, however, That the approval of such a board or other reviewing agency shall be required, as a minimum, in any case hereunder in which the original acquisition cost of the materials involved exceeds $25,000.

8. Section 407.613–2 is amended to read as follows:

§ 407.613–2 Required review. The following property disposal matters shall be reviewed by a Property Disposal Review Board prior to approval or ratification by the Contracting Officer:

(a) A determination that material is scrap or salvage, if the original acquisition cost of the material is $25,000 or more.

(b) A release from a scrap warranty, if the original acquisition cost of the material is $10,000 or more.

(c) Any acquisitions or sales made without competitive bids in accordance with § 407.608–2 to the extent required by departmental procedures in accordance with § 407.608–3.

(d) A determination that property is donable in accordance with § 407–609 and a determination to destroy or abandon material in accordance with § 407–610 if the original acquisition cost of the material exceeds $1,000.

(e) Whenever the Contracting Officer deems it appropriate.

9. Section 407.614 as revised, provides authority for direct submission for approval of subcontractors' inventory schedules by their next higher-tier subcontractors to cognizant Contracting Officers. The amended paragraph reads as follows:

§ 407.614 Subcontractor termination inventory.

§ 407.614–1 General policy. (a) The Prime Contractor and each subcontractor is primarily responsible for disposing of the termination inventory of its next lower-tier subcontractors, but all such disposals shall be subject to review by the Contracting Officer as to reasonableness in connection with the approval or ratification (except as otherwise provided in § 407.518–6) of the Prime Contractor's settlements with its subcontractors under § 407.518–7. The policy relating to methods of disposal, responsibility for sales, and Government-furnished property and the general restrictions on Contractors' authority, as set forth in § 407.601, shall be applicable in the case of subcontractors. Any rights which the Prime Contractor has or acquires in the termination inventory of its first-tier or lower-tier subcontractors shall, to the extent directed by the Contracting Officer, be exercised for the benefit of the Government, in accordance with the provisions of the contract between the Government and the Prime Contractor.

(b) Subcontractors in all tiers will prepare inventory schedules in accordance with the requirements of this part. Normally disposition instructions for termination inventory, except serviceable and usable property, will be furnished by the next higher-tier subcontractor or the Prime Contractor, as the case may be. Each subcontractor may submit its next lower-tier subcontractors' termination inventory schedules of serviceable and usable property directly to the Contracting Officer for review and disposition instructions, unless otherwise directed by the Contracting Officer. In the interest of expediting disposition of termination inventory, the cognizant Contracting Officer will permit such direct submission, unless he determines that the submission of inventory schedules through all intermediate tiers of subcontractors is necessary in the best interest of the Government. When such a determination is made, it must be in writing and a copy submitted to the Head of Procuring Activity concerned for review.

PART 408—PATENTS AND COPYRIGHTS

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

Part 408, Patents and Copyrights, has been amended as follows:

1. Section 408.001, Effective date of part, has been deleted. In lieu thereof, the following section has been inserted:

§ 408.000 Scope of part. This part sets forth policies, instructions and contract clauses pertaining to patents and copyrights in connection with the procurement of supplies and services.

The amendments to §§ 408.102 and 408.105 provide that the clauses entitled "Notice and Assistance Regarding Patent Infringement" and "Patent Indemnity" may be included in contracts for construction on real property and shall be included in every supply contract in excess of $5,000 which calls exclusively for standard commercial supplies. The amendments further provide that the above-mentioned clauses shall not be used in any contract in lesser amounts, except that, as a matter of administrative convenience, the clauses need not be deleted when they are a part of a standard form being used for the contract. The clauses themselves have been revised slightly by prefixing the words "if the amount of this contract is in excess of $5,000".

2. Section 408.102, as amended, reads as follows:

§ 408.102 Notice and assistance. In order that the Government may be notified of claims of infringement asserted against a Contractor or its subcontractor in connection with the performance of Government contracts, and in order that the Government may obtain necessary assistance from a contractor in the event of patent infringement litigation, the following clause shall be included in all contracts in excess of $5,000 for supplies, construction on real property, facilities, or experimental, developmental, or research work; and shall not be included in contracts of lesser amounts, except that, as a matter of administrative convenience, the clause need not be deleted when it is a part of a standard form being used for the contract:

(a) If the amount of this contract is in excess of $5,000, the Contractor agrees to report to the Contracting Officer, promptly and in reasonable written detail, each claim of patent infringement based on the performance of this contract and asserted against it, or against any of its subcontractors if it has notice thereof.

(b) In the event of litigation against the Government on account of any claim of infringement arising out of the performance of this contract or out of the use of any supplies furnished or construction work performed hereunder, the Contractor agrees that it will furnish to the Government, upon request, all evidence and information in its possession pertaining to the defense of such litigation. Such information shall be furnished at the expense of the Government, except in those cases in which the Contractor has agreed to indemnify the Government against the claim being asserted.

3. Section 408.105 (a) has been amended and, shown with the introductory text of the section, now reads as follows:

§ 408.105 Patent indemnification of Government by Contractor. In order that the Government may be protected from liability for patent infringement, a contract clause providing for appropriate indemnification shall be used in accordance with the provisions set forth below:

(a) The following clause may be included in contracts for construction on real property and shall be included in every supply contract in excess of $5,000 which calls exclusively for standard commercial supplies; and shall not be used in any contract of lesser amounts, except that, as a matter of administrative convenience, the clause need not be deleted when it is a part of a standard form being used for the contract:

PATENT INDEMNITY

If the amount of this contract is in excess of $5,000, the Contractor agrees to indemnify the Government and its officers, agents and employees against liability, including costs and expenses, for infringement upon any Letters Patent of the United States (except Letters Patent issued upon an application which is now or may hereafter be, for reasons of national security, ordered by the Government to be kept secret or otherwise withheld from issue) arising out of the performance of this contract or out of the use or disposal by or for the account of the Government of supplies furnished or construction work performed hereunder. The foregoing indemnity shall not apply unless the Contractor shall have been informed as soon as practicable by the Government of the suit or action alleging such infringement, and shall have been given an opportunity to present recommendations as to the defense thereof; and further such indemnity shall not apply in any one of the following situations: (i) Any infringement resulting from the addition to any such supplies of other supplies not furnished by the Contractor for the purpose of such addition; (ii) any settlement of a claim of infringement made without the consent of the Contractor, unless required by final decree of a court of competent jurisdiction; (iii) any claim of infringement arising from use or disposal outside the scope of any license limitation under which the Contractor is bound, provided that the Contractor has notified the Government of the limitation prior to first delivery under this contract; (iv) any infringement necessarily resulting from changes (other than the substitution of another standard commercial part or component manufactured or supplied by the Contractor) ordered pursuant to this contract, or from specific written instructions given by the Contracting Officer directing a manner of performing the contract not normally utilized by the Contractor.

4. Section 408.104 Classified contracts has been amended by deletion of paragraph (b) in the "clause" and insertion, in lieu thereof, of the following paragraph (b):

(b) While and so long as the subject matter of this contract is classified "Confidential", the Contractor agrees to furnish to the Contracting Officer, at the time of or prior to filing or causing to be filed a patent application disclosing any of said subject matter, a copy of such application for determination whether, for reasons of national security, such application should be kept secret or the issuance of a patent thereunder otherwise delayed, under pertinent statutes or regulations; and the Contractor agrees to observe any instructions of the Contracting Officer in this regard.

5. Section 408.203 Material in which no adverse copyright should be established has been amended by the deletion of paragraph (c) and insertion of the following paragraph (c) in lieu thereof:

(c) Surveys of Government establishments.

(Sec. 1, 54 Stat. 712, as amended, sec. 201, 55 Stat. 839, 62 Stat. 20; 50 U. S. C. App. 1171, 611, 41 U. S. C. 151–161; E. O. 9001, 6 F. R. 6787, as amended by E. O. 9296, 8 F. R. 1429; 3 CFR, 1943 Cum. Supp.)

§ 410.102 Retailers' excise taxes. Chapters 9A and 19 of the Internal Revenue Code, as implemented by Treasury Regulations 51, impose a retailers' excise tax upon various types of supplies, enumerated in the following paragraphs of this § 410.102, sold at retail. To establish the right to exemption from tax with respect to such sales, the applicable Treasury Regulation requires that the manufacturer (a) have in his possession a copy of the prime contract, subcontract, or Government purchase order under which the sale to the United States is made by him directly or through the Prime Contractor or (b) in the absence of such contract or purchase order, obtain from the Contracting Officer and retain in his possession a properly executed exemption certificate in the form prescribed by the applicable Treasury Regulation. § 410.204–2 Components. Pursuant to the authority of section 3404 (b) of the Internal Revenue Code and applicable Treasury Regulations, exemption is available from manufacturers' excise taxes with respect to sales by the manufacturer of any component named in such section for use by his vendee as material in the manufacture or production of or as a component part of a communication, detection, or navigation receiver if such receiver is to be sold by such vendee to the United States for its exclusive use. To establish the right to exemption from the tax with respect to such sales, the manufacturer must obtain from his vendee prior to or at the time of the sale, and retain in his possession, a certificate in the form prescribed by the applicable Treasury Regulation showing that the article is to be used by his vendee for the purpose mentioned above. This exemption shall be made use of by means of purchase on a tax-exclusive basis, only when, and in accordance with procedures prescribed by each respective Department, it is advantageous to make use of such exemption.

§ 410.205 Supplies sold for further manufacture. Pursuant to the authority of section 3442 of the Internal Revenue Code and applicable Treasury Regulations, exemption is available from manufacturers' excise taxes with respect to sales of any supplies other than tires, inner tubes, and automobile radios (a) for use in the manufacture or production of taxable supplies or as component parts thereof, or (b) for resale for such use, which exemption is obtainable by the manufacturer and requires no action by the Contracting Officer. The contract price for such supplies purchased by any Department shall not include an amount for any manufacturers' excise tax from which an exemption is available to the manufacturer.

AUTHORITY: §§ 254.1 to 254.14 issued under 44 Stat. 741, 68 Stat. 173; 43 U. S. C. 869.

§ 254.1 Statutory authority. The act of June 14, 1926 (44 Stat. 741), as amended by the act of June 4, 1954 (68 Stat. 173; 43 U. S. C. 869), authorizes the Secretary of the Interior, under specified conditions, to lease or sell lands for recreational and public purposes. This legislation is referred to as "the act" in these regulations in this part.

§ 254.2 Who may apply. The following are qualified to make applications under the act: States and the Territory of Alaska; Federal, State, and Territory of Alaska instrumentalities, and political subdivisions, including counties and municipalities; and nonprofit associations and nonprofit corporations.

§ 254.3 Lands subject to disposition. The act is applicable to any public domain lands except (a) lands withdrawn or reserved for national forests, national parks and monuments, and national wildlife refuges; (b) Oregon and California revested railroad grant lands and Coos Bay reconveyed wagon-road grant lands; and (c) Indian lands and lands set aside or held for use by or the benefit of Indians.

§ 254.4 Purposes for which lands may be acquired. (a) Qualified applicants are permitted by the act to acquire available lands for use for any public purposes for which they are authorized by their creating authority to hold lands. Nonprofit associations and nonprofit corporations are permitted, in addition, to acquire lands for use for any recreational purpose consistent with their creating authority.

(b) No applicant can secure lands under the act, however, for any use authorized under any other public land law. This restriction does not apply to the use of lands for residence, business, recreation, and community-site purposes authorized by the act of June 1, 1938 (52 Stat. 609; 43 U. S. C., 682a, Part 257 of this chapter) as amended.

§ 254.5 General limitations and conditions on dispositions. (a) Applicants will not be granted title to or use of land under the act unless and until (1) the land is first classified as suitable for the purpose sought and not needed for any other public purpose or is not more valuable and suitable for some other use, including the development of power; and, (2) if the land is under the jurisdiction of any agency or instrumentality outside the Department of the Interior, that agency or instrumentality consents to the proposed disposition.

(b) Applicants will not be granted title to or use of land under the act except for an established or definitely proposed project. A definitely proposed project is a project which has been authorized by competent authority irrespective of whether or not it has been financed and otherwise fully implemented, providing that there exists the probability that it will be fully implemented within a reasonable time.

(c) No applicant can receive under the act patent for more than 640 acres in any one calendar year.

(d) No patent will be issued under the act unless and until the land is officially surveyed.

(e) All leases and patents issued under the act will reserve to the United States all minerals, together with the right to mine and remove the same under applicable laws and regulations to be established by the Secretary of the Interior.

(f) Municipal corporations cannot secure land under this act if it is not within convenient access to the municipality and within the same State or Territory as the municipality. Other qualified applicants cannot secure land outside of their political boundaries or other area of jurisdiction.

§ 254.6 Classifications. (a) Lands in Alaska classified under the act and lands in the States classified pursuant to the act under section 7 of the act of June 28, 1934 (48 Stat. 1272, 43 U. S. C. 315f), as amended, will be segregated from all appropriations, including locations under the mining laws, except as provided in the order of classification or in any modification or revision thereof.

(b) Classifications made pursuant to the act on the motion of the Government for which no application is filed within 18 months after issuance will be vacated and the land restored to its former status.

§ 254.7 Applications. (a) Applicants under the act must submit, in triplicate, to the appropriate office of the Bureau of Land Management an application on Form 4–1267, executed in accordance with the instructions on the form. Each application must be accompanied by (1) three copies of a statement describing the proposed use of the lands, showing that the application involves an established or definitely proposed project, and giving as much detail concerning the plan of development and improvement of the project as is necessary to describe the project and its purpose adequately and the proposed disposition of any revenues to be realized from it and (2) a filing fee of $10.

(b) The acreage applied for in any one application for patent cannot exceed 640 acres and no more than 640 acres will be conveyed to any one grantee in any one calendar year.

§ 254.8 Purchase price and lease rentals. (a) Conveyances under the act for historic monument purposes will be made without any monetary consideration.

(b) Sales to nonprofit associations or nonprofit corporations for other than historic monument purposes will be made at prices fixed through appraisal of the fair market value of the land, taking into consideration the purposes for which the lands will be used.

(c) All other sales will be made at prices fixed through (1) appraisal of the fair market value of the lands or otherwise, taking into consideration the purpose for which the land will be used or (2) any method which considers the purpose for which the land will be used.

(d) Annual rentals under leases will be fair and reasonable and will be based on the value of the lands as determined by the requirements of paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section.

(e) A patent applicant, when the land has been appraised, will be required to pay the full purchase price before the patent will be issued. The rental under a lease shall be payable annually in advance. Upon appraisal of the land, a lease applicant will be required to pay the first year's rental before the lease will be issued. Upon the voluntary relinquishment of a lease before the expiration of its term, any rental paid for the unexpired portion of the term will be returned to the lessee upon a proper application for repayment to the extent that the amount paid covers a full lease year or years of the remainder of the term of the original lease.

§ 254.9 Lease provisions. (a) The term of leases under the act will be fixed by the authorized official but will not exceed 20 years. Leases will be renewable at the discretion of such official.

(b) Leases will be issued on Form 4–1270 and will contain the usual terms and conditions required by law, public policy, and, insofar as possible, by Department of the Interior procedure.

(c) Leases will contain such terms and conditions which the signing officer or the administering agency considers necessary for the proper development of the land, for the protection of Federal property, and for the protection of the public interests.

(d) Leases will be terminable by the authorized official upon failure of the lessee to comply with the terms of the lease, upon a finding that all or part of the land is being devoted to other than the use authorized by the lease, or upon a finding that the land has not been used by the lessee for the purpose specified in the lease for any consecutive period specified by the authorized official but not more than 5 years or less than 2 years.

(e) Leases will not be transferable except with the consent of the proper official. Transferees must meet all the qualifications of applicants under the act and will be subject to all the terms and conditions of the regulations in this part.

§ 254.10 Publications: protests: patents: transfers. (a) Applicants for patents under the act will be required upon demand to publish once a week for four consecutive weeks in accordance with § 106.18 of this chapter, at their expense, in a designated newspaper and in a designated form, a notice allowing all persons claiming the land adversely to file in the appropriate office their objections to the issuance of patent under the applications. A protestant must serve on the applicant a copy of the objections and furnish evidence of such service.

(b) Such applicants must file a statement of the publisher, accompanied by a copy of the notice published, showing that publication has been had for the required time.

(c) All patents under this act will contain a clause providing that if the patentee or its successor attempts to transfer title to or control over the lands to another or the lands are devoted to a use other than that for which the lands were conveyed, without consent of competent authority, title shall revert to the United States. This clause will terminate 25 years after issuance of the patent. Transferees must meet all the qualifications of applicants under the act and will be subject to the terms and conditions of the regulations in this part.

§ 254.11 Applications for transfer, change of use, and for renewal of leases. (a) Applications under the act for permission to add to, or to change the use specified in a lease or patent, applications to transfer title or lease to a third party, and applications for renewal of a lease must be filed in triplicate with the appropriate office of the Bureau of Land Management. No form is specified but the matter should be fully explained by the applicant.

(b) Applications for permission to add to or to change use must be accompanied by three copies of the showing required by § 254.7 (a) (1).

(c) Applications for approval of transfers of title or lease must be accompanied by three copies of Form 4–1267 executed by the proposed transferee in accordance with § 254.7.

(d) Applications for removal of leases must be accompanied by three copies of a statement showing, in detail sufficient to describe the situation adequately, the past use of the lands and the proposed use after renewal of the lease.

(e) Each application must be accompanied by a filing fee of $10.

(f) Prior to approval of an application filed under paragraph (b) of this section the land may be reappraised in accordance with § 254.8 and the beneficiary required to make such payments as are found justified by such reappraisal.

§ 254.12 Lands patented under prior acts: applications for transfer and change of use. (a) Applications under section 4 of the act for permission to transfer title or to change the use in respect to land covered by any patent issued prior to June 4, 1954, must be submitted in conformance with § 254.11.

(b) The land, however, will not be subject to reappraisal and the beneficiary will not be required to make any payment other than the filing fee.

§ 254.13 Cooperation with the National Park Service. In furtherance of the purposes of the act of June 23, 1936 (49 Stat. 1894; 16 U. S. C. 17k), the National Park Service will review and make recommendations on all applications for recreational purposes submitted by States and the Territory of Alaska or their political subdivisions.

§ 254.14 Minerals; timber. (a) Any minerals subject to the leasing laws reserved to the United States in the lands patented or leases under the terms of the act may be disposed of to any qualified person under applicable laws and regulations. Until rules and regulations are issued, other minerals are not subject to disposition or to prospecting except by an authorized Federal agency.

(b) A lessee under the act will not be permitted to cut timber from the leased lands without prior permission from the appropriate officer.

§ 254.15 Appeals. An appeal pursuant to the rules of practice, Part 221 of this chapter, may be taken from the decision of the authorized officer of the Bureau of Land Management.

[Rules Amdt. 3–19]

PART 3—RADIO BROADCAST SERVICES

BROADCASTS BY CANDIDATES FOR PUBLIC OFFICE

In the matter of amendment of the rules governing broadcasts by candidates for public office: AM, § 3.190; FM, §3.290; TV, § 3.657; Docket No. 11092.

1. The Commission has under consideration its notice of proposed rule making issued June 25, 1954 (FCC 54–795) proposing to amend §§ 3.190, 3.290 and 3.657 of the Commission's rules and regulations which relate to the rates charged by broadcast stations for broadcasts made by candidates for public office. The purpose of the proposed amendments is to implement section 315 of the Communications Act, as revised, to insure that candidates for public office are afforded the opportunity to use the facilities of broadcast stations at a rate no higher than the stations would charge commercial advertisers under comparable circumstances. Interested parties were invited to submit written comments on the proposal; and in response, the California Inland Broadcasting Company, Fresno, California; the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters; the Aiken Electronics Adv. Corporation, Aiken, South Carolina, and 34 other parties set forth below; the Tennessee Valley Broadcasting Co., Decatur, Alabama, and 35 other parties set forth below and the Southern Idaho Broadcasting and Television Company, Twin Falls, Idaho, have filed comments. While none of the parties express opposition to the proposed amendments, they do recommend that they be modified or clarified in some respects. The recommendations of the parties are considered separately below.

2. The comments filed by California Inland Broadcasting Company concern the concept of national, regional and local rates as used in the multiple rate structures of stations in the broadcasting industry. It contends that the type of business of a commercial advertiser, i. e., manufacturer, distributor, r e t a i l e r, rather than the area in which he does business, is, in many cases, the important factor in the determination of which rate shall apply to a particular commercial account and that, consequently, the area encompassed by an advertiser's business may have no bearing on the rate charged. It therefore envisions that stations may have difficulty in carrying out the proposed provisions of paragraph (c) (1), which base the rate to be charged a political condidate upon the rate charged a commercial advertiser whose business is confined to the same area as the particular office for which a candidate is running, and suggests that these provisions be clarified by an amendment or in the accompanying report at the time of adoption. It recommends that paragraph (c) (1) be amended to specify that the national rate shall apply to all political candidates whose names appear on the ballot in more than one county, and the local rate to condidates whose names appear on the ballot in only one county. We cannot concur in California Inland's proposed amendment. For, while it might be advantageous from the standpoint of certainty, this would establish a purely artificial test for determining the applicable rate which in specific cases might result in charging candidates rates not comparable to those charged commercial advertisers. We believe the comment does, however, point out an ambiguity in the existing proposal and to obviate this we have modified paragraph (c) (1) of the rates to provide that a candidate, in each case, shall be charged no more than the rate the station would charge if the candidate were a commercial advertiser whose advertising was directed to promoting its business within the same area as that encompassed by the particular office for which such person is a candidate. We believe this revision will enable station licensees to determine which of its commercial rates is generally charged in the area encompassed by the office for which a particular candidate is running and to make a good faith judgment in the case of each individual candidate as to the applicable commercial rate to be charged.

3. The comments of the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters (NARTB) and Southern Idaho Broadcasting and Television Company are both directed to the question of how discount rates are to be calculated under the proposed rule in circumstances where time has been purchased by or for one candidate as part of a bulk purchase of time which has resulted in making the cost to such candidate less than if he had purchased the time actually used by him on an individual basis. The NARTB comment is directed to paragraph 5 of the notice of proposed rule making which indicated that where a group of candidates have pooled their resources to purchase a block of time at discount rates, individual opponents of such candidates are entitled to secure the same rates as those charged the individual member of the group against whom they are competing. NARTB urges that this interpretation of the rates be withdrawn as being unrelated to the question of charging candidates rates comparable to those charged other commercial users of time, and because such an interpretation allegedly would disrupt "the historic pattern of purchase and sale of broadcast facilities to qualified candidates." Southern Idaho apparently does not take issue with the Commission's views as to the situation where time has been purchased on a group or pooled basis by several candidates, but raises the question as to the applicability of this principle where the block of time is purchased by a political committee or similar group, and individual candidates using part of this time are only charged a pro rata share of the total cost. It is contended that it would be grossly unfair to stations and purchasers of large segments of time if section 315 and our rules are interpreted as entitling the opponents of the individual candidates to the same reduced rate which they paid by reason of their connection with the committee, in the event such opponents were unwilling to purchase a segment of time to which the same discount given the Committee applies. We believe that the answer to both of these questions becomes apparent when it is recognized that the entire scheme of section 315 of the act is that opposing legally qualified candidates for a particular public office are, as a matter of individual right, entitled to equal opportunities in the use of broadcast facilities. This does not mean that they must be given equal time, or even that they must be charged the same rates if, though the station makes the opportunity available to all, only some of the competing candidates choose to purchase enough time to take advantage of available discount rates. But we think it clear that the individual equality among competing candidates can only be achieved if any one candidate, by doing and spending no more than his individual opponent, can secure equal air time. To provide otherwise, as the NARTB and Southern Idaho Broadcasting and Television have suggested, would substitute equality among groups or political parties for the criterion of individual equality among candidates. Whatever we may think of this as an abstract question of policy, it is not what we understand Congress intended in section 315.

4. Finally, Southern Idaho also suggests that the use of the words "equal terms" in the last sentence of the proposed subparagraph (c) (1) might be misconstrued as requiring equal rates regardless of any differences in the amount of time purchased by individual candidates. It suggests that the language "upon terms comparable to those charged for commercial advertisers" be substituted. However, we do not believe such a misconception is possible. As set forth above, it is clear that while discounts offered to commercial advertisers must be afforded as well to individual candidates for public office, candidates can secure such discounts only by purchase of the requisite amount of time. The suggested substituted language is, in our opinion, less appropriate, since its use might lead to a construction that stations could not afford discounts to political candidates on a nondiscriminatory basis over and beyond those offered commercial advertisers—a prohibition not intended by the enactment of the new section 315 (b) of the act.

5. Tennessee Valley Broadcasting Co. and 35 other broadcast licensees maintain that broadcast stations sell no time or services "comparable" to that sold political candidates since the Communications Act prohibits stations from censoring material broadcast by political candidates and thereby exposes station licensees to liability for slanderous material broadcast by political candidates. It is also argued that nothing in the act expressly requires a station to charge a political candidate the same rate as a commercial advertiser under any circumstances. They urge that if candidates are to be free from all restraint as to their broadcasts, they should be required to indemnify or insure stations against any loss that may be suffered by a station because of their broadcasts, or waive their rights under the law so as to permit stations to censor their program material. They also suggest the proposed rules be revised to state specifically that stations may charge candidates for time used to make recordings, for use of recording machines, equipment, studio facilities, etc. We cannot agree with these suggestions. We believe that the legislative history of section 315 (b) of the Communications Act makes clear that Congress, although it was fully aware of the fact that licensees could not censor political broadcasts, expressly intended that neither this nor any other factor should be used as an excuse for charging higher rates for political broadcasts than for other commercial programs. With respect to the suggestion that stations should be specifically authorized to charge candidates for making use of recordings, recording apparatus or other equipment, etc., we believe it is clear that Congress intended political candidates may be charged such special fees if, but only if, such charges were also applied to other users of the station's facilities. Nothing in the rule as drafted or here finalized would preclude a station from charging a political candidate additional fees under such circumstances. Nor are we authorized under section 315 of the Communications Act to provide that stations may require candidates to indemnify or insure stations against any loss a station might suffer because of the contents of a candidate's broadcasts, or to waive their rights so as to permit censorship of such broadcasts. In fact, we are extremely doubtful whether it would be lawful under section 315 (b) of the Communications Act for a station to impose upon candidates for public office such an obligation to provide bonds or insurance unless they also require other users of their stations to post similar indemnity bonds or insurance.

6. Aiken Electronics Adv. Corporation and 34 other broadcasting companies filed comments suggesting one change in the last sentence of subparagraph (c) (1) of the proposed rules, which provides that "All discount privileges otherwise offered by a station to commercial advertisers shall be available upon equal terms to all candidates for public office." They recommend that the sentence be clarified by adding to the end thereof the following proviso: "Provided, however, That this regulation shall not be construed as requiring a licensee to allot time in such amount for political broadcasts as would be in excess of that which, in the licensee's judgment, would be consistent with balanced programming."

Without such a proviso, they submit, the sentence might be construed as a directive to licensees to sell enough time to political candidates so that some form of quantity discount rate is brought into play. We do not believe the sentence lends itself to that construction. Whether a quantity discount rate is brought into play is wholly dependent upon a licensee's commercial quantity discount rate structure and the use which a licensee permits of his station by the first candidate for a particular public office who desires to buy time on the air. It is within the licensee's discretion to allot only such time as he believes in keeping with good programming practices to the first candidate for a particular office who desires to buy time. If a licensee provides sufficient time to this candidate to bring into play a discount rate which would apply if the broadcasts were commercial, the rule would require the licensee to make this same commercial discount rate available to the candidate; and equal opportunities must be made available to opposing candidates. But nothing in the rule precludes a station from limiting the total amount of time to be made available to all legally qualified candidates for a particular office as the station licensee determines will best serve the public interest so long as equal opportunity is afforded all such candidates.

7. We conclude that the proposed amendment to §§ 3.190 (c), 3.290 (c) and 3.657 (c), as revised and set forth below, should be adopted.

8. Authority for the adoption of the proposed amendment is contained in sections 4 (i); 301; 303 (b), (j) and (r); and 315 (b) and (c) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

9. Because the imminence of the November elections necessitates putting the proposed amendment to §§ 3.190 (c), 3.290 (c) and 3.657 (c) into effect at the earliest possible date, and in view of the fact that the proposed amendment is interpretative in nature and that it would not be practicable or in the public interest to provide the usual thirty-day period between the adoption of this report and order and the effective date of the amendment to the foregoing rules provided by section 4 (c) of the Administrative Procedure Act, these rule changes may, and should, be made effective immediately.

10. Therefore, it is ordered, That, effective immediately, Part 3 of the Commission's Rules is amended to read as set forth below.

3. Section 3.190 (c) is amended to read as follows:

(c) Rates and practices. (1) The rates, if any, charged all such candidates for the same office shall be uniform and shall not be rebated by any means direct or indirect. A candidate shall, in each case, be charged no more than the rate the station would charge if the candidate were a commercial advertiser whose advertising was directed to promoting its business within the same area as that encompassed by the particular office for which such person is a candidate. All discount privileges otherwise offered by a station to commercial advertisers shall be available upon equal terms to all candidates for public office.

(2) In making time available to candidates for public office no licensee shall make any discrimination between candidates in charges, practices, regulations, facilities, or services for or in connection with the service rendered pursuant to this part, or make or give any preference to any candidate for public office or subject any such candidate to any prejudice or disadvantage; nor shall any licensee make any contract or other agreement which shall have the effect of permitting any legally qualified candidate for any public office to broadcast to the exclusion of other legally qualified candidates for the same public office.

4. Section 3.290 (c) is amended to read as follows:

5. Section 3.657 (c) is amended to read as follows:

OPERATIONAL FIXED STATIONS AND FIXED STATIONS IN DOMESTIC FIXED PUBLIC SERVICE

In the matter of a new policy to govern the assignment of frequencies in the band 72-76 Mc to operational fixed stations and fixed stations in the Domestic Fixed Public Service; Docket No. 10315.

The Commission having under consideration its report and order [1] released on July 2, 1954, in the above-entitled proceeding which finalized certain amendments to the Commission's rules;

It appearing, that attached to the amended rules were two charts, one for Channel 4 and one for Channel 5, "For Determining Radius From Fixed Station In 72-76 Mc Band To Interference Contour Along Which 10 Percent Of Service From Adjacent Television Station Would Be Destroyed"; and

It further appearing, that in each of those charts an error was made in the position of the "h" line (Height of Fixed Station Antenna) on the chart, and;

It further appearing, that since the effective date of the amendments to the rules was August 9, 1954, and that few, if any, of the applications for fixed stations which have been granted since that date would not have been granted had the charts in question been correct, and that, in any event, all fixed operations in the 72-76 Mc band are subject to the condition of no harmful interference to television reception on Channels 4 and 5, the Commission has determined that it is not necessary to review the applications that have been granted since the amended rules went into effect; and

It further appearing, that the amendment in question is editorial in nature and therefore the provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act are not applicable and the amendment may be made effective immediately;

It is ordered, Pursuant to the authority contained in sections 4 (i) and 301 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the nomographs [2] for TV Channel 4 and TV Channel 5 are amended, effective immediately.

PART 12—AMATEUR RADIO SERVICE

FREQUENCIES AND TYPES OF EMISSION; MODULATION OF CARRIER WAVE

In the matter of petitions of the American Radio Relay League for amendment of Part 12, Amateur Radio Service; Docket No. 10927.

1. As a result of its consideration of petitions for rule making filed by the American Radio Relay League, the Commission adopted the notice of proposed rule making in this proceeding, and it was duly published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on February 27, 1954 (19 F. R. 1121). The notice contained proposed amendments to § 12.111 (d) and (g) to expand the amateur frequency sub-bands 14.20–14.30 and 28.50–29.70 Mc presently available for telephonic emissions to 14.20–14.35 and 28.25–29.70 Mc, respectively. The notice also contained proposed amendments to §§ 12.111 (h) and 12.134 to permit the use of type A0 emission in the 51.0–54.0 Mc portion of the 50.0–54.0 Mc amateur frequency band. The petitioner's request for a mobile-only telephony sub-band in the 3775–3800 kc portion of the 3500–4000 kc amateur frequency band was not proposed, but comment "as to the propriety of subdividing not only this but also other amateur bands and of subdividing the amateur bands for other purposes as well as mobile radiotelephone" was invited. The petitioner's request for provision, on a temporary or trial basis, of additional frequency space in the 50 Mc band for use by Novice Class operators was not proposed on the basis that the Commission believed it unwise to permit such operation because the novice, in general, cannot be expected to have the experience and technique to successfully cope with the serious problems of interference to television reception likely to result from operations in the band.

2. Following publication of the notice, a number of written comments were received from individual amateurs and amateur organizations. In general, the comments supported provision for A0 emission in the 50 Mc band, opposed establishment of a mobile-only subband for telephony at 3775–3800 kc, and opposed the subdivision of the amateur bands for other purposes as well as for mobile radiotelephone. The American Radio Relay League requested "the withdrawal of its petition • • • seeking to establish a mobile voice suballocation in 3775 to 3800 kilocycles" and expressed "itself as in agreement with the general philosophy of the Commission • • • that the setting aside of portions of the amateur frequency bands for the use of special groups would not permit the fullest and most diversified use of all frequencies available for amateur radio operation."

3. The League, in its comment, continued to support its original position that expansion of the 14 and 28 Mc bands for telephony is desirable for the relief of the crowded occupancy thereof. A number of amateurs, including many who prefer telephony, expressed opposition to such expansion. Comment favorable to the retention of the present subdivisions for telephony was on the basis that the primary use of the two frequency bands in question is for international contacts and that the proposed expansion would decrease their usefulness for this purpose for both foreign and domestic amateurs regardless of whether telegraphy or telephony would be used.

4. Additionally, is was pointed out that present occupancy of the 28 Mc band is very light and that when propagation conditions again reach the state where heavy occupancy will be encouraged therein, widespread use of the 21 Mc band may be expected for the first time since it was allocated to the amateur service, thus offering some relief of congestion in both the 14 and 28 Mc bands.

5. In view of the fact that the effect of the availability of the 21 Mc amateur frequency band upon congestion in the 14 and 28 Mc bands cannot be assessed until some time in the future when propagation conditions are such as to encourage increased activity in the 21 and 28 Mc bands, the Commission believes it to be in the best interest of the Amateur Service to defer further consideration of expansion of the 14 and 28 Mc sub-bands for telephony. Therefore, the Commission is hereby dismissing the proposed amendment of § 12.111 (d) and (g).

6. Comments received concerning the petitioner's request for novice operation in the 50 Mc band did not disclose any facts not already considered by the Commission in making its initial decision that it would be unwise to propose such rule changes at this time. The Commission will, however, consider other means of encouraging amateur use of the 50 Mc frequency band.

7. The Commission believes that encouragement and improvement of the Amateur Radio Service will result from the adoption of the amendments providing for the use of A0 emission in the 50 Mc amateur frequency band. These amendments are issued pursuant to authority contained in sections 4 (i) and 303 (f) and (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

Therefore, it is ordered, That effective 3:00 a. m., e. s. t., October 15, 1954, §§ 12.111 (h) and 12.134 of Part 12, Amateur Radio Service, are amended as set forth below.

PART 18—INDUSTRIAL, SCIENTIFIC AND MEDICAL SERVICE

SHORT-WAVE EPILATION EQUIPMENT

In the matter of amendment of § 18.51 of the Commission's rules concerning use of short-wave epilation equipment; Docket No. 10778.

1. On April 16, 1954, the Commission released a memorandum opinion and order in the above-entitled matter finalizing a proposed amendment to § 18.51 of the Commission's rules. The Commission's memorandum opinion and order, set forth the amended text of § 18.51 and, in part, read as follows: "The provisions of this part • • • shall not be applicable until December 31, 1955 for such [epilation] equipment manufactured between December 31, 1950 and June 30, 1954 • • •" However, the Commission's notice of proposed rule making and the text of the memorandum opinion and order of April 16, 1954, make it abundantly clear that the above-quoted portion of the amended section was intended to read: "The provisions of this part • • • shall not be applicable until December 31, 1955 for such [epilation] equipment manufactured between December 31, 1950 and June 30, 1953 • • •", and that the June 30, 1954 date was a typographical error.

2. Section 18.51 of the rules is now being amended to correct the typographical error. However, while the Commission believes that the intent of the amendment was clear, it is recognized that some persons purchasing epilation equipment may have been misled by the typographical error in the text of the rule. Therefore, the Commission proposes to grant petitions for waiver of § 18.51 in those instances where it can be demonstrated that, during the period between April 16, 1954, and the date on which this memorandum opinion and order was released, persons purchased epilation equipment manufactured after June 30, 1953, and which does not comply with Part 18, in reliance on the error contained in the Commission rules which indicated that such equipment could be used until December 31, 1955. The Commission will grant such waivers only on an individual basis, and, in no event, will any such waiver permit the use of such non-complying equipment beyond December 31, 1955.

3. In view of the fact that the amendment herein ordered is editorial in nature, the provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act with respect to notice are not applicable and the amendment may be made effective immediately.

4. It is ordered, Pursuant to the authority of sections 4 (i), 301 and 303 (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, that § 18.51 of the Commission's rules is amended as set forth below, effective immediately.

(Sec. 4, 48 Stat. 1066 as amended; 47 U. S. C. 154. Interprets or applies secs. 301, 303, 48 Stat. 1081, 1082, as amended; 47 U. S. C. 301, 303)

Adopted: September 1, 1954.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,
[SEAL] MARY JANE MORRIS,
Secretary.

Section 18.51 of the Commission's rules and regulations is amended to read as follows:

§ 18.51 Existing equipment. The provisions of this part shall not be applicable until June 30, 1954 to epilation equipment, which uses radio frequency energy manufactured before December 31, 1950, and shall not be applicable until December 31, 1955 for such equipment manufactured between December 31, 1950 and June 30, 1953: Provided, That the foregoing provisions of this section shall be applicable only if such steps as may be necessary are promptly taken to eliminate interference to authorized radio services resulting from the operation of equipment manufactured prior to the respective dates set forth in this section.

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Agricultural Marketing Service

[7 CFR Part 923]

[Docket No. AO-251]

HANDLING OF MILK IN APPALACHIAN MARKETING AREA

DECISION WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED MARKETING AGREEMENT AND ORDER

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was conducted at Bristol, Virginia on February 1–6 and 8–10, 1954, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued January 16, 1954 (19 F. R. 297), upon a proposed marketing agreement and order regulating the handling of milk in the Appalachian marketing area.

Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record thereof, the Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, on August 16, 1954, filed with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, his recommended decision. Said decision containing notice of opportunity to file written exceptions thereto was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on August 17, 1954 (19 F. R. 5180).

Within the period reserved therefor, interested parties filed exceptions to certain of the findings, conclusions and actions recommended by the Deputy Administrator. In arriving at the findings, conclusions, and regulatory provisions of this decision, each of such exceptions was carefully and fully considered in conjunction with the record evidence pertaining thereto. To the extent that findings, conclusions and actions decided upon herein are at variance with any of the exceptions, such exceptions are overruled.

To the extent that suggested findings and conclusions proposed by interested persons are inconsistent with the findings and conclusions contained herein, the specific or implied requests to make such findings and reach such conclusions are denied on the basis of the facts found and stated in connection with the conclusions herein set forth.

The material issues of record related to:

1. Whether the handling of milk in the market is in the current of interstate commerce or directly burdens, obstructs or affects interstate commerce in milk or its products;

2. Whether marketing conditions justify the issuance of a marketing agreement or order; and

3. If an order is issued what its provisions should be with respect to:

(a) The scope of regulation;

(b) The classification of milk;

(c) The level and method of determining class prices;

(d) The method to be used in distributing proceeds to producers; and

(e) Administrative provisions.

Findings and conclusions. Upon the evidence adduced at the hearing and the record thereof, it is hereby found and concluded that:

1. Character of commerce. The handling of milk in the Appalachian marketing area is in the current of interstate commerce and directly burdens, obstructs or affects interstate commerce in milk and its products.

The proposed marketing area embraces portions of three States: namely, Tennessee, Virginia and Kentucky. Milk handled in the marketing area moves in large volumes and in many forms back and forth over State lines. The production areas from which milk is received by the various handlers who would be regulated overlap State boundaries. Milk from the farms of many producers in southwestern Virginia goes to plants in Tennessee and Kentucky where it is bottled for distribution to consumers. Part of this milk is moved out of the State directly from the farms. Some of it is received from producers at country stations in Virginia and moved in bulk to the Tennessee and Kentucky plants. Milk from Tennessee and Kentucky farms of producers as defined under the proposed order likewise finds its way across State boundaries. In addition, milk sold for fluid distribution in the marketing area is received in tank lots by plants serving the marketing area from points in Ohio and Indiana.

Testimony at the hearing indicates that of the Grade A milk produced in southwestern Virginia which would be priced under the proposed order more than half is distributed outside the State. Milk packaged for retail distribution is moved from each section of the marketing area (in Virginia, Tennessee, and Kentucky) across State lines. The greatest volume of interstate movement of milk on routes in the proposed area is carried out by the operation of routes throughout the city of Bristol, which is one of the primary markets of the area. Here the Virginia-Tennessee State line is located along the main street of the city. Milk plants on both sides of this line service consumers throughout the city. Retail and wholesale routes from plants which would be subject to the order cross the Virginia-Tennessee line elsewhere, and also, the Kentucky-Virginia State lines.

Manufactured milk products made from excess milk in the plants of handlers are sold in many States throughout the southeastern portion of the country.

2. Need for an order. Marketing conditions in the Appalachian marketing area justify the issuance of a marketing agreement and order.

There is no overall plan whereby farmers supplying the Appalachian marketing area are assured of payment for their milk in accordance with its use. Neither is there a procedure whereby farmers may participate in the price determinations throughout the area necessary for the marketing of their milk, which because of its perishability must be delivered to the market daily as it is produced.

A marketing order as proposed will promote orderly marketing by assuring producers prices equivalent to those contemplated under the act. Prices paid farmers for milk for fluid use have frequently been below the Class I prices an order would provide. Many of the farmers do not know how their milk is utilized at the various plants to which they deliver, or whether the basis on which they are being paid from month to month will be revised. In some instances, farmers are notified of price changes some days after such changes had been made effective by the handler. Accuracy of weights and butterfat tests of milk have been ascertained infrequently.

The major handlers in the market have refused or failed to recognize or to bargain with duly constituted cooperative associations as to price, or any other terms with respect to the sale of the milk of such associations.

Several handlers in the area have dealt with farmers in such a way as to discourage cooperative action by these farmers. Some handlers refused to make deductions for cooperative dues from payments due their producers, even though such deductions had been properly authorized by the producers. Failure to make such deductions has limited the cooperatives in instituting check weighing and testing programs. Representation by farmers shipping to one of the large handlers in dealing with the handler in matters affecting farmers was instituted under the auspices of the handler. Such effectiveness as the farmers were able to manifest in negotiating with the handler to further producer interests was limited in scope. While this handler-sponsored producer association may have contributed to the maintenance of goodwill in the producer-handler relations, it was not in a position to act as an independent producer organization in negotiating prices, or otherwise to act in behalf of producers in the marketing of their milk.

Prices paid to producers throughout the marketing area are generally at the option of the handler. The record indicates that prices are, in some instances, arbitrarily arrived at, and many farmers do not have any assurance of any price at all for their milk. All handlers in the market do not pay on the same basis. One of the larger handlers pays producers a flat price for their milk without regard to butterfat test or the way in which it is used. In those instances that handlers purportedly pay on the basis of the way milk is utilized, no complete systematic verification is made.

The stated Class I prices paid producers by the various handlers in the area are frequently not meaningful. Although all milk received from a producer at a plant may be sold for fluid consumption, the price he receives could be, and usually is, less than a Class I price because of the various pricing schemes followed by handlers in the market. In some cases, bottled milk and milk products moved beyond a specified distance from the bottling plant return a lesser price to producers. Sales on special contracts and buttermilk sales frequently bring producers prices at a level nearer the condensery price than the Class I price.

Milk is often imported into the area from outside sources at times when considerable volumes of producer milk are used in Class II. Producers lose Class I sales to such imports which may be obtained as excess milk from other markets.

There is little uniformity in the base rules of handlers in the different sections of the milkshed that apply with respect to base and excess plans used in paying producers. Transfer of producers between plants is restricted because of the diversity in application of each of the plans by the various handlers. A new producer coming into the market, as well as an established producer transferring between plants, is uncertain as to his status with respect to the basis on which he will be paid during much of the year. Likewise, uncertainty exists as regards establishing bases, transferring bases or resolving unusual situations which arise in connection with the operation of base and excess plans.

The Virginia Milk Commission fixes prices with respect to a portion of the milk purchased in that section of the proposed marketing area which lies in Virginia.

Effective August 1, 1949, an order designated "Rules and Regulations for the Supervision and Control of the Southwest Virginia Milk Market" was issued by the Commission. This order, which has been amended twice since its issuance, provides for minimum prices which handlers must pay base-holding producers, and the minimum prices at which milk may be sold by handlers to retail and wholesale customers.

In the summer of 1953, it became apparent that the Commission was not in a position to enforce its regulations when milk moved across State lines. Some milk from southwest Virginia producers was forced into surplus disposition as its usual outlets for fluid use were displaced by outside milk. The scope of regulation by the Virginia Milk Commission was clarified when a decision was rendered in 1953 by the Supreme Court of Virginia to the effect that the State Milk Commission may fix prices only on that milk sold for consumption in Virginia.

Southwest Virginia handlers who receive milk from Virginia producers for distribution both inside and outside the State are required by the Commission's order to pay producers a prescribed minimum price for milk sold for consumption in Virginia. Since the price of milk which such handler distributes outside Virginia is not fixed by any regulation, the blend price which he pays to his Virginia producers may well be significantly less than the blend calculated at the minimum prices fixed by the Commission. Although the arithmetical calculation of the handler may show that he paid the prescribed minimum prices for milk sold in Virginia, he is not restrained from applying an arbitrary price to milk distributed outside the State to arrive at a predetermined producer pay price.

Various classification designations prevail throughout the Appalachian marketing area. Even under the purported classification schemes, prices paid producers for their deliveries are not based on actual utilization of the milk delivered by them to handlers. Milk sold for fluid consumption in various forms or under various conditions is frequently designated as other than Class I under the prevailing classification systems and paid for at prices lower than the stated Class I prices.

Although buttermilk sales are a substantial portion of the total fluid sales in the market, comparatively little of the skim milk and butterfat used in the manufacture of buttermilk is paid for at the Class I price. The Virginia Milk Control Commission order for southwestern Virginia provides that the whole milk equivalent of butterfat in buttermilk sold shall be Class I. Since there are generally negligible quantities of butterfat in buttermilk, the major portion of skim milk utilized in buttermilk under the jurisdiction of the Commission is not paid for as Class I. Some handlers in the Tennessee portion of the marketing area buying from producers on a classification basis classify buttermilk sales as Class I–B and price such classification at 50 cents above the local condensery price. As with buttermilk, producers are not given full consideration for the sales of flavored milk and skim milk drinks in Class I. While some producers in the area may receive a Class I price for their deliveries which are used in the manufacture of buttermilk and flavored milk drinks, numerous producers in the area receive practically manufacturing prices for their deliveries utilized in these fluid outlets.

Sales by handlers to large outlets, such as government agencies and factories, are classified and paid for at prices below the stated Class I price. Such sales are made on the basis of contracts, which are let on bids. One handler representative testified that a I–A classification was established at his plant for such sales to dispose of producer surplus. Bidding on such contracts at these lower prices was necessary, it was contended, in order to obtain the contracts away from other handlers.

As handlers compete with each other on the various bids, returns to producers may be expected to decline. There is no practical limit short of the surplus price to which such bids may go, and no limit as to the size of sale which may be involved. Producers testified that handlers take on additional producers when they obtain such contracts, and consequently, the overall producer blend is lowered. The decline in producer returns is further accelerated as the total sales by handlers to such contract buyers continue to increase, as they have during the past year.

Prices to producers for milk sold by handlers as "contract milk" have been as much as $1.50 per hundredweight below the stated Class I price. In those instances where some producer milk was paid for in a special class as contract milk, producers did not always have information relative to the places to which such sales were being made, the quantities of milk and milk products so disposed of, or the extent to which such sales were made at prices below those prevailing in the area.

The practice of handlers to cut prices paid producers on milk sold on special bids in order to be in a position to underbid competition is tending to create unstable conditions in the market. While this practice might be rationalized by a handler on the basis that it would enable him to dispose of surplus, the same handler would be required to receive additional milk to meet the added demand for his milk if he is to serve such outlets throughout the year. A further dilution of the blend price to his producers would result if the handler failed to obtain renewal of the contract.

A price of $4.50 per hundredweight was paid producers for milk sold by a local handler on a special bid. A handler under the Knoxville order who previously had served the account would have been required to pay the Class I price under that order, which was $6.68 during the period covered by the bid. Stated Class I prices in the Appalachian area during the same period were $5.95 to $6.55 per hundredweight. Nevertheless, the handler contended it was necessary to pay producers the lower price in order to obtain the contract.

The record indicates that there is a lack of detailed market information for this area. Such information is essential to the effectuation of orderly marketing and in achieving a level of Grade A milk production commensurate with consumer demand for Grade A fluid products. Some data on receipts and utilization of milk for fluid and manufacturing uses is made available by the Virginia Milk Commission. This information pertains to only one segment of the area, however, and it does not portray marketing conditions for the whole area.

It is concluded that the issuance of a marketing agreement and order for the Appalachian marketing area would contribute substantially to the improvement of many of the conditions complained of and tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act. The adoption of a classified price plan based on the audited utilization of handlers will provide a uniform system of minimum prices to handlers for milk purchased from producers and a fair division among all producers of the returns from Class I sales. The public hearing procedure required by the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act will provide opportunity for representation of producers, handlers and the public in the determination of prices and marketing conditions for milk in the area.

3. Order provisions—(a) Scope of regulation; marketing area. The marketing area should include all the territory within the counties of Greene, Washington and Sullivan in Tennessee; Washington and Wise in Virginia; and Harlan in Kentucky.

The milk which is distributed in these counties is handled almost entirely from plants located within the counties. The primary outlets for the Class I milk of these plants are in this proposed area.

The handlers who would be regulated pursuant to the attached order are in competition throughout the marketing area. Milk plants located in the Virginia portion of the proposed area distribute a large share of their milk in Tennessee and Kentucky while handlers in the Tennessee and Kentucky portions of the recommended area distribute milk in Virginia. All of the handlers who would be subject to the order are subject to similar or the same market conditions with respect to alternative sources and outlets for milk.

Milk sold for Grade A consumption must be approved by health authorities in each of the respective portions of the marketing area. The movements of milk from one section of the area to the other take place with the approval of the appropriate health authorities. The health ordinances and the practices and procedures of the health authorities throughout the marketing area are generally patterned so as to be in accordance with the United States Public Health Service Milk Ordinance. Ratings by the United States Public Health Service are recognized by local health authorities as a basis for accepting milk from outside sources. Reciprocal agreements on farm inspections and on finished Grade "A" milk products for distribution prevail between the various health authorities in the area. It is concluded, therefore, that the milk to be priced under the proposed order is interchangeable and the degree of similarity of minimum health standards throughout the area justifies uniform regulations for the milk marketed throughout the area.

The marketing area should be defined on the basis of county rather than city boundaries. Substantial portions of the fluid milk marketed in the area are represented by sales to outlets located outside city boundaries. Also, health ordinances for cities and counties are administered by the same health authority throughout most of the area.

It was proposed that Smyth County, Virginia, be included in the marketing area. The record discloses that this county does not represent an important outlet for milk for handlers serving the proposed area. Also, a separate order for Smyth and Wythe Counties has been administered by the Virginia Milk Commission. The prices fixed by the Commission for milk in these two counties have been somewhat above those herein recommended for the Appalachian marketing area. It is concluded that handlers regulated pursuant to the proposed order will not be at a disadvantage with respect to sales of milk in Smyth County if it is not included in the marketing area.

Certain handlers testified that they distribute Class I milk in counties in addition to those proposed to be included in the marketing area. Since these counties were not proposed as part of the marketing area in the notice of hearing they may not be included under regulation at this time. Extension of the regulation to these areas would bring additional handlers under regulation who in turn have important sales outlets which would be unregulated. It is concluded that the volume of milk sold outside the marketing area from pool plants as defined under the proposed order is not sufficient nor marketing conditions in these areas such that their exclusion would be inappropriate or unjustified at this time.

Designation of plants and milk to be subject to regulation. Provision should be made in the order to designate clearly what milk will be subject to pricing provisions of the order. For this reason, definitions of handlers, milk plants, producers, producer milk, and other source milk should be provided. Such definitions will permit unequivocal reference to these persons or items throughout the order.

The term "handler" should be used to designate the operator of an approved plant under the order. Handlers are the persons who should be required to report the receipts and utilization of milk the handling of which is regulated and should be held responsible for paying producers for milk in accordance with the terms of the order. In case a person operates more than one plant at which milk is to be priced, he should be a handler with respect to the combined operations of such plants. If the handler operates a plant not associated with the regulated market, he would not be a handler with respect to such plant. Producer-handlers and operators of approved plants which do not qualify as fluid milk plants should be considered handlers in order to require such persons to report to the market administrator as is needed to determine their status.

The minimum class prices of the order should apply to that milk eligible for distribution as Grade A milk in the marketing area which is received from dairy farmers at plants primarily engaged in supplying fluid milk for sale on retail and wholesale routes in the marketing area. Such plants would be defined as "fluid milk plants."

A fluid milk plant under the attached order would be any plant from which a volume of Class I milk equal to an average of more than 1,000 pounds per day or more than 2.0 percent of the approved milk of such plant is disposed of during the month on routes (including routes operated by vendors) or through plant stores to retail or wholesale outlets (except other fluid milk plants) located in the marketing area. Such a plant would be considered a distributing plant.

Plants supplying Grade A milk, skim milk or cream to distributing plants would be fluid milk plants under certain circumstances. A supply plant which receives milk from farmers holding dairy farm permits or ratings issued by an appropriate health authority having jurisdiction in the marketing area would be a fluid milk plant in any month during which milk, skim milk or cream is moved from such plant to a distributing plant regulated pursuant to the order. Other supply plants would be fluid milk plants in any of the months of February through July during which any Grade A milk or skim milk is shipped to a distributing plant regulated pursuant to the order. Plants coming under the order because of shipments to distributing plants would be considered supply plants.

It would be inappropriate to extend regulation to any milk plant from which only minor quantities of milk are distributed in the marketing area. Such plants are selling primarily in competition with milk of unregulated handlers outside the marketing area. Regulation of such plants might place them in an uneconomic and unfavorable position with respect to sales outside the marketing area. So long as the limits as to sales such a plant may make in the marketing area are kept relatively low, the volume of unpriced milk in the market would not present an unstabilizing force in the market.

It is concluded that this limit should be placed at 2.0 percent of the Grade A milk received at such plant from all sources or an average of 1,000 pounds of Class I milk a day, whichever is less. Any plant from which a volume of Class I milk equal to more than 1,000 pounds per day or 2.0 percent of its receipts of Grade A milk, skim milk or cream is disposed of in the marketing area should be designated as a distributing plant and fully subject to regulation.

Any plant from which Class I milk is distributed in the marketing area, but which does not meet the standards for a fluid milk plant, should be defined as an "approved plant" and be required to file reports and submit to audits by the market administrator to verify the status of such plant.

Throughout the year distributing plants, as herein defined, receive supplemental supplies of milk from supply plants. Some of these supply plants are associated with the market as a regular part of its supply, and the dairy farmers delivering to such plants hold dairy farm permits or ratings issued by health authorities having jurisdiction in the marketing area. Supply plants in this category should be included within the definition of a fluid milk plant throughout the year so long as they are used as sources of supply by distributing plants.

In the case of supply plants which are not under the routine inspection of health authorities in the marketing area a different standard should be used. Such plants normally provide supplemental milk to distributing plants in various other sales areas, and their shipments to the Appalachian area for Class I use are primarily seasonal in nature. To the extent these plants furnish only needed supplemental milk in months of low production they should not be brought under regulation. The fact that such milk will not be priced in the months of low production would not represent a threat to the stability of the regulated market. However, if shipments are made from such supply plants to distributing plants during the flush production months, they should be brought under regulation and made fully subject to the pricing provisions of the order. This provision would place such a plant on the same competitive level of pricing and subject it to the same regulatory requirements during these months as are applicable to plants which supply the market the year round. Plants subject to other orders issued pursuant to the act should not be made subject to the pricing provisions of this order.

If a portion of a plant is operated separately and no approved milk is received in such portion of the plant, the nonapproved portion should not be considered as part of a fluid milk plant. However, if any Grade A milk is handled in that portion of the plant in which ungraded milk is received, the over-all operation of the plant would be considered as that of a fluid milk plant and any Class I disposition therefrom should be credited first to producers.

"Producer" should be defined as any person, other than a producer-handler, who produces milk under a dairy farm inspection permit issued by a duly constituted health authority and whose milk may be used as Grade A milk for consumption in the marketing area if such milk is received at a fluid milk plant. Provision should be made so that the milk of producers regularly received at a fluid milk plant may be diverted for the account of a handler to a nonfluid milk plant any day during the flush production months and on not more than 15 days during any other months and still retain status under the order. Diverted milk shall be deemed to have been received at the plant from which it was diverted. It was proposed that a cooperative be authorized to divert milk to unapproved plants. It was not shown, however, that such authority under the regulations of an individual handler-pool would serve any purpose.

"Other source milk" should be defined as all skim milk and butterfat contained in products utilized by the handler in his operations, except milk from producers and other Class I products received from other fluid milk plants. Thus, other source milk would represent butterfat and skim milk which may not be subject to the pricing provisions of this order.

Persons who are engaged in producing milk and distributing only milk of their own production, should be subject to the order only to the extent that they must submit reports to the market administrator, as required, and maintain and make available to the market administrator accounts, records, and facilities so that the market administrator may verify that such persons are producer-handlers. It would be meaningless to require under the order that a producer-handler pay any particular price for milk produced on his own farm.

Classification provisions of the proposed order should provide that any milk, skim milk, or cream transferred by a handler to a producer-handler will be Class I milk. Any supplemental supplies of milk which may be obtained from other handlers may, by virtue of the type of operation involved, be presumed to be needed by the producer-handler for fluid use and should be classified in the supplying handler's plant as Class I milk. A producer-handler may receive milk from other handlers and still maintain his status as a producer-handler. Pursuant to the proposed order, any milk which a handler receives from a producer-handler would be other source milk and would, therefore, be allocated to the lowest class utilization at the fluid milk plant(s) of a handler after the allocation of shrinkage on producer milk.

(b) Classification of milk. Milk received by regulated handlers should be classified on the basis of the form in, or the purpose for which it is used, as either Class I milk or Class II milk.

The products which should be included in Class I milk are those generally required by health authorities in the marketing area to be obtained from milk or milk products from approved "Grade A" sources. The extra cost of getting quality milk produced and delivered to the market in the condition and quantities required makes it necessary to provide a price for milk used in Class I products somewhat above the ungraded or manufacturing milk price. This higher price should be at such a level that it will yield a blend price to producers that will encourage production of enough milk to meet market needs.

Excess milk not needed seasonally or at other times for Class I use must be disposed of for manufactured products. These products are less perishable and must be sold in competition with products made from unapproved milk. Milk so used should be classified as Class II milk and priced in accordance with its value in such outlets.

In accordance with these standards, Class I milk should comprise all skim milk (including concentrated or reconstituted nonfat milk solids) and butterfat (1) disposed of in the form of milk, skim milk, buttermilk, milk drinks (plain or flavored), cream (except frozen cream), and any mixture in fluid form of skim milk and cream (except ice cream mix, eggnog, and sterilized products contained in hermetically sealed containers); and (2) not accounted for as Class II milk.

Class I products which contain concentrated skim milk solids such as skim milk drinks to which extra solids have been added or concentrated whole milk disposed of for fluid use, should be included under the Class I milk definition. Products such as evaporated or condensed milk packaged in bulk or in hermetically sealed cans should not be considered as concentrated milk.

It was contended that in some portions of the marketing area buttermilk may be made from ungraded milk and that it, therefore, should not be included in Class I. It must be made from Grade A milk in the primary consuming areas of the proposed market, however, and all plants selling in these areas must abide by such standards. This includes most of the principal distributing plants which would be regulated. Among those plants not so required it is not a practice to make buttermilk from ungraded milk or milk products. Buttermilk distributed in the market is generally labeled and otherwise designated as a Grade A product.

Skim milk and butterfat are not used in most products in the same proportions as contained in the milk received from producers, and therefore should be classified separately according to their separate uses. The skim milk and butterfat content of milk products, received and disposed of by a handler, can be determined through certain testing procedures. Some of these products, such as ice cream and condensed products, present a difficult problem of testing in that some of the water contained in the milk has been removed. It is desirable in the case of such products to provide an acceptable means of ascertaining the amount of skim milk and butterfat contained in, or used to produce, these products. This may be accomplished through the use of adequate plant records made available to the market administrator or by means of standard conversion factors of skim milk and butterfat used to produce such products. The accounting procedure to be used in the case of any condensed milk product should be based on the pounds of milk or skim milk required to produce such product.

Butterfat and skim milk used to produce Class II products should be considered to be disposed of when so used. Handlers will need to maintain stock records on such products, however, to permit audit of their utilization records by the market administrator. Class II products from any source used in the production of products included in Class I milk should be considered to be a receipt of other source milk. This will maintain priority of assignment of current receipts of producer milk to Class I utilization.

Handlers must be held responsible for a full accounting of all their receipts of skim milk or butterfat in any form. A handler who first receives milk from producers should be responsible to the market administrator to establish the classification of, and make payment to producers for, such milk. Except for such limited quantities of shrinkage which may under certain conditions (as set forth elsewhere in this decision) be classified in Class II, all skim milk and butterfat which is received and for which the handler cannot establish utilization should be classified as Class I milk. This provision is necessary to remove any advantage to handlers who fail to keep complete and accurate records and to assure that producers receive full value for their milk on the basis of its use. It is necessary to place the burden of proof on the handler to establish the utilization of any milk as other than Class I.

All skim milk and butterfat used to produce products other than those classified in Class I milk should be Class II milk. Included as Class II milk are products such as ice cream, ice cream mix and other frozen desserts and mixes; butter, cheese, including cottage cheese; evaporated and condensed milk (plain and sweetened); nonfat dry milk solids, dry whole milk; condensed or dry buttermilk; and any other products not specified as Class I milk.

Cream which is placed in storage and frozen should be classified as Class II milk. Such cream is intended primarily for use in ice cream and ice cream mixes. Any frozen cream or other Class II products which are used later in a fluid milk plant would be considered as other source milk at the time of such use and assigned to the lowest priced utilization in the plant.

Handlers have inventories of milk and milk products at the beginning and end of each month which enter into the accounting for current receipts and utilization. Accounting procedure will be facilitated by providing that month end inventories of all products designated as Class I milk, regardless of whether such products are held in bulk or in packages, should be classified in Class II milk. Inventories of such products on hand will then be subtracted from Class II use the following month. If any products which are classified as Class II milk because they are held in month-end inventories or later used in Class I, the higher value use should be reflected to producers unless producer milk was not available for such use.

Inventories of products designated as Class I milk on hand at a fluid milk plant at the beginning of any month during which such plant becomes a fluid milk plant for the first time should likewise be subtracted from the Class II utilization of the plant during the month. This will preserve the priority of assignment of current producer receipts to current Class I use.

Shrinkage should be determined by subtracting from the total pounds of skim milk and butterfat received by the handler his total established utilization of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in various products. Shrinkage not in excess of 2 percent of the handler's receipts of producer and other source milk should be prorated between producer and other source milk on the basis of the pounds received from each source. None of the shrinkage should be assigned to milk received from other fluid milk plants because shrinkage on such milk will be allowed to the transferring handler. A plant which is operated in a reasonably efficient manner and for which complete and accurate records of receipts and utilization are maintained should have total shrinkage of less than 2 percent of total receipts. It is concluded that shrinkage which is not more than 2 percent of total receipts of producer milk and other source milk used to produce a Class II product should be classified as Class II milk and any shrinkage in excess of this quantity should be classified as Class I milk.

Transfers. Classification of butterfat and skim milk used in the production of Class II milk items should be considered to have been established when the product is made. Classification of Class I milk should be established when the butterfat or skim milk is disposed of. However, some Class I items may be disposed of to other plants for Class II use. Classification of any product so transferred to another plant should under certain circumstances be determined according to its utilization in the plant to which transferred.

Milk, skim milk or cream, or other products designated as Class I milk transferred by a handler to the fluid milk plant of another handler, except that of a producer-handler, should be classified as Class I milk unless both handlers indicate in their reports to the market administrator that they desire such milk to be classified as Class II milk. However, sufficient Class II utilization must be available at the transferee-plant for such assignment after prior allocation of shrinkage and other source milk as described below. On the other hand, if the transferring handler had other source milk during the month, the assignment of products transferred to another plant to the Class I utilization of such plant should be limited so that other source milk in the transferring handler's plant will not be allocated to Class I milk while producer milk is allocated to Class II milk in the transferee-handler's plant.

Milk, skim milk and cream disposed of to a nonfluid milk plant, including milk which is diverted (sent directly to the nonfluid milk plant from the producer's farm) should be classified as Class I milk, unless certain conditions are met. One of these conditions is that the operator of the nonfluid milk plant, if requested, must make his books and records available to the market administrator for the purpose of verifying the receipt and utilization of milk in such nonfluid milk plant. Provision for verification by the market administrator is reasonable and necessary to assure that producer milk will be paid for in accordance with its utilization. As mentioned heretofore, items of Class I milk transferred to a producer-handler should not be subject to reclassification.

The order class prices apply only to producer milk. It is necessary, therefore, if a plant has butterfat or skim milk other than that received in milk from producers, to determine the quantities of milk in each class to be assigned to producers. The milk of producers who are primarily engaged in supplying the Appalachian market should be assigned to Class I utilization first. This is necessary to insure the stability of the classified pricing program of the order. If the order permitted handlers to obtain other source milk whenever it was advantageous to do so for Class I use while producer milk in the plant was utilized in Class II, the order would not be effective in carrying out the purposes of the act. Also, the market would be deprived of a dependable supply of milk. The system of assigning utilization of milk to receipts from different sources which will carry out this objective is set forth in § 923.46 of the attached order.

The provision for allocation of other source milk to Class II should be modified so that milk transferred or diverted from a regulated plant to a non-regulated plant for custom packaging and return to the first plant will not be considered as a Class I sale and other source milk at the regulated plant. The record indicates that some milk distributed from plants which would be regulated pursuant to this proposed order is custom packaged in this way. If such an exception to the assignment procedure is not provided it could result in a duplication of Class I sales in that the same milk might be assigned to Class I when transferred to the non-fluid milk plant and again when distributed on routes in packaged form.

The exemption thus provided should not be construed, however, as a modification of the fluid milk plant definition. The proposed order provides that any plant supplying Grade A milk or skim milk to a regulated distributing plant during the months of February through July would become subject to regulation. This provision is for the purpose of assuring that the Class I sales of the market will not be displaced through the acquisition by handlers of seasonal surpluses from other markets.

The custom bottling provision herein found necessary does not alter this qualification standard. To alter the plant definition to accomodate custom bottling operations might open the way to the removal of Class I sales of producers milk from the pricing provisions of the order at the season of the year when considerable volumes of Grade A milk are generally available at surplus prices.

The record does not suggest a means by which such displacement could be avoided.

Since uniform prices paid producers by each handler are to be calculated monthly, the assignment of utilization described above should be carried out with respect to all milk received during each month.

(c) Class prices. Class I prices should be established at a level which, in conjunction with the Class II prices hereinafter concluded to be appropriate, will result in returns to producers high enough to maintain an adequate but not excessive supply of quality milk to meet the requirements of the marketing area.

The maintenance of stable conditions in the market requires that Class I prices be adjusted whenever the supply of milk is out of line in relation to sales of milk for fluid use. If prices remain too low, insufficient quantities of milk will be produced to assure that the Class I market will be fully supplied. Conversely, if prices are too high, production will be overstimulated and consumption curtailed. This would cause more milk to be produced than is needed to satisfy the demand for Class I milk, resulting in the development of unnecessary and uneconomic surpluses.

When milk produced locally is insufficient to meet the Class I needs of the market supplemental supplies of Grade A milk are purchased by handlers in the Appalachian area from plants located over a wide geographic area. Prices of this milk fluctuate to a considerable extent with the value of milk produced for manufacture. Other items which determine the prices at which such milk will be available to Appalachian handlers include the cost of transporting such milk to the marketing area and the alternative outlets for such milk.

Proper recognition must be given the prices at which alternative sources of supply are available, especially since any milk plant wherever located may, by meeting the prescribed qualifications, become a fluid milk plant under the order. It is necessary, therefore, that the Class I price in the proposed Appalachian milk marketing order should not be set at levels which will bring the cost of such milk above the cost of obtaining Grade A milk supplies regularly from other sources.

The Class I price for milk containing 4 percent butterfat established by the Virginia Milk Commission for southwestern Virginia averaged $6.10 for the year 1953. The stated Class I price of most of the principal handlers throughout the area paying producers on a classification basis was approximately the same. As indicated elsewhere in this decision, not all producer milk utilized by handlers in dispositions defined as Class I in the attached proposed order was paid for at the stated Class I price. One of the larger handlers paid producers one dollar above the local condensery price for milk sold for fluid consumption on contracts to governmental agencies. Milk sold for buttermilk was paid for by some handlers at the local condensery price and by others at 50 cents above such price. Skim milk used by handlers in the area in flavored milk drinks are frequently paid for at the manufacturing prices. The local condensery price was approximately $3.25 per hundredweight for 4 percent milk in December 1953, and was in some months during the year even below this figure.

The Class I price should be fixed in relation to the general level of the value of milk used to produce manufactured dairy products. To achieve this end a basic price should be adopted which will reflect this general level and to which differentials should be added to reach the appropriate Class I price. Such basic price should be the higher of (a) the average of the prices paid by the 15 "Midwestern Condenseries," (b) a price computed on the basis of the daily quotations for 92 score butter at Chicago and prices paid for nonfat dry milk solids f. o. b. manufacturing plants in the Chicago area, or (c) the average of the prices paid for milk received from dairy farmers by selected manufacturing plants in the local area.

The purpose of such basic price is to give consideration to the national economic factors underlying the price for milk for manufacturing uses, which prices influence the local market prices. Prices for milk used for fluid purposes in competitive markets are related to the prices paid for milk used for manufacturing purposes. Production and marketing of milk for each type of manufacturing outlet are subject to many of the same economic factors. Since the market for most manufactured products is countrywide, prices of manufactured dairy products reflect, to a large extent, changes in general economic conditions affecting the supply and demand for milk. For these reasons, fluid milk markets have used butter, nonfat dry milk solids, and cheese prices, or the prices paid by condenseries with differentials over these basic or manufacturing prices to establish fluid milk prices. These differentials are needed to cover the cost of meeting quality requirements in the production of market milk, transportation costs to the fluid market, and to furnish the necessary incentive to get such milk produced.

The basic formula proposed herein is essentially the same as that used under the Knoxville, Nashville, and Memphis orders and similar to those used in many other federally regulated markets. The price computed under the formula would have averaged $3.85 for 1953. The differential to be added to this basic price in determining the Class I price would be applicable to all skim milk and butterfat included in the Class I definition of the proposed order. Consequently, the total quantities of producer milk classified in Class I under the order would be significantly greater than the quantities of producer milk now allocated to Class I under the various classification schemes now in effect in the market. It is concluded that the differentials to be added to the basic price should be $1.70 for the months of March through July and $2.10 for all other months.

The average Class I price which would have been fixed under this formula during 1953 was $5.75. The average stated Class I price for major handlers in the market for the same period was over $6.00. The recommended formula would have fixed a price of $5.03 for the month of July 1954.

Class I prices should be announced by the market administrator by the sixth day of the month. In order to do this, it is necessary to use price quotations for the preceding month in calculating the basic formula price.

Handlers contended that the Class I prices under the Appalachian order should be the same as that provided in Federal Order No. 88, regulating the handling of milk in the Knoxville, Tennessee, marketing area. There was no showing in the record that marketing conditions in the two areas are the same. No major segments of the production area for the two markets overlap, and the shifting back and forth of producers between the two markets is not general. The principal sales areas of handlers in the two markets are widely separated, and competition between handlers in the two markets prevails in but few places. The Class I pricing herein provided would not change materially the relative position of handlers in the Appalachian market with regard to such competition.

Class I prices to producers, historically, have been higher in the Appalachian area than the Class I prices provided by the Knoxville order. There is no evidence in the record that the pricing of Class I milk in the Appalachian area has in the past been based directly on the Class I prices prevailing in the Knoxville market, or that such a basis of pricing for the Appalachian market would be appropriate at this time.

Class II price. The Class II price should be at such a level that handlers will accept and market whatever quantities of milk in excess of Class I needs may arise from time to time. The price, however, should not be so low that handlers will be encouraged to procure milk supplies solely for the purpose of converting them into Class II products.

In order to have an adequate supply of producer milk in the fall and winter months, handlers accept surplus milk from producers during the months of flush production. The Class II uses of milk disposed of during the flush production season are not, on the whole, as profitable outlets as in the fall of the year when the supply of producer milk available for Class II is lower. With a limited supply of milk for Class II, the market for those products which will command the best return are served first. During those months of high production, when the supply is excessive, large quantities of milk are disposed of for use in those products which are least profitable or actually result in a loss to those handlers receiving milk from producers.

Handlers testified that they were experiencing some difficulties at the time of the hearing in disposing of excess milk to manufacturing plants in the area, and they anticipated further difficulties in this regard with the approaching seasonal increases in production. At the peak of the 1953 production season, local milk manufacturing plants were pushed to capacity production by reason of this increased receipt of ungraded milk from their regular shippers. Consequently, these manufacturing plants accepted but limited quantities of surplus milk from Appalachian handlers. It was indicated at the hearing that these local manufacturing plants would accept but limited quantities of excess producer milk from fluid milk plants in the future.

Prices paid by manufacturing plants may differ because of changes in the relative prices of the products which they manufacture. Handlers will dispose of excess milk to those plants which are paying the highest price at the time of such disposal. Because of small volume and inefficient means of handling, it is possible that some handlers may, at times, incur losses in handling their necessary reserve supply of milk. The handling of such surplus milk is incidental, however, to the handling of fluid milk.

The pricing of milk in the months of flush production should be at the rate at which milk produced for the market will be handled so that such surplus milk production will not disrupt the orderly marketing of milk. The level of such pricing should not be below that paid for ungraded milk, since such pay prices represent the lowest value in the milkshed for milk for manufacturing purposes. Handlers who need and desire the entire output of producers during periods of short supply should assume the responsibility of paying producers at least the competitive manufacturing prices for Class II milk throughout the months of flush production. During the months of short production a higher level of prices for Class II milk should be provided in the order so as to encourage the transfer of milk from manufacturing uses to fluid uses during the fall and winter months of short supply.

The Class II price for the months of March through August should be the average of the prices paid for milk received from dairy farmers by selected manufacturing plants in the area. The nine such plants whose pay prices would be so used were proposed by producers at the hearing. Two of these plants are located in southwestern Virginia, three in Tennessee, two in Kentucky, and one in each of the States of North Carolina and South Carolina. Several of the plants are the principal buyers of ungraded milk in the milkshed of the proposed marketing area.

For each of the months of September through February the Class II price should be the higher of either the price computed pursuant to a butter-nonfat solids formula which will reflect changes in manufactured product values in the general area; or the average of the prices paid by the nine local manufacturing plants.

Provision is made in the attached order which will permit a handler to divert directly to manufacturing plants any milk clearly not needed in his own operations.

Butterfat differentials. As pointed out previously herein, it is concluded that butterfat and skim milk should be accounted for separately for classification purposes. It will be necessary, therefore, to adjust Class I and Class II prices of milk in accordance with the average test of milk in each class by a butterfat differential which will reflect differences in value due to variations in the butterfat content of each product. The values resulting from multiplying the average price of 92-score butter at Chicago by 0.120 for Class I milk and the New York 92-score butter price by 0.110 for Class II milk will provide an appropriate basis for adjusting such prices in this market, since they will reflect changes in the central market prices of butterfat. The basing point from which such adjustments are made should be 4.0 percent butterfat. This is the basis now used in the Appalachian marketing area.

The use of butterfat differentials in this manner follows standard practices in most fluid milk markets for adjusting for butterfat variations. In order that the Class I butterfat differential may be announced early each month, it is provided that the Class I differential be based on the average price of butter in the preceding month. This will permit the announcement of the Class I differential at the same time that the Class I price is announced.

Class II prices and butterfat differentials will not be announced until after the end of the month. Although handlers will now know the cost of such milk as it is utilized, they will know that their cost will follow that of their principal competitors for manufactured outlets.

The butterfat differential used in making payments to producers should be calculated at the average of the return actually received from the sale of butterfat in producer milk. The rate to be used for this purpose would be the average of the Class I and Class II differentials weighted by the proportion of butterfat in producer milk classified in each class. Thus, producer returns for butterfat will reflect the actual sale value of their butterfat at the class prices provided in the order. The producer butterfat differential in no way affects the handlers' cost of milk but merely prorates returns among producers whose milk differs in butterfat test.

The record indicates that the average test of producer receipts exceeds that of Class I sales. The butterfat differentials recommended herein for Class I and Class II milk should tend to encourage the production of milk with a fat test more in line with the fat requirements of the market.

Location differentials. It was proposed at the hearing that handlers be allowed a location differential with respect to milk moved from a receiving plant to a processing plant.

The record discloses that some of the milk normally supplied to the marketing area is received by handlers at a distance from the plant which processes and distributes the milk. In addition, some of the milk is brought to the marketing area in packaged form.

The minimum Class I price to be paid for producer milk should not be dependent upon the type of plant receiving the milk. Neither should milk delivered to one point within the proposed marketing area be priced differently than that delivered to any other point in the area. However, to the extent that milk is received elsewhere from producers and brought to the marketing area by a handler, the handler has assumed a transportation cost which might otherwise be borne by producers. For this reason, the Class I price should be adjusted downward in the case of plants which assume the cost of hauling the milk to the marketing area.

It is customary for handlers to pay producers delivering milk to country receiving stations a lesser price per hundredweight than is paid producers delivering directly to bottling plants. To the extent that this represents a lower price because of the location of the milk, such difference in value should be recognized under the order. It is concluded, therefore, that the Class I price should be reduced for those plants which are outside the marketing area by 10 cents per hundredweight of milk for the first 50 miles and by 1.5 cents per hundredweight of milk for each additional 10 miles or fraction thereof that such plants are from a central place in the primary center of consumption in the proposed area. Kingsport, Tennessee, is such place in the Appalachian marketing area. The location differential adjustment and the rate thereof herein provided are representative of those prescribed in other Federal milk marketing orders and is related to the cost of hauling milk by an efficient means to the market.

Prices paid producers supplying plants to which location differentials apply should be reduced to reflect the lower value of such milk f. o. b. the point to which delivered.

No adjustment should be made in the Class II price for location to which the milk is delivered. There is little difference in the value of milk for manufactured uses associated with the location of the plant receiving the milk. This is true because of the low cost per hundredweight of milk involved in transporting manufactured products. The prices shown in the record paid for ungraded milk received at various sections of the milkshed do not indicate any difference in value associated with location.

After a handler receives milk for Class II use, he should be expected to handle and dispose of the milk in the most advantageous possible method. Prices paid producers for such milk should not be made dependent upon the method employed by the handler in disposing of such milk, otherwise part of the incentive for keeping handling cost at a minimum is removed. To insure that milk will not be moved unnecessarily at producers' expense, the order should contain a provision to determine whether milk transferred between plants may receive the location differential credit. This should provide that any milk transferred be assigned to any Class II use remaining in the transferee plant after a maximum assignment of 5 percent of the direct producer receipts to Class II milk.

(d) Distribution of the proceeds to producers. The individual handler type of pool should be included in the order as a means of distributing to producers the returns from the sale of their milk. Under this type of pool, the minimum prices will be uniform to all producers delivering their milk to the same handler. The "blend", "base" and "excess" prices, as the case may be, will depend on the proportion of the producers' milk used in Class I and Class II milk by the handler receiving his milk. Although each handler subject to the order will be required to pay uniform minimum prices to all the producers who deliver to him during each month the minimum blend prices payable to producers by the various handlers will differ according to the variation among handlers in the proportion of milk used in each class.

The record indicates that no handler in the area is carrying an undue proportion of excess milk in order to supply other handlers with supplemental milk. Under these conditions an individual-handler pool in the Appalachian marketing area will tend to result in optimum allocation of producer milk among handlers according to Class I needs of the handler and in maximum returns to producers from their milk.

Base and excess plan. A "base and excess" plan of distributing the returns for milk among producers should be employed in connection with the individual-handler pool.

Base and excess plans, although they vary considerably among handlers, are commonly used throughout the milkshed area. The base and excess method of distributing milk returns during the months of flush production has wide support among both producers and handlers and should be continued. Interruption in the use of a base plan at this time might result in increased seasonality of production to the detriment of the market.

Because of the seasonal variations in the production of milk, there is a need for an incentive to maintain production in the fall and winter months relative to spring and summer levels. Some handlers have difficulty in utilizing efficiently all milk delivered to them in the months of seasonally high production. By providing returns related directly to a producer's ability to deliver additional milk in the fall and winter as compared with deliveries during the season of flush production, a production pattern more closely fitted to the sales pattern of fluid milk and fluid milk products will be encouraged.

The base-excess plan proposed by producers would establish for each producer in the market a base which would depend upon his deliveries of milk to fluid milk plants during the six-month period, September through February. During these months, as well as in March, all producers would receive the same "blend", or average, price paid by the handler to which they deliver their milk.

For each of the months of April through August, separate uniform prices for "base milk" and "excess milk" would be computed so that Class I sales would first be allotted to "base milk." Base milk would be that quantity of milk delivered by each producer up to his average daily base multiplied by the number of days in the month of which he delivers milk to any fluid milk plant. The "excess milk" price would be the minimum order Class II price, unless the total Class I sales of the handler exceed the total quantity of base milk received from producers during the month. In this case, the fact that excess milk was used for Class I sales would be reflected in the payment to be made for such milk, or in the excess blend price.

The daily base of each producer would be calculated by the market administrator by dividing the total pounds of milk received by all handlers, from such producer during the months of September through February, by the number of days from the first day milk is received from such producer during those months to the last day of February inclusive, but not less than 120 days. On or before April 1st of each year the market administrator would be required to notify each producer and the handler receiving milk from him, the daily base established by such producer. This will allow new producers a limited period during which their milk is needed by the market to establish a base at the full rate of their average production.

It is necessary to provide certain rules in connection with the establishment and transfer of bases in order to provide reasonable administrative workability of the plan. To accomplish this, and to preserve the effectiveness of the base plan, transfers of bases should be limited to the entire bases of producers who retire from farming. In cases of death or dissolution of joint production arrangements, such as landlord-tenant relationships, similar transfers should be permitted. Since the base plan is effective in determining producer payments in only five of the twelve months in each year and since all producers must establish a new base each year, other provisions than those contained herein for the establishment and transfer of bases are unnecessary.

The uniform prices, including uniform base and excess prices, which are required to be paid producers by each handler should be computed for milk containing 4.0 percent butterfat which is in accordance with past and current market practices. In distributing proceeds to producers, a differential should be applied to recognize different values of milk in accordance with its butterfat content. This differential should be determined on the basis of the weighted average value of producer butterfat according to its utilization at the class prices of the order.

Location differentials heretofore discussed should be applied to prices paid producers.

Payment to producers. The order should provide that each handler with respect to milk received from a producer, for which payment is not made to a cooperative association, shall pay such producer at not less than the applicable uniform price(s) on or before the 15th day after the end of each month. With respect to the producers whose milk was caused to be delivered by a cooperative association which is authorized to collect payment for such milk, the handler shall, if requested in writing by the cooperative association, pay such cooperative association on or before the 13th day after the end of such month an amount equal to the sum of the individual payments otherwise payable to such producer.

Provision should also be made for the handler, if authorized in writing by the producer, to make proper deductions for goods or services furnished to or for payments made on behalf of the producer. At the time final settlement is made for milk received from producers during the month the handler should be required to furnish to each producer a supporting statement. Such statement would list the pounds and butterfat tests of milk received from him, together with the rates of payment for such milk and a description of any deductions claimed by the handler.

(e) Administrative provisions. Provisions should be included in the order with respect to the administrative steps necessary to carry out the proposed regulation.

In addition to the definitions discussed earlier in this decision which define the scope of the regulation, certain other terms and definitions are desirable in the interest of brevity and to assure that each usage of the term implies the same meaning. Definitions for base and excess milk are included. Such other terms as are defined in the attached order are common to many other Federal milk orders.

Market administrator. Provision should be made for the appointment by the Secretary of a market administrator to administer the order and to set forth the powers and duties for such agency essential to the proper functioning of such office.

Records and reports. Provisions should be included in the order requiring handlers to maintain adequate records of their operations and to make the reports necessary to establish classification of producer milk and payments due therefor. Time limits must be prescribed for filing such reports and for making the payments to producers.

Handlers should maintain and make available to the market administrator all records and accounts of their operations, together with facilities which are necessary to determine the accuracy of information reported to the market administrator or any other information upon which the classification of producer milk depends. The market administrator must likewise be permitted to check the accuracy of weights and tests of milk and milk products received and handled, and to verify all payments required under the order.

In addition to the regular reports required of handlers, provision is made for handlers to notify the market administrator of their intentions to import other source milk. Such information on a market wide basis may assist handlers in locating local sources of producer milk and expedite the transfer of such milk among handlers. It is necessary that handlers retain records to prove the utilization of the milk and that proper payments were made to producers. Since the books and records of all handlers cannot be completed or audited immediately after the milk has been delivered to a plant, it therefore becomes necessary to keep such records for a reasonable period of time.

The order should provide limitations on the period of time handlers shall be required to retain such books and records and on the period of time in which obligations under the order shall terminate. Provision made in this regard is identical in principle with the general amendment made to all milk orders in operation on July 30, 1947, following the Secretary's decision of January 26, 1949 (14 F. R. 444). That decision covering the retention of records and limitation of claims is equally applicable in this situation and is adopted as a part of this decision.

Expense of administration. Each handler should be required to pay the market administrator, as his pro rata share of the cost of administering the order, not more than 5 cents per hundredweight, or such lesser amount as the Secretary may from time to time prescribe, on (a) producer milk (including such handler's own production), (b) other source milk at a fluid milk plant which is classified as Class I milk, and (c) Class I milk disposed of on routes in the marketing area from a nonfluid milk plant.

The market administrator must have sufficient funds to enable him to administer properly the terms of the order. The act provides that such cost of administration shall be financed through an assessment on handlers. One of the duties of the market administrator is to verify the receipts and disposition of milk from all sources. The record indicates that other source milk is received by some handlers to supplement local producer supplies of milk. Several handlers obtain a portion of their milk supply from their own herds. Equity in sharing the cost of administration of the order among handlers will be achieved, therefore, by applying the administrative assessment to all producer milk (including handlers' own production) and other source milk allocated to Class I milk.

Plants not subject to the classification and pricing provisions of the order may distribute limited quantities of Class I milk in the marketing area. These plants must be checked to verify their status under the order. Assessment of administrative expense with respect to such milk sold in the marketing area will help to defray the costs of such checks.

In view of the anticipated volume of milk and the costs of administering orders in markets of comparable circumstances, it is concluded that an initial rate of 5 cents per hundredweight is necessary to meet the expenses of administration. Provision should be made to enable the Secretary to reduce the rate of assessment below the 5 cents per hundredweight maximum without necessitating an amendment to the order. This should be done at any time experience in the market reveals that a lesser rate will produce sufficient revenue to administer the order properly.

Marketing services. A provision should be included in the order for furnishing marketing services to producers, such as verifying of tests and weights and furnishing market information. These should be provided by the market administrator and the cost should be borne by the producer receiving the service. If a cooperative association is performing such services for any member producers and is approved for such activities by the Secretary, the market administrator may accept this in lieu of his own service.

There is a need for a marketing services program in connection with the administration of an order in this area. Orderly marketing will be promoted by assuring individual producers that payments received for their milk are based on the pricing provisions of the order, and reflect accurate weights and tests of such milk. To accomplish this fully, it is necessary that the butterfat tests and weights of individual producer deliveries of milk as reported by the handler be verified for accuracy.

An important phase of the marketing service program is to furnish producers with current market information. Detailed information regarding market conditions is not now regularly available either to producers or to cooperative associations. Efficiency in the production, utilization and marketing of milk will be promoted by the dissemination of current information on a marketwide basis to all producers.

To enable the market administrator to furnish such services, provision should be made for a maximum deduction of 6 cents per hundredweight with respect to receipts of milk from producers for whom he renders marketing services. Comparison of the extent of the milkshed and the volume of milk involved with that of several other markets now under Federal regulation leads to the conclusion that this will reflect the maximum cost of such services. If later experience indicates that marketing services can be performed at a lesser rate, provision is made for the Secretary to adjust the rate downward without the necessity of a hearing.

General findings. (a) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to § 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply of and demand for milk in the marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and the order are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interests; and

(c) The proposed order will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and will be applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Order of the Secretary directing the conduct of a referendum; determination of a representative period; and designation of referendum agent. Pursuant to section 8c (19) of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 608c (19)), it is hereby directed that a referendum be conducted among the producers (as defined in the attached order regulating the handling of milk in the Appalachian marketing area) who, during the month of August 1954, which month is hereby determined to be the representative period for such referendum, were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area specified in the aforesaid order, to determine whether such producers favor the issuance of the order which is filed herewith.

Hobart E. Crone is hereby designated agent of the Secretary to conduct such referendum in accordance with the procedure for the conduct of referenda to determine producer approval of milk marketing orders as published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on August 10, 1950 (15 F. R. 5177), such referendum to be completed on or before the 20th day from the date this decision is filed with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture.

Marketing agreement and order, as amended. Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled respectively, "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Appalachian Area," and "Order Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Appalachian Marketing Area," which have been decided upon as the detailed and appropriate means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions. These documents shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

It is hereby ordered, That all of this decision, except the attached marketing agreement, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of said marketing agreement are identical with those contained in the order, which will be published with this decision.

This decision filed at Washington, D. C., this 7th day of September 1954.

AUTHORITY: §§ 923.0 to 923.111 issued under sec. 5, 49 Stat. 753, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 608c.

§ 923.0 Findings and determinations—(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon a proposed marketing agreement and a proposed order regulating the handling of milk in the Appalachian marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply of and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest;

(3) The said order regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held;

(4) All milk and milk products handled by handlers, as defined in this order, are in the current of interstate commerce or directly burden, obstruct or affect interstate commerce in milk or its products; and

(5) It is hereby found that the necessary expense of the market administrator for the maintenance and functioning of such agency will require the payment by each handler as his pro rata share of such expense, 5 cents per hundredweight, or such amount not exceeding 5 cents per hundredweight, as the Secretary may prescribe with respect to all (a) receipts of producer milk including such handler's own production, (b) other source milk at a fluid milk plant which is classified as Class I milk and, (c) Class I disposed of during the month on routes (including routes operated by vendors) to retail or wholesale outlets (except fluid milk plant) located in the marketing area from a nonfluid milk plant.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered that on and after the effective date hereof the handling of milk in the Appalachian marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the following terms and conditions:

In either case, the market administrator shall give further written notification to the handler promptly upon the termination of the litigation or when the records are no longer necessary in connection therewith.

CLASSIFICATION

§ 923.40 Skim milk and butterfat to be classified. The skim milk and butterfat at fluid milk plants, which is required to be reported pursuant to § 923.30 shall be classified each month by the market administrator, pursuant to the provisions of §§ 932.41 through 923.46.

§ 923.41 Classes of utilization. Subject to the conditions set forth in §§ 923.43 and 923.44, the classes of utilization shall be as follows:

(a) Class I milk. Class I milk shall be all skim milk (including concentrated and reconstituted skim milk) and butterfat (1) disposed of in the form of milk, skim milk, buttermilk, milk drinks (plain or flavored), cream (except frozen cream) and any mixture in fluid form of skim milk and cream (except sterilized products in hermetically sealed containers, ice cream mix, and eggnog); and (2) not accounted for as Class II milk;

(b) Class II milk. Class II milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat (1) used to produce any product other than those designated as Class I milk pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section; (2) contained in inventory of products designated as Class I milk pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section on hand at the end of the month; and (3) in shrinkage assigned to Class II pursuant to § 923.42.

§ 923.42 Shrinkage. The market administrator shall determine the assignment of shrinkage to Class II milk as follows:

(a) Determine the total shrinkage of butterfat and skim milk in the fluid milk plant(s) of the handler;

(b) Multiply the pounds of skim milk and butterfat in producer milk (except milk diverted pursuant to § 923.11) and other source milk by 0.02;

(c) Multiply the pounds of butterfat and skim milk, respectively, determined pursuant to paragraph (a) or (b) of this section, whichever is less, by the percentage of butterfat and skim milk classified pursuant to § 923.41 (a) and (b) (1) (except shrinkage determined pursuant to paragraph (a) of the section) which is in Class II milk. The resulting amounts of skim milk and butterfat shall be classified as Class II milk; and

(d) Assign the shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat classified as Class II milk pro rata to producer milk and other source milk.

§ 923.43 Responsibility of handlers and reclassification of milk. (a) All skim milk and butterfat shall be Class I milk unless the handler who first receives such skim milk or butterfat can prove to the market administrator that such skim milk or butterfat should be classified otherwise;

(b) Any skim milk or butterfat shall be reclassified if verification by the market administrator discloses that the original classification was incorrect.

§ 923.44 Transfers. Skim milk or butterfat disposed of from a fluid milk plant shall be classified:

(a) As Class I milk if transferred in the form of products designated as Class I milk in § 923.41 (a) (1) to a fluid milk plant of another handler, except a producer-handler, unless utilization as Class II milk is claimed by both handlers in the reports submitted by them to the market administrator pursuant to § 923.30: Provided, That the skim milk or butterfat so assigned to Class II milk shall be limited to the amount thereof remaining in Class II milk in the plant of the transferee-handler after the subtraction of other source milk pursuant to § 916.46, and any additional amounts of such skim milk or butterfat shall be assigned to Class I milk: And provided further, That if either or both handlers have received other source milk, the skim milk or butterfat so transferred shall be classified at both plants so as to allocate the greatest possible Class I milk utilization to the producer milk of both handlers.

(b) As Class I milk if transfered to a producer-handler in the form of products designated as Class I milk in § 923.41 (a) (1);

(c) As Class I milk if transferred or diverted in bulk form as milk or skim milk to a nonfluid plant located in the marketing area or not more than 50 miles by the shortest highway distance as determined by the market administrator from the nearest point in the marketing area unless:

(1) The handler claims Class II on the basis of utilization mutually indicated in writing to the market administrator by both buyer and seller on or before the 6th day after the end of the month within which such transaction occurred;

(2) The buyer maintains books and records showing the utilization of all skim milk and butterfat at his plant which are made available, if requested by the market administrator for the purpose of verification; and

(3) Not less than an equivalent amount of skim milk and butterfat was actually used as Class II milk in such buyer's plant.

(d) As Class I milk is transferred in bulk form as cream to a nonfluid plant unless:

(1) Such cream is transferred without Grade A certification of any health authority;

(2) The handler claims Class II in his report submitted to the market administrator pursuant to § 923.30 on or before the 6th day after the end of the month within which such transaction occurred;

(3) The buyer maintains books and records showing the utilization of all skim milk and butterfat at his plant which are made available, if requested by the market administrator for the purpose of verification; and

(4) Not less than an equivalent amount of skim milk and butterfat was actually used as Class II milk in such buyer's plant.

§ 923.45 Computation of the skim milk and butterfat in each class. For each month, the market administrator shall correct for mathematical and for other obvious errors, the reports of receipts and utilization for the fluid milk plants of each handler and shall compute the pounds of butterfat and skim milk in Class I milk and Class II milk for such handler: Provided, That if any of the water contained in the milk from which a product is made is removed before the product is utilized or disposed of by a handler, the pounds of skim milk used or disposed of in such product shall be considered to be an amount equivalent to the nonfat milk solids contained in such product, plus all of the water originally associated with such solids.

§ 923.46 Allocation of skim milk and butterfat classified. After making the computations pursuant to § 923.45, the market administrator shall determine the classification of producer milk for each handler as follows:

(a) Skim milk shall be allocated in the following manner:

(1) Subtract from the total pounds of skim milk in Class II milk the pounds of skim milk assigned to producer milk pursuant to § 923.42 (d);

(2) Subtract from the total pounds of skim milk in Class I milk the pounds of skim milk in products defined as Class I milk pursuant to § 923.41 (a) received in consumer packages from a nonfluid milk plant or the pounds of skim milk classified as Class I milk and transferred or diverted during the month to such nonfluid milk plant whichever is less.

(3) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in Class II milk the remaining pounds of skim milk in other source milk: Provided, That if the receipts of skim milk in other source milk are greater than the remaininfi pounds of skim milk in Class II milk, an amount equal to the difference shall be subtracted from the pounds of skim milk in Class I milk;

(4) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in Class II milk the pounds of skim milk contained in inventory of products designated as Class I milk pursuant to § 923.41 (a) (1) on hand at the beginning of the month: Provided, That if the pounds of skim milk in such inventory are greater than the remaining pounds of skim milk in Class II milk, an amount equal to the difference shall be subtracted from the pounds of skim milk in Class I milk;

(5) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in each class the skim milk received from the fluid milk plants of other handlers in the form of products designated as Class I milk in § 923.41 (a) (1), according to its classification as determined pursuant to § 923.44 (a);

(6) Add to the remaining pounds of skim milk in Class II milk the pounds of skim milk subtracted pursuant to subparagraph (1) of this paragraph; and

(7) If the remaining pounds of skim milk in both classes exceed the pounds of skim milk contained in producer milk, subtract such excess from the remaining pounds of skim milk in series beginning with Class II milk. Any amount so subtracted shall be known as "overage."

(b) Butterfat shall be allocated in accordance with the same procedure outlined for skim milk in paragraph (a) of this section;

(c) Determine the weighted average butterfat content of the Class I and Class II milk allocated to producer milk.

MINIMUM PRICES

§ 923.50 Basic formula price. The highest of the prices computed pursuant to paragraphs (a) or (b) of this section and § 923.51 (b), rounded to the nearest whole cent, shall be known as the basic formula price.

(a) To the average of the basic or field prices per hundredweight reported to have been paid or to be paid for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content received from farmers during the month at the following plants or places for which prices have been reported to the market administrator or to the Department of Agriculture:

(2) Add the amounts obtained pursuant to subdivisions (i) and (ii) of this subparagraph, and subtract 75 cents therefrom.

(i) Multiply by 4.80 the simple average of the daily wholesale selling prices (using the midpoint of any range as one price) per pound of 92-score bulk creamery butter at New York as reported during the month by the Department of Agriculture;

(ii) Multiply by 8.2 the weighted average of carlot prices per pound for spray process nonfat dry milk solids, for human consumption, f. o. b. manufacturing plants in the Chicago area, as published for the period from the 26th day of the immediately preceding month through the 25th day of the current month, by the Department of Agriculture.

§ 923.52 Butterfat differential to handlers. For milk containing more or less than 4.0 percent butterfat, the class prices for the month calculated pursuant to § 923.51 shall be increased or decreased, respectively, for each one-tenth percent butterfat at the appropriate rate determined as follows:

(a) Class I price. Multiply by 0.12 the average of the daily wholesale prices (using the midpoint of any price range as one price) of 92-score bulk creamery butter per pound at Chicago, as reported by the Department of Agriculture during the previous month, and round to the nearest one-tenth cent.

(b) Class II price. Multiply by 0.11 the average of the daily wholesale prices (using the midpoint of any price range as one price) of 92-score bulk creamery butter per pound at New York, as reported by the Department of Agriculture during the month, and round to the nearest one-tenth cent.

§ 923.53 Location differentials to handlers. For that milk which is received from producers at a fluid milk plant located outside the marketing area and 50 miles or more from the city limits of Kingsport, Tennessee, by shortest hard-surfaced highway distance, as determined by the market administrator, and which is transferred in the form of products designated as Class I milk in § 923.41 (a) (1) and assigned to Class I pursuant to the proviso of this section, or otherwise classified as Class I milk, the price specified in § 923.51 (a) shall be reduced at the rate set forth in the following schedule according to the location of the fluid milk plant where such milk is received from producers:

Distance from the city limits of Kingsport (miles):	Rate per hundredweight (cents)
50 but less than 60	10
For each additional 10 miles or fraction thereof an additional	1.5

Provided, That for purpose of calculating such location differential, products so designated as Class I milk which are transferred between fluid milk plants shall be assigned to any remainder of Class II milk in the transferee-plant after making the calculations prescribed in § 923.46 (a) (1), (2), and (3), and the comparable steps in (b) for such plant, and after deducting from such remainder an amount equal to 0.05 times the skim milk and butterfat contained in the producer milk received at the transferee-plant, such assignment to transferor plants to be made in sequence according to the location differential applicable at each plant, beginning with the plant having the largest differential.

§ 923.54 Use of equivalent prices. If for any reason a price quotation required by this part for computing class prices or for other purposes is not available in the manner described, the market administrator shall use a price determined by the Secretary to be equivalent to the price which is required.

APPLICATION OF PROVISIONS

§ 923.60 Producer-handlers. Sections 923.40 through 923.46, 923.50 through 923.53, 923.70 through 923.72, 923.80 through 923.83, and 923.90 through 923.96 shall not apply to a producer-handler.

§ 923.61 Plants subject to other Federal orders. A plant specified in paragraph (a) or (b) of this section shall be considered as a nonfluid milk plant except that the operator of such plant shall, with respect to the total receipts and utilization or disposition of skim milk and butterfat at the plant, make reports to the market administrator at such time and in such manner as the market administrator may require (in lieu of the reports required pursuant to § 923.30), and allow verification of such reports by the market administrator.

(a) Any plant qualified pursuant to § 923.7 (a) which would be subject to the classification and pricing provisions of another order issued pursuant to the act unless the Secretary determines that a greater volume of Class I milk is disposed of from such plant to retail or wholesale outlets (except fluid milk plants) in the Appalachian marketing area than in the marketing area regulated pursuant to such other order.

(b) Any plant qualified pursuant to § 923.7 (b) or (c) which would be subject to the classification and pricing provisions of another order issued pursuant to the act unless such plant has qualified as a fluid milk plant pursuant to § 923.7 (c) for each month during the preceding August through January period.

DETERMINATION OF UNIFORM PRICE

§ 923.70 Net obligation of handlers. The net obligation of each handler for producer milk received at his fluid milk plant(s) during each month shall be a sum of money computed by the market administrator as follows: (a) Multiply the pounds of such milk in each class by the applicable class price; (b) add together the resulting amounts; (c) add the amounts computed by multiplying the pounds of overage deducted from each class by the applicable class price; (d) add or subtract, as the case may be, an amount necessary to correct errors discovered by the market administrator in the verification of reports of such handler of his receipts and utilization of skim milk and butterfat for previous months; and (e) add the amount obtained in multiplying the difference between the Class II price for the preceding month and the Class I price for the current month by the hundredweight of producer milk classified in Class II during the preceding month, or the hundredweight of milk subtracted from Class I pursuant to § 923.46 (a) (4) and (b), whichever is less.

§ 923.71 Computation of uniform prices for handlers. For each of the months of September through March, the market administrator shall compute a uniform price for the producer milk received by each handled as follows:

(a) Add to the amount computed pursuant to § 923.70 the total of the location differential deductions to be made pursuant to § 923.92;

(b) Add or subtract for each one-tenth percent that the average butterfat content of producer milk received by such handler is less or more, respectively, than 4.0 percent, an amount computed by multiplying such difference by the butterfat differential to producers, and multiplying the result by the total hundredweight of producer milk;

(c) Add the amount represented by any deductions made for eliminating fractions of a cent in computing the uniform price(s) for such handler for the preceding month;

(d) Divide the resulting amount by the total hundredweight of producer milk received by such handler. The result, less any fraction of a cent per hundredweight, shall be known as the uniform price for such handler for milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content, f. o. b. market.

§ 923.72 Computation of the uniform prices for base milk and for excess milk for handlers. For each of the months of April through August, the market administrator shall compute uniform prices for base milk and for excess milk received by each handler as follows:

(a) Add to the amount computed pursuant to § 923.70 the total of the location differential deductions made pursuant to § 923.92;

(b) Add or subtract for each one-tenth percent that the average butterfat content of producer milk received by such handler is less or more, respectively, than 4.0 percent, an amount computed by multiplying such difference by the butterfat differential to producers, and multiplying the result by the total hundredweight of producer milk;

(c) Add the amount represented by any deductions made for eliminating fractions of a cent in computing the uniform price(s) for such handler for the preceding month;

(d) Subject to the conditions set forth in paragraph (e) of this section, compute the value of excess milk received by such handler from producers by multiplying the quantity of such milk by the Class II price;

(e) Compute the value of base milk received by such handler from producers by subtracting the value obtained pursuant to paragraph (d) of this section from the value obtained pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section: Provided, That if such resulting value is greater than an amount computed by multiplying the pounds of such base milk by the Class I price, such value in excess thereof shall be added to the value computed pursuant to paragraph (d) of this section;

(f) Divide the value obtained pursuant to paragraph (e) of this section by the hundredweight of base milk. This result, less any fraction of a cent per hundredweight, shall be known as the uniform price for such handler for base milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content, f. o. b. market; and

(g) Divide the value obtained pursuant to paragraph (d) of this section by the hundredweight of excess milk in producer milk. This result, less any fraction of a cent per hundredweight, shall be known as the uniform price for such handler for excess milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content.

BASE RATING

§ 923.80 Determination of daily base. The daily base of each producer shall be calculated by the market administrator as follows: Divide the total pounds of milk received by all handlers from such producer during the months of September through February by the number of days from the first day milk is received from such producer during said months to the last day of February, inclusive, but not less than 120 days.

§ 923.81 Computation of base. The base of each producer to be applied during the months of April through August shall be a quantity of milk calculated by the market administrator in the following manner: Multiply the daily base of such producer by the number of days such producer's milk was received by such handler during the month: Provided, That if the producer's milk was not received on a daily basis, the daily base shall be multiplied by the number of days during the month for which the milk production of such producer was received by such handler.

§ 923.82 Base rules. The following rules shall apply in conection with the establishment of bases:

(a) A base shall be assigned to the producer for whose account milk is received at a fluid milk plant during the months of September through February.

(b) Bases may be transferred by notifying the market administrator in writing before the last day of any month for which such base is to be transferred to the person named in such notice only as follows:

(1) In the event of the death, retirement, or entry into military service of a producer, the entire base may be transferred to a member of such producer's immediate family who carries on the dairy operations.

(2) If a base is held jointly and such joint holding is terminated, the entire base may be transferred to one of the joint holders.

(3) The entire daily base of a producer may be removed from one handler to another handler.

§ 923.83 Announcement of established bases. On or before April 1 of each year, the market administrator shall notify each producer and the handler receiving milk from such producer of the daily base established by such producer.

PAYMENTS

§ 923.90 Payments to producers. Each handler shall make payment to each producer for milk received from such producer as follows:

(a) On or before the 15th day after the end of each month, each handler shall make payment to each producer for milk which was received from him during the month at not less than the uniform price computed pursuant to § 923.71 for the months of September through March, and at not less than the uniform price for base milk computed pursuant to § 923.72 with respect to base milk received from such producer and at not less than the uniform price for excess milk computed pursuant to § 923.72 with respect to excess milk received from such producer for the months of April through August, subject to the following adjustments: (1) The butterfat differential pursuant to § 923.91, (2) the location differential pursuant to § 923.92, (3) marketing service deductions pursuant to § 923.95, (4) proper deductions authorized in writing by the producer, and (5) adjustments for errors in calculating payment to such individual producer for past months: Provided, That with respect to producers whose milk was caused to be delivered to such handler by a cooperative association which is authorized to collect payment for such milk, the handler shall, if requested by the cooperative association, pay such cooperative association on or before the 13th day after the end of each month, an amount equal to the sum of the individual payments otherwise payable to such producers in accordance with this paragraph;

(b) In making the payments to producers pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section, each handler shall furnish each producer from whom he has received milk with a supporting statement in such form that it may be retained by the producer, which shall show for each month:

(1) The month and identity of the handler and of the producer;

(2) The daily and total pounds and the average butterfat content of milk received from such producer;

(3) The minimum rate or rates at which payment to such producer is required pursuant to the order;

(4) The rate which is used in making the payment, if such rate is other than the applicable minimum rate;

(5) The amount or the rate per hundredweight and nature of each deduction claimed by the handler; and

(6) The net amount of payment to such producer.

§ 923.91 Butterfat differential to producers. The applicable uniform prices to be paid each producer pursuant to § 923.90 shall be increased or decreased for each one-tenth of one percent which the butterfat content of his milk is above or below 4.0 percent, respectively, at the rate determined by multiplying the pounds of butterfat in the producer milk of such handler allocated to Class I and Class II milk pursuant to § 923.46 (b) by the respective butterfat differential for each class, dividing the sum of such values by the total pounds of such butterfat, and rounding the resultant figure to the nearest one-tenth of a cent.

§ 923.92 Location differential to producers. In making payment to producers pursuant to § 923.90, the applicable uniform prices to be paid for producer milk received at a fluid milk plant located outside the marketing area and 50 miles or more from the city limits of Kingsport, Tennessee, by the shortest hard-surfaced highway distance, as determined by the market administrator, shall be reduced according to the location of the fluid milk plant where such milk was received at the following rate:

Distance from the city limits of Kingsport (miles):	Rate per hundredweight (cents)
50 but less than 60	10
For each additional 10 miles or fraction thereof an additional	1.5

§ 923.93 Adjustment of accounts. Whenever audit by the market administrator of any handler's reports, books, records, accounts, or verification of weights and butterfat tests of milk or milk products disclose errors, resulting in money due a producer or the market administrator from such handler, or due such handler from the market administrator, the market administrator shall notify such handler of any amount so due, and payment thereof shall be made on or before the next date for making payments, as set forth in the provisions under which such error occurred.

§ 923.94 Marketing services. (a) Except as set forth in paragraph (b) of this section, each handler, in making payments to producers for milk (other than milk of his own production) pursuant to § 923.90, shall deduct 6 cents per hundredweight, or such amount not exceeding 6 cents per hundredweight, as may be prescribed by the Secretary, and shall pay such deductions to the market administrator on or before the 15th day after the end of each month. Such moneys shall be used by the market administrator to provide market information and to check the accuracy of the testing and weighing of their milk for producers who are not receiving such service from a cooperative association.

(b) In the case of producers who are members of a cooperative association which the Secretary has determined is actually performing the services set forth in paragraph (a) of this section, each handler shall make, in lieu of the deductions specified in paragraph (a) of this section, such deductions from the payments to be made to such producers as may be authorized by the membership agreement or marketing contract between such cooperative association and such producers on or before the 15th day after the end of each month, and pay such deductions to the cooperative association of which such producers are members, furnishing a statement showing the amount of any such deductions and the amount and average butterfat test of milk for which such deduction was computed for each producer. In lieu of this statement, a handler may authorize the market administrator to furnish such cooperative association the information reported for such producers pursuant to § 923.90 (b).

§ 923.95 Expense of administration. As his pro rata share of the expense of administration of this part, each handler shall pay to the market administrator on or before the 15th day after the end of the month for such month 5 cents per hundredweight, or such amount not exceeding 5 cents per hundredweight, as the Secretary may prescribe with respect to all (a) receipts of producer milk including such handler's own production, (b) other source milk at a fluid milk plant which is classified as Class I milk and, (c) Class I disposed of during the month on routes (including routes operated by vendors) to retail or wholesale outlets (except fluid milk plants) located in the marketing area from a nonfluid milk plant.

§ 923.96 Termination of obligations. The provisions of this section shall apply to any obligation under this part for the payment of money.

(a) The obligation of any handler to pay money required to be paid under the terms of this part shall, except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, terminate two years after the last day of the calendar month during which the market administrator received the handler's utilization report on the milk involved in such obligation, unless within such two-year period the market administrator notifies the handler in writing that such money is due and payable. Service of such notice shall be complete upon mailing to the handler's last known address, and it shall contain, but need not be limited to, the following information:

(1) The amount of the obligation;

(2) The month(s) during which the milk, with respect to which the obligation exists, was received or handled; and

(3) If the obligation is payable to one or more producers or to an association of producers, the name of such producer(s) or association of producers, or if the obligation is payable to the market administrator, the account for which it is to be paid.

(b) If a handler fails or refuses, with respect to any obligation under this part, to make available to the market administrator or his representatives all books and records required by this part to be made available, the market administrator may, within the two-year period provided for in paragraph (a) of this section, notify the handler in writing of such failure or refusal. If the market administrator so notifies a handler, the said two-year period with respect to such obligation shall not begin to run until the first day of the calendar month following the month during which all such books and records pertaining to such obligation are made available to the market administrator or his representatives.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, a handler's obligation under this part to pay money shall not be terminated with respect to any transaction involving fraud or willful concealment of a fact, material to the obligation, on the part of the handler against whom the obligation is sought to be imposed.

(d) Any obligation on the part of the market administrator to pay a handler any money which such handler claims to be due him under the terms of this part shall terminate two years after the end of the calendar month during which the milk involved in the claim was received if an underpayment is claimed, or two years after the end of the calendar month during which the payment (including deduction or set-off by the market administrator) was made by the handler if a refund on such payment is claimed, unless such handler within the applicable period of time, files, pursuant to section 8c (15) (A) of the act, a petition claiming such money.

EFFECTIVE TIME, SUSPENSION, OR TERMINATION

§ 923.100 Effective time. The provisions of this part or any amendment to this part shall become effective at such time as the Secretary may declare and shall continue in force until suspended or terminated pursuant to § 923.101.

§ 923.101 Suspension or termination. The Secretary may suspend or terminate this part or any provisions of this part whenever he finds this part or any provisions of this part obstructs or does not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act. This part shall terminate, in any event, whenever the provisions of the act authorizing it cease to be in effect.

§ 923.102 Continuing obligations. If, upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions of this part, there are any obligations thereunder, the final accrual or ascertainment of which requires further acts by any person (including the market administrator), such further acts shall be performed notwithstanding such suspension or termination.

§ 923.103 Liquidation. Upon the suspension or termination of the provisions of this part, except this section, the market administrator, or such liquidating agent as the Secretary may designate, shall, if so directed by the Secretary, liquidate the business of the market administrator's office, dispose of all property in his possession or control, including accounts receivable, and execute and deliver all assignment or other instruments necessary or appropriate to effectuate any such disposition. If a liquidating agent is so designated, all assets, books, and records of the market administrator shall be transferred promptly to such liquidating agent. If, upon such liquidation, the funds on hand exceed the amounts required to pay outstanding obligations of the office of the market administrator and to pay necessary expenses of liquidating and distribution, such excess shall be distributed to contributing handlers and producers in an equitable manner.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

§ 923.110 Agents. The Secretary may, by designation in writing, name any officer or employee of the United States to act as his Agent or Representative in connection with any of the provisions of this part.

§ 923.111 Separability of provisions. If any provision of this part, or its application to any person or circumstances is held invalid, the application of such provision and of the remaining provisions of this part, to other persons or circumstances shall not be affected thereby.

1955 CROP OF UPLAND COTTON

NOTICE OF DETERMINATIONS TO BE MADE WITH RESPECT TO A NATIONAL MARKETING QUOTA, NATIONAL, STATE, AND COUNTY ACREAGE ALLOTMENTS, AND FORMULATION OF REGULATIONS PERTAINING TO FARM ACREAGE ALLOTMENTS

Pursuant to the authority contained in applicable provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended (7 U. S. C. 1301, 1342, 1355, 1357, 1362, 1363, 1365, 1373), the Secretary of Agriculture is preparing to determine whether a national marketing quota is required to be proclaimed for the 1955 crop of upland cotton, to provide for conversion of such quota into a national acreage allotment, and to formulate regulations for apportioning the national acreage allotment to States and the State acreage allotments to counties, and for establishing farm acreage allotments.

Section 342 of the act provides that whenever during any calendar year the Secretary of Agriculture determines that the total supply of cotton for the marketing year beginning in such calendar year will exceed the normal supply for such marketing year, the Secretary shall proclaim such fact and a national marketing quota shall be in effect for the crop of cotton produced in the next calendar year. This section provides further that the Secretary shall also determine and specify in such proclamation the amount of the national marketing quota in terms of the number of bales of cotton adequate, together with (1) the estimated carry-over at the beginning of the marketing year which begins in the next calendar year and (2) the estimated imports during such marketing year, to make available a normal supply of cotton. Under the provisions of this section of the act the national marketing quota for any year may not be less than ten million bales or one million bales less than the estimated domestic consumption plus exports of cotton for the marketing year ending in the calendar year in which such quota is proclaimed, whichever is smaller. The proclamation of the national marketing quota is required to be made not later than October 15 of the calendar year in which the determination is made that the total supply of cotton exceeds the normal supply.

As defined in section 301 of the act, for purposes of the determinations provided for in section 342 of the act, "total supply" of cotton for any marketing year is the carry-over at the beginning of such marketing year, plus the estimated production of cotton in the United States during the calendar year in which such marketing year begins, and the estimated imports of cotton into the United States during such marketing year; "carry-over" of cotton for any marketing year is the quantity of cotton on hand in the United States at the beginning of such marketing year, not including any part of the crop which was produced in the United States during the calendar year then current; "normal supply" of cotton for any marketing year is the estimated domestic consumption of cotton for the marketing year for which such normal supply is being determined, plus the estimated exports of cotton for such marketing year, plus 30 per centum of such consumption and exports as an allowance for carry-over; and "marketing year" for cotton is the period August 1–July 31.

Section 344 (a) of the act provides that whenever a national marketing quota is proclaimed under section 342, the Secretary shall determine and proclaim a national acreage allotment for the crop of cotton to be produced in the next calendar year. The national acreage allotment for cotton is that acreage, based upon the national average yield per acre of cotton for the five years immediately preceding the calendar year in which the national marketing quota is proclaimed, required to make available from such crop an amount of cotton equal to the national marketing quota.

If a national acreage allotment is proclaimed for the 1955 crop of upland cotton, such allotment would be apportioned to the States as provided by section 344 (b) of the act and Public Law 28, 81st Congress (63 Stat. 17), on the basis of the acreage planted to cotton during the five calendar years 1948, 1950, 1951, 1952, and 1953, with adjustments for abnormal weather conditions during such period.

It is expected that the regulations pertaining to the apportionment of the State acreage allotment among counties and farms will be substantially the same as the regulations issued with respect to the 1954 crop of upland cotton, including amendments (18 F. R. 7527, 7836; 19 F. R. 4, 761, 1481), except for provisions made applicable for 1954 only by Public Law 290, 83d Congress, approved January 30, 1954. Public Law 290 also amended the act to provide for making adjustments, beginning with the 1955 crop of cotton, in farm acreage allotments to correct inequities and to prevent hardships. This is one of the purposes provided by law for using State and county acreage reserves. Heretofore, farm cotton acreage allotments established under the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, other than minimum farm allotments, have been determined by multiplying the adjusted cropland for the farm by a uniform county (or administrative area) cropland factor. Section 344 (f) of the act, as amended by Public Law 290 and by Public Law 690, 83d Congress, approved August 28, 1954, provides, beginning with the 1955 crop of cotton, for apportioning the county acreage allotment, less the county acreage reserve, among farms on which cotton has been planted in any one of the three years immediately preceding the year for which such allotment is determined on the basis of the acreage planted to cotton on the farm during such three-year period, if the county committee recommends such action and the Secretary determines that such action will result in a more equitable distribution of the county acreage allotment among farms in the county. It is expected that all county committees will carefully consider the authorization in the law to apportion the county acreage allotment, less the county acreage reserve, among farms on the basis of cotton acreage history during the three preceding years rather than on the basis of cropland, as described above. Under Public Law 690, county committees will have wider latitude in establishing farm cotton acreage allotments on a history basis under section 344 (f) (6) of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, in that they may in their discretion (1) apportion the county cotton acreage allotment by first establishing minimum farm acreage allotments as provided in section 344 (f) (1) of the act before apportioning the remaining acreage among farms and (2) limit any farm acreage allotment established on the basis of cotton acreage history during the three preceding years to an acreage not in excess of 50% of the cropland on the farm.

It is expected that the Secretary's authority to approve or disapprove recommendations of county committees regarding apportionment of the county acreage allotment among farms on the basis of cotton acreage history will be redelegated to the Deputy Administrator for Production Adjustment, Commodity Stabilization Service, and that the Deputy Administrator will issue such instructions as may be necessary for carrying out this new provision of law. In this connection, it appears that it will be necessary for the Deputy Administrator to set a closing date for such recommendations to be filed in order that the many computations and determinations incident to the establishment of farm acreage allotments may be completed and allotment notices issued to farm operators prior to the referendum which is required by the Act to be held not later than December 15, 1954.

It is proposed to change the provisions which were contained in the 1954 regulations regarding the reconstitution of farms. Under one proposal being considered, where reconstitution of farms are made for 1955 after farm acreage allotments for 1955 are established prior to the referendum, the allotments for the reconstituted farms would be determined on the basis of the revised data, provided notice of the change in land in the farm is received in the county ASC office by a closing date which will be a date prior to the general date for preparing land for cotton production. In cases where the county ASC office is not advised of the change in land in the farm by the closing date, the same procedure would be followed in establishing the farm acreage allotments for the reconstituted farms, except that (1) in the case of subdivisions the allotments for the several tracts could not exceed the allotment previously established for the parent farm except to the extent required by the minimum allotment provisions, and (2) in the case of a combination (a) the allotment for the reconstituted farm could not exceed the sum of the allotments for the several tracts comprising the reconstituted farm, and (b) the allotment for the reconstituted farm would be subject to the maximum farm allotment provision if it is applicable in the county. Under another proposal being considered, where reconstitutions of farms are made for 1955 after farm acreage allotments for 1955 are established prior to the referendum, the allotments for all reconstituted farms would be established as follows: (1) In the case of subdivisions the allotments for the several tracts could not exceed the allotment previously established for the parent farm except to the extent required by the minimum allotment provisions, and (2) in the case of a combination (a) the allotment for the reconstituted farm could not exceed the sum of the allotments for the several tracts comprising the reconstituted farm, and (b) the allotment for the reconstituted farm would be subject to the maximum farm allotment provision if it is applicable in the county.

It is the Secretary's intention to delay the determinations provided for in section 342 of the act until the October 8, 1954, cotton report of the Crop Reporting Board of the Department is issued in order that the latest available data may be used. In the meantime, it is expected that the regulations discussed above will be issued subject to the condition that they shall become ineffective for purposes of the marketing quota program in the event a national marketing quota program for the 1955 crop of upland cotton is not proclaimed by October 15, 1954.

Prior to making any of the foregoing determinations with respect to the national marketing quota, the national acreage allotment, the apportionment of the national acreage allotment to States and the State acreage allotments to counties, and the formulation of regulations for the establishment of farm acreage allotments for the 1955 crop of upland cotton, consideration will be given to any data, views, and recommendations pertaining thereto which are submitted in writing to the Director, Cotton Division, Commodity Stabilization Service, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. within fifteen days following the publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The date of the postmark will be considered as the date of any submission.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 9th day of September 1954.

REVISED UNIFORM SYSTEM OF ACCOUNTS AND REPORTS FOR CERTIFICATED AIR CARRIERS

SUPPLEMENTAL NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

SEPTEMBER 9, 1954.

In the notice of proposed rule making on this matter, published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on July 9, 1954 (19 F. R. 2400), it was stated that the Board would consider all relevant matter and communications received on or before September 10, 1954. The Board has been requested by several interested parties to extend the date by which comments must be filed by at least one week. Since the Draft Release proposed a complete revision of the Uniform System of Accounts and the CAB Form 41 Report, matters of great importance to all scheduled air carriers, the Board finds that a one week extension for return of comment should be granted in order to allow this additional comment to be submitted.

Accordingly, the second sentence of the second paragraph of the aforementioned notice is amended to read as follows: "All relevant matter and communications received on or before September 17 will be considered by the Board before taking final action on the proposed rule."

TELEVISION BROADCAST STATIONS

TABLE OF ASSIGNMENTS

1. Notice is hereby given that the Commission has received a proposal for rule making in the above-entitled matter.

2. The Commission has before it a petition filed on June 16, 1954, and amended on July 8, 1954, by the Midcontinent Broadcasting Company, Sioux Falls, South Dakota, and now made part of this docket, requesting an amendment of § 3.606 Table of assignments, rules governing television broadcast stations so as to change the offset carrier requirement only of Channel 11 as follows:

City	Channel No.
	Present	Proposed
International Falls, Minn.	11+	11
Fargo, N. Dak.	11	11+

3. In support of the propsed amendment petitioner urges that it is the permittee of television Station KELO-TV operating on Channel 11 with zero offset carrier at Sioux Falls, North Dakota; that this station is only 234 miles from the assignment of Channel 11 at Fargo, North Dakota, also with zero offset carrier; that such operation may needlessly deprive a large area and population of a television broadcast service; and that the proposed changes comply with the Commission's rules and standards.

4. Authority for the adoption of the proposed amendments is contained in sections 4 (i), 301, 303 (c), (d), (f), and (r) and 307 (b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

5. Any interested party who is of the opinion that the amendment proposed by petitioner should not be adopted or should not be adopted in the form set forth herein may file with the Commission on or before October 4, 1954, a written statement or brief setting forth his comments. Comments in support of the proposed amendment may also be filed on or before the same date. Comments or briefs in reply to the original comments may be filed within 10 days from the last day for filing said original comments or briefs. No additional comments may be filed unless (1) specifically requested by the Commission or (2) good cause for the filing of such additional comments is established. The Commission will consider all such comments that are submitted before taking action in this matter, and if any comments appear to warrant the holding of a hearing or oral argument, notice of the time and place of such hearing or oral argument will be given.

6. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.764 of the Commission's rules and regulations, an original and 14 copies of all statements, briefs, or comments shall be furnished the Commission.

Adopted: September 2, 1954.

Released: September 7, 1954.

[Docket No. 11157; FCC 54-1110]

AMATEUR RADIO SERVICE

TECHNICIAN CLASS OPERATOR PRIVILEGES

1. Notice is hereby given of proposed rule making in the above-entitled matter.

2. The Commission has before it for consideration petitions for rule making filed by James M. Price and Tom A. Walker.

3. The petitions request amendment of Part 12, rules governing Amateur Radio Service, to permit operating privileges for the Technician Class amateur operator in the 50-54 Mc amateur frequency band. One petitioner states that: "The • • • petition is made in the interest of increased utilization of existing amateur assignments and the improvement of techniques in the VHF spectrum by amateur operators • • •. The effect • • • would be to make available to those amateurs holding Technician Class licenses one band of frequencies on which there exists the frequent possibility of two-way communication by sporadic E layer propagation. This fact alone, it is anticipated, will encourage immediate and representative participation by those licensees • • •. The beneficial by-product of such action would be the tapping of the skills possessed by such licensees for the improvement of present amateur VHF techniques."

4. Believing that greater amateur occupancy of, and experimentation in, the amateur frequency bands above 50 Mc is desirable, the Commission is proposing amendment of the rules to provide for operating privileges for Technician Class amateur operators in the 144-148 Mc amateur frequency band as well as the 50-54 Mc band. In addition to the reasons given by the petitioners, the Commission believes that the technician's value to, and participation in, civil defense communications through the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service would be considerably enhanced by the amendment proposed herein.

5. Authority for issuance of the amendment contained below is vested in the Commission by virtue of sections 4 (i) and 303 (f), (g), and (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

6. Any interested person who is of the opinion that the proposed amendment should not be adopted, or should not be adopted in the form set forth herein, may file with the Commission on or before November 15, 1954 written data, views, or arguments setting forth his comments. Comments in support of the proposed amendment may also be filed on or before the same date. Comments in reply to the original comments may be filed within 15 days from the last day for filing said original data, views, or arguments. No additional comments may be filed unless (1) specifically requested by the Commission, or (2) good cause for the filing of such additional comments is established. The Commission will consider all such comments prior to taking final action in this matter, and if comments are submitted warranting oral argument, notice of the time and place of such oral argument will be given.

7. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.764 of the Commission's rules, an original and four copies of all statements, briefs, or comments shall be furnished the Commission.

Adopted: September 1, 1954.

Released: September 7, 1954.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,

[SEAL] MARY JANE MORRIS, Secretary.

Amendment of § 12.23 (d) of Part 12, rules governing Amateur Radio Service, is proposed as follows:

The Commission has before it for consideration (1) a "Petition to Reconsider Grant and Designate Application for Hearing" filed on August 5, 1954, pursuant to Sections 309 (c) and 405 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, by Hudson Valley Broadcasting Company, Inc. (Hudson Valley), permittee of television broadcast station WROW-TV, Channel 41, Albany, New York, protesting the Commission's action of July 7, 1954, granting without hearing the above-entitled application and requesting rehearing or reconsideration of such action; (2) an "Opposition to Protest" filed on August 19, 1954 [1] by Van Curler Broadcasting Corporation (Van Curler); and (3) a "Reply to Opposition to Protest" filed by Hudson Valley on August 31, 1954.

[1] The time for answering the subject protest was extended by the Commission to August 19, 1954, upon a motion by Van Curler which was not opposed.

2. On June 10, 1953, the Commission granted the application (BPCT–408) of Van Curler for a permit to construct a television station on Channel 35 assigned to Schenectady, New York. This application specified the main studio location as a site to be determined in Schenectady, and the transmitter site was designated off Camp Pinnacle Road 2.2 miles west of New Salem, New York. On October 7, 1953, the Commission authorized the change of transmitter location to approximately two miles east of the northernmost boundary of Troy on Mt. Rafinesque. On November 5, 1953, Van Curler filed an application (BMPCT–1550) which, as amended on November 16, 1953, specified the main studio location as 30–32 No. Pearl Street, Menands, New York. With this application, Van Curler submitted a "Justification for locating main studio outside of Schenectady, as provided for in § 3.613 (b) of the rules." By letter dated January 13, 1954, the Commission advised the applicant that, on the basis of the pleadings before it, there had been no showing made by the applicant consistent with the provisions of § 3.613 (b) of the rules and that the change of main studio location could not have been granted without a hearing. Subsequently, the request to locate main studio outside Albany was withdrawn.

3. On January 18, 1954, Van Curler requested special temporary authorization to operate WTRI commercially pursuant to the terms of its construction permit, as modified, except that (a) the transmitter building would be used as a temporary emergency studio; and (b) that a directional antenna would be used. On January 20, 1954, the Commission granted said request.

4. On May 12, 1954 the Commission adopted a Report and Order in Docket No. 10964, wherein it amended the Table of Assignments by assigning Channel 35 to "Albany-Schenectady-Troy", New York in lieu of Schenectady. This amendment was duly published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (19 F. R. 2900) and became effective on June 18, 1954. Thereafter, on June 21, 1954, Van Curler filed the above-entitle application requesting authority to specify Albany rather than Schenectady as the principal city to be served, and to specify the main studio location as 30–32 North Pearl Street, Menands, New York,[2] the site referred to in paragraph 2 supra. Van Curler submitted with the application a request for waiver under § 3.613 (b) to permit location of the main studio outside of Albany. The Commission granted the application without hearing on July 7, 1954.

5. In its protest, Hudson Valley alleges, in substance, that it is the operator of television broadcast station WROW-TV, Albany; that it is presently competing for operating revenues with four AM stations (including its own); that as a result of the subject grant permitting WTRI to locate in Albany, it will be in competition with two television stations instead of only one as formerly; that as a result of the grant of the above-entitled application, Hudson Valley has been economically injured and will continue to suffer economic injury; and that, therefore, it is a "party in interest" and a "person aggrieved" within the purview of sections 309 (c) and 405, respectively, of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

6. In support of its protest and petition for reconsideration, Hudson Valley alleges that it relied upon the Commission's Sixth Report and Order in calculating the competition it would face as an Albany station; that if Van Curler is permitted to locate its main studio on the outside of Albany, instead of in Schenectady, Hudson Valley faces economic ruin; and that "* * * Van Curler never intended to locate in the city of Schenectady and any representations that it would be a Schenectady outlet do not comport with the facts * * *" Finally, Hudson Valley requests that the Commission set aside the grant and designate the application for hearing on the issues set forth in its pleading, together with such further issues as the Commission may prescribe; postpone the effective date of the Commission's action granting the application to the effective date of the Commission's decision after hearing; and, pending such action on this petition, enter an order temporarily staying the effective date of the grant.[3]

7. In its opposition to the instant petition, Van Curler urges, in substance, that Hudson Valley is not a "party in interest" under section 309 (c) of the act because it cannot show real and immediate injury resulting directly from the Commission's actions in granting the above-entitled application; that its statements of injury are wholly speculative and conjectural; and that Hudson Valley has set forth only one basic factual allegation of loss of business and did not relate it to the grant of the subject application. Van Curler also urges that the Commission's action complained of is not subject to protest under section 309 (c) of the act because it is only a "minor modification." Finally, Van Curler urges that Hudson Valley's protest does not state sufficient grounds for reconsideration of the Commission's action, in that its claim that it will suffer ruinous competition is not sufficient cause for denying an application and is, therefore, irrelevant; that its claim that Van Curler never intended to locate its studios in Schenectady is false, and that, in any event, all of the facts cited to support that charge were known to, and considered by, the Commission when it granted Van Curler's application; and that its claim that it relied upon the Commission's Sixth Report and Order which assigned Channel 35 to Schenectady comes too late, since it unsuccessfully opposed subsequent rule making to change Channel 35 to an "Albany-Schenectady-Troy" assignment.

8. In light of the fact that Hudson Valley is the permittee of a television broadcast station in Albany, New York; that it derives operating revenues from that area from the sale of national, regional and local advertising; that the grant herein makes Van Curler's television station, WTRI, an Albany station and, therefore, places it in direct competition with Hudson Valley's television station; and that Hudson Valley has alleged that it has been and will continue to be financially injured by the grant complained of, we find that Hudson Valley is a "party in interest" and an "aggrieved party" within the meaning of sections 309 (c) and 405, respectively, of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended. In re Application of Kansas State College of Agriculture and Applied Science, 8 Pike & Fischer RR 261; In re Application of Edwin G. Polan et al; 8 Pike & Fischer RR 398; Versluis Radio & Television, Inc., 9 Pike & Fischer RR 102; In re T. E. Allen & Sons, Inc., 9 Pike & Fischer RR 197; In re Ohio Valley Broadcasting Corporation, 10 Pike & Fischer RR 452.

9. Hudson Valley has specified the following issues:

1. To determine the extent to which a grant of the WTRI application will subject WROW to ruinous competition.

2. To determine whether or not WTRI acted in good faith in applying for a construction permit for Schenectady in the light of its efforts to locate the main studio elsewhere.

3. To determine whether the competition resulting from the operation of its main studio as proposed by WTRI is in the public interest.

4. To determine whether the public interest will best be served by WTRI locating its main studio near Albany, as proposed, or locating it in Schenectady.

It is clear that once a protestant has established standing to protest as a party in interest, it must then meet the further jurisdictional requirements of section 309 (c) that the protestant "shall specify with particularity the facts, matters, and things relied upon, but shall not include issues or allegations phrased generally." As we pointed out in the Allen[4] and Salinas[5] cases, "The clear import of this requirement is that a protestant must do something more than set forth in his protest vague, nonspecific, conclusionary arguments and allegations; he must allege those facts upon which his conclusions as to the impropriety of the Commission's grant without hearing are predicted. These facts must be alleged with specificity; they must be concrete, basic facts." In the instant case, we find that Hudson Valley failed to comply with this basic jurisdictional requirement in the case of issues "1", "3" and "4" quoted above.

10. With respect to issues "1" and "3" specified by the protestant, we find that the protestant has not alleged concrete, basic facts, or for that matter, any other facts to support such issues. The framing of conclusionary issues standing alone and unsupported by basic facts does not meet the statutory requirement for specificity under section 309 (c) of the act. Although the protestant has set forth allegations of fact showing it to be a party in interest based on the economic injury which it will suffer, it did not allege a single fact in support of its first issue with respect to "ruinous competition." And issue "3" is merely a broad, general conclusionary issue also not related specifically to any facts set forth in the protest. Furthermore, there are not even allegations in the pleading which can be construed as supporting the conclusions implied in issue "3" apart from the implied allegations in the issue itself.[6]

11. In support of issues "2" and "4" quoted above, Hudson Valley has related the various steps which Van Curler has taken in changing its studio and transmitter locations up to and including the above-entitled application, through the grant by which WTRI became an Albany station. Upon the basis of such facts, Hudson Valley contends that Van Curler never intended to locate in Schenectady, and had not acted in good faith in applying originally for a construction permit for Schenectady. Therefore, with respect to issues "2" and "4" specified by the protestant, we find that it has stated with particularity the facts, matters and things relied upon as required by the provisions of section 309 (c) to warrant the designation of the above-entitled application for hearing upon these issues. However, in making this finding we do not determine or imply that even if the facts with respect to such issues are as alleged by the protestant, they are such that they would result in a determination that the grant to the applicant herein was improper, contrary to the public interest or should be set aside. Accordingly, said issues are not being adopted by the Commission and the burden of proof thereon both in proving the facts alleged and in demonstrating their materiality and relevancy will be on the protestant.

12. In view of the foregoing: It is ordered, That, insofar as the petition herein requests reconsideration of the Commission's action of July 7, 1954, pursuant to section 405 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, it is denied, except with respect to the hearing provided for below; that, effective immediately, the effective date of the grant of the above-entitled application is postponed pending a final determination by the Commission with respect to the protest herein of Hudson Valley Broadcasting Company, Inc.; and that, pursuant to section 309 (c) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the above-entitled application for modification of construction permit is designated for hearing at the offices of the Commission in Washington, D. C., on the following issues:

(a) To determine whether or not WTRI acted in good faith in applying for a construction permit for Schenectady in the light of its efforts to locate the main studio elsewhere.

(b) To determine whether the public interest will best be served by WTRI locating its main studio near Albany, as proposed, or locating it in Schenectady.

(c) To determine, in the light of the evidence adduced on the foregoing issues, whether the public interest, convenience or necessity require that the grant of the subject application be vacated.

The burden of proof as to each of the above issues shall be on the protestant.

13. It is further ordered, That the protestant and the Chief of the Broadcast Bureau are hereby made parties to the proceeding herein and that:

(a) The hearing on the above issues shall commence at 10:00 a. m. on September 20, 1954, before an Examiner to be specified by the Commission; and

(b) The parties to the proceeding herein shall have fifteen (15) days after the issuance of the Examiner's decision to file exceptions thereto and seven (7) days thereafter to file replies to any such exceptions; and

(c) The appearances by the parties intending to participate in the above hearing shall be filed not later than September 13, 1954.

Adopted: September 1, 1954.

Released: September 7, 1954.

[4] In re Application of T. E. Allen & Sons, Inc., 9 Pike & Fischer RR 590a.

[5] In re Applications of Salinas Broadcasting Corporation et al., 9 Pike & Fischer RR 595.

[6] There is a grave doubt as to whether a showing of economic injury on the part of a protestant would entitle him to a hearing on an issue relating to the competition which the protestant would suffer from the operation of another station in his community. In the case of Voice of Cullman, 6 Pike & Fischer RR 164, we stated: "In the Sanders Bros. case, the existing station had no right of its own to protest; the fact of economic injury to it was not a factor in the Commission's determination, and the existing station had standing before the Commission and the courts only to show any errors in law that may have been committed by the Commission."

3. Provide technical guidance to the States and direct Federal activities concerned with coordination of the nationwide system of employment service offices for determining requirements of, and recruiting, referring, and utilizing workers to meet, civil-defense needs.

5. Plan a national program, develop technical guidance for States, and direct Federal activities concerned with the provision of compensation payments for the injury or death of authorized workers while engaged in civil-defense activities.

6. Plan a national program, develop technical guidance for States, and direct Federal activities concerned with financial assistance for temporary aid to members of the labor force during periods of idleness due to destruction of working places through enemy action.

The Attorney General. Provide technical guidance to States concerning the protection of penal institutions and the control and utilization of prisoners and facilities during a civil-defense emergency.

1. 2. The authority to disseminate such civil-defense information as may be approved from time to time by the Federal Civil Defense Administration.

General provisions. In carrying out their responsibilities hereunder, the Secretary of Agriculture, the Secretary of Commerce, the Secretary of Labor, the Attorney General, and the Housing and Home Finance Administrator shall be governed by the following:

The provisions hereof shall become effective upon the date of approval by the President.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

[Docket No. G-2075]

TRANSCONTINENTAL GAS PIPE LINE CORP.

ORDER FIXING DATE OF ORAL ARGUMENT

Public hearings were concluded March 30, 1954, and the filing of briefs was completed on August 17, 1954, in the above-entitled proceeding which involves the question of whether Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corporation (Transcontinental) should be permitted to include in its rate base an amount of $5,372,025, less related accrued depreciation of approximately $351,845, associated with the financing of Transcontinental's facilities in Docket Nos. G-704 and G-1143. Transcontinental on August 24, 1954, filed a motion for oral argument on this matter.

It appearing that this proceeding involves important issues, as reflected in the briefs heretofore filed by Transcontinental, Interveners and Commission Staff Counsel, the Commission finds: It is appropriate in carrying out the provisions of the Natural Gas Act, and good cause exists, to hold oral argument, as hereinafter provided and ordered.

The Commission orders: Oral argument be held before the Commission, commencing on October 19, 1954, at 10:00 a. m., e. s. t., in a hearing room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D. C., concerning the matters involved and the issues presented by this proceeding.

PALM OIL HELD IN NATIONAL STOCK PILE

DISPOSITION

Pursuant to the provisions of section 3 (e) of the Strategic and Critical Materials Stock Piling Act, 60 Stat. 597, 50 U. S. C. 98b (e), notice is hereby given of a proposed disposition of approximately 11,000,000 pounds of palm oil now held in the National Stock Pile.

This quantity of palm oil is no longer needed in the National Stock Pile because of a revised determination by the Office of Defense Mobilization that palm oil is obsolescent for use in time of war because of the development of new, nonstrategic materials.

Since the quantity of palm oil to be disposed of, pursuant to this notice, represents only a small portion of the normal total annual consumption of the country, it is anticipated that the proposed disposition will have no disruptive effect on the market for palm oil. It is further anticipated that the total quantity of oil to be disposed of will be sold, at current market prices at the time of each sale, to the major consumer of this commodity, the steel industry, for whose use this commodity was originally stockpiled.

This material will be available for disposition on and after March 11, 1955, and disposal, as outlined above, is proposed in order to avoid an expensive and costly waste of a material which is obsolescent and subject to deterioration and in order to avoid continuing storage and rotation costs.

Dated: September 8, 1954.

DEFINITIONS

§ 241.1 Definitions of terms as used in this part. (a) The term "Management Type Project" means a cooperative housing project of which the mortgagor is a non-profit cooperative ownership housing corporation or trust, the permanent occupancy of the dwellings of which is restricted to the members of such corporation or to the beneficiaries of such trust.

(b) The term "Sales Type Project" means a non-profit housing project of which the mortgagor is a non-profit corporation or non-profit trust organized for the purpose of construction of homes for members of the corporation or for beneficiaries of the trust.

(c) The term "veteran" means a person who has served in the active military or naval service of the United States at any time on or after September 16, 1940, and prior to July 26, 1947, or on or after June 27, 1950, and prior to such date thereafter as shall be determined by the President.

(d) The term "Commissioner" means the Federal Housing Commissioner.

(e) The term "Act" means the National Housing Act, as amended.

APPLICATION AND COMMITMENT

§ 241.2 Information for preliminary examination. Prior to the filing of an application, the sponsors of a housing project under section 213 of the National Housing Act may request a preliminary analysis of the proposed project with respect to specific questions of eligibility, other than questions requiring a determination of the value of the property or project or the maximum insurable mortgage amount, and such preliminary analysis shall be given without the payment of a fee.

§ 241.3 Application and commitment fees. (a) Information required for the examination of a housing project under section 213 of this act shall be submitted in the form of an application for mortgage insurance by an approved mortgagee and by the sponsors of such project through the local Federal Housing Administration office, on approved FHA Application Form (executed in triplicate). No application will be considered unless the exhibits called for by such form are furnished and a fee of $1.50 per thousand of the face amount of the mortgage loan applied for (referred to as "application fee") is paid.

(b) (1) A further sum (referred to as commitment fee) which when added to the application fee will aggregate $3 per thousand of the face amount of the mortgage loan set forth in the commitment shall be paid within 30 days subsequent to the date of the commitment.

(2) In the case of a mortgagor of the character described in § 241.20 (b), the application and commitment fees to be paid under this section shall be fixed by the Commissioner, but shall not exceed three dollars ($3) per thousand of the original face amount of the mortgage.

(c) Upon application for an increase in the amount of an existing commitment, an additional application fee of $1.50 per thousand dollars shall be paid based upon the amount of the increase requested. Any increase in the amount of a commitment shall be subject to the payment of an additional commitment fee which, when added to the additional application fee, will aggregate $3 per thousand of the amount of the increase. If the amount of the insured mortgage is increased after insurance and prior to final endorsement either by amendment or by the substitution of a new insured mortgage the fees herein provided for shall be based upon the amount of such increase.

(d) If an application is rejected before it is assigned for processing by the Commissioner, the application fee will be returned to the applicant.

§ 241.4 Issuance of commitment. (a) Upon approval of an application a commitment will be issued setting forth the terms and conditions upon which the mortgage will be insured, including special requirements applicable to the project and requiring the submission in final form within a time specified of all appropriate documents, drawings, plans, specifications, and other instruments evidencing full compliance satisfactory to the Commissioner with the provisions of this part and with such terms and conditions.

(b) Such commitment may be on a form providing for advances of mortgage money during construction and the insurance of such advances as made, or it may be on a form providing for the insurance of the mortgage after completion of the improvements.

(c) No commitment shall be valid unless signed by the Commissioner or his agent authorized for that purpose, and shall, with respect to commitments to insure advances, be effective for a stated period, not in excess of 120 days, provided that the commitment fee shall have been paid as required. A commitment may be renewed in such manner as the Commissioner may from time to time specify.

(d) The mortgagee may collect from the mortgagor the amount of the application and commitment fees provided for in this section and may charge the mortgagor an initial service charge to reimburse itself for the cost of closing the transaction in an amount not to exceed 1½ percent of the original principal amount of the mortgage. Any additional charges shall be subject to prior approval of the Commissioner.

(e) An inspection fee computed at the rate of $5 per thousand dollars of the face amount of the commitment shall be paid as provided for in the commitment.

§ 241.5 Information as to appraisals. An application for mortgage insurance with respect to a mortgage to be executed by a mortgagor of a Sales Type Project must be accompanied by an agreement satisfactory to the Commissioner, executed by the seller, builder, sponsor, or such other person as may be required by the Commissioner, whereby such person agrees that prior to any sale of the dwellings in the project or stock of the mortgagor corporation, the said person will deliver to the purchasers of such property or subscribers for such stock a written statement in form satisfactory to the Commissioner setting forth the amount of the appraised value of the property as determined by the Commissioner.

ELIGIBLE MORTGAGES

§ 241.6 Mortgage forms. The mortgage must be executed upon a printed form approved by the Commissioner for use in the jurisdiction in which the property covered by the mortgage is situated, by a mortgagor with the qualifications hereinafter set forth in this part, must be a first lien upon property that conforms with the property standards prescribed by the Commissioner, and the mortgagee must be obligated, as a part of the mortgage transaction, to disburse the principal amount of the mortgage to, or for the account of, the mortgagor in conformity with the terms of the commitment. Such mortgage shall provide that the mortgagor will not arrange for management of the property except in a manner and under an agreement approved by the mortgagee and the Commissioner in writing. Any changes in the printed form desired by the mortgagor and mortgagee must receive prior written approval of the Commissioner. The mortgage must secure a principal obligation in multiples of one hundred dollars ($100).

§ 241.7 Insurable amounts. (a) A mortgage executed by a mortgagor of a Management Type Project may involve a principal obligation not exceeding $5,000,000 or not exceeding $25,000,000 if the mortgage is executed by a mortgagor regulated or supervised under Federal or State laws or by political subdivisions of States or agencies thereof as to rents, charges and methods of operation, and not in excess of $2,250 per room (or $7,200 per family unit if the number of rooms in such property or project averages less than four per family unit) for such part of such property or project as may be attributable to dwelling use; and not in excess of ninety per centum (90%) of the amount which the Commissioner estimates will be the value of the property or project when the proposed physical improvements are completed: Provided, That if at least 65 percent of the membership of the corporation or number of beneficiaries of the trust consists of veterans, the mortgage may involve a principal obligation not to exceed $2,375 per room (or $7,600 per family unit if the number of rooms in such property or project averages less than four per family unit) for such part of such property or project as may be attributable to dwelling use; and not to exceed ninety-five per centum (95%) of the amount which the Commissioner estimates will be the value of the property or project when the proposed physical improvements are completed: And provided, further, That as to projects which consist of elevator-type structures, and to compensate for the higher costs incident to the construction of elevator-type structures of sound standards of construction and design, the aforesaid dollar amount limitations per room and per family unit may in the discretion of the Commissioner be increased within the following limits: (1) $2,250 per room not to exceed $2,700; (2) $2,375 per room not to exceed $2,850; (3) $7,200 per family unit not to exceed $7,600; (4) $7,600 per family unit not to exceed $8,100.

(b) A mortgage executed by a mortgagor of a Sales Type Project may involve a principal obligation not exceeding $5,000,000 and not in excess of the greater of the following amounts:

(1) A sum computed on the basis of a separate mortgage for each single-family dwelling (irrespective of whether such dwelling has a party wall or its otherwise physically connected with another dwelling or dwellings) comprising the property or project, equal to the total of each of the maximum principal obligations of such mortgages which would meet the requirements of section 203 (b) (2) of the act if the mortgagor were the owner and occupant who had made any required payment on account of the property described in such paragraph;

(2) A sum equal to the maximum amount which does not exceed $2,250 per room (or $7,200 per family unit if the number of rooms in such property or project averages less than four per family unit) for such part of such property or project as may be attributable to dwelling use; and not in excess of ninety per centum (90%) of the amount which the Commissioner estimates will be the value of the property or project when the proposed physical improvements are completed: Provided, That if at least 65 percent of the membership of the corporation or number of beneficiaries of the trust consists of veterans, the mortgage may involve a principal obligation not to exceed $2,375 per room (or $7,600 per family unit if the number of rooms in such property or project averages less than four per family unit) for such part of such property or project as may be attributable to dwelling use; and not to exceed ninety-five per centum (95%) of the amount which the Commissioner estimates will be the value of the property or project when the proposed physical improvements are completed.

(c) The Commissioner may, if he finds that because of higher costs prevailing in Alaska, Guam, or Hawaii, it is not feasible to construct dwellings on property located in Alaska, Guam, or Hawaii without sacrifice of sound standards of construction, design or livability, within the limitations as to maximum mortgage amounts provided in paragraph (a) or (b) of this section, prescribe by regulation or otherwise with respect to dollar amount, a higher maximum for the principal obligation of mortgages covering property so located, in such amounts as he shall find necessary to compensate for such higher costs but not to exceed, in any event, the maximum otherwise applicable by more than one-half (½) thereof.

(d) The maximum mortgage amount based upon the limitations in paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) of this section is subject to reduction by an amount equal to the capitalized value of the ground rent in the event the mortgage is on a leasehold estate rather than on a fee simple holding.

(e) At the time a mortgage executed by a mortgagor of a Sales Type Project is insured, the mortgagor shall have paid on account of the property at least five percent (5%) of the Commissioner's estimate of the cost of acquisition or such larger amount as the Commissioner may determine in cash or its equivalent. The amount required for working capital specified in § 241.26 may be included in the 5 percent payment required by this paragraph. This paragraph shall not be effective as to any case in which a Statement of Eligibility was outstanding on July 5, 1954.

(f) The aggregate amount of any commitment or commitments issued and outstanding at any time with respect to a project or projects in the same area or locality and involving the same mortgagor (or substantially the same mortgagor, as determined by the Commissioner) shall not exceed the dollar amount limitations of $25,000,000 and $5,000,000, respectively, prescribed in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section.

§ 241.8 Amortization period. The mortgage shall have a maturity satisfactory to the Commissioner, but not to exceed 40 years from the date of beginning of amortization of the mortgage, and shall contain complete amortization provisions satisfactory to the Commissioner.

§ 241.9 Payment requirements. The mortgage shall provide for monthly payments on the first day of each month by the mortgagor to the mortgagee on account of interest and principal. Such monthly payments may be on a level annuity or declining annuity basis as agreed upon by the mortgagor, the mortgagee and the Commissioner. Where the insured mortgage does not exceed $300,000 payments on account of principal shall begin not later than the first day of the twelfth month following execution of the mortgage. Where the mortgage does exceed $300,000 such principal payments shall begin not later than the first day of the twenty-fourth month following execution of the mortgage. Within the foregoing limitations, the Commissioner will estimate the time necessary to complete the project and will establish the date of the first payment to principal so that the lapse of time between completion of the project and commencement of amortization will not be longer than necessary to obtain occupancy. In cases where a commitment to insure upon completion has been issued, the respective dates for commencement of amortization will be figured on the same basis from the date the commitment is issued.

§ 241.10 Interest rate. The mortgage shall bear interest, not exceeding 4¼ percent per annum, on the amount of the principal obligation outstanding at any time, as may be agreed upon between the mortgagor and the mortgagee. All charges made in connection with the mortgage transaction shall be subject to the approval of the Commissioner.

§ 241.11 Mortgage to cover the entire property. The mortgage shall cover the entire property included in the housing project.

§ 241.12 Covenant against liens. The mortgage shall, except as otherwise provided in this part, contain a covenant against the creation by the mortgagor of liens against the property superior or inferior to the lien of the mortgage.

§ 241.13 Covenant for fire insurance. The mortgage shall contain a covenant acceptable to the Commissioner binding the mortgagor to keep the property insured by a standard policy or policies against fire and such other hazards as the Commissioner, upon the insurance of the mortgage, may stipulate, in an amount which will comply with the coinsurance clause applicable to the location and character of the property, but not less than 80 percent of the actual cash value of the insurable improvements and equipment of the project. The initial coverage shall be in an amount estimated by the Commissioner at the time of completion of the entire project or units thereof. The policies evidencing such insurance shall have attached thereto a standard mortgagee clause making loss payable to the mortgagee and the Commissioner, as interests may appear.

§ 241.14 Accumulation of accruals. (a) The mortgage shall provide for payments by the mortgagor to the mortgagee on each interest payment date of an amount sufficient to accumulate in the hands of the mortgagee one payment period prior to its due date, the next annual mortgage insurance premium payable by the mortgagee to the Commissioner. Such payments shall continue only so long as the contract of insurance shall remain in effect.

(b) The mortgage shall provide for such equal monthly payments by the mortgagor to the mortgagee as will amortize the ground rents, if any, and the estimated amount of all taxes, water rates and special assessments, if any, and fire and other hazard insurance premiums, within a period ending one month prior to the dates on which the same become delinquent. The mortgage shall further provide that such payments shall be held by the mortgagee, for the purpose of paying such ground rents, taxes, water rates and assessments, and insurance premiums, before the same become delinquent. The mortgage must also make provision for adjustments, in case the estimated amount of such taxes, water rates and assessments, and insurance premiums shall prove to be more, or less, than the actual amount thereof so paid by the mortgagor.

§ 241.15 Application of payments. (a) The mortgage shall provide that all monthly payments to be made by the mortgagor to the mortgagee shall be added together and the aggregate amount thereof shall be paid by the mortgagor upon each monthly payment date in a single payment. The mortgagee shall apply the same to the following items in the order set forth:

(1) Premium charges under the contract of insurance;

(2) Ground rents, taxes, special assessments and fire and other hazard insurance premiums;

(3) Interest on the mortgage;

(4) Amortization of the principal of the mortgage.

(b) Any deficiency in the amount of any such aggregate monthly payment shall constitute an event of default. The mortgage shall further provide for a grace period of 30 days, within which time the default must be made good.

§ 241.16 Mortgage covenant regarding racial restrictions and use of property. (a) The mortgage shall contain a covenant by the mortgagor that until the mortgage has been paid in full, or the contract of insurance otherwise terminated, he will not execute or file for record any instrument which imposes a restriction upon the sale or occupancy of the mortgaged property on the basis of race, color, or creed. Such covenant shall be binding upon the mortgagor and his assigns and shall provide that upon violation thereof, the mortgagee may, at its option, declare the unpaid balance of the mortgage immediately due and payable.

(b) The mortgage shall contain a covenant prohibiting the use of the property covered thereby for any purpose other than that for which it was intended at the date the mortgage was executed.

§ 241.17 Mortgage release provisions. A mortgage executed by a mortgagor of a Sales Type Project shall provide that at any time after the completion of the construction of the project, the property underlying such mortgage may be released, in whole or in part, upon payment of the unpaid balance of the blanket mortgage allocable to the property released. Where the mortgage does not contain release provisions, no property shall, except with the consent of the Commissioner, be released from the lien thereof so long as the mortgage insurance is in force.

§ 241.18 Prepayment privilege and late charge. The mortgage must contain a provision permitting the mortgagor to prepay the mortgage in whole or in part upon any interest payment date after giving to the mortgagee thirty (30) days' notice in writing in advance of its intention to so prepay. The mortgagee may, however, include in the mortgage a provision for such additional charge in the event of prepayment of principal as may be agreed upon between the mortgagor and mortgagee; provided, however, that the mortgagor must be permitted to prepay up to fifteen per centum (15%) of the original principal amount of the mortgage in any one calendar year without any such additional charge, provided no such additional charge for prepayment may be made where such prepayment results from the release of individual properties in accordance with the provisions of a mortgage in a Sales Type Project; and provided further, that no such additional charge may be made in the event the mortgage balance is reduced by any payments required under § 241.36. The mortgage may provide for a charge by the mortgagee of a "late charge", not to exceed two cents for each dollar of each payment more than fifteen (15) days in arrears to cover the extra expense involved in handling delinquent payments. Late charges may not be deducted from any aggregate monthly payment if not collected.

§ 241.19 Issuance of bonds. In the event that bonds are to be issued as a part of the insured mortgage transaction, all arrangements with respect to the issuance and sale of such bonds shall be subject to approval by the Commissioner.

ELIGIBLE MORTGAGORS

§ 241.20 Eligibility of mortgagors. (a) In order to be eligible under this part, a mortgagor must be the mortgagor of a Management Type Project or a Sales Type Project, and must be a corporation or trust formed or created with the approval of the Commissioner, and regulated or restricted by the Commissioner as to rents or sales, charges, capital structure, rate of return and methods of operation. Such regulation or restriction shall remain in effect until such time as the mortgage insurance contract terminates without obligation upon the Commissioner to issue debentures as a result of such termination. So long as such contract of insurance is in effect, the corporation or trust shall engage in no business other than the construction and operation of a housing project on a non-profit basis.

(b) Any corporation or trust of the character described in paragraph (a) of this section may be an eligible mortgagor without regulation or restriction by the Commissioner as to rents, sales, charges, capital structure, rate of return and methods of operation, if it is also a Federal or State instrumentality, a municipal corporate instrumentality of one or more States, or a limited dividend or redevelopment or housing corporation formed under and restricted by Federal or State laws or regulations of a State banking or insuring department as to rents, charges, capital structure, rate of return, or methods of operation.

SUPERVISION OF MORTGAGORS

§ 241.21 Liens. In the case of an eligible mortgagor which is regulated or restricted for the purposes and in the manner provided in § 241.20 (b), or if the Alaska Housing Authority or the Government of Guam or Hawaii or any agency or instrumentality thereof is the mortgagor, liens inferior to the lien of the insured mortgage may be allowed against properties of such mortgagors: Provided, That the mortgagor in any such case must have initial funds which may be considered in lieu of the equity required of other mortgagors, and such funds (which may be in the form of Government grants, loans, or subsidies, or in other form) if sufficient in amount, will be considered satisfactory provided they do not create a lien against the property prior to that of the insured mortgage.

§ 241.22 Obligations of mortgagor. In all other cases a mortgagor must certify at final endorsement of the loan for insurance that the property covered by the mortgage is free and clear of all liens other than such mortgage, and that there are not outstanding any other unpaid obligations, except such obligations as have been approved by the Commissioner as to terms, form, and amount.

§ 241.23 Regulation and restriction of mortgagors. The regulation or restriction of mortgagors of the character described in § 241.20 (a) will be set forth in the certificate of incorporation or other instrument under which the mortgagor is created (hereinafter referred to as the "charter") and will be made effective through the issuance of certain shares of special stock (or other evidence of a beneficial interest in the mortgagor) which stock or interest will acquire majority voting rights in the event of default under the mortgage or violation of a provision of the charter, but only for a period coexistent with the duration of such default or violation, or until such time as the Commissioner is assured against future violations of a similar nature. Such special stock or interest issued to the Commissioner, his nominee or nominees and/or the Federal Housing Administration shall be in sufficient amount to constitute under the laws of the particular State a valid special class of stock or interest and shall be issued in consideration of the payment by the Commissioner of not exceeding in the aggregate one hundred dollars ($100). Such stock shall be represented by a certificate or certificates issued in the name of the Commissioner, and/or in the name of his nominee or nominees, and/or in the name of the Federal Housing Administration, as the Commissioner shall require. If, for any reason satisfactory to the Commissioner, such regulation or restriction is not feasible as to a particular mortgagor through the issuance of shares of special stock or other evidence of beneficial interest, such regulation or restriction shall be effected in such form and in such manner as shall be satisfactory to the Commissioner. Upon the termination of all obligations of the Commissioner under his contract of mortgage insurance or any succeeding contract or agreement covering the mortgage obligation, all regulation and restriction of the mortgagor shall cease. When the right of the Commissioner to regulate or restrict the mortgagor shall so terminate, the shares of special stock or other evidence of beneficial interest shall be surrendered by the Commissioner upon reimbursement of his payments therefor.

§ 241.24 Issuance of stock. (a) Such number of shares of capital stock, either with or without par value, in the case of a corporation, or such appropriate evidences of interest in the case of a trust, may be issued as the mortgagor may deem appropriate and as may be acceptable to the Commissioner. Such stock or interest, together with paid-in surplus, if any, shall represent the capital investment.

(b) The shares of stock or interest issued to the Commissioner shall be in sufficient amount to constitute, under the laws of the particular jurisdiction, a valid special class of stock or interest and shall be issued in consideration of the payment by the Commissioner of not exceeding one hundred dollars ($100).

§ 241.25 Patronage refunds. Since the act contemplates non-profit ownership, operation, or sale, it is not expected that dividends will be paid. However, in some instances it may be desirable for the mortgagor to be incorporated pursuant to general incorporation laws or under other laws which permit the payment of dividends, so that payment of dividends or provision therefor shall not be deemed to be precluded; provided such dividends shall not be paid in a manner inconsistent with a general nonprofit cooperative plan. It is contemplated (whether the dwelling units are built for occupancy by the members or for sale to the members after release from a Sales Type mortgage) that all surplus funds, after setting up reserves and after meeting all obligations of the mortgagor, shall be distributed to the members in the form of reduced carrying charges or reduced sales prices of the dwelling accommodations, or patronage refunds.

§ 241.26 Working capital. From its capital funds the mortgagor shall deposit with the mortgagee or in a depository satisfactory to the mortgagee and under control of the mortgagee, an amount equivalent to not less than two per centum (2%) of the original principal amount of the mortgage (1½ percent as to cases in which a Statement of Eligibility was outstanding as of the effective date of this part), primarily for allocation by the mortgagee during the course of construction to accruals for taxes, mortgage insurance premiums, hazard insurance premiums, and such other payments as may become necessary under the terms of the mortgage. Disbursements from this deposit in the discretion of the mortgagee may be made for the purpose of defraying the mortgagor's expenses incident to initial occupancy, such as purchase of office equipment and supplies, maintenance equipment, and administrative expense.

§ 241.27 Assurances of completion. (a) The mortgagor must establish in a manner satisfactory to the Commissioner that, in addition to the proceeds of the insured mortgage, the mortgagor has funds sufficient to assure completion of construction of the project and to pay all carrying charges, financing and organization expenses incidental to the construction of the project. Unless other provisions acceptable to the Commissioner are made, such funds shall be deposited with and held by the mortgagee in a special account or by an acceptable depository designated by the mortgagee under an appropriate agreement approved by the Commissioner which will require all such funds to be expended for work and material on the physical improvements and for other charges and expenses to be paid when due prior to the advance of any mortgage money.

(b) The Commissioner may require the deposit with the mortgagee or with an acceptable trustee or escrow agent designated by the mortgagee, under an appropriate agreement, of such cash as may be required for the completion of off-site public utilities and streets.

(c) The mortgagor and the mortgagee shall, prior to the insurance of the mortgage, execute an agreement acceptable to the Commissioner providing for the manner and conditions under which advances (if any) during construction are to be made by the mortgagee and approved for insurance by the Commissioner. Such agreement shall require the mortgagee to notify the Commissioner, through the insuring office having jurisdiction over the territory in which the property is situated, in writing, on an application form prescribed by the Commissioner, of the proposed date and the amount of the advance to be made, and the Commissioner shall deliver to the mortgagee within a reasonable time from the date of such notice a certificate executed on behalf of the Commissioner on a form prescribed by him setting forth the amount approved for insurance or advising the mortgagee of the Commissioner's nonapproval and setting forth the reasons therefor. Such agreement shall be set forth on a form prescribed by the Commissioner; shall contain such additional terms, conditions, and provisions as the Commissioner shall in the particular case prescribe or approve, and when properly executed by the Commissioner and the mortgagee, shall constitute a part of the mortgage insurance contract.

(d) Assurance for the completion of a project may be either a bond of a surety company satisfactory to the Commissioner on the standard form prescribed by the Commissioner with the mortgagor and mortgagee as joint obligees in the penal sum of at least ten percent of the cost of construction of the project; the personal undertaking or obligation in a form and by an obligor or obligors designated by the mortgagee and satisfactory to the Commissioner in an amount at least equal to 10 percent of the construction cost of the project; or an escrow deposit with the mortgagee, or with a depository satisfactory to the mortgagee and the Commissioner, of cash or securities of, or fully guaranteed as to principal and interest by, the United States of America, under a completion assurance agreement prescribed by the Commissioner, of an amount at least equal to ten percent of the estimated cost of construction of the project; or may be in such other form as may be recommended by the mortgagee and approved in writing by the Commissioner.

§ 241.28 Labor standards and prevailing wage requirements. (a) Any contract or subcontract executed for the performance of construction of the project shall comply with all applicable labor standards and provisions of the regulations of the Secretary of Labor, issued May 9, 1951, 29 CFR 5.1–5.12 (16 F. R. 4430).

(b) No construction contract shall be entered into with a general contractor or any subcontractor if such contractor or any such subcontractor or any firm, corporation, partnership or association in which such contractor or subcontractor has a substantial interest is included on the incligible list of contractors or subcontractors established and maintained by the Comptroller General, pursuant to § 5.6 (b) of the regulations of the Secretary of Labor, issued May 9, 1951, 29 CFR 5.6 (b) (16 F. R. 4431).

(c) No advance under the mortgage shall be eligible for insurance after notification from the Commissioner that the general contractor or any subcontractor or any firm, corporation, partnership or association in which such contractor or subcontractor has a substantial interest was, on the date the contract or subcontract was executed on the ineligible list established by the Comptroller General, pursuant to the provisions of the Secretary of Labor, issued May 9, 1951, 29 CFR 5.6 (b) (16 F. R. 4431).

(d) No advance under any mortgage shall be eligible for insurance unless there is filed with the application for such advance a certificate or certificates in the form required by the Commissioner, supported by such other information as the Commissioner may prescribe, certifying that the laborers and mechanics employed in the construction of the dwelling or dwellings or housing project involved have been paid not less than the wages prevailing in the locality in which the work was performed for the corresponding classes of laborers and mechanics employed on construction of a similar character, as determined by the Secretary of Labor prior to the beginning of construction and after the date of filing of the application for insurance.

(e) Any contract or subcontract executed for the performance of construction of the project shall contain the provision that there shall be no discrimination against any employee, or applicant for employment, because of race, color, creed, or national origin.

(f) Compliance with the provisions of this section shall be evidenced at such time and in such manner as the Commissioner may prescribe.

§ 241.29 Occupancy charges. A schedule of charges to be made by the mortgagor corporation for the accommodations afforded by the project shall be filed with the Commissioner and approved in writing by him or his duly constituted representative prior to the opening of the project for occupancy. Such schedule shall not thereafter be changed except with the written approval of the Commissioner. The mortgagor corporation shall not permit occupancy except in accordance with the schedule of charges as so approved by the Commissioner and under an Occupancy Agreement or lease in a form approved by the Commissioner.

§ 241.30 Methods of operation. (a) Except with the prior written approval of the Commissioner, no compensation shall be paid by the corporation to its officers or directors, nor to any person or corporation for supervisory or managerial services. No compensation shall be paid by the corporation to any employee in excess of an amount agreed upon by the Commissioner and specified in the corporate charter. No officer, director, stockholder, agent, or employee of the corporation shall in any manner become indebted to the corporation, except on account of approved occupancy charges.

(b) The corporation shall maintain its project, the grounds, buildings, and equipment appurtenant thereto, in good repair and in such condition as will preserve the health and safety of its occupants.

(c) A Fund for Replacements shall be established and maintained with the mortgagee so long as the mortgage insurance is in force, and the amount and type of such fund and the conditions under which it shall be accumulated, replenished and used, shall be specified in the charter.

(d) A General Operating Reserve shall also be established and maintained so long as the mortgage insurance is in force, in a manner and for the purposes specified in the charter.

(e) The corporation shall not, without prior approval of the Commissioner, incur liabilities (other than the insured mortgage) in excess of an amount to be specified in the charter.

(f) The corporation, its property equipment, buildings, plans, offices, apparatus, devices, books, contracts, records, documents, and papers shall be subject to inspection and examination by the Commissioner or his duly authorized agent at all reasonable times.

(g) The mortgagor shall execute and deliver to the Commissioner a certificate that the books and accounts of the corporation will be established and maintained in a manner satisfactory to the Commissioner on the date the certificate is executed. Such certificate shall be to the effect that so long as the mortgage is insured by the Commissioner, the mortgagor's books and accounts will be kept in accordance with the requirements of the Commissioner, will be in such form as to permit a speedy and effective audit, and, as may otherwise be prescribed by the Commissioner, will be maintained for such periods of time as may be prescribed by the Commissioner and will be available to him for such examination and audits which he may desire to make. The corporation shall file with the Commissioner and mortgagee the following reports verified by the signature of such officers of the corporation as the Commissioner may designate and in such form as prescribed by the Commissioner:

(1) Monthly or quarterly operating reports as and when required by the Commissioner;

(2) A semi-annual financial statement within sixty (60) days after the semi-annual period when required by the Commissioner;

(3) Annual reports prepared by a certified public accountant or an independent public accountant, within sixty (60) days after the end of each fiscal year;

(4) Specific answers to questions upon which information is desired from time to time relative to the operation and condition of the property and the status of the insured mortgage;

(5) Copies of minutes of stockholders' meetings certified to by the Secretary of the corporation, within thirty (30) days after such meetings and, when requested by the Commissioner, copies of minutes of directors' meetings.

§ 241.31 Mortgagors subject to regulation and restriction. Except as in this section otherwise provided, all mortgagors shall be subject to regulation and restriction by the Commissioner with respect to the matters set forth in §§ 241.24 to 241.30, inclusive. A mortgagor of the character described in § 241.20 (b) shall not be subject to regulation and restriction by the Commissioner with respect to the matters set forth in §§ 241.24, 241.25, 241.29 and 241.30.

§ 241.32 Certificate of mortgagor regarding use of property for transient or hotel purposes. The mortgagor must certify under oath that, so long as the mortgage is insured by the Commissioner, the mortgagor will not rent, permit the rental, or permit the offering for rental, of the housing, or any part thereof, covered by such mortgage for transient or hotel purposes. The corporate charter of the mortgagor or a contract with the Commissioner shall provide that so long as the said mortgage is insured or held by the Commissioner it will not rent such housing, or any part thereof for hotel purposes. For the purpose of this certificate, rental for transient or hotel purposes shall mean (a) rental for any period less than 30 days, or (b) any rental, if the occupants of the housing accommodations are provided customary hotel services such as room service for food and beverages, maid service, furnishing and laundering of linen, and bellboy service.

ADJUSTMENT OF MORTGAGE AMOUNT

§ 241.33 Certification of cost requirements. Prior to initial endorsement for insurance of a mortgage executed by the mortgagor of a Management Type Project, the mortgagor, the mortgagee, and the Commissioner shall enter into an agreement in form and content satisfactory to the Commissioner for the purpose of precluding any excess of mortgage proceeds over statutory limitations. Under this agreement the mortgagor shall disclose its relationship with the builder, including any collateral agreement, and agree to enter into a construction contract the terms of which shall depend on whether or not there exists an identity of interest between the mortgagor and the builder. The agreement shall require that upon completion of all physical improvements on the mortgaged property the mortgagor must execute a certificate of actual costs. The agreement shall further require that any excess of mortgage proceeds over statutory limitations based on actual cost shall be applied to reduction of the outstanding balance of the principal of the mortgage.

§ 241.34 Form of contract. The form of contract between the mortgagor of a Management Type Project and builder shall be determined in accordance with the following:

(a) If it is established to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that neither the mortgagor nor any of the officers, directors, or stockholders of the mortgagor have any interest in the builder, contractor, or any subcontractor, there may be used a lump sum form of contract providing for payment of a specified amount.

(b) If it is determined by the Commissioner that the mortgagor, its officers, directors or stockholders have any interest, financial or otherwise, in the builder, contractor, or any subcontractor, the form of contract shall provide for payment of a builder's fixed fee in addition to the actual cost of construction, not to exceed an upset price. The builder's fixed fee shall be determined in accordance with customary practices in the area and approved by the Commissioner.

§ 241.35 Certificate of actual cost. The mortgagor's certificate of actual cost in a Management Type Project shall be submitted upon completion of physical improvements to the satisfaction of the Commissioner and prior to final endorsement. Its content and requirements regarding verification are as follows:

(a) When the work has been completed under a contract as described in § 241.34 (a), the mortgagor's certification shall be on the form prescribed therefor by the Commissioner and shall indicate the amount actually paid under the construction contract after deduction of any kickbacks, rebates, trade discounts, or other similar payments to the mortgagor corporation, or to any of its officers, directors or stockholders; plus the cost to the mortgagor of architects' fees, off-site public utilities and streets not included in the general contract, organizational and legal work, and other items of expense approved by the Commissioner. For verification of these amounts the mortgagor shall keep and maintain adequate records of all costs of any construction or other cost items not representing work under the general contract and shall make available for examination such records, including any collateral agreements, upon request by the Commissioner.

(b) When the work has been completed under a contract as described in § 241.34 (b), the mortgagor's certification shall be on the form prescribed therefor by the Commissioner and shall indicate all amounts as required in paragraph (a) of this section, plus the amount of the builder's fee. This form of certification shall be accompanied by a certification by the builder on the form prescribed therefor by the Commissioner, indicating all actual costs paid for labor, materials, and subcontract work under the general contract, exclusive of the builder's fee and less any kickbacks, rebates, trade discounts, or other similar payments to the builder or mortgagor corporation or any of its officers, directors or stockholders. The mortgagor shall keep records as required in paragraph (a) of this section and shall in turn require the builder to keep available similar records.

§ 241.36 Adjustment resulting from cost certification. Upon receipt of the mortgagor's certification of actual cost there shall be added to the total amount thereof the Commissioner's estimate of the fair market value of any land included in the mortgage security and owned by the mortgagor in fee, such value being prior to the construction of the improvements. In the event the land is held under a leasehold or other interest less than a fee, the cost, if any, of acquiring the leasehold or other interest is considered an allowable expense which may be added to actual cost provided that in no event such amount is in excess of the fair market value of such leasehold or other interest exclusive of proposed improvements. If the principal obligation of the mortgage exceeds the applicable statutory percentage of this total amount, the mortgage shall be reduced by the amount of such excess prior to final endorsement for insurance.

§ 241.37 Rehabilitation projects. (a) In the event the mortgage is to assist the financing of a project involving repair or rehabilitation, the mortgagor's actual cost of such repair or rehabilitation may include the items of expense permitted for new construction in accordance with either § 241.35 (a) or (b) and the applicable cost certification procedure described therein will be required. To such actual cost there shall be added the purchase price of land and existing improvements prior to such repair or rehabilitation if the purchase price of such land and improvements are to be refinanced with the proceeds of the mortgage: Provided, That the cost of the land and improvements shall in no event exceed the Commissioner's estimate of the fair market value of such land and improvements prior to the repair or rehabilitation. As provided in § 241.36, the statutory percentage shall be applied to the total thus obtained and the mortgage reduced accordingly if indicated.

(b) In case the land and existing improvements are owned by the mortgagor on the date the application is filed, and are subject to an outstanding indebtedness to be refinanced with part of the proceeds of the mortgage, the procedure set forth in paragraph (a) of this section shall be followed except that the full amount of the outstanding indebtedness shall be added after the statutory percentage has been applied to the total of the other costs: Provided, however, That in no event shall the amount thus obtained exceed the statutory percentage of the cost of repair or rehabilitation plus the Commissioner's estimate of the fair market value of land and improvements prior to the repair or rehabilitation.

§ 241.38 Requisites of agreement and certification. Any agreement, undertaking, statement or certification required in this section shall specifically state that it has been made, presented, and delivered for the purpose of influencing an official action of the Federal Housing Administration, and of the Federal Housing Commissioner, and may be relied upon by the Commissioner as a true statement of the facts contained therein.

§ 243.4 Form of application. The application must be made upon a standard form prescribed by the Commissioner.

§ 243.5 Approval and commitment. Upon approval of an application, acceptance of the mortgage for insurance will be evidenced by the issuance of a commitment setting forth, upon a form prescribed by the Commissioner, the terms and conditions upon which the mortgage will be insured.

§ 243.6 Builders warranty. With respect to commitments issued on or after October 1, 1954, applications relating to proposed construction must be accompanied by an agreement in form satisfactory to the Commissioner executed by the seller or builder or such other person as the Commissioner may require agreeing that in the event of any sale or conveyance of the dwelling within a period of one year beginning with the date of initial occupancy, the seller, builder, or such other person will at the time of such sale or conveyance deliver to the purchaser or owner of such property a warranty in form satisfactory to the Commissioner warranting that the dwelling is constructed in substantial conformity with the plans and specifications (including amendments thereof or changes and variations therein which have been approved in writing by the Commissioner) on which the Commissioner has based his valuation of the dwelling. Such agreement must provide that upon the sale or conveyance of the dwelling and delivery of the warranty, the seller, builder or such other person will promptly furnish the Commissioner with a conformed copy of the warranty establishing by the purchaser's receipt thereon that the original warranty has been delivered to the purchaser in accordance with this section.

ELIGIBLE MORTGAGES

§ 243.7 Form, lien. The mortgage must be executed upon a form approved by the Commissioner for use in the jurisdiction in which the property covered by the mortgage is situated, by a mortgagor with the qualifications set forth in this part, must be a first lien upon property that conforms with the property standards prescribed by the Commissioner, and the entire principal amount of the mortgage must have been disbursed to the mortgagor, or to his creditors for his account and with his consent.

§ 243.8 Executed in connection with release from project mortgage. The property covered by the mortgage must have been included as part of a Sales Type Project (as defined in § 241.1 (b)) of this subchapter and must have located thereon a single-family dwelling, and the mortgage must have been executed in connection with the release of such property from the lien of the project mortgage and to replace or refinance the project mortgage as to such property.

§ 243.9 Maximum amount. The mortgage must involve a principal obligation in multiples of $50 and must not exceed the unpaid balance of the project mortgage allocable to the property offered as security.

§ 243.10 Payment and maturity dates. The mortgage shall come due on the first of a month and must have a maturity satisfactory to the Commissioner, not more than the unexpired term of the project mortgage at the time of the release of the mortgaged property from such project mortgage. The amortization period shall be either 10, 15, 20, 25, 30, 35, or 40 years by providing for 120, 180, 240, 300, 360, 420, or 480 monthly amortization payments.

§ 243.11 Interest rate. The mortgage may bear interest at such rate as may be agreed upon between the mortgagee and the mortgagor but in no case shall such interest be in excess of four and one-half percentum (4½%) per annum computed on unpaid balances.

§ 243.12 Amortization provisions. The mortgage must contain complete amortization provisions satisfactory to the Commissioner, requiring monthly payments by the mortgagor sufficient to repay principal and interest in full at maturity.

§ 243.13 Payment of insurance premiums or charges; prepayment premiums. The mortgage may provide for monthly payments by the mortgagor to the mortgagee of an amount equal to one-twelfth (1/12) of the annual mortgage insurance premium payable by the mortgagee to the Commissioner. If the mortgage contains a provision permitting the holder to make future "open-end" advances or is amended or modified to include such a provision, the mortgage may provide for a monthly payment by the mortgagor of an amount equal to one-twelfth (1/12) of the annual charge, payable by the mortgagee to the Commissioner for insurance of such advances. Such payments shall continue only so long as the contract of insurance shall remain in effect. The mortgage shall provide that upon payment of the mortgage before maturity, the mortgagor shall pay the adjusted premium charge referred to in Part 244 of this subchapter, but shall not provide for the payment of any further charge on account of such prepayment.

§ 243.14 Payments to include other charges. The mortgage shall provide for such equal monthly payments by the mortgagor to the mortgagee as will amortize the ground rents, if any, and the estimated amount of all taxes, special assessments, if any, and fire and other hazard insurance premiums, within a period ending one month prior to the dates on which the same become delinquent. The mortgage shall further provide that such payments shall be held by the mortgagee in a manner satisfactory to the Commissioner, for the purpose of paying such ground rents, taxes, assessments, and insurance premiums, before the same become delinquent, for the benefit and account of the mortgagor. The mortgage must also make provision for adjustments in case the estimated amount of such taxes, assessments, and insurance premiums shall prove to be more, or less, than the actual amount thereof so paid by the mortgagor.

§ 243.15 Payments, how applied. All monthly payments to be made by the mortgagor to the mortgagee, as hereinabove provided, shall be added together and the aggregate amount thereof shall be paid by the mortgagor each month in a single payment. The mortgagee shall apply the same to the following items in the order set forth:

(b) Ground rents, taxes, special assessments, and fire and other hazard insurance premiums;

(c) Interest on the mortgage; and

§ 243.16 Late charge. The mortgage may provide for a charge by the mortgagee of a "late charge", not to exceed two cents for each dollar of each payment more than fifteen (15) days in arrears, to cover the extra expense involved in handling delinquent payments.

§ 243.17 Payments upon execution of mortgage. The mortgagor must pay to the mortgagee upon the execution of the mortgage a sum that will be sufficient to pay the ground rents, if any, and the estimated taxes, special assessments, and fire and other hazard insurance premiums for the period beginning on the date to which such ground rents, taxes, assessments, and insurance premiums were last paid and ending on the date of the first monthly payment under the mortgage, and may be required to pay a further sum equal to the first annual mortgage insurance premium, plus an amount sufficient to pay the mortgage insurance premium from the date of closing the loan to the date of the first monthly payment.

§ 243.18 Maximum charges and fees to be collected by mortgagee. (a) The mortgagee may charge the mortgagor an initial service charge to reimburse itself for the cost of closing the transaction, which service charge shall not exceed $20 or 1 percent of the original principal amount of the mortgage, whichever is the greater.

(b) In addition to the charges hereinabove mentioned, the mortgagee may collect from the mortgagor customary costs of title search, recording fees reasonable out of pocket appraisal and other fees which are approved by the Commissioner, and mortgage insurance premiums, together with other fees and charges which the mortgagee is required to pay to the Commissioner under this part. Nothing in this section shall be construed as prohibiting the mortgagor from dealing through a broker, who does not represent the mortgagee, if he prefers to do so, and paying such compensation as is satisfactory to the mortgagor.

§ 243.19 Covenant regarding racial restrictions. The mortgage shall contain a covenant by the mortgagor that until the mortgage has been paid in full, or the contract of insurance otherwise terminated, he will not execute or file for record any instrument which imposes a restriction upon the sale or occupancy of the mortgaged property on the basis of race, color or creed. Such covenant shall be binding upon the mortgagor and his assigns and shall provide that upon violation thereof the mortgagee may, at its option, declare the unpaid balance of the mortgage immediately due and payable.

ELIGIBLE MORTGAGORS

§ 243.20 Mortgage lien. A mortgagor must establish that after the mortgage offered for insurance has been recorded, the mortgaged property will be free and clear of all liens other than such mortgage and that there will not be outstanding any other unpaid obligation contracted in connection with the mortgage transaction or the purchase of the mortgaged property, except obligations which are secured by property or collateral owned by the mortgagor independently of the mortgaged property.

§ 243.21 Relationship of income to mortgage payments. A mortgagor must establish that the periodic payments required in the mortgage submitted for insurance bear a proper relation to his present and anticipated income and expenses.

§ 243.22 Credit standing. A mortgagor must have a general credit standing satisfactory to the Commissioner.

§ 243.23 Racial restrictions certificate. A mortgagor must certify that until the mortgage has been paid in full, or the contract of insurance otherwise terminated, he will not file for record any restriction upon the sale or occupancy of the mortgaged property on the basis of race, color or creed or execute any agreement, lease or conveyance affecting the mortgaged property which imposes any such restriction upon its sale or occupancy.

§ 243.24 Limitation on eligibility. No person shall be eligible to be the mortgagor of more than one mortgage insured under this part at any one time, nor shall he be eligible if he is the mortgagor of a mortgage or mortgages covering four (4) or more single-family dwellings insured under this chapter.

ELIGIBLE PROPERTIES

§ 243.25 Nature of title to realty. A mortgage to be eligible for insurance must be on real estate held in fee simple, or on leasehold under a lease for not less than 99 years which is renewable, or under a lease with a period of not less than 50 years to run from the date the mortgage is executed.

§ 243.26 Dwelling unit located on property. At the time a mortgage is insured there must be located on the mortgaged property a dwelling unit designed principally for residential use for not more than one family. Such unit may be connected with other dwellings by a party wall or otherwise.

OPEN-END ADVANCES

§ 243.30 Eligibility of open-end advances. Any approved mortgagee may make advances, referred to in this part as "open-end" advances, in connection with the mortgages previously insured under this part or insured after the effective date of this part, subject to compliance with the requirements of this section:

(a) The proceeds of any open-end advance must be used for the purpose of improvements or repairs which in the Commissioner's discretion substantially protect or improve the basic livability or utility of the property involved. The proceeds of such advances shall not be used for the purpose of financing obligations previously incurred for such repairs or improvements.

(b) The mortgagee shall submit an application for insurance of open-end advances upon a standard form prescribed by the Commissioner.

(c) Applications filed must be accompanied by the mortgagee's remittance for the sum of $10 for processing of the application. If an application is refused as a result of preliminary examination by the Commissioner or in such other instances as the Commissioner may determine the entire fee will be returned to the applicant.

(d) In addition to the application fee required by paragraph (c) of this section, the mortgagee may charge the mortgagor a fee not to exceed $25 or 1 percent of the open-end advance, whichever is the lesser, and the amount of out-of-pocket expenditures made by the mortgagee for customary costs of title search and recording fees. The mortgagee may require the mortgagor to pay to the mortgagee all charges permitted under this section on or prior to the date of final disbursement of the open-end advance, together with a sum sufficient to pay the initial insurance charge provided for in Part 244 of this subchapter. No portion of such charges may be included in the principal amount of the open-end advance.

(e) Upon approval of an application, acceptance of the advance for insurance will be evidenced by the issuance of a commitment setting forth, upon a form prescribed by the Commisioner, the terms and conditions upon which the advance will be insured.

(f) The amount of such advance shall be added to the unpaid principal obligation of the mortgage, whereupon the aggregate of the original unpaid principal and the amount of the open-end advance shall:

(1) Bear interest at the rate provided in such mortgage, payable in monthly installments on the principal then outstanding;

(2) Be payable in substantially equal monthly payments in an amount sufficient to amortize the aggregate principal amount within the remaining original term of the mortgage.

(g) The amount of any such advance (computed in even dollar amounts) when added to the unpaid balance of the original principal obligation of the mortgage shall not exceed the original principal obligation of the mortgage: Provided, That if the mortgagor certifies that the proceeds of such open-end advance will be used to finance the construction of an additional room or rooms or other additional enclosed space as a part of the dwelling, the aggregate amount of the unpaid balance of the original principal obligation, plus the amount of the open-end advance, may exceed the amount of the original principal obligation of the mortgage, but in no event shall such aggregate amount exceed the maximum amounts prescribed by the limitations of § 243.9.

(h) A mortgagee may amend or modify any approved FHA mortgage form by adding such provisions as it deems necessary for the purpose of making open end advances, by any rider or modification agreement which is valid and enforceable in the jurisdiction in which the property covered by the mortgage is located, provided such rider or modification agreement retains in the mortgagee the right to approve or disapprove additional advances on such terms and conditions as the mortgagee may prescribe. The mortgagee will have the sole responsibility for determining that any mortgage amended by an "open-end" rider or modification agreement will be a valid and enforceable instrument and will constitute a valid first lien on the property upon which the Commissioner based his valuation.

§ 243.31 Effective date. Unless otherwise specified in this part, the rules in this part are effective as to all individual mortgages on which a commitment to insure is issued to an approved mortgagee on or after September 10, 1954.

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter VIII—Commodity Stabilization Service (Sugar), Department of Agriculture

Subchapter I—Determination of Prices

[Sugar Determination 874.7]

PART 874—SUGARCANE: LOUISIANA

FAIR AND REASONABLE PRICES FOR 1954 CROP

Pursuant to the provisions of section 301 (c) (2) of the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended, (herein referred to as "act"), after investigation, and due consideration of the evidence presented at the public hearing held in Thibodaux, Louisiana, on July 28, 1954, the following determination is hereby issued:

§ 874.7. Fair and reasonable prices for the 1954 crop of Louisiana sugarcane. A producer of sugarcane in Louisiana who processes sugarcane purchased from other producers referred to in this section as "processor") shall be deemed to have complied with the provisions of section 301 (c) (2) of the act with respect to the 1954 crop, if he has paid or has contracted to pay for such sugarcane in accordance with the following requirements.

(a) Definitions. For the purpose of this determination, the term:

(1) "Price of raw sugar" means the price of 96° raw sugar quoted by the Louisiana Sugar Exchange, Inc.; except that if the Director of the Sugar Division determines that such price does not reflect the true market value of sugar, because of inadequate volume, failure to report sales in accordance with the rules of such Exchange or other factors, he may designate the price to be effective under this section.

(2) "Price of blackstrap molasses" means the price per gallon of blackstrap molasses quoted by the Louisiana Sugar Exchange, Inc.; except that if the Director of the Sugar Division determines that such price does not reflect the true market value of blackstrap molasses, because of inadequate volume, failure to report sales in accordance with the rules of such Exchange or other factors, he may designate the price to be effective under this section.

(3) "Standard sugarcane" means sugarcane, free of trash, containing 12 percent sucrose in the normal juice with a purity of at least 76.50 but not more than 76.99.

(4) "Net sugarcane" means the quantity of sugarcane obtained by deducting the weight of trash from the combined weight of sugarcane and trash delivered by a producer.

(5) "Salvage sugarcane" means sugarcane containing either less than 9.5 percent sucrose in the normal juice or less than 68 purity in the normal juice.

(6) "Trash" means green or dried leaves, loose sugarcane tops, attached sugarcane tops at or above the green leaf roll, dirt and all other extraneous material which is representative of the quantity of sugarcane from which the sample for trash determination is taken.

(b) Basic price. (1) The basic price for standard sugarcane shall be not less than $1.06 per ton for each one-cent per pound of the average price of raw sugar determined in accordance with either of the following as agreed upon:

(i) The simple average of the daily prices of raw sugar for the week in which the sugarcane is delivered; or,

(ii) The simple average of the weekly prices of raw sugar for the period October 8, 1954 through February 24, 1955: Provided, That the average price of raw sugar as determined under this subdivision or subdivision (i) of this subparagraph may be reduced by not more than the following:

(a) 0.065 cent for mills located north of Bayou Goula between the Atchafalaya and Mississippi Rivers and southeast of New Iberia west of the Atchafalaya River; or

(b) 0.10 cent for mills located north and west of New Iberia west of the Atchafalaya River.

(2) The basic price for salvage sugarcane shall be as agreed upon between the processor and the producer.

(c) Conversion of net sugarcane to standard sugarcane. Net sugarcane (except for salvage sugarcane) shall be converted to standard sugarcane as follows:

(1) By multiplying the quantity of net sugarcane by the applicable quality factor in accordance with the following table:

Percent sucrose in normal juice of net sugarcane:	Standard sugarcane quality factor [1]
9.5	0.60
10.0	0.70
10.5	0.80
11.0	0.90
11.5	0.95

12.5	1.05
13.0	1.10
13.5	1.15
14.0	1.20
14.5	1.25

[1] The quality factor for sugarcane of intermediate percentages of sucrose in normal juice shall be interpolated and for sugarcane having more than 14.5 percent sucrose in the normal juice shall be computed in proportion to the immediately preceding interval.

and

(2) By multiplying the quantity determined pursuant to subparagraph (1) of this paragraph by the applicable purity factor in the following table:

[1] Factors applicable to higher sucrose and purity of the normal juice than shown in this table shall be determined by the same method of calculation used to compute the factors specified and shall be furnished by the Louisiana State ASC Office, Alexandria, La., upon request.

(d) Molasses payment. For each ton of net sugarcane (except salvage sugarcane) there shall be paid an amount equal to the product of 7.1 and one-half of the average price per gallon of blackstrap molasses in excess of 6 cents. The average price of blackstrap molasses shall be either the simple average of the daily prices for the week in which the sugarcane is delivered, or the simple average of the weekly prices of blackstrap molasses for the period October 8, 1954 through February 24, 1955, as agreed upon between the processor and the producer.

(e) General. (1) The sucrose and purity of the normal juice shall be determined by acceptable methods of analysis on sugarcane as delivered, such methods to be subject to the approval of the Louisiana State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office (referred to in this section as "State Office").

(2) Because of decreased boiling house efficiency deductions may be made from the payment for frozen sugarcane accepted by the processor provided such deductions are at rates not in excess of 1.5 percent of the payment, computed without regard to the molasses payment, for each 0.1 cc. of acidity above 2.50 cc. of N/10 alkali per 10 cc. of juice but not in excess of 4.75 cc. (intervening fractions are to be computed to the nearest multiple of 0.05 cc.). Frozen sugarcane testing in excess of 4.75 cc. of acidity shall be considered as having no value. Sugarcane shall not be considered as frozen, even after being subjected to freezing temperature, unless and until there is evidence of damage having taken place because of the freeze, such evidence to be certified by the State Office.

(3) In the event a general freeze causes abnormally low recoveries of raw sugar by a processor in relation to the sucrose and purity tests of sugarcane, payment for such sugarcane may be made as mutually agreed upon between the producer and the processor, subject to approval by the State Office: Provided, That the payment for each ton of net sugarcane shall be not less than an amount equal to the total returns from raw sugar and molasses actually recovered from such sugarcane, determined on the basis of the simple average of the weekly prices of raw sugar and blackstrap molasses for the period October 8, 1954 through February 24, 1955, less an amount not to exceed $3.00 per gross ton of sugarcane for processing and less actual costs of hoisting, field weighing and transporting such sugarcane.

(4) A processor who paid the costs for hoisting and weighing sugarcane of the 1953 crop shall also pay such costs with respect to the 1954 crop: Provided, That nothing in this subparagraph shall be construed as prohibiting negotiations with respect to such costs, any change to be approved by the State Office.

(5) A processor who made allowances to producers for transporting sugarcane from the customary delivery points to the mill for the 1953 crop, shall also make such allowances for the 1954 crop: Provided, That nothing in this subparagraph shall be construed as requiring the processor to make allowances to producers in excess of the actual costs or rates charged by a commercial carrier for the customary method of transportation: Provided further, That where the only available practicable means of transportation is by railroad and the distance to the nearest mill is in excess of 50 miles or where, because of unusual circumstances, the cost of transporting sugarcane is in excess of customary allowances, such costs may be shared by the processor and the producer by agreement, subject to the approval of the State Office.

(6) If a processor and the producers delivering sugarcane to such processor mutually agree upon a plan for improving harvesting and delivery operations, there may be deducted from the price per ton of sugarcane an amount equal to one-half of the cost of such plan. Such deduction may not be made until the plan has been approved by the State Office.

(7) The processor shall not reduce the returns to the producer below those determined herein through any subterfuge or device whatsoever.

(8) The Deputy Administrator for Production Adjustment of the Commodity Stabilization Service will issue such instructions to the State Office as may be necessary to effectuate the purpose of this section.

Statement of bases and considerations—(a) General. The foregoing determination provides fair and reasonable prices to be paid by a processor for sugarcane of the 1954 crop purchased from producers. It prescribes the minimum requirements with respect to prices which must be met as one of the conditions for payment under the act.

(b) Requirements of the act. In determining fair and reasonable prices, the act requires that public hearings be held and investigations be made. Accordingly, a public hearing was held in Thibodaux, Louisiana, on July 28, 1954, at which time interested persons presented testimony with respect to fair and reasonable prices for the 1954 crop of sugarcane. In addition, investigations have been made of conditions relating to the sugar industry in Louisiana.

(c) 1954 price determination. The 1954 price determination continues unchanged the provisions of the 1953 crop determination.

At the public hearing the Louisiana Grower-Processor Committee recommended that the provisions of the 1953 crop price determination be continued for the 1954 crop. The Committee representative stated that in reaching this decision all aspects of the determination had been considered. He stated further that a special committee had been appointed to give further study to questions of sugarcane purity, trash, better methods of harvesting and delivery of higher quality cane to mills. Pending such further study the Committee agreed that no change should be made in the price determination. A processor testified with respect to a recent increase in freight rates on sugarcane and raw sugar, recommending that the Department give consideration to the allowances for sugar freight differentials for the 1954 crop. The request was supported by two other processors in briefs submitted to the Department following the hearing.

In making this determination consideration has been given to recommendations made at the public hearing, to information obtained as a result of investigations and to returns, costs and profits data of the Louisiana sugar industry obtained by survey during prior years and restated in terms of prospective conditions for the 1954 crop. On the basis of analysis and examination of all pertinent factors it appears that an equitable sharing relationship between producers and processors will exist under anticipated conditions for the 1954 crop.

No change is made in the molasses settlement provision inasmuch as the average production of molasses per ton of cane during the last five-year period is the same as the average production for the previous period.

Prior fair price determinations have specified deductions for freight rate differentials in the calculation of settlements with producers. It is understood that the matter of increases in freight rates on sugar was considered by the Grower-Processor Committee but the Committee, except for one member who abstained from voting, preferred no change be made in the determination to reflect the higher rates since the matter was being contested in the Courts. Accordingly, no action has been taken in this determination to reflect rate changes in the freight differentials.

On the basis of analysis of all pertinent factors the provisions of this determination are deemed to be fair and reasonable.

Accordingly, I hereby find and conclude that the foregoing price determination is fair and reasonable and will effectuate the price provisions of the act.

PART 953—LEMONS GROWN IN CALIFORNIA AND ARIZONA

LIMITATION OF SHIPMENTS

Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 53, as amended (7 CFR Part 953; 18 F. R. 6767), regulating the handling of lemons grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement

UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN LIBRARIES

Act of 1937, as amended, and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Lemon Administrative Committee, established under the said amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of the quantity of such lemons which may be handled, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice and engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this amendment until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this amendment is based became available and the time when this amendment must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, is insufficient, and this amendment relieves restriction on the handling of lemons grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona.

Order, as amended. The provisions in paragraph (b) (1) (ii) of § 953.660 (Lemon Regulation 553; 19 F. R. 5638) are hereby amended to read as follows:

TITLE 32—NATIONAL DEFENSE

Chapter VI—Department of the Navy

Subchapter E—Claims

PART 751—NAVY PERSONNEL CLAIMS

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

1. Section 751.2 is revised to read as follows:

§ 751.2 Statutory provisions. The substance of the pertinent statutory provisions is incorporated herein for information as to the effect of section 1 of the act of May 29, 1945, as amended July 3, 1952, and as amended August 1, 1953 (31 U. S. C. 222c) authorizing the Secretary of the Navy, and such other officer or officers as he may designate for such purposes, and under such regulations as he may prescribe, to consider, ascertain, adjust, determine, settle, and pay any claim, not in excess of $2500.00 against the United States, including claims not heretofore satisfied, arising on or after December 7, 1939, of military personnel and civilian employees of the Department of the Navy or of the Navy, when such claim is substantiated, and the property determined to be reasonable, useful, necessary, or proper under the attendant circumstances, in such manner as the Secretary of the Navy may by regulation prescribe, for damage to or loss, destruction, capture, or abandonment of personal property occurring incident to their service, or to replace such personal property in kind; with the exception that the damage to or loss, destruction, capture, or abandonment of property shall not have been caused in whole or in part by any negligent or wrongful act on the part of the claimant, his agent, or employee, and shall not have occurred at quarters occupied by the claimant, within continental United States (excluding Alaska) which are not assigned to him or otherwise provided in kind by the Government. In the event of the death of any person among such military personnel or civilian employees, any claim otherwise cognizable under this act, presented by the survivor of such person, may be considered and settled in accordance with the provisions of the amendatory act regardless of whether the damage, loss, destruction, capture, or abandonment of the personal property occurred concurrently with or subsequent to such death. Survivor means surviving spouse, child, or children, father and/or mother, or brothers and/or sisters of the deceased naval establishment personnel. Claims of survivors are settled and paid in this order of precedence. No claim is authorized to be settled under the act of May 29, 1945, as amended (31 U. S. C. 222c) unless presented in writing within two years after such claim accrues or within one year after July 3, 1952; whichever is later; it is provided, however, that if a claim accrues in time of war, or in time of armed conflict in which armed forces of the United States are engaged, or if war or such armed conflict intervenes within two years after the date of accrual, it may, on good cause shown, be presented within two years after such good cause ceases to exist, but not later than two years after peace is established or the armed conflict terminates. Any claim cognizable under the act of May 29, 1945, as amended (31 U. S. C. 222c), which has not previously been presented for consideration, or has been presented for consideration and disapproved because the claimant did not file such claim within the authorized time, or any claim of a survivor, cognizable under the act of May 29, 1945, as amended (31 U. S. C. 222c) not previously presented, or previously presented and disapproved for the reason that survivors previously had no right of recovery under the act of May 29, 1945, may, on written request of a claimant made prior to July 3, 1953, be considered or reconsidered and settled in accordance with the amendment of August 1, 1953. Any settlement made by the Secretary of the Navy, or his designee, under the authority of the act of May 29, 1945, as amended (31 U. S. C. 222c), and such regulations as he may prescribe hereunder, shall be final and conclusive for all purposes, notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary. Appropriations available to the Navy Department are made available for the settlement of such claims by the Secretary of the Navy.

2. Section 751.4 (k) is revised to read as follows:

(k) Transportation losses. Where property, including baggage checked or in personal custody, and including household effects, is damaged, lost, or destroyed incident to transportation by a carrier, an agent or agency of the Government, or private conveyance (1) when shipped under orders; or (2) in connection with travel under orders irrespective of the purpose of such travel; or (3) in connection with travel in performance of military duty with or without troops. Such claims may be approved only to the extent of the weight limit of the claimant's regulation allowance of baggage permitted to be shipped at Government expense. Claims for motor vehicles are allowable to the extent of any damage or loss which occurs while the vehicles are in the custody of the government for shipment.

3. Section 751.5 (f) is revised to read as follows:

(f) Nonpersonal items. Property not personal to the use of the claimant, such as wearing apparel of other members of the claimant's household, except for cases coming within the scope of § 751.4 (j) or (k).

4. Section 751.5 (g) is revised to read as follows:

(g) Motor vehicles. Claims for motor vehicles, except as cognizable under

UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN LIBRARIES

§ 751.4 (k), will ordinarily not be paid unless the damage, loss, destruction, capture, or abandonment occurred prior to July 1, 1942. Meritorious claims for damage, loss, destruction, capture or abandonment of motor vehicles occurring on or subsequent to July 1, 1942, not cognizable under § 751.4 (k), may be recommended to the Secretary of the Navy for consideration, and may be approved by the Secretary for payment in proper cases.

5. Section 751.8 is revised to read as follows:

§ 751.8 Statute of limitations. No claim may be paid under the provisions of the regulations in this part unless presented in writing within 2 years after such claim accrues or within 1 year after July 3, 1952, whichever is later: Provided, That if the claim accrues in time of war, or in time of armed conflict in which armed forces of the United States are engaged, or if war or such armed conflict intervenes within 2 years after date of accrual, it may, if good cause for delay is shown, be presented within 2 years after such good cause ceases to exist, but not later than 2 years after peace is established or armed conflict terminates. "In time of war," as applied to World War II existed between December 7, 1941, and April 28, 1952. "In time of armed conflict," as applied to the Korean conflict, existed between June 27, 1950, and such terminal date as shall be established by concurrent resolution of Congress or by determination of the President.

6. Section 751.19 is revised to read as follows:

§ 751.19 Claimants. Claims may be presented by the military personnel or civilian employee (his survivor or duly authorized agent or legal representative) incident to whose service the property was damaged, lost, captured, destroyed, or abandoned.

(a) Death subsequent to incident out of which claim arose. The claim, if filed by an agent or legal representative should show the title or capacity of the person signing and be accompanied by evidence of the appointment of such person as agent, executor, administrator, or other fiduciary. In the event of the death of the military personnel or civilian employees subsequent to the accident or incident out of which the claim arose and prior to his filing a claim in person (or by a duly authorized agent), the claim may be presented by any of the following persons provided there is no person who falls within any of the categories appearing above his classification.

(1) A duly appointed executor or administrator;

(2) The widow or widower of the decedent;

(3) Any child or other descendant of the decedent;

(4) The father or mother of the decedent; or

(5) Any brother or sister, or any descendant of any brother or sister of the decedent.

(b) Death concurrent with or prior to incident out of which claim arose. A claim cognizable under the act of May 29, 1945, as amended (31 U. S. C. 222c) may be filed by a survivor, where the damage to, loss, destruction, capture or abandonment of the personal property occurred concurently with or subsequent to such death. A survivor's claim may be presented by any of the following persons provided there is no person who falls within any of the categories appearing above his classification:

(1) Spouse.
(2) Child.
(3) Father or mother.
(4) Sister or brother.

7. Section 751.20 is revised to read as follows:

§ 751.20 Form of claim. Claim will be submitted by presenting a detailed statement in triplicate, signed by or on behalf of the claimant, on form NAVEXOS 2662A, except when such forms are not available through normal distribution channels, in which case a claim may be accepted on a form containing the information necessary to substantiate the claim. Attention is directed to the provisions of § 751.21 outlining specific types of evidence required in particular classes of claims, careful compliance with such requirements is essential to avoid delays resulting from the necessity of returning the claim for amplification.

8. Section 751.23 (e) is revised to read as follows:

(e) Forwarding of claim to adjudicating authority. The investigating officer's report in triplicate (except when replacement in kind of all items claimed is made as permitted under § 751.25) will be forwarded with the original and two copies of the claim and one copy of each supporting document or paper, directly to the cognizant adjudicating authority (see §§ 751.25, 751.26, 751.27).

9. Section 751.24 is revised to read as follows:

§ 751.24 Form of investigating officer's report. (a) Report by the investigating officer (see § 751.23 (b)), will be submitted on form NAVEXOS 2662B, except when such form is not available through normal distribution channels, in which case the report should set forth substantially the information indicated by the form.

10. Section 751.25 (a) is revised to read as follows:

(a) Claims. The Chief of Naval Personnel; Deputy Chief of Naval Personnel; Director, Comptroller Division, Bureau of Naval Personnel; Head Claims Branch, Comptroller Division, Bureau of Naval Personnel; Director, Assistant Director, and Technical Assistant, Enlisted Services and Records Division, Bureau of Naval Personnel; and such other officers as may be specifically designated by the Secretary of the Navy are hereby designated and authorized to consider, adjust, and determine claims of Navy service personnel for reimbursement in cash filed under the provisions of this part.

(c) Reimbursement. Upon approval of claims, reimbursement shall be made by payment by the U. S. Navy Regional Accounts Office, Washington 25, D. C., from such appropriation as may be designated, or by reimbursement in kind by supply officers of the Navy, as provided in instructions issued by the Chief of Naval Personnel.

12. Section 751.26 (b) is revised to read as follows:

(b) Reimbursement in kind. Officers of or above the rank of major who are (1) commanding officers, or (2) in higher echelons of command, including the officers specified in paragraph (a) of this section, or (3) officers below the rank of major, when such officers are in command of separate companies, batteries, squadrons, detachments, posts, and stations, or (4) senior officers present, and such other officers as may be specifically designated by the Secretary of the Navy are hereby designated and authorized to consider, ascertain, adjust, and determine claims of Marine Corps enlisted personnel for reimbursement in kind filed under the provisions of §§ 751.1 to 751.32.

Chapter XII—National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics

PART 1210—DEVELOPMENT WORK FOR INDUSTRY IN NACA WIND TUNNELS AND ENGINE TEST FACILITIES

Sec.
1210.1 Introduction.
1210.2 General classes of work.
1210.3 Priorities and schedules.
1210.4 Company projects.
1210.5 Government projects.
1210.6 Model preparations and conduct of tests.

AUTHORITY: §§ 1210.1 to 1210.6 issued under R. S. 161; 5 U. S. C. 22. Interpret or apply 63 Stat. 936; 50 U. S. C. 511.

§ 1210.1 Introduction—(a) Authority. The regulations in this part are promulgated under authority of the Unitary Wind Tunnel Plan Act of 1949, Public Law 415, 81st Congress (63 Stat. 936, 50 U. S. C. sec. 511). This statute states that "The facilities authorized • • • shall be operated and staffed by the Committee but shall be available primarily to industry for testing experimental models in connection with the development of aircraft and missiles. Such tests shall be scheduled and conducted in accordance with industry's requirements and allocation of laboratory time shall be made in accordance with the public interest, with proper emphasis upon the requirements of each military service and due consideration of civilian needs."

(b) NACA policy. (1) In accordance with present NACA policy other NACA facilities, used primarily for research, may also be used for development work when it is in the public interest.

(2) It is the policy of the NACA not to compete with commercial facilities. Development work will be undertaken in NACA facilities only when it cannot be done in an available commercial facility.

§ 1210.2 General classes of work. Development work in the NACA facilities shall be divided into company projects and Government projects:

(a) Company projects. Work for industry on (1) projects which are neither under contract with nor supported by a letter of intent from a Government agency, and (2) tests desired by a company which are related to a Government project as defined in paragraph (b) of this section but are beyond the scope of the tests requested by a Government agency. The fee charged the company for this work will be the actual operating cost to the NACA. By law such fees are deposited in the U. S. Treasury as miscellaneous receipts and are not available for expenditure by NACA.

(b) Government projects. Work for industry on projects which are either under contract with or supported by a letter of intent from a Government agency. The work must be requested by the Government agency. No fee will be charged for this type of work.

§ 1210.3 Priorities and schedules—(a) Priority. Development work shall have first priority in the use of the three Unitary wind tunnels. In addition, research proposed by the military services, NACA technical committees, or NACA staff and considered by the NACA to be in the public interest will be conducted on a "fill-in" basis. Research work shall have first priority in other NACA facilities.

(b) Schedules. Schedules showing the allocation of testing time for company projects and Government projects for each Unitary wind tunnel will be established each month for the ensuing six-month period and released to parties concerned by the 20th day of each month.

§ 1210.4 Company projects—(a) Initiation of company projects. Company projects shall be initiated by a written request to NACA Headquarters stating the purpose and general range of desired tests. The NACA Headquarters will arrange a conference with representatives of the requesting company to establish the test program, model and equipment requirements, and test schedule.

(b) Scheduling of tests. During the first year of operation of each Unitary wind tunnel, 60 working days will be reserved for company projects. This time will be divided into four approximately equal blocks not running consecutively. After this initial operating period the total reserved time and the length of each block will be adjusted to meet the future estimated work load. In scheduling the time set aside for company projects consideration will be given to the order of receipt at the NACA Headquarters of written requests for testing time as well as time previously scheduled for the company. No more than one-fourth of the annual time allocated for company projects in any facility shall be assigned to a single company if there are other bona fide requests for the remaining time.

(c) Fees for company projects. (1) The fee for a company project will be the cost to the NACA and will include the following charges: (i) For facility occupancy time, (ii) for electric power, and (iii) for reducing the test data and preparation of the standard data report. Any additional computation and data analysis requested by the company will be at extra cost.

(2) The occupancy time will be computed from the scheduled date for starting the installation of the test article in the wind tunnel test section through the day on which the test article is removed from the test section and the test section restored to its original condition.

(3) The occupancy time rate will be computed from the sum of the annual cost of the operating crew plus the estimated annual maintenance cost of the facility: The annual cost of the operating crew will be determined from direct wages plus appropriate indirect charges for technical supervision and clerical and administrative services. The annual maintenance cost shall consist of the estimated cost of maintaining and repairing the facility proper and apparatus plus normal replacement of test equipment and necessary services rendered the facility.

(4) The sum of the annual cost for the operating crew and the estimated annual maintenance cost divided by 46 gives the weekly occupancy rate. This fee will be charged per basic week of five days, each day to be ⅕ week. The remaining six weeks over 46 for each year are the estimated maintenance reserve and holiday allowance; hence no charge will be made for a holiday occurring during a test period.

(5) The charge for electric power will be determined from the energy consumed during the tests and the cost of power to the NACA.

(6) The cost of data reduction and the data report will include labor, materials, computing machine rental and appropriate indirect charges.

(7) The billing for work in NACA facilities will be made, so far as may be possible, at the time when the data report is forwarded to the company. The Director of the NACA may, however, at his discretion, require a covering deposit before work is started on a project.

(8) Upon determination of a test schedule by the representatives of the company and of the NACA, it becomes the responsibility of the company to meet this schedule. Cancellation of a project may be made by the company without charge on 60 days' notice and may also be made without charge on less than 60 days' notice dependent upon the readiness of succeeding projects. In the event subsequently scheduled work cannot be scheduled in lieu of the company's work, when cancelled with less than 60 days' notice, the company shall be liable for the occupancy time charge for the scheduled test period or for the period the facility test section is idle due to the cancellation, whichever results in the smaller charge. Curtailment of a project under way before the end of the scheduled test period may be made by the company. In this event the company shall be liable for the occupancy charge for the time scheduled or for the idle time of the test section, whichever is the smaller.

(9) Unavailability of adequate power or economic considerations may on occasion delay high powered test runs. The company shall cooperate with the facility staff in scheduling low powered runs during periods when large blocks of power are unavailable. However, should rescheduling of test runs to accommodate power shortages be impractical, occupancy time charge credits will be made for time lost arising from such shortages. These credits, which will also be made for delays due to breakdown or malfunction of Government furnished equipment or instrumentation, or due to other reasons beyond the control of the company, will be made on the occupancy time rate. Delays less than one-quarter hour will not be counted for credit purposes. Extension of time allotted for the program may be made to offset delays in lieu of refund.

(d) Test data reports. (1) The basic report for company projects will consist of plotted curves or tabulated data without detailed analysis but with adequate description of methods and techniques employed to permit proper interpretation of the data.

(2) The original test data will be held in secured files by the NACA for a period of two years, after which disposition will be determined by conference with the company. The data will not be released in any form without the concurrence of the company.

(e) Model preparations and conduct of tests. (See § 1210.6.)

§ 1210.5 Government projects—(a) Projects allocation and priority groups. For coordinating Government projects there shall be two groups established jointly by the Department of Defense and the NACA. Each group will consist of one representative each from the Air Force, Army, Navy, and NACA, competent to determine military priorities in the use of the NACA and other Government-owned facilities. One group shall be known as the Aircraft and Missile Projects Allocation and Priority Group and the other as the Propulsion Projects Allocation and Priority Group.

(b) Initiation of Government projects. On request from a Government agency for the NACA to undertake a given project, NACA Headquarters will, if necessary, arrange a conference between representatives of the company, the sponsoring Government agency, and the NACA staff. This conference will review the objectives and scope of the work, the required models and instrumentation, and the availability of facility time; and then if so desired by the sponsoring Government agency will recommend a test schedule consistent with those factors. Recommended test programs and schedules will be forwarded to the allocation and priority group concerned for approval of the allocation request and for assignment of appropriate priority when in conflict with the demands of other programs.

(c) Scheduling of tests. Government projects will be scheduled with due consideration of the priorities established by the projects allocation and priority groups.

(d) Test data reports. (1) As for company projects the basic report for Government projects will consist of plotted curves or tabulated data without detailed analysis but with adequate description of methods and techniques employed to permit the proper interpretation of the data.

(2) For Government projects, extended analysis and general dissemination of information of a basic nature may be made with the concurrence of the sponsoring Government agency.

§ 1210.6 Model preparations and conduct of tests—(a) Programming by company. In development testing in the Unitary wind tunnels, the company will be given the greatest possible freedom within the objectives of the scheduled program to obtain the precise information it requires, to determine the sequence and number of test runs to be made, and to make modifications to the program arising from the results currently being obtained, subject only to requirements of safety, practicability, and the total time assigned.

(b) Instrumentation. Each facility will provide standard instrumentation suitable for the test range of the respective facility and computing equipment for the reduction of test data. Information will be furnished for each facility on the permissible size of model, standard balances, safety margins to be used in the construction of models, model mounting details, and other pertinent factors. In the case of models of aircraft and missiles, the model should be designed to contain one of the standard balances if possible and to fit the model support. If the standard instrumentation furnished by the facility does not meet the test requirements, the company will provide suitable instrumentation which will be calibrated by the facility staff to insure accuracy of measurement. Serious delays arising from inaccuracies in company supplied instrumentation, if occurring during the scheduled test period, may result in reassignment of the position of the tests on the facility schedule. Detailed specifications and arrangements for special instrumentation will be established by mutual agreement. Necessary drawings of the article to be tested will be furnished the facility staff for their use in preparing for the test as soon as possible and in no case less than two months prior to the scheduled starting date of the tests.

(c) Test program. All tests will be conducted under NACA supervision. By agreement between company representatives and the laboratory staff changes in the test program within the objectives of the scheduled program may be made where warranted and time is available and extensions may be made in the originally scheduled test period not exceeding 15 percent.

(d) Handling test data. The NACA staff will be responsible for the obtaining of all test data, its reduction to suitable coefficient form, and its accuracy, but the NACA will assume no responsibility for the interpretation of the data by others. Transmittal of the data will be made as rapidly as possible. For company projects the data will be transmitted as directed by the company. The data for Government projects will be transmitted simultaneously to the sponsoring Government agency and the contractor, unless otherwise directed by the sponsoring agency.

(e) Shops and office space. During the conduct of development testing the NACA will furnish private shops and office space to companies whose projects are under test. Proprietary information will be held in confidence by the NACA.

Approved by The National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, July 15, 1954.

Issued: August 16, 1954.

Director.

TITLE 47—TELECOMMUNICATION

Chapter I—Federal Communications Commission

[FCC 54-1155]

PART 3—RADIO BROADCAST SERVICES

USE OF BROADCAST FACILITIES BY CANDIDATES FOR PUBLIC OFFICE

SEPTEMBER 8, 1954.

In accordance with the mandate of section 315 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the Commission on September 2, 1954, revised its rules relating to rates charged for political broadcasts coming within the provisions of section 315 (Docket No. 11092). We believe it is appropriate, at this time, as an aid to licensees in handling various questions which may arise under section 315 of the act to recapitulate in this document the provisions of the act and the Commission's rules adopted in implementation thereof, together with a brief summary of some of the more important questions which have been raised by interested parties in recent years with respect to the obligations of licensees under this section and the Commission's determinations thereon.

The information contained herein does not purport to be a discussion of every problem that may arise in the political broadcast field. It is rather a codification of the determinations of the Commission with respect to the problems which have been presented to it and which appear likely to be involved in future campaigns. The purpose of this report is the clarification of licensee responsibility and course of action when situations discussed herein are encountered. In this way, resort to the Commission may be obviated in many instances, and time—which is of such importance in political campaigns—will be conserved. We do not mean to preclude inquiries to the Commission when there is a bona fide doubt as to a licensee's obligations under section 315. But it is believed that the following discussion will, in many instances, remove the need for such inquiries and that licensees will be able to take the necessary prompt action in these cases involving election campaigns in accordance with the interpretations and positions set forth below.

It is to be emphasized that this discussion relates solely to obligations of broadcast licensees under section 315 of the Communications Act and is not intended to treat with the wholly separate question of the treatment by broadcast licensees in the public interest of political or other controversial programs or discussions not falling within the specific provisions of that section. With respect to the responsibilities of broadcast stations for insuring fair and balanced presentation of programs not coming within section 315, but relating to important public issues of a controversial nature including political broadcasts, licensees are referred to the Commission's Report, "Editorializing by Broadcast Licensees" (Release No. 215, June 2, 1949) and the cases cited therein. In this respect it is particularly important that licensees recognize that the special obligations imposed upon them by the provisions of section 315 of the Communications Act with respect to certain types of political broadcasts do not in any way limit the applicability of general public interest concepts to political broadcasts not falling within the provisions of section 315 of the Communications Act. On the contrary, in view of the obvious importance of such programming to our system of representative government it is clear that these precepts, as set forth in the Report referred to above are of particular applicability to such programming.

We have adopted a question-and-answer format as an appropriate means of delineating the section 315 problems. Wherever possible,[1] references to Commission decisions or rulings are made so that the researcher may, if he desires, profit by the more thorough or expansive statement of the Commission's position found in such decisions. Copies of rulings not otherwise available may be found in a "Political Broadcast" folder kept in the Commission's Public Reference Room.

I. The Statute. Section 315 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, provided as follows:

SEC. 315. (a) If any licensee shall permit any person who is a legally qualified candidate for any public office to use a broadcasting station, he shall afford equal opportunities to all other such candidates for that office in the use of such broadcasting station: Provided, That such licensee shall have no power of censorship over the material broadcast under the provisions of this section. No obligation is hereby imposed upon any licensee to allow the use of its station by any such candidate.

(b) The charges made for the use of any broadcasting station for any of the purposes set forth in this section shall not exceed the charges made for comparable use of such station for other purposes.

(c) The Commission shall prescribe appropriate rules and regulations to carry out the provisions of this section.

II. The Commission's rules and regulations with respect to political broadcasts. The Commission's rules and regulations with respect to political broadcasts coming within section 315 of the Communications Act are set forth in §§ 3.190 (AM), 3.290 (FM), 3.590 (Non-Commercial Educational FM), and 3.657 (TV), respectively. These provisions are identical (except for elimination of any discussion of charges in § 3.590 relating to non-commercial educational FM stations) and read as follows:

Broadcasts by candidates for public office—(a) Definitions. A "legally qualified candidate means any person who has publicly announced that he is a candidate for nomination by a convention of a political party or for nomination or election in a primary, special, or general election, municipal, county, state or national, and who meets the qualifications prescribed by the applicable laws to hold the office for which he is a candidate, so that he may be voted for by the electorate directly or by means of delegates or electors, and who

(1) Has qualified for a place on the ballot or

(2) Is eligible under the applicable law to be voted for by sticker, by writing in his name on the ballot, or other method, and

(i) Has been duly nominated by a political party which is commonly known and regarded as such, or

(ii) Makes a substantial showing that he is a bona fide candidate for nomination of office, as the case may be.

(b) General requirements. No station licensee is required to permit the use of its facilities by any legally qualified candidate for public office, but if any licensee shall permit any such candidate to use its facilities, it shall afford equal opportunities to all such other candidates for that office to use such facilities; provided, that such licensee shall have no power of censorship over the materal broadcast by any such candidate.

(c) Rates and practices. (1) The rates, if any, charged all such candidates for the same office shall be uniform and shall not be rebated by any means direct or indirect. A candidate shall, in each case, be charged no more than the rate the station would charge if the candidate were a commercial advertiser whose advertising was directed to promoting its business within the same area as that encompassed by the particular office for which such person is a candidate. All discount privileges otherwise offered by a station to commercial advertisers shall be available upon equal terms to all candidates for public office.

(2) In making time available to candidates for public office no licensee shall make any discrimination between candidates in charges, practices, regulations, facilities, or services for or in connection with the service rendered pursuant to this part, or make or give any preference to any candidate for public office or subject any such candidate to any prejudice or disadvantage; nor shall any licensee make any contract or other agreement which shall have the effect of permitting any legally qualified candidate for any public office to broadcast to the exclusion of other legally qualified candidates for the same public office.

(d) Records; inspection. Every licensee shall keep and permit public inspection of a complete record of all requests for broadcast time made by or on behalf of candidates for public office, together with an appropriate notation showing the disposition made by the licensee of such requests, and the changes made, if any, if request is granted.

In addition, the attention of licensees is directed to the provisions of §§ 3.189 (b), 3.289 (b) and 3.654 (b) which provide in identical language:

(b) In the case of any political program or any program involving the discussion of public controversial issues for which any records, transcriptions, talent, scripts, or other material or services of any kind are furnished, either directly or indirectly, to a station as an inducement to the broadcasting of such program, an announcement shall be made both at the beginning and conclusion of such program on which such material or services are used that such records, transcriptions, talent, scripts, or other material or services have been furnished to such station in connection with the broadcasting of such program; provided, however, that only one such announcement need be made in the case of any such program of five minutes' duration or less, which announcement may be made either at the beginning or the conclusion of the program.

III. Programs coming within section 315. In general, any use of broadcast facilities by a legally qualified candidate for public office, imposes an obligation on licensees to afford equal opportunities to all other such candidates for the same office.

A. Types of users.

1. Q. Does section 315 apply to one speaking for or on behalf of the candidate, as contrasted with the candidate himself?

A. No. The section applies only to legally qualified candidates. Candidate A has no legal right under section 315 to demand time where B, not a candidate, has spoken against A or in behalf of another candidate. (Felix v. Westinghouse Radio Stations 182 F. 2d 1, cert. den. 333 U. S. 876).

2. Q. Where time has been afforded to a party for political talks by non-candidates, must a request for time by spokesmen for another party be honored under section 315?

A. No. Section 315 affords a personal right to candidates only and is not concerned with parties, as such. Idem.

3. Q. Do the provisions of section 315 require stations to afford equal opportunities in the use of their facilities in support of or in opposition to a public question to be voted upon in any election?

A. No. The language and legislative history of section 315 clearly limit the application of this section to legally qualified candidates for public office.

B. What constitutes a "use" of broadcast facilities entitling opposing candidates to equal opportunities?

4. Q. If a legally qualified candidate secures air time but does not discuss matters directly related to his candidacy, is this a use of facilities under section 315?

A. Yes. Section 315 does not distinguish between the uses of broadcast time by a candidate, and the licensee is not authorized to pass on requests for time by opposing candidates on the basis of the licensee's evaluation of whether the original use was or was not in aid of a candidacy. (WMCA, Inc. 7 R. R. 1132.)

5. Q. Must a broadcaster give equal time to a candidate whose opponent has broadcast in some other capacity than as a candidate?

A. Yes. For example, a weekly report of a Congressman to his constituents via radio or television is a broadcast by a legally qualified candidate for public office as soon as he becomes a candidate for reelection, and his opponent must be given equal opportunity for time on the air. Any "use" of a station by a candidate, in whatever capacity, entitled his opponent to "equal opportunities." (Station KNGS, 7 R. R. 1130.)

6. Q. If a candidate appears on a variety program for a very brief bow or statement, are his opponents entitled to "equal opportunities" on the basis of this brief appearance?

A. Yes. All appearances of a candidate, no matter how brief or perfunctory, are a "use" of a station's facilities within section 315.

7. Q. If a candidate is accorded station time for a speech in connection with a ceremonial activity or other public service, is an opposing candidate entitled to equal utilization of the station's facilities?

A. Yes. Section 315 contains no exception with respect to broadcasts by legally qualified candidates carried "in the public interest" or as a "public service." It follows that the station's broadcast of the candidate's speech was a "use" of the facilities of the station by a legally qualified candidate giving rise to an obligation by the station under section 315 to afford equal opportunity to other legally qualified candidates for the same office. (Letter to CBS (WBBM), dated October 31, 1952; Letter to KFI, dated October 31, 1952.)

[1] A few of the questions taken up within have been presented to the Commission informally—that is, through telephone conversations or conferences with station representatives. They are set out in this Report because of the likelihood of their reoccurrence and the fact that no extended Commission discussion is necessary to dispose of them; the answer in each case is clear from the language of section 315.

8. Q. If a station arranges for a debate between the candidates of two parties, or presents the candidates of two parties in a press conference format or so-called forum program, is the station required to make equal time available to other candidates?

A. Yes. The appearance of candidates on the above types of programs constitutes a "use" of the licensee's facilities by legally qualified candidates and, therefore, other candidates for the same office are entitled to "equal opportunities." (Letter to Harold Oliver, dated October 31, 1952; Letter to Julius F. Brauner, dated October 31, 1952.)

9. Q. Are acceptance speeches by successful candidates for nomination for the candidacy of a particular party for a given office, a use by a legally qualified candidate for election to that office?

A. Yes. Where the successful candidate for nomination becomes legally qualified as a candidate for election as a result of the nomination. (Progressive Party, 7 R. R. 1300.)

IV. Who is a legally qualified candidate?

10. Q. How can a station know which candidates are "legally qualified"?

A. The determination as to who is a legally qualified candidate for a particular public office within the meaning of section 315 and the Commission's rules must be determined by reference to the law of the state in which the election is being held. In general, a candidate is legally qualified if he can be voted for in the state or district in which the election is being held, and, if elected, is eligible to serve in the office in question.

11. Q. Need a candidate be on the ballot to be legally qualified?

A. Not always. The term "legally qualified candidate" is not restricted to persons whose names appear on the printed ballot; the term may embrace persons not listed on the ballot if such persons are making a bona fide race for the office involved and the names of such persons, or their electors can, under applicable law, be written in by voters so as to result in their valid election. The Commission recognizes, however, that the mere fact that any name may be written in does not entitle all persons who may publicly announce themselves as candidates to demand time under section 315; broadcast stations may make suitable and reasonable requirements with respect to proof of the bona fide nature of any candidacy on the part of applicants for the use of facilities under section 315. (Sections 3.190, 3.290, 3.657; Socialist Labor Party, 7 R. R. 766; Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc., 7 R. R. 1189; Press Release of November 26, 1941 (Mimeo 55732).)

12. Q. May a station deny a candidate "equal opportunity" because it believes that the candidate has no possibility of being elected or nominated?

A. No. Section 315 does not permit any such subjective determination by the station with respect to a candidate's chances of nomination or election. (Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc., 7 R. R. 1189.)

13. Q. May a person be considered to be a legally qualified candidate where he has made only a public announcement of his candidacy and has not yet filed the required forms or paid the required fees for securing a place on the ballot in either the primary or general elections?

A. The answer depends on applicable state law. In some states persons may be voted for by electorate whether or not they have gone through the procedures required for getting their names placed on the ballot itself. In such a state, the announcement of a person's candidacy—if determined to be bona fide—is sufficient to bring him within the purview of section 315. In other states, however, candidates may not be "legally qualified" until they have fulfilled certain prescribed procedures. The applicable state laws and the particular facts surrounding the announcement of the candidacy are determinatives. (Letter to Senator Earle C. Clements, dated February 2, 1954.)

14. Q. Must a station make time available upon demand to a candidate of the Communist Party, or a candidate who is a member of the Communist Party, if it has afforded time to that candidate's opponents for the office in question?

A. If the person involved is a legally qualified candidate for the office he is seeking, Section 315 requires "that equal opportunities" be afforded him. It will be recognized that who is a legally qualified candidate is dependent upon federal, state, and local law pertaining to the elective process and is not based upon provision of the Communications Act or the Rules of the Commission.

The question of the specific applicability of these principles, in the light of the enactment of the Communist Control Act of 1954, to candidates of the Communist Party or who are members of the Communist Party has not yet been determined.

15. Q. When is a person a legally qualified candidate for nomination as the candidate of a party for President or Vice-President of the United States?

A. In view of the fact that a person may be nominated for these offices by the conventions of his party without having appeared on the ballot of any state having presidential primary elections, or having any pledged votes prior to the convention, or even announcing his willingness to be a candidate, no fixed rule can be promulgated in answer to this question. Whether a person so claiming is in fact a bona fide candidate will depend on the particular facts of each situation, including consideration of what efforts, if any, he has taken to secure delegates or preferential votes in state primaries. It cannot, however, turn on the licensee's evaluation of the claimant's chances for success. (Letter of May 28, 1952 to Julius F. Brauner)

V. When are candidates opposing candidates?

16. Q. What public offices are included within the meaning of section 315?

A. Under the Commission's rules section 315 is applicable to both primary and general elections, and public offices include all offices filed by special or general election on a municipal, county, state or national level as well as the nomination by any recognized party as a candidate for such an office.

17. Q. May the station under section 315 make time available to all candidates for one office and refuse all candidates for another office?

A. Yes. The "equal opportunity" requirement of section 315 is limited to all legally qualified candidates for the same office.

18. Q. If the station makes time available to candidates seeking the nomination of one party for a particular office, does section 315 require that it make equal time available to the candidates seeking the nomination of other parties for the same office?

A. No, the Commission has held that while both primary elections or nominating conventions and general elections are comprehended within the terms of section 315, the primary elections or conventions held by one party are to be considered separately from the primary elections or conventions of other parties, and therefore, insofar as section 315 is concerned, "equal opportunities" need only be afforded legally qualified candidates for nomination for the same office at the same party's primary or nominating convention. (KWFT, Inc., 4 R. R. 885; Letter to Arnold Petersen, May 13, 1952; Letter to WCDL, April 3, 1953.)

19. Q. If the station makes time available to all candidates of one party for nomination for a particular office, including the successful candidate, may candidates of other parties in the general election demand an equal amount of time under section 315?

A. No. For the reason given above. (KWFT, Inc., 4 R. R. 885.)

VI. What constitutes equal opportunities?

20. Q. Generally speaking, what constitutes equal opportunities?

A. Under section 315 and §§ 3.190, 3.290, and 3.657 of the Commission's rules, no licensee shall make any discrimination in charges, practices, regulations, facilities, or services rendered to candidates for a particular office.

21. Q. Is a licensee required or allowed to give time free to one candidate where it had sold time to an opposing candidate?

A. The licensee is not permitted to discriminate between the candidates in any way. With respect to any particular election it may adopt a policy of selling time, or of giving time to the candidates free of charge, or of giving them some time and selling them additional time. But whatever policy it adopts it must treat all candidates for the same office alike with respect to the time they may secure free and that for which they must pay.

22. Q. Is a station's obligation under section 315 met if it offers a candidate the same amount of time an opposing candidate has received, where the time of the day or week afforded the first candidate is superior to that offered his opponent?

A. No. The station is providing equal opportunities must consider the desirability of the time segment allotted as well as its length. And while there is no requirement that a station afford candidate B exactly the same time of day on exactly the same day of the week as candidate A, the time segments offered must be comparable as to desirability.

23. Q. Is it necessary for a station to advise a candidate or a political party that time has been sold to other candidates?

A. No. The law does not require that this be done. If a candidate inquires, however, the facts must be given him. It should be noted here that a station is required to keep a public record of all requests for time by or on behalf of political candidates, together with a record of the disposition and the charges made, if any, for each broadcast. (Sections 3.190 (d), 3.290 (d), 3.657 (d).)

24. Q. If one political candidate buys station facilities more heavily than another, is a station required to call a halt to such sales because of the resulting unbalance?

A. No. Section 315 requires only that all candidates be afforded an equal opportunity to use the facilities of the station. (Letter to Mrs. M. R. Oliver, dated October 23, 1952.)

25. Q. If the candidate has received free time for a period of time and subsequently a second candidate announces his candidacy, is the second candidate entitled to equal facilities retroactive to the date when the first candidate announced his candidacy?

A. Normally yes. Once the station has made time available to one qualified candidate, its obligation to provide equal facilities to future candidates begins. A candidate cannot, however, delay his request for time and expect to use the "equal opportunities" provision to force a station to turn over most of the last few pre-election days to him in order to "saturate" pre-election broadcast time. (Letter to Congressman Hunter, dated May 28, 1952; Letter to Congressman Frelinghuysen, dated March 2, 1954.)

26. Q. If a station has a policy of confining political broadcasts to sustaining time, but has so many requests for political time that it cannot handle them all within its sustaining schedule, may it refuse time to a candidate whose opponent has already been granted time, on the basis of its established policy of not cancelling commercial programs in favor of political broadcasts?

A. No. The station cannot rely upon its policy if the latter conflicts with the "equal opportunity" requirement of section 315. (Stephens Bctg. Co., 3 R. R. 1.)

27. Q. If one candidate has been nominated by Parties A, B, and C, while a second candidate for the same office is nominated only by Party D, how should time be allocated as between the two candidates?

A. Section 315 has reference only to the use of facilities by persons who are candidates for public office and not to the political parties which may have nominated such candidates. Accordingly, if broadcast time is made available for the use of a candidate for public office, the provisions of section 315 require that equal opportunity be afforded each person who is a candidate for the same office, without regard to the number of nominations that any particular candidate may have. (Letter to Thomas W. Wilson, dated October 31, 1946.)

28. Q. If a station broadcasts a program sponsored by a commercial advertiser which includes one or more qualified candidates as speakers or guests, what are its obligations with respect to affording equal opportunities to other candidates for the same office?

A. If candidates are permitted to appear, without cost to themselves, on programs sponsored by commercial advertisers, opposing candidates are entitled to receive comparable time, also at no cost. (Letter to Senator Monroney, dated October 9, 1952.)

29. Q. Where a candidate for office in a state or local election appears on a national network program, is an opposing candidate for the same office entitled to equal facilities over stations which carried the original program and serve the area in which the election campaign is occurring?

A. Yes. Under such circumstances an opposing candidate would be entitled to time on such stations. (Letter to Senator Monroney, dated October 9, 1952.)

30. Q. Where a candidate appears on a particular program—such as a regular series of forum programs, are opposing candidates entitled on demand to appear on the same program?

A. Not necessarily. The mechanics of the problem of "equal opportunities" must be left to resolution of the parties. And while factors such as the size of the potential audience because of the appearance of the first candidate on an established or popular program might very well be a matter for consideration by the parties, it cannot be said, in the abstract, that equal opportunities could only be provided by giving opposing parties time on the same program. (Letter to Harold Oliver, dated October 31, 1952; Letter to Julius F. Brauner, dated October 31, 1952.)

VII. What limitations can be put on the use of facilities by a candidate?

31. Q. May a station delete material in a broadcast under section 315 because it believes the material contained therein is or may be libelous?

A. No. Any such action would entail censorship which is expressly prohibited by section 315 of the Communications Act. (Port Huron Bctg. Co., 4 R. R. 1; WDSU Bctg. Co., 7 R. R. 769.)

32. Q. If a legally qualified candidate does make libelous or slanderous remarks is the station liable therefor?

A. The Commission has expressed its opinion in Port Huron Bctg. Co., 4 R. R. 1., that licensees not directly participating in the libel might be absolved from any liability they might otherwise have under state law, because of the operation of Section 315 which precludes them from preventing its utterance. But this is a matter which in the absence of any amendment to the law will have to be definitely decided by the courts. So far there have been no clear judicial holdings on this matter, but only dicta or lower court opinions supporting both positions. It should be noted, however, that many states have passed laws which wholly or partially exempt licensees from liability under these circumstances.

33. Q. If a candidate secures time under section 315, must he talk about a subject directly related to his candidacy?

A. No. The candidate may use the time as he deems best. To deny a person time on the ground that he was not using it in furtherance of his candidacy would be an exercise of censorship prohibited by section 315 (WMCA, Inc., 7 R. R. 1132).

34. Q. If a station makes time available to an office holder who is also a legally qualified candidate for re-election and the office holder limits his talks to non-partisan and informative material, may other legally qualified candidates who obtain time be limited to the same subjects or the same type of broadcast?

A. No. Other qualified candidates may use the facilities as they deem best in their own interest. (Letter to Congressman Allen Oakley Hunter, May 28, 1952.)

35. Q. May a station require an advance script of a candidate's speech?

A. Yes, provided that the practice is uniformly applied to all candidates for the same office using the station's facilities, and the station does not undertake to censor the candidate's talk. (Letter of July 9, 1952, to H. A. Rosenberg, Louisville, Ky.)

36. Q. May a station have a practice of requiring a candidate to record his proposed broadcast at his own expense?

A. Yes. Provided again that the procedures adopted are applied without discrimination as between candidates for the same office and no censorship is attempted. (Letter of July 9, 1952, to H. A. Rosenberg, Louisville, Ky.)

VIII. What rates can be charged candidates for programs under section 315?

37. Q. May a station charge premium rates for political broadcasts?

A. No. Section 315, as amended, provides that the charges made for the use of a station by a candidate "shall not exceed the charges made for comparable use of such stations for other purposes."

38. Q. May a station with both "national" and "local" rates charge a candidate for local office its "national" rate?

A. No. Under §§ 3.190, 3.290 and 3.657 of the Commission's Rules a station may not charge a candidate more than the rate the station would charge if the candidate were a commercial advertiser whose advertising was directed to promoting its business within the same area as that within which persons may vote for the particular office for which such person is a candidate.

39. Q. Is a political candidate entitled to receive discounts?

A. Yes. Under §§ 3.190, 3.290 and 3.657 of the Commission's Rules political candidates are entitled to the same discounts that would be accorded persons other than candidates for public office under the conditions specified, as well as to such special discounts for programs coming within section 315 as the station may choose to give on a non-discriminatory basis.

40. Q. If candidate A purchases ten time segments over a station which offers a discount rate for purchase of that amount of time, is candidate B entitled to the discount rate if he purchases less time than the minimum to which discounts are applicable?

A. No. A station is under such circumstances only required to make available the discount privileges to each legally qualified candidate on the same basis.

41. Q. If a station has a "spot" rate of two dollars per "spot" announcement, with a rate reduction to one dollar if 100 or more such "spots" are purchased on a bulk time sales contract, and if one candidate arranges with an advertiser having such a bulk time contract to utilize five of these spots at the one dollar rate, is the station obligated to sell the candidates of other parties for the same office time at the same one dollar rate?

A. Yes. Other legally qualified candidates are entitled to take advantage of the same reduced rate. (Letter to Senator Monroney, dated October 16, 1952.)

42. Q. Where a group of candidates for different offices pool their resources to purchase a block of time at a discount, and an individual candidate opposing one of the group seeks time on the station, to what rate is he entitled?

A. He is entitled to be charged the same rate as his opponent, since the provisions of section 315 run to the candidates themselves and they are entitled to be treated equally with their individual opponents. (Report and Order, Docket 11092.)

CERTIFICATE AND RATE REQUIREMENTS

ORDER GRANTING ORAL ARGUMENT ON PETITIONS FOR REHEARING OF ORDER NO. 174-A AND DENYING STAY

In the matter of compliance by natural-gas producers and gatherers with certificate and rate requirements, Docket No. R-138.

On July 16, 1954, upon finding that effective rules under the Natural Gas Act pertaining to natural-gas companies might be onerous if imposed upon producers and gatherers, the Commission issued as Order No. 174 rules applicable to producers and gatherers of natural gas which are also natural-gas companies under the Natural Gas Act pursuant to the decision of the United States Supreme Court on June 7, 1954, in Phillips Petroleum Company v. Wisconsin, et al. 374 U. S. 672. To clarify these rules, the Commission on August 6, 1954 issued Order No. 174-A to supersede Order No. 174.

Petitions for rehearing respecting Order No. 174-A have been filed on behalf of the persons named in the attached list.

These petitions variously assert that issuance of Order No. 174-A, without notice and hearing constitutes a deprivation of procedural due process and a violation of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act; that the provisions of Order No. 174-A deprive petitioners of substantive rights guaranteed by due process of law; that the rules provided by Order No. 174-A transgress the rights reserved to the States by the 10th Amendment to the Constitution; and that rules under Order No. 174-A assume authority not delegated to the Commission by the Natural Gas Act. We seek the benefit of all worthwhile advice and assistance to the end that our rules may be reasonable, workable and afford to all every reasonable guarantee of substantive and procedural rights.

In the absence of the rules provided by Order No. 174-A, the more stringent rules generally in effect and applicable to all natural-gas companies would be applicable to producers and gatherers who are also natural-gas companies under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR, Chap. I, Parts 154 and 157). Accordingly, request for stay of Order No. 174-A is without reasonable justification and must be denied.

However, to provide full opportunity to all petitioners, who have questioned the lawfulness of Order No. 174-A, we will review our determination in this regard by affording to petitioners the right to support their claims of error by briefs to be filed not later than September 20, 1954. Further, we will thereafter on September 22, 1954, hear oral argument upon the matters and issues presented. Counsel so appearing should consolidate their arguments, where possible, to avoid undue repetition.

The Commission orders:

(A) Oral argument be heard on September 22, 1954, commencing at 10:00 a. m., e. d. s. t., in a hearing room of the Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D. C., on behalf of persons who by September 7, 1954, filed petitions for rehearing in this docket respecting the specific matters and issues presented in said petitions.

(B) Persons desiring to be heard on oral argument shall advise the Secretary by September 20, 1954, of the time requested, and time allotted will be announced on the day of argument.

(C) All requests for stay of Order No. 174-A are hereby denied.

Adopted: September 8, 1954.

Issued: September 8, 1954.

NEWTON BROADCASTING CO. AND TRENTON BROADCASTING CO.

ORDER DESIGNATING APPLICATIONS FOR CONSOLIDATED HEARING ON STATED ISSUES

In re applications of Richard C. Brandt, William M. Bryan, William C. Brandt, and Eddie Erlbacher, d/b as Newton Broadcasting Company, Newton, Iowa, Docket No. 11133, File No. BP-9226; S. W. Arnold, Samuel A. Burk and Sam M. Arnold, a partnership d/b as Trenton Broadcasting Company, Trenton, Missouri, Docket No. 11132, File No. BP-9093; for construction permits.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 12th day of August 1954;

The Commission having under consideration the above applications for construction permit by Newton Broadcasting Company for a new standard broadcast station at Newton, Iowa to operate on 1490 kilocycles with a power of 100 watts, unlimited time (File No. BP-9226), and Trenton Broadcasting Company for a new standard broadcast station at Trenton, Missouri to operate on 1490 kilocycles with a power of 100 watts, unlimited time (File No. BP-9093);

It appearing that the applicants are legally, technically, financially and otherwise qualified to operate their proposed stations, but that the operation by both applicants as proposed would result in interference to each other's proposed operation; and

It further appearing that the application of Newton Broadcasting Company would cause daytime interference to Station KRIB, operating on 1490 kilocycles with a power of 250 watts, unlimited time, at Mason City, Iowa; KLEE, operating on a frequency of 1480 kilocycles with a power of 500 watts, daytime at Ottumwa, Iowa; and KBUR, operating on a frequency of 1490 kilocycles with a power of 250 watts, unlimited time at Burlington, Iowa; and that interference will be received by the proposed operation from each of the above stations and also from Station WDBQ, operating on a frequency of 1490 kilocycles with a power of 250 watts, unlimited time at Dubuque, Iowa; and

It further appearing that the proposed operation of Trenton Broadcasting Company would cause daytime interference to Stations KDRO, operating on a power of 1490 kilocycles with a power of 250 watts, unlimited time at Sedalia, Missouri; and KTOP, operating on a frequency of 1490 kilocycles with a power of 250 watts, unlimited time at Topeka, Kansas; and that interference will be received by the proposed operation from Stations KDRO, KTOP, KBUR, and KBON, operating on a frequency of 1490 kilocycles with a power of 250 watts, unlimited time at Omaha, Nebraska; and

It further appearing that Trenton Broadcasting Company did not reply to the Commission's letter, but that Newton Broadcasting Company stated in a reply dated June 25, 1954, that mutual interference problems between the two applicants had been resolved and that other interference was of a minor nature; and

It further appearing that timely letters of opposition to the Trenton proposal were received from Stations KTOP and KDRO and that timely letters of opposition to the proposal of Newton Broadcasting Company were received by the Commission from Stations KLEE, KRIB, and KBUR; and

It further appearing that the Commission, after consideration of the replies, is of the opinion that a hearing is necessary:

It is ordered, That pursuant to section 309 (b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the said applications are designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding, at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent order, upon the following issues:

1. To determine the areas and populations which may be expected to gain or lose primary service from the operation of the proposed stations, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations, including a determination as to whether the proposed operations cause interference to each other.

2. To determine whether the proposed operation of Newton Broadcasting Company will cause objectionable daytime interference to Stations KRIB, Mason City, Iowa; KLEE, Ottumwa, Iowa; and KBUR, Burlington, Iowa, and if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and populations affected thereby and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

3. To determine whether the proposed operation of Newton Broadcasting Company will receive interference from Stations KRIB, Mason City, Iowa; KLEE, Ottumwa, Iowa; KBUR, Burlington, Iowa; and WDBQ, Dubuque, Iowa, and if so, whether because of such interference the proposed Newton operation would not provide the recommended minimum of interference-free service within its normally protected daytime (0.5 mv/m) contour.

4. To determine whether the proposed operation of Trenton Broadcasting Company will cause objectionable daytime interference to Stations KDRO, Sedalia, Missouri, and KTOP, Topeka, Kansas, and if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and populations affected thereby and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

5. To determine whether the proposed operation of Trenton Broadcasting Company will receive interference from Stations KDRO, KTOP, KBON, Omaha, Nebraska, and KBUR, Burlington, Iowa, and if so, whether, because of such interference, the proposed Trenton operation would not provide the recommended minimum of interference-free service within its normally protected daytime (0.5 mv/m) contour.

6. To determine, in the light of section 307 (b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, which of these applicants would provide the more fair, efficient, and equitable distribution of radio service.

7. To determine, on a comparative basis, if both applications cannot be granted, which of the operations proposed in the above-entitled applications would best serve the public interest, convenience, or necessity in the light of the evidence adduced under the foregoing issues and the record made with respect to the significant differences between the applicants as to:

(a) The background and experience of the above-named applicants to own and operate the proposed stations.

(b) The proposals of each of the above-named applicants with respect to the management and operation of the proposed stations.

(c) The programming service proposed in each of the above-mentioned applications.

It is further ordered, That the issues in the above-entitled proceeding may be enlarged by the Examiner, on his own motion or on petition properly filed by a party to the proceeding and upon sufficient allegations of fact in support thereof, by the addition and of the following issue: To determine whether the funds available to the applicant will give reasonable assurance that the proposals set forth in the application will be effectuated.

STANDARD GAS AND ELECTRIC CO. AND PHILADELPHIA CO.

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND SUPPLEMENTAL ORDER RELEASING JURISDICTION OVER FEE AND EXPENSES FOR LEGAL SERVICES

SEPTEMBER 8, 1954.

On May 14, 1954, the Commission issued an order for hearing (Holding Company Act Release No. 12496) with respect to certain applications for fees and expenses rendered in connection with various proceedings, including the above-entitled matter, involving the reorganization of Standard Power and Light Corporation ("Standard Power"), a registered holding company, and its subsidiary companies pursuant to section 11 (e) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935. Among the applications noticed for hearing was that of Gates, Levitt & Notkins ("Notkins"), who requested a fee allowance of $30,000 and reimbursement of expenses in the amount of $956.53 for legal services rendered as counsel for certain common stockholders of Standard Power in connection with the settlement of various intercompany claims between Standard Power and its subsidiary, Standard Gas and Electric Company, also a registered holding company.

An adjourned hearing was held in New York City on July 13, 1954, with respect to the Notkins application, at which Marvin M. Notkins, a member of the firm, testified in support of the application. He was cross-examined by counsel for Standard Power and by counsel for our Division of Corporate Regulation. After the hearing was closed, Notkins reached an agreement with Standard Power to settle his firm's claim for a fee of $7,500 plus $956.53 in reimbursement of expenses, and on September 1, 1954, the firm filed an amended application requesting our approval of such agreement. Standard Power has filed a supplemental statement confirming the agreement and expressing its willingness to pay the amounts stipulated therein in full settlement of all claims of the firm for compensation and reimbursement of expenses for services rendered in the proceedings.

We have reviewed the record with respect to this application and are of the opinion that the amounts agreed upon are not unreasonable and are for necessary services, that an order should be entered approving and directing the payment thereof, and that the jurisdiction heretofore reserved with respect to such fee and expenses should be released.

It is therefore ordered, That the application, as amended, for an allowance for services and reimbursement of expenses filed by Gates, Levitt & Notkins be, and hereby is, approved, and Standard Power and Light Corporation is directed to pay the amounts hereinabove specified.

It is further ordered, That the jurisdiction heretofore reserved with respect to the fee and expenses of Gates, Levitt & Notkins be, and hereby is, released.

By the Commission.

Utah Power & Light Company ("Company"), a registered holding company which is also a public-utility operating company, has filed a declaration and an amendment thereto pursuant to sections 6 (a) and 7 of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act"), regarding the following proposed transactions:

Pursuant to a Credit Agreement to be made with seventeen lending banks, the Company proposes to borrow not to exceed $20,000,000 during the period ending August 31, 1955. Under the terms of the Agreement, the Company will borrow from said banks from time to time during the period as its construction program requires, such borrowings to be evidenced by notes payable on October 1, 1955, with the right of prepayment in whole or in part at any time. The notes will bear interest at the prime commercial rate of The Chase National Bank of the City of New York at the time each loan is made.

The proceeds from these bank loans, together with other available cash, will be used to carry on (but will not be sufficient to complete) the 1954–1955 construction program of the Company and its wholly owned subsidiary The Western Colorado Power Company, which program will require, according to present estimates, approximately $25,300,000 in 1954 and $21,900,000 in 1955. It is the Company's intention to issue and sell, during the second half of 1955, such additional securities as may be required to provide funds for paying the bank loans and financing in part the remainder of the 1955 program, maintaining approximately the present debt-equity ratio.

The Idaho Public Utilities Commission, the regulatory commission of one of the three States in which the Company operates, has approved the proposed borrowings. In the opinion of the Company's counsel, no other State commission nor any Federal commission other than this Commission has jurisdiction in the premises.

Due notice of the filing of said declaration having been given in the manner prescribed by Rule U-23, and no hearing having been requested of or ordered by the Commission; and the Commission finding that the applicable standards of the act and the rules thereunder are satisfied, and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that the declaration as amended be permitted to become effective forthwith:

It is ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of the act, that said declaration as amended be, and hereby is, permitted to become effective forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24.

By the Commission.

MIDDLE SOUTH UTILITIES, INC.

NOTICE OF FILING PURSUANT TO RULE U-23 CONCERNING ISSUANCE AND SALE OF COMMON STOCK PURSUANT TO RIGHTS OFFERING

SEPTEMBER 8, 1954.

Notice is hereby given that Middle South Utilities, Inc. ("Middle South"), a registered holding company, has filed a declaration pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, and has designated sections 6 (a) and 7 thereof as applicable to the proposed transactions, which are summarized as follows:

Middle South proposes to issue and sell, without an underwriting 475,000 additional shares of its authorized but unissued $10 par value common stock pursuant to a rights offering to its stockholders on the basis of one share of additional common stock for each 15 shares held as of the record date, at a price to be fixed prior to the offering. The additional shares are to be offered to stockholders of record at the close of business on September 22, 1954. The subscription period will expire at 3:30 p. m., New York time, on October 8, 1954. The subscription rights will be evidenced by transferable warrants to be mailed September 23, 1954, which will afford the holder the privilege of subscribing for one new share for each 15 shares held ("primary rights") and of subscribing, subject to allotment, for such additional number of shares as the warrant holder may elect ("additional rights"). No fractional shares will be issued. If a holder of record on September 22, 1954 receives a warrant which is for a number of shares not evenly divisible by 15, such holder will be entitled to purchase one full share with the primary rights which are either in excess of a multiple of 15 or which total less than 15, such privilege, however, to be non-transferable. Should there be insufficient shares to fill all subscriptions under the primary rights, subscriptions will first be filled on the basis of 15 primary rights and exact multiples thereof, then on the basis of 14 primary rights, then on the basis of 13 primary rights, and then successively on the basis of 12, 11 and so on to one primary right, in that order. Should it be possible to fill some but not all subscriptions in any one of these groups, subscriptions will be filled in the order of their receipt.

Additional rights under a warrant may be exercised only if all full shares possible have been subscribed for pursuant to the primary rights represented by such warrant. In the event that the aggregate number of shares subscribed for by all warrant holders exceeds 475,000 shares, the number of shares remaining after providing for the issuance of shares subscribed for pursuant to the primary rights will be alloted pro rata as nearly as practicable among warrant holders exercising additional rights in accordance with the respective number of shares subscribed for my such holders pursuant to primary rights.

Warrants issued to common stockholders whose addresses are outside the continental United States or Canada will not be mailed but will be held by the agent for their accounts until 12:00 o'clock noon, New York time, October 7, 1954, when, if no instructions are received, they will be sold to the extent practicable, together with warrants sent to other stockholders and returned unclaimed. The net proceeds from any such sales are to be held for the account of such stockholders.

The declaration states that the proceeds from the proposed sale of stock will be used by Middle South to repay the $12,000,000 which has been borrowed and is outstanding under its credit agreement dated May 12, 1952, with five banks. If such proceeds should not be sufficient for such purpose, they will be applied toward the partial repayment of such $12,000,000 or to the extent that they are more than sufficient, will be used for other corporate purposes.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than September 21, 1954, at 5:30 p. m., e. d. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request, and the issues of fact or law, if any, raised by the said declaration which he desires to controvert, or may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D. C. At any time after September 21, 1954, said declaration, as filed or as amended, may be permitted to become effective as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act, or the Commission may exempt such transactions as provided in Rule U-20 (a) and Rule U-100 thereof. All interested persons are referred to said declaration which is on file at the offices of this Commission for a statement of the transactions therein proposed.

METROPOLITAN EDISON CO.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED ISSUANCE AND SALE OF PRINCIPAL AMOUNT OF FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

SEPTEMBER 8, 1954.

Notice is hereby given that an application has been filed with this Commission, pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act"), by Metropolitan Edison Company ("Meted") a public utility subsidiary of General Public Utilities Corporation, a registered holding company. Applicant has designated the third sentence of section 6 (b) of the act and Rule U-50 promulgated thereunder as applicable to the proposed transactions.

All interested persons are referred to said application which is on file in the office of this Commission for a statement of the transactions therein proposed, which are summarized as follows:

Meted proposes to issue and sell, pursuant to the competitive bidding requirements of Rule U-50, $15,000,000 principal amount of First Mortgage Bonds, -- Percent Series, due 1984. The bonds will be issued under and secured by the company's Mortgage Indenture dated November 1, 1944, as heretofore supplemented and as to be further supplemented by a Supplemental Indenture to be dated October 1, 1954.

The application states that the net proceeds from the sale of the bonds will be used to redeem $8,000,000 principal amount of First Mortgage Bonds 3⅞ percent Series due 1983; $3,600,000 will be applied to the prepayment of the principal of the Company's presently outstanding 3 percent notes due December 30, 1954; and the balance will be applied against the cost of Meted's construction program, it being represented in the filing that this construction program will require approximately $17,000,000 for the year 1954.

The filing states that authority to issue and sell the bonds is being sought from the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission. The filing further states that no other State and no Federal regulatory body, other than Securities and Exchange Commission, has jurisdiction in the premises.

Meted proposes to amortize over the remainder (approximately 29 years) of the original life of the 1983 Series Bonds that portion of the call premium arising from the redemption of such bonds which remains after charging to income the portions of the call premium equal to the estimated reduction in Federal and Pennsylvania income taxes attributable thereto. The total amount of the call premium (exclusive of accrued interest) as at the expected redemption date is $336,000, the amount to be charged to income is estimated at approximately $166,000, and the amount to be amortized is estimated at approximately $170,000. The filing expressly provides that in the event the Commission determines not to exercise any jurisdiction it may have over the proposed accounting treatment for the transactions which are the subject of this application "• • • the Company • • • consents to the nonexercise of jurisdiction with respect to such accounting."

Meted estimates that fees and expenses to be paid by the company applicable to the proposed issuance and sale of bonds will aggregate $76,000, including printing and engraving in the amount of $27,000 and legal fees and expenses of $12,000.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than September 23, 1954, at 5:30 p. m., e. d. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the reasons for such request, the nature of his interest and the issues of fact or law raised by said application which he desires to controvert, or may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D. C. At any time after September 23, 1954, said application, as filed or as amended, may be granted as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act, or the Commission may exempt such transactions as provided in Rules U-20 (a) and U-100 thereof.

By the Commission.

AUTHORITY: §§ 502.101 to 502.109 issued under sec. 4, 68 Stat. 1070; 15 U. S. C. 714b. Interpret or apply sec. 201, 63 Stat. 1052, sec. 204, Pub. Law 690, 83d Cong., 7 U. S. C. 1446.

§ 502.101 General purpose and scope. This part announces the policies and prescribes the general regulations with respect to the operation of the Special School Milk Program under section 201 (c) of the Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended, and sets forth the general requirements for participation in the program. The pertinent part of section 201 (c) reads as follows: "Beginning September 1, 1954 and ending June 30, 1956, not to exceed $50,000,000 annually of funds of the Commodity Credit Corporation shall be used to increase the consumption of fluid milk by children in non-profit schools of high school grade and under."

§ 502.102 Administration. Within the United States Department of Agriculture, the Agricultural Marketing Service, hereinafter referred to as AMS, will be responsible for administration of the Special School Milk Program and will act for and on behalf of the Commodity Credit Corporation, hereinafter referred to as CCC. Responsibility for the administration of the program in schools within the various States, including the District of Columbia, will be delegated to State educational agencies. In the event that the laws of any State prohibit the State educational agency from disbursing funds to private schools, AMS will administer the program in private schools in such States.

§ 502.103 Use and advance of funds to States. (a) Funds available under the Special School Milk Program will be used to reimburse schools in connection with the cost of additional milk served to children in the school.

(b) AMS will make an equitable distribution among participating States of the funds available and will advance such funds to States on a quarterly basis. A portion of the funds made available under this program to any State unable to disburse funds to private schools will be reserved by AMS for direct disbursement to private schools within such States.

§ 502.104 Agreements with State educational agencies. State educational agencies will enter into agreements with CCC, which agreements will set forth the conditions and methods under which the State will agree to accept and expend funds made available to it under the Special School Milk Program. Such agreements must meet minimum requirements established by AMS.

§ 502.105 Agreements with private schools. In those States where AMS will administer the program in private schools, CCC will enter into an agreement with such private schools, describing the conditions under which AMS will reimburse the school in connection with the cost of additional milk served to children in the school.

§ 502.106 General requirements for participation. (a) Any nonprofit school of high school grade and under is eligible to apply for participation in the Special School Milk Program.

(b) To be eligible for reimbursement, schools must agree to:

(1) Conduct a nonprofit operation with respect to the service of food in the school, or the service of milk in the event no food service is maintained by the school.

(2) Make written application for participation and enter into an agreement with the State educational agency or CCC.

(3) Claim reimbursement only for additional milk served in the school in a manner and at a reimbursement rate prescribed by the State educational agency or CCC.

(4) Maintain such records and furnish such reports and documents as are prescribed by the State educational agency or AMS.

§ 502.107 Miscellaneous provisions—(a) Nonprofit school. "Nonprofit school" means any public school and any private school exempt from income tax under the Internal Revenue Code, as amended.

(b) Disqualifications and compliance clause. Any State educational agency or any school participating in the Special School Milk Program may be disqualified by AMS from future participation if it fails to comply with the provisions of the regulations in this part, its agreement with CCC or the State educational agency, or other pertinent rules and regulations. This does not preclude the possibility of other action being taken through other means available where considered necessary by AMS. Fraud in the handling of payment of, or claiming for, reimbursement funds under the Special School Milk Program will be prosecuted under applicable Federal statutes.

(c) Saving clause. AMS may waive, withdraw, or amend, at any time, or from time to time, any or all of the provisions of this part.

§ 502.108 Program information. Schools desiring information concerning or applying for participation in the Special School Milk Program should make a written request to their State educational agency, except as provided for below:

(a) Private schools in the States of Delaware, Maine, Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia should make written requests to:

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter III—Agricultural Research Service, Department of Agriculture

[P. P. C. 604, Amended]

PART 301—DOMESTIC QUARANTINE NOTICES

SUBPART—PINK BOLLWORM

ADMINISTRATIVE INSTRUCTIONS MODIFYING REQUIREMENTS FOR MOVEMENT OF COTTONSEED AND COTTONSEED PRODUCTS FROM LIGHTLY INFESTED AREAS

Pursuant to the authority conferred by the second proviso of Pink Bollworm Quarantine No. 52 (7 CFR, 1953 Supp., 301.52), issued under sections 8 and 9 of the Plant Quarantine Act of August 20, 1912, as amended (7 U. S. C. 161, 162) and section 3 of the Insect Pest Act of March 3, 1905 (7 U. S. C. 143), the Chief of the Plant Pest Control Branch hereby amends administrative instructions appearing as § 301.52a in Title 7,

Code of Federal Regulations (7 CFR, 1953 Supp., 301.52a) to read as follows:

§ 301.52a Administrative instructions modifying requirements for movement of cottonseed and cottonseed products from lightly infested areas. (a) Under § 301.52–6 (c) (1) cottonseed produced in any county in any lightly infested area in which the gins are not required to treat cottonseed as a part of the continuous process of ginning may be moved under limited permit to approved oil mills or other approved treating plants either in contiguous lightly infested areas or in nonregulated areas contiguous to the lightly infested area for heat treatment at 150° F. for 30 seconds or for approved fumigation upon arrival at such plants. Such treated seed is then eligible for certification and movement under certificate to any regulated areas or to nonregulated areas.

(b) (1) The Chief of the Plant Pest Control Branch hereby finds that facts exist as to the pest risk involved in the movement of cottonseed and cottonseed products to which § 301.52–6 applies, making it safe to modify by making less stringent the requirements of § 301.52–6. Hereafter, in addition to movement authorized under § 301.52–6 (c) (1), cottonseed produced in any of the lightly infested areas hereinafter designated, in which the gins are not required to treat cottonseed as a part of the continuous process of ginning, may be moved to an approved oil mill or other approved treating plant in any of such lightly infested areas, for storage and subsequent approved heat treatment, approved fumigation, or processing into linters, oil, cottonseed hulls, cottonseed meal, cottonseed cake, or other products, at such approved mill or plant: Counties of Curry, De Baca, Lea, Quay, and Roosevelt in New Mexico; all of the counties in the regulated area of Oklahoma; and all of the counties in Texas in which the gins are not required to treat cottonseed as a part of the continuous process of ginning. As a condition of such movement all motes and unginned grabbots produced from such untreated cottonseed shall be either fumigated, given other approved treatment, or destroyed by burning.

(2) The following cottonseed and cottonseed products originating in the above designated counties, which have been segregated from untreated cottonseed and contaminated cottonseed products and kept free from any other source of contamination, may be moved from those counties under certificates as prescribed in this subparagraph:

(i) Cottonseed that has been given approved heat treatment or approved fumigation, linters and cottonseed hulls that have been given approved treatment, and cottonseed meal and cake may be certified and moved to any destination;

(ii) All linters produced from untreated cottonseed may be certified and moved for processing to any destination within the regulated areas of New Mexico, Oklahoma, or Texas, or to any noncotton producing state, or to approved cellulose plants at any location.

(3) All cottonseed hulls produced from untreated cottonseed may be certified and moved for consumption or utilization to any destination within the regulated areas of New Mexico, Oklahoma, or Texas, or to any noncotton producing state.

(4) All cottonseed meats (whole cottonseed from which the hulls or outer coverings have been removed) produced from untreated cottonseed may be certified and moved for further processing to any approved mill within the regulated areas of New Mexico, Oklahoma, or Texas.

The purposes of this amendment are to extend the Texas area within which shall be effective the less stringent requirements under the Pink Bollworm Quarantine for movement of certain cottonseed and cottonseed products, and to authorize limited movement of cottonseed meats. In order to be of maximum benefit to producers and shippers of such cottonseed and products in the new areas involved, the amended instructions should be made effective as soon as possible. Accordingly, under section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003) it is found upon good cause that notice and other public procedure concerning the amendment of the instructions are impracticable and unnecessary. The amendment relieves restrictions and thus may be made effective under said section 4 less than 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(Sec. 9, 37 Stat. 318, 7 U. S. C. 162. Interprets or applies sec. 8, 37 Stat. 318, as amended, 7 U. S. C. 161)

This amendment shall become effective September 15, 1954, when it shall supersede 7 CFR, 1953 Supp., 301.52a, effective November 17, 1953.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 9th day of September 1954.

[SEAL] W. L. POPHAM,
Chief, Plant Pest Control Branch.

PART 969—AVOCADOS GROWN IN SOUTH FLORIDA

MATURITY REGULATION

Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement and Order No. 69 (7 CFR Part 969; 19 F. R. 3439) regulating the handling of avocados grown in South Florida, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. (Sec. 6, 38 Stat. 722; 15 U. S. C. 46. Interpret or apply sec. 5, 38 Stat. 719; 15 U. S. C. 45) [Cease and desist order, Lamar J. Gore doing business as LaMarr Portrait Company, Hattiesburg, Miss., Docket 6169, June 20, 1954]

In the Matter of Lamarr J. Gore Doing Business as LaMarr Portrait Company

This proceeding was heard by William L. Pack, hearing examiner, upon the complaint of the Commission, respondent's answer, and a stipulation entered into by counsel supporting the complaint and counsel for respondent which provided that subject to the approval of said examiner, the statement of facts included therein might be taken as the facts in the proceeding and in lieu of evidence in support of or in opposition to the charges in the complaint.

Said stipulation further provided that said examiner might proceed upon such statement of facts to make his initial decision, stating his findings as to the facts, including inferences which might be drawn from the facts stipulated and his conclusion based thereon, and enter his order disposing of the proceeding without the filing of proposed findings or conclusions or the presentation of oral argument, and that if the proceeding should come before the Commission upon appeal from the initial decision of the examiner or by review upon the Commission's own motion, the Commission might, if it so desired, set aside the stipulation and remand the case to the examiner for further proceedings under the complaint.

Thereafter, the stipulation having been approved by said examiner, the proceeding regularly came on for final consideration by him upon the complaint, answer, and stipulation, and said examiner, having found that the proceeding was in the interest of the public, made his initial decision comprising certain findings as to facts,[1] conclusion drawn therefrom,[1] and order to cease and desist.

No appeal having been filed from said initial decision of said hearing examiner, as provided for in Rule XXII of the Commission's rules of practice, nor any other action taken as thereby provided to prevent said initial decision becoming the decision of the Commission thirty days from service thereof upon the parties, said initial decision, including said order, accordingly, under the provisions of said Rule XXII became the decision of the Commission on June 20, 1954.

Said order is as follows:

It is ordered, That the respondent, Lamar J. Gore, an individual doing business as LaMarr Portrait Company, or under any other name, his agents, representatives and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the offering for sale, sale and distribution in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, of photographic enlargements or frames, do forthwith cease and desist from:

1. Representing, directly or by implication,

(a) That said enlargements are finished or painted by hand or in oil, unless such is the fact.

(b) That said enlargements are equal in appearance, quality, workmanship, or in any other respect to samples exhibited, unless such is the fact.

(c) That any price is a special or reduced price when it is the price at which said enlargements are usually and regularly sold.

2. Concealing from, or failing to disclose to, customers at the time enlargements are ordered that the finished enlargement will be so shaped or designed that it can ordinarily be used only in an odd-style frame which is sold by respondent.

By "Decision of the Commission and Order to File Report of Compliance", Docket 6169, August 26, 1954, which announced fruition of said initial decision, report of compliance was required as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Agricultural Marketing Service

[7 CFR Part 953]

[Docket No. AO-144-A5]

HANDLING OF LEMONS GROWN IN CALIFORNIA AND ARIZONA

DECISION WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO AMENDED MARKETING AGREEMENT AND ORDER

Pursuant to the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900; 19 F. R. 57), a public hearing was held at Los Angeles, California, on June 22, 1954, after notice thereof published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (19 F. R. 3421, 3565), on proposed amendments to Marketing Agreement No. 94, as amended, and Order No. 53, as amended (7 CFR Part 953), hereinafter referred to as "marketing agreement" and "order," respectively, regulating the handling of lemons grown in California and Arizona, to be made effective pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.).

On the basis of the evidence introduced at the hearing, and the record thereof, the Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, on August 17, 1954, filed with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, his recommended decision in this proceeding. The notice of the filing of such recommended decision, affording opportunity to file written exceptions thereto, was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (F. R. Doc. 54-6494; 19 F. R. 5319). No exception to said recommended decision was filed.

The material issues, findings and conclusions, and the general findings of the recommended decision set forth in the FEDERAL REGISTER (F. R. Doc. 54-6494; 19 F. R. 5319) are hereby approved and adopted as the material issues, findings and conclusions, and the general findings of this decision as if set forth in full herein.

Amendments to the marketing agreement and order. Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled, respectively, "Agreement Amending the Marketing Agreement, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Lemons Grown in California and Arizona" and "Order Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Lemons Grown in California and Arizona" which have been decided upon as the appropriate and detailed means of effecting the foregoing conclusions. These documents shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the aforesaid rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders have been met.

Determination of representative period. The period beginning November 1, 1952, and ending October 31, 1953, is hereby determined to be a representative period for ascertaining whether the issuance of the order amending the order, as amended, regulating the handling of lemons grown in California and Arizona, is approved or favored by producers who, during such period, have been engaged in the production of lemons within such area.

It is hereby ordered, That all of this decision except the attached agreement amending the marketing agreement, as amended, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of the said agreement amending the marketing agreement, as amended, are identical with those contained in the attached order amending the order, as amended, which will be published with this decision.

Dated: September 10, 1954.

[SEAL] EARL L. BUTZ,
Assistant Secretary.

Order[1] Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Lemons Grown in California and Arizona

§ 953.0 Findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations made in connection with the issuance of this order and each of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of

[1] This order shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders have been met.

1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure effective thereunder (7 CFR Part 900; 19 F. R. 57), a public hearing was held at Los Angeles, California, on June 22, 1954, upon proposed amendments to Marketing Agreement No. 94, as amended, and Order No. 53, as amended (7 CFR Part 953) regulating the handling of lemons grown in California and Arizona. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of lemons grown in the States of California and Arizona in the same manner as, and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in, the marketing agreement upon which hearings have been held;

(3) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, is limited in its application to the smallest regional production area that is practicable, consistently with carrying out the declared policy of the act; and the issuance of several orders applicable to subdivisions of such production area would not effectively carry out the declared policy of the act; and

(4) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, prescribes, so far as practicable, such different terms, applicable to different parts of the production area, as are necessary to give due recognition to differences in the production and marketing of the lemons covered thereby.

It is, therefore, ordered, That, on and after the effective date hereof, all handling of lemons grown in the production area shall be in conformity to, and in compliance with, the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended, and as hereby further amended as follows:

1. Immediately preceding the period at the end of § 953.9 Box insert the following: ", or the equivalent thereof".

2. Delete the word "six" from the first sentence in § 953.20 Establishment and membership and insert in lieu thereof the word "seven."

3. Amend § 953.22 Nominations by deleting paragraphs (a), (b), and (c); deleting the word "five" from paragraph (g) and inserting in lieu thereof the word "six"; redesignating paragraphs (d), (e), (f), and (g) as paragraphs (e), (f), (g), and (h), respectively; and inserting the following new paragraphs:

(a) The cooperative marketing organization, or the growers affiliated therewith, as may be provided pursuant to paragraph (f) of this section, which marketed more than sixty percent of the total volume of lemons marketed in fresh form during the fiscal year preceding the date on which nominations for members and alternate members of the committee are to be submitted, shall nominate three growers for three members and three growers for three alternate members of the committee.

(b) The cooperative marketing organization, or the growers affiliated therewith, as may be provided pursuant to paragraph (f) of this section, which marketed a larger portion of the total volume of lemons marketed in fresh form during the fiscal year preceding the date on which nominations for members and alternate members are to be submitted than any cooperative marketing organization other than the one described in paragraph (a) of this section, shall nominate one grower for a member and one grower for an alternate member of the committee.

(c) All cooperative marketing organizations which are not qualified under paragraph (a) or (b) of this section, or the growers affiliated therewith, as may be provided pursuant to paragraph (f) of this section, shall nominate one grower for a member and one grower for an alternate member of the committee.

(d) All lemon growers who are not included under paragraph (a), (b), or (c) of this section shall nominate one grower for a member and one grower for an alternate member of the committee.

4. Delete paragraphs (a) and (b) of § 953.23 Selection and insert in lieu thereof the following:

(a) From the nominations made pursuant to paragraph (a) of § 953.22, or from other qualified growers, the Secretary shall select three members and three alternate members of the committee. From the nominations made pursuant to each of the paragraphs (b), (c), and (d) of § 953.22, or from other qualified growers, the Secretary shall select one member and one alternate member of the committee.

(b) From the nominations made pursuant to paragraph (h) of § 953.22, or from other qualified persons, the Secretary shall select one member and one alternate member of the committee.

5. Delete paragraph (a) of § 953.28 Procedure and insert in lieu thereof the following:

(a) Five members of the committee shall constitute a quorum and any action of the committee shall require four concurring votes.

6. Amend § 953.29 Expenses and compensation by deleting therefrom "$5.00" and inserting in lieu thereof "$10.00."

7. Add, at the end of paragraph (a) of § 953.41 Assessments, the following: "The payment of assessments for the maintenance and functioning of the committee may be required under this subpart throughout the period it is in effect, irrespective of whether particular provisions thereof are suspended or become inoperative."

8. Delete paragraphs (f), (g), (h), and (i) of § 953.53 Prorate bases and insert in lieu thereof the following:

(f) Based on the quantity of each handler's available lemons, as computed pursuant to this section, the committee shall fix the prorate base of each handler who has applied therefor: Provided, That such quantity shall be adjusted by (1) the deduction therefrom of any undershipments pursuant to § 953.58, or (2) the addition thereto of any overshipments pursuant to § 953.57, in the event such handler makes an undershipment or overshipment during the week preceding that in which such quantity is computed. Such prorate base shall represent the ratio between the quantity of such handler's available lemons in a district, as aforesaid, and the quantity of all handlers' available lemons in such district, and shall be applicable for the two week period immediately following the week in which it is fixed by the committee.

(g) The committee shall notify the Secretary of the prorate base fixed for each handler and shall notify such handler of the prorate base fixed for him.

9. Redesignate paragraph (j) of § 953.53 as paragraph (h).

10. Delete the first sentence of § 953.56 Allotments and insert in lieu thereof the following: "Whenever the Secretary has fixed the quantity of lemons which may be handled during any week in a district, as aforesaid, the committee shall calculate the quantity of lemons which each handler may handle during such week."

11. Delete the first sentence of § 953.57 Overshipments and insert in lieu thereof the following: "During any week for which the Secretary has fixed the quantity of lemons which may be handled, each handler may handle, in addition to his allotment, an amount of lemons equivalent to ten percent of said allotment, or one carload, whichever is the greater: Provided, That no such overshipment may be made by a handler if his allotment for such week is insufficient to offset his prior overshipments pursuant to this section."

12. Delete paragraphs (a) and (c) of § 953.58 Allotment loans and insert in lieu thereof the following:

(a) A handler for whom a prorate base has been established may lend allotment to other handlers: Provided, That such loan is confined to the same district, as defined in § 953.64, is reported to the committee not later than 48 hours after the loan agreement has been entered into, and provides for repayment within one year of the date of the loan.

* * * * * * *

(c) The committee may act as agent for handlers in arranging loans of allotment; and all loan transactions shall be confirmed by the committee by memoranda addressed to the parties thereto.

ORDER DESIGNATING APPLICATION FOR HEARING ON STATED ISSUES

In re application of Philip D. Jackson tr/as Salina Broadcasting Company, Salina, Kansas, Docket No. 11162, File No. BP-9147; for construction permit.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 8th day of September 1954;

The Commission having under consideration the above-entitled application for construction permit for a new standard broadcast station to operate on 1310 kilocycles with a power of 500 watts, daytime only, at Salina, Kansas (File No. BP-9147);

It appearing, that the applicant is legally, financially and technically qualified to operate the proposed station, but that the proposed operation may cause interference to Stations KFH, Wichita, Kansas, operating on 1330 kilocycles with a power of 5000 watts, unlimited time, and KFSB, Joplin, Missouri, operating on 1310 kilocycles with a power of 5000 watts day, 1000 watts night, unlimited time; and

It further appearing, that the proposed operation would not provide the recommended minimum of interference-free service within its normally protected daytime (0.5 mv/m) contour because of interference from Station KFSB; and

It further appearing, that the Commission has not been able to determine whether the proposed antenna would constitute a hazard to air navigation; and

It further appearing, that pursuant to section 309 (b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the subject applicant was advised by letter dated May 20, 1954 of the aforementioned deficiencies and that the Commission was unable to conclude that a grant of the application would be in the public interest; and

It further appearing, that on June 18, 1954, the applicant requested a grant without hearing, claiming that the proposed operation would not cause any serious interference; and

It further appearing, that Station KFSB on June 15, 1954 advised the Commission of its intention to appear at a hearing, and that Station KFH had previously, in a letter dated May 4, 1954, opposed the subject proposal; and

It further appearing, that the Commission, upon further consideration of the matter is of the opinion that a hearing is necessary;

It is ordered, That pursuant to section 309 (b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the said application is designated for hearing, at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent order, upon the following issues:

1. To determine the areas and populations which may be expected to gain or lose primary service from the operation of the proposed station and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

2. To determine whether the operation of the proposed station would cause interference to Stations KFH, Wichita, Kansas, and KFSB, Joplin, Missouri; and if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and populations affected thereby and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

3. To determine whether the installation and operation of the proposed station would be in compliance with the Commission's Rules and Standards of Good Engineering Practice Concerning Standard Broadcast Stations with particular reference to providing the required minimum of interference-free service within the proposed station's normally protected (0.5 mv/m) contour.

4. To determine whether the proposed antenna system could constitute a hazard to air navigation.

5. To determine whether, in the light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues, the operation of the station proposed by Salina Broadcasting Company would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity.

It is further ordered, That Four States Broadcasters, Inc., licensee of Station KFSB, Joplin, Missouri, and Radio Station KFH Company, licensee of Station KFH, Wichita, Kansas, are made parties to this proceeding.

Released: September 10, 1954.

[Docket No. 11163; FCC 54-1154]

VILLAGE BROADCASTING CO. (WOPA)

ORDER DESIGNATING APPLICATION FOR HEARING ON STATED ISSUES

In re application of Richard Goodman, Mason Loundy, Oak Park Arms Hotel, Inc. and Egmont Sonderling, a partnership doing business as Village Broadcasting Company (WOPA), Oak Park, Illinois, Docket No. 11163, File No. BP-9271; for construction permit.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 8th day of September 1954;

The Commission having under consideration the above-entitled application for construction permit to change the transmitter location of Station WOPA from Oak Park, Illinois, to Chicago, Illinois;

It appearing, that the applicant is legally, technically, financially and otherwise qualified to operate Station WOPA as proposed but that the application may not comply with the Standards of Good Engineering Practice; particularly with reference to providing adequate primary service to the City of Oak Park, Illinois; and

It further appearing, that pursuant to section 309 (b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the subject applicant was advised by letters dated May 17 and June 21, 1954, of the aforementioned deficiency and that the Commission was unable to conclude that a grant of the application would be in the public interest; and

It further appearing, that the applicant filed replies dated June 3, and July 14, 1954; and

It further appearing, that the Commission, after consideration of the replies, is of the opinion that a hearing is necessary; and

It further appearing, that because the proposed transmitter location is approximately 110 feet north of the tower of FM station WFMT, Chicago, Illinois, and on the same building, some distortion of the proposed radiation pattern is expected; and that the proposed antenna system may not provide the minimum efficiency of 150 mv/m/kw as recommended by the Standards; therefore, if a grant of the subject application is eventually made, the construction permit should be appropriately conditioned as to assure compliance with the Standards;

It is ordered, That pursuant to section 309 (b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the said application is designated for hearing at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent order upon the following issues:

1. To determine the areas and populations which may be expected to gain or lose primary service from the operation of Station WOPA as proposed, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

2. To determine whether the installation and operation of Station WOPA as proposed would be in compliance with the Commission's Rules and Standards of Good Engineering Practice Concerning Standard Broadcast Stations with particular reference to providing adequate primary service to the City of Oak Park, Illinois.

3. To determine whether in light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues the operation of Station WOPA as proposed would serve the public interest, convenience and necessity.

It is further ordered, That if the subject application is eventually granted the construction permit shall contain the following conditions:

1. The grantee shall submit measurements showing that the installed antenna system provides the minimum efficiency of 150 mv/m/kw as recommended by the Standards.

2. The grantee shall submit measurements to show that the radiation pattern has not been materially affected by the immediate presence of the tower of FM Station WFMT, Chicago, Illinois.

Released: September 10, 1954.

The filing has designated sections 6, 10, and 12 of the act and Rules U-42 and U-50 promulgated thereunder as applicable to the proposed transactions which are summarized as follows:

Indiana-Michigan proposes to issue and sell, pursuant to competitive bidding under Rule U-50, $16,500,000 aggregate principal amount of First Mortgage Bonds, ____ percent Series due 1984; these bonds are to be secured by a Mortgage Indenture dated June 1, 1939, as heretofore supplemented and as to be further supplemented by a fifth Supplemental Indenture to be dated October 1, 1954; the price to be paid to Indiana-Michigan is to be not less than 100 percent nor more than 102¾ percent of the principal amount thereof and the coupon rate is to be expressed in a multiple of ⅛ of 1 percent, these provisions of the securities to be determined at competitive bidding.

American proposes to acquire and Indiana-Michigan proposes to issue and sell prior to or concurrently with the sale of the bonds and preferred stock 43,000 shares of its common stock, no par value, for $2,000,000 in cash. The filing states that no fees or commissions are to be paid by Indiana-Michigan in connection with the proposed issuance of its common stock and it is estimated that expenses to be incurred in connection therewith will not exceed $5,000. Information in respect of other fees applicable to the proposed transactions is to be supplied to the Commission subsequently by amendment to the filing.

It is represented in the filing that the proceeds from the sale of these securities are to be used to prepay $9,500,000 aggregate principal amount of Notes Payable to Banks and that the remaining proceeds will be added to Indiana-Michigan's treasury funds and will be applied to extensions, additions and improvements to its properties.

The filing indicates that the proposed transactions, on the part of Indiana-Michigan, are subject to the jurisdiction of the Michigan Public Service Commission and of the Public Service Commission of Indiana.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than September 23, 1954, at 5:30 p. m., e. d. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter stating the reasons for such request and the nature of his interest and the issues of fact or law raised by said joint application-declaration which he desires to controvert or may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. merchantable filberts shall be 78 percent, the surplus percentage shall be 22 percent, and the withholding percentage shall be 28 percent.

It is hereby found and determined that good cause exists for making this document effective upon its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER instead of waiting 30 days after publication for the reasons that (1) it is desirable that the percentages be fixed prior to the handling of filberts in the 1954–55 fiscal year, (2) such handling is about to begin, and (3) compliance with this administrative rule will not require handlers to make any advance preparation of a special nature.

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

CIVIL AERONAUTICS BOARD

[14 CFR Part 294]

[Economic Regulations Draft Release No. 70]

FOREIGN AIR TRANSPORTATION CONDUCTED FOR THE MILITARY ESTABLISHMENT

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

SEPTEMBER 13, 1954.

Notice is hereby given that the Civil Aeronautics Board has under consideration a proposed amendment to Part 294 of the Economic Regulations (14 CFR 294) which would establish a further classification of air carriers to be designated as "Foreign Military Charter Carriers". This proposed amendment would also establish certain terms, conditions, and limitations under which such carriers will be exempted from the requirement of tariff filing and observance.

The necessity for the proposed regulation is explained in the attached explanatory statement.

The proposed regulations are set forth below.

This amendment is proposed under authority of section 205 (a) and section 416 of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended (52 Stat. 904, 1004; 49 U. S. C. 425, 496).

Interested persons may participate in the proposed rule-making through submission of written data, views or arguments pertaining thereto, in triplicate, addressed to the Secretary, Civil Aeronautics Board, Washington 25, D. C. All relevant matter in communications received on or before October 18, 1954, will be considered by the Board before taking final action on the proposed rule.

By the Civil Aeronautics Board.

[SEAL] M. C. MULLIGAN,
Secretary.

Explanatory statement. At the present time air carriers conducting operations in foreign air transportation for the United States military establishment are required to comply with all requirements of the Civil Aeronautics Act and the Board's Economic Regulations which relate to tariff filing and observance, except as exempted by Part 294 of the Economic Regulations.

In the field of foreign air transportation, the Board lacks the statutory power to prescribe rates of air carriers subject to its jurisdiction and, accordingly, is unable to take effective action even though tariffs at uneconomic levels are filed. While the Board does have power to investigate and remove cases of unlawful discrimination in foreign air transportation, this power is not well adapted to short term situations, since rates may not be suspended pending investigation. Inasmuch as most charters for the military establishment are for special situations and short periods of time, the transportation would generally have taken place before any discrimination investigation could be completed, thus rendering this control ineffective.

The military establishment procures its charter transportation through a competitive bidding system. Invitations for bids are usually initiated far enough in advance so that carriers have ample time to change their tariffs, giving the required 30 days statutory notice. However, even though air carriers could in the usual case comply with the tariff filing requirements, for the reasons indicated above there is little benefit to the public interest in continuing this requirement in the situation referred to.

Moreover, in the less frequent cases where invitations for bids are issued on less than thirty days' notice, the tariff filing requirements may place air carriers at a distinct competitive disadvantage. This occurs by reason of the fact that there are certain commercial operators who are not air carriers within the meaning of the act, although their operations are governed from a safety standpoint by Part 45 of the Civil Air Regulations. Such carriers therefore are not subject to the Board's economic regulatory jurisdiction or control. These so-called Part 45 carriers have become increasingly active in the field of foreign military charters.

In consideration of these circumstances, the Board believes that it would not be adverse to the public interest to exempt the air carriers subject to its jurisdiction from filing and observance of tariffs for foreign military charters operated under contract with the military establishment in order that they may be on an equal basis competitively with the Part 45 carriers. The Board, in proposing this exemption, recognizes that such action will not solve the basic economic problem in this field, namely, the uneconomic low levels to which military charter rates have fallen as a result of the policy of unrestricted bidding and a temporary excess of available capacity for charters following the termination of the Korean airlift. Since the Board does not have the means of effectively dealing with this problem, it believes that in the absence of further legislative authority, reliance, must be placed upon the Department of Defense for any rate stabilization in this field.

It is proposed to amend Part 294 of the Economic Regulations (14 CFR 294), Classification and Exemption of Air Carriers while Conducting Certain Operations for the Military Establishment, as follows:

1. By redesignating paragraph (c) of § 294.1 as paragraph (d) and by inserting the words "or foreign military charter agreement" after the phrase "air carrier entering into a military operations charter agreement".

2. By adding a new paragraph (c) to § 294.1 to read as follows:

(c) Foreign Military Charter Agreement shall mean an agreement (other than a Military Operations Charter Agreement) between an air carrier and any Department of the Military Establishment of the United States, a copy of which has been filed with the Civil Aeronautics Board by the air carrier, whereby the entire capacity of one or more aircraft has been engaged for the movement of persons and their baggage or for the movement of property, on a time, mileage, or trip basis in foreign air transportation.

3. By amending § 294.2 by designating the present text as paragraph (a) and adding a new paragraph (b) to read as follows:

(b) There is hereby established a class of air carriers known as Foreign Military Charter Carriers, composed of all air carriers who hold currently effective authorization from the Board to engage in air transportation and who are parties to currently effective and unexecuted foreign military charter agreements as herein defined.

4. By amending § 294.3 by designating the present text as paragraph (a) and adding a new paragraph (b) to read as follows:

(b) Subject to the provisions of this part, Foreign Military Charter Carriers are hereby exempted from section 403 of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, and Part 221 of this subchapter.

5. By amending § 294.4 to read as follows:

§ 294.4 Scope of exemption. The respective exemptions granted in this part for operations conducted pursuant to military operations charter agreements which have been filed with the Board, and for operations conducted pursuant to foreign military charter agreements which have been filed with the Board, shall extend only to the respective operations conducted thereunder and shall in no way affect the obligation of Military Operations Carriers or Foreign Military Charter Carriers to abide by the act and the Board's Economic Regulations with respect to other air transportation performed: Provided, That the authority hereby granted shall be in addition to all other authority to engage in air transportation issued by the Board and shall not in any way be construed as limiting such other authority.

The purpose of these hearings is to receive evidence likely to be of assistance to the Secretary of Agriculture in determining (1) pursuant to the provisions of section 301 (c) (1) of said act, fair and reasonable wage rates for persons employed in the production, cultivation, or harvesting of sugarcane in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands during the calendar year 1955 on farms with respect to which applications for payments under the said act are made and (2) pursuant to the provisions of section 301 (c) (2) of said act, fair and reasonable prices for the 1954-55 Puerto Rican crop and the 1955 crop of Virgin Islands sugarcane to be paid, under either purchase or toll agreements, by producers who process sugarcane grown by other producers and who apply for payments under the said act.

In order to obtain the best possible information, the Department requests that all interested parties appear at the hearing to express their views and to present appropriate data with respect to wages and prices. While testimony on all points relative to the subject matters of the hearing is desired, it is requested that with respect to fair and reasonable prices for 1954-55-crop Puerto Rican sugarcane interested parties be prepared to make recommendations as to (1) specification of the formula to be used in determining the yield of raw sugar from inferior varieties of sugarcane; (2) the need for the provision in the current determination requiring producers to bear the costs of storing sugar in outside warehouses prior to the end of the calendar year; (3) revision of the requirement of the current determination that processors make allowances to producers and perform services free of charge with a view to modernization and specification of items and amounts of such allowances; and (4) the necessity for a change in the flat rate allowance for selling and delivery expenses on raw sugar which are not specifically enumerated in the current determination.

The hearings, after being called to order at the time and places mentioned herein, may be continued from day to day within the discretion of the presiding officers, and may be adjourned to a later day or a different place without notice other than the announcement thereof at the hearing by the presiding officers.

Without limiting the scope of the issues presented in this proceeding, particular attention will be directed to the following matters:

1. Whether Pan American World Airways, Inc., has acquired control of Lineas Aereas Costarricenses, S. A., within the meaning of section 408 (a) of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended.

2. If Pan American World Airways, Inc. has acquired control of Lineas Aereas Contarricenses, S. A., whether such control is consistent with the public interest and whether it otherwise meets the statutory tests prescribed by section 408 (b) of the Civil Aeronautics Act.

For further details regarding the issues in this proceeding, interested parties are referred to the application in Docket No. 6594, and to the Prehearing Conference Report of the Examiner, both of which are on file with the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Notice is further given that any person, other than a party of record, desiring to be heard in this proceeding, must file with the Board on or before October 18, 1954, a statement setting forth the propositions of fact or law which he desires to advance.

Dated at Washington, D. C., September 13, 1954.

Chief Examiner.

[Order No. E–8594]

PAN AMERICAN WORLD AIRWAYS, INC., ET AL.

IATA CONDITIONS OF CARRIAGE FOR PASSENGERS AND CARGO; ORDER EXTENDING PERIOD FOR FILING OBJECTIONS

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 30th day of August 1954.

In the matter of certain resolutions adopted at the Traffic Conference Meetings of the International Air Transport Association (I. A. T. A.) at Honolulu between Pan American World Airways, Inc., various air carriers, foreign air carriers, and other carriers, relating to conditions of carriage and related traffic regulations. Agreement C. A. B. No. 7648 R–18, 81, 82, and 107; Agreement C. A. B. Nos. 2698 R–23 et al. (Order No. E–3230).

The Board, by Order No. E–8543, dated August 5, 1954, set forth certain tentative findings and conclusions with respect to the uniform Conditions of Cariage, Passenger and Cargo, of IATA as contained in resolutions 030, 275b, and 600b (CAB Agreement No. 7648 R–18, 82, and 107).

The order granted all interested parties thirty (30) days from the date of issue thereof within which to file answers, with supporting data and reasons, objecting to any of the tentative findings and conclusions therein.

Pan American World Airways, Inc., by letter filed with the Board on August 20, 1954, has requested an extension of the period for filing objections of an additional 90 days.

The Board's proposed action is a matter of great importance to all U. S. flag carrier members of IATA which will require careful study and review by the carriers. An extension of the above-mentioned 30 day period will also enable the carriers, both United States and foreign, to discuss the various problems raised by the Board's order at the coming IATA Traffic Conference in Venice, Italy.

Other carriers have made similar requests on an informal basis.

The Board finds that Pan American's request appears to be reasonable and the granting thereof will not unduly delay disposition of this important matter. Since there appear to be no substantial problems involved with R–81 (275) Form of Passenger Ticket and Baggage Check-Amending, and it is desirable that final action thereon be taken promptly so that the carriers may seasonably arrange for printing tickets and baggage checks, extension of the period for filing objections to the proposed approval of this resolution is not warranted.

Therefore: It is ordered, That:

The period specified in the Ordering Clause of Order No. E–8543 for filing objections to any of the tentative findings and conclusions with respect to Agreements R–18, 82 and 107 set forth therein be hereby extended through December 1, 1954.

By the Civil Aeronautics Board.

[SEAL] M. C. MULLIGAN,
Secretary.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

[Docket No. E–6580]

BONNEVILLE PROJECT, COLUMBIA RIVER, OREGON–WASHINGTON

NOTICE OF REQUEST FOR APPROVAL OF RATES AND CHARGES

SEPTEMBER 10, 1954.

Notice is hereby given that the Administrator of the Bonneville Project has filed with the Federal Power Commission for confirmation and approval, pursuant to the provisions of the Bonneville Act (50 Stat. 731), as amended, (1) schedules of rates and charges for electric energy sold by the Administrator and (2) general rate schedule provisions, which respectively modify existing filed rate schedules and general rate schedule provisions. The Administrator also requests that they become effective December 20, 1954.

The schedules of rates and charges and the general rate schedule provisions submitted for confirmation and approval are:

AT-SITE FIRM POWER WHOLESALE POWER RATE SCHEDULE A–4

SECTION 1. Availability. This schedule is available to purchasers of firm power delivered by the Administrator under appropriate contracts at the power plants, or at a point or points adjacent thereto to be designated by the Administrator.

The amount of power sold from any power plant under this rate schedule shall not exceed the at-site firm power determined by the Administrator to be available.

Power sold under this schedule for direct consumption shall be consumed within fifteen miles of the power plant, and power sold under this schedule for resale shall remain available only to a purchaser the principal part of whose load is consumed within fifteen miles of the power plant.

SEC. 2. Rate. Power sold under this schedule shall be at the rate of fourteen and one-half dollars ($14.50) net per year per kilowatt of billing demand, and shall be billed each month at one-twelfth (1/12) of the yearly rate.

SEC. 3. Minimum charge. The net minimum monthly charge for service under this schedule shall be one-twelfth (1/12) of fourteen and one-half dollars ($14.50) per kilowatt of contract demand.

SEC. 4. Billing demand. The billing demand shall be the highest of the following demands:

(1) The contract demand,

(2) The measured demand for the month, adjusted for power factor,

(3) The computed demand for the month, if part of the load is supplied from other sources (see section 2.3 of the General Rate Schedule Provisions),

(4) The highest measured or computed demand during the preceeding eleven months, before adjustment for power factor.

SEC. 5. Power factor adjustment. The adjustment for power factor specified in section 4 shall be made by increasing the measured demand for each month by 1 percent for each 1 percent or major fraction thereof by which the average power factor at which electric energy is supplied during such month is less than 0.85 lagging. This adjustment may be waived in whole or in part to the extent that the Administrator determines that a power factor of less than 0.85 lagging would in any particular case be advantageous to the Government. Unless specifically otherwise agreed, the Administrator shall not be obligated to deliver power to the purchaser at any time at a power factor below 0.75 lagging.

SEC. 6. Rate adjustment. This rate schedule shall be subject to such adjustment as the Federal Power Commission may approve upon proposal by the Administrator to become effective on December 20 of the year 1956, or 1957, or 1958: Provided, That the Administrator shall make timely proposal for the adjustment, if adjustment becomes necessary, in order to bring the rate schedule into conformity with the rate standards of the Bonneville Project Act.

SEC. 7. General provisions. Sales of power under this schedule shall be subject to the provisions of the Bonneville Project Act and the applicable General Rate Schedule Provisions.

This schedule supersedes Wholesale Power Rate Schedule A–4 effective March 1, 1946.

TRANSMISSION SYSTEM FIRM POWER WHOLESALE POWER RATE SCHEDULE C–4

SECTION 1. Availability. This schedule is available to purchasers of firm power delivered by the Administrator under appropriate contracts.

SEC. 2. Rate. Power sold under this schedule shall be at the rate of seventeen and one-half dollars ($17.50) net per year per kilowatt of billing demand and shall be billed each month at one-twelfth (1/12) of the yearly rate.

SEC. 3. Minimum charge. The net minimum monthly charge for service under this schedule shall be one-twelfth (1/12) of seventeen and one-half dollars ($17.50) per kilowatt of contract demand.

SEC. 4. Billing demand. The billing demand shall be the highest of the following demands:

(1) The contract demand,

(2) The measured demand for the month, adjusted for power factor,

(3) The computed demand for the month, if part of the load is supplied from other sources (see sec. 2.3 of General Rate Schedule Provisions),

(4) The highest measured or computed demand during the preceding eleven months, before adjustment for power factor.

SEC. 5. Power factor adjustment. The adjustment for power factor specified in section 4 shall be made by increasing the measured demand for each month by 1 percent for each 1 percent or major fraction thereof by which the average power factor at which electric energy is supplied during such month is less than 0.85 lagging. This adjustment may be waived in whole or in part to the extent that the Administrator determines that a power factor of less than 0.85 lagging would in any particular case be advantageous to the Government. Unless specifically otherwise agreed, the Administrator shall not be obligated to deliver power to the purchaser at any time at a power factor below 0.75 lagging.

SEC. 6. Rate adjustment. This rate schedule shall be subject to such adjustment as the Federal Power Commission may approve upon proposal by the Administrator to become effective on December 20 of the year 1956, or 1957, or 1958: Provided, That the Administrator shall make timely proposal for the adjustment, if adjustment becomes necessary, in order to bring the rate schedule into conformity with the rate standards of the Bonneville Project Act.

SEC. 7. General provisions. Sales of power under this schedule shall be subject to the provisions of the Bonneville Project Act and the applicable General Rate Schedule Provisions.

This schedule supersedes Wholesale Power Rate Schedule C–4 effective March 1, 1946.

WHOLESALE POWER RATE SCHEDULE E–4

SECTION 1. Availability. This schedule is available to purchasers of firm power delivered by the Administrator under appropriate contracts for resale, and for irrigation or drainage pumping use, including incidental use for other purposes in either case.

SEC. 2. Rate. Subject to the provisions of sections 4 and 5, the monthly rate for power sold under this schedule shall be as follows:

Demand charge: 75 cents net per kilowatt of billing demand.
Energy charge: First 200 kilowatt-hours per kilowatt of billing demand at 2.0 mills net per kilowatt-hour.
Additional kilowatt-hours at 1.0 mill net per kilowatt-hour.

SEC. 3. Billing demand. The billing demand under this rate schedule shall be the higher of the following demands:

(1) The measured demand for the month, adjusted for power factor,

(2) 70 percent of the highest measured demand, after adjustment for power factor, during the preceding eleven months exclusive of measured demands for the period from May 1 through September 30. This subsection (2) shall not apply to purchasers who use the power purchased under this rate schedule solely for irrigation or drainage pumping, and for uses incidental thereto, and who do not resell any of the power so purchased.

SEC. 4. Limitations. (1) The amount payable under any billing shall not be less than 90 percent of the amount resulting from the application of the above charges and provisions in this schedule to the entire requirements of the separate system to which the billing applies.

(2) For a period extending until five years after the date service is first rendered by the Administrator to a newly developed separate system, the net amount, after applying any applicable irrigation and drainage pumping discounts, payable for such system shall not exceed the higher of (1) 3.5 mills multiplied by the number of kilowatt-hours supplied, plus any increase in demand charge due to power factor adjustment, or (2) 3.5 mills multiplied by 90 percent of the entire energy requirements of the separate system to which the billing applies, plus any increase in demand charge due to power factor adjustment.

(3) The 90 percent specified in limitations (1) and (2) above shall be subject to an appropriate adjustment if the purchaser is unable to obtain his full requirements from the Administrator.

SEC. 5. Irrigation and drainage pumping provision. During the period from May 1 through September 30 each year, a discount of four-tenths mill ($0.0004) per kilowatt-hour will be applied to energy purchased from the Administrator under this rate schedule and resold by the purchaser to customers for strictly irrigation or drainage pumping and uses incidental thereto. Such discount also will be applied during the five-month period to energy purchased under this rate schedule by purchasers organized for and using such electric energy solely for irrigation or drainage pumping and uses incidental thereto.

Where irrigation or drainage pumping energy is purchased for resale by the purchaser:

(1) The kilowatt-hours to which the discount is applied will be the irrigation or drainage pumping kilowatt-hours metered for resale by the purchaser increased by 10 percent for losses.

(2) The discount will apply only to such irrigation or drainage pumping energy as is separately metered by the purchaser. In order to have such discount applied, the purchaser, except as provided in (3) below, shall supply within 10 days after the close of the Administrator's monthly billing period a record of the kilowatt-hours for each irrigation or drainage pumping customer so metered, and also such other data as are reasonably requested by the Administrator.

(3) Purchasers may supply such data to the Administrator on other than a monthly basis if the data correspond to the purchasers' regular billing periods that may be in effect for billing such irrigation or drainage pumping deliveries to its customers. In such instances the discount will be applied to the Administrator's monthly bill most nearly corresponding to the purchaser's regular billing period for such customers.

Notwithstanding any other provisions of this schedule, the Administrator may include in contracts with purchasers of irrigation or drainage pumping power a minimum annual charge for such power in an amount which shall return the annual costs on special facilities, if any, required to be installed by the Administrator to supply such service. At the end of the calendar year the purchaser will be billed for any amount by which said required minimum annual charge exceeds the total amounts previously billed for the year.

SEC. 6. Power factor adjustment. The adjustment for power factor specified in section 3 shall be made by increasing the measured demand for each month by 1 percent for each 1 percent or major fraction thereof by which the average power factor at which energy is supplied during such month is less than 0.95 lagging. This adjustment may be waived in whole or in part to the extent that the Administrator determines that a power factor of less than 0.95 lagging would in any particular case be advantageous to the Government. Unless specifically otherwise agreed, the Administrator shall not be obligated to deliver power to the purchaser at any time at a power factor below 0.75 lagging.

SEC. 7. Rate adjustment. This rate schedule shall be subject to such adjustment as the Federal Power Commission may approve upon proposal by the Administrator to become effective on December 20 of the year 1956, or 1957, or 1948: Provided, That the Administrator shall make timely proposal for the adjustment, if adjustment becomes necessary, in order to bring the rate schedule into conformity with the rate standards of the Bonneville Project Act.

SEC. 8. General provisions. Sales of power under this schedule shall be subject to the provisions of the Bonneville Project Act and the applicable General Rate Schedule Provisions.

This schedule supersedes Wholesale Power Rate Schedule E–4, as amended July 1, 1952.

WHOLESALE POWER RATE SCHEDULE F–4

SECTION 1. Availability. This schedule is available to purchasers of firm power delivered by the Administrator under appropriate contracts.

SEC. 2. Rates. Power shall be sold under this schedule at the following monthly rate:

Demand charge: 75 cents net per kilowatt of billing demand.
Energy charge: First 360 kilowatt-hours per kilowatt of billing demand at 2.5 mills net per kilowatt-hour.
Additional kilowatt-hours at 1.0 mill net per kilowatt-hour.

SEC. 3. Minimum charge. The total net minimum monthly charge for service under this schedule shall be the higher of (1) 75 cents per kilowatt of contract demand, or (2) 75 percent of the highest demand charge billed during the preceding eleven months. The Administrator may include in contracts for the sale of power under this rate schedule a provision requiring a higher minimum charge based on load factor.

SEC. 4. Billing demand. The billing demand under this rate schedule shall be the highest of the following demands:

(1) The contract demand,

(2) The measured demand for the month, adjusted for power factor,

(3) The computed demand for the month, if part of the load is supplied from other sources (see sec. 2.3 of General Rate Schedule Provisions).

SEC. 5. Power factor adjustment. The adjustment for power factor specified in section 4 shall be made by increasing the measured demand for each month by 1 percent for each 1 percent or major fraction thereof by which the average power factor at which electric energy is supplied during such month is less than 0.85 lagging. This adjustment may be waived in whole or in part to the extent that the Administrator determines that a power factor of less than 0.85 lagging would in any particular case be advantageous to the Government. Unless specifically otherwise agreed, the Administrator shall not be obligated to deliver power to the purchaser at any time at a power factor below 0.75 lagging.

SEC. 6. Rate adjustment. This rate schedule shall be subject to such adjustment as the Federal Power Commission may approve upon proposal by the Administrator to become effective on December 20 of the year 1956, or 1957, or 1958: Provided, That the Administrator shall make timely proposal for the adjustment, if adjustment becomes necessary, in order to bring the rate schedule into conformity with the rate standards of the Bonneville Project Act.

SEC. 7. General provisions. Sales of power under this schedule shall be subject to the provisions of the Bonneville Project Act and the applicable General Rate Schedule Provisions.

This schedule supersedes Wholesale Power Rate Schedule F–4 effective April 1, 1948.

DUMP ENERGY

WHOLESALE ENERGY RATE SCHEDULE H–3

SECTION 1. Availability. This schedule is available to purchasers of dump energy delivered by the Administrator under appropriate contracts in cases in which the Administrator determines that the purchaser normally maintains electric generating facilities or has firm standby contracts or other sources of energy satisfactory to the Administrator sufficient to supply the purchaser's requirements when dump energy is not delivered. This schedule also applies to energy delivered for experimental and testing purposes and for emergency and breakdown use under the conditions set forth in sections 7.1 and 8.1, respectively, of the applicable General Rate Schedule Provisions.

SEC. 2. Delivery. Delivery of dump energy is not assured. The Administrator shall be the sole judge of whether and when dump energy will be delivered, and if delivered, the amount thereof.

In the event that the dump energy available to the Administrator is insufficient to supply the requirements of all purchasers thereof, the Administrator shall, in his sole discretion, designate the purchasers to whom such dump energy shall be delivered and the amount thereof to be delivered to each such purchaser.

SEC. 3. Rate. Energy shall be sold under this schedule at two and one-half (2.5) mills net per kilowatt-hour delivered.

SEC. 4. Minimum charge. If it is necessary for the Government to install extra equipment or extra capacity for the purpose of delivering energy under this schedule, the contract for the sale of energy shall provide a minimum charge sufficient, in the judgment of the Administrator, to protect the Government from loss due to the installation of such extra equipment or extra capacity.

SEC. 5. Rate adjustment. This rate schedule shall be subject to such adjustment as the Federal Power Commission may approve upon proposal by the Administrator to become effective on December 20 of the year 1956, or 1957, or 1958: Provided, That the Administrator shall make timely proposal for the adjustment, if adjustment becomes necessary, in order to bring the rate schedule into conformity with the rate standards of the Bonneville Project Act.

SEC. 6. General provisions. Sales of power under this schedule shall be subject to the provisions of the Bonneville Project Act and the applicable General Rate Schedule Provisions.

This schedule supersedes Wholesale Energy Rate Schedule H–3 effective March 1, 1946.

WHOLESALE POWER RATE SCHEDULE R–1

SECTION 1. Availability. This schedule applies to at-site and transmission system firm power used by railroads primarily for traction purposes, delivered under appropriate contracts to railroads or to purchasers for resale to railroads. The points of delivery shall be so located that the capacity required for the estimated load at each point of delivery shall be not less than 7,500 kva, unless in any particular case the Administrator determines that it would be advantageous to the Government to supply a lower capacity.

SEC. 2. Rate. Energy shall be sold under this schedule at four mills per kilowatt-hour of net energy supplied adjusted for power factor as set forth below. Such net energy before adjustment for power factor will be determined as the aggregate number of kilowatt-hours delivered to the purchaser's system at all points of delivery less the number of kilowatt-hours resulting from regenerative braking received by the Government for the purchaser's system. The energy flowing in both directions will be metered separately as of each point of delivery.

SEC. 3. Minimum charge. The net minimum charge under this schedule shall be $0.50 per month times the aggregate kva capacity of all of the points of delivery.

SEC. 4. Power factor adjustment. The net energy before adjustment for power factor will be increased 1 percent for each 1 percent or major fraction thereof by which the average power factor is less than 0.95 lagging. This adjustment may be waived in whole or in part to the extent that the Administrator determines that a power factor of less than 0.95 lagging would in any particular case be advantageous to the Government. Unless specifically otherwise agreed, the Administrator shall not be obligated to deliver power at any time at a power factor below 0.75 lagging.

SEC. 5. Rate adjustment. This rate schedule shall be subject to such adjustment as the Federal Power Commission may approve upon proposal by the Administrator to become effective on December 20 of the year 1956, or 1957, or 1958: Provided, That the Administrator shall make timely proposal for the adjustment, if adjustment becomes necessary, in order to bring the rate schedule into conformity with the rate standards of the Bonneville Project Act.

SEC. 6. General provisions. Sales of power under this schedule shall be subject to the provisions of the Bonneville Project Act and to the applicable General Rate Schedule Provisions.

This schedule supersedes Wholesale Power Rate Schedule R–1 effective April 1, 1948.

GENERAL RATE SCHEDULE PROVISIONS

1.1 Firm power. Firm power is power which the Administrator assures as being continuously available to a customer to meet his load requirements except when operation of the facilities used by the Government to serve the purchaser is suspended, interrupted, interfered with, or curtailed due to uncontrollable forces as defined herein, or because of necessary maintenance.

2.1 Contract demand. The contract demand shall be the number of kilowatts that the Administrator agrees to have available for delivery to the purchaser under the conditions stated in the rate schedule. Any delivery of power in excess of contract demand shall in no event obligate the Administrator to continue to deliver power in excess of the contract demand.

2.2 Measured demand. Except where deliveries are scheduled as hereinafter provided, the measured demand for any class of power, for any point of delivery, and for any period, shall be the largest of the 30-minute integrated demands at which such class of power is delivered to the purchaser at such point during such period. The Administrator, in determining the measured demand, will exclude any abnormal 30-minute integrated demands due to or resulting from emergencies, breakdowns, or maintenance of the Government's facilities. The class of power referred to above may include but is not restricted to firm, dump, experimental, testing, emergency, breakdown, and interruptible power.

If the contractual arrangements provide for the delivery of more than one class of power to the purchaser at any point of delivery, the total 30-minute integrated demands at such point will be determined from measurements as specified in the contract, or estimated where metering or other data are not available for such determination. The portion of each of such demands assignable to each class of power will be determined according to the terms of the contract.

If the flow of electric energy to the purchaser at any point or points of delivery cannot be adequately controlled because the purchaser's system is interconnected with one or more systems which are also interconnected directly or indirectly with the Government's system, the purchaser's measured demand for each class of power, for such point or points, and for any period, shall be the largest of the hourly amounts of such class of power which are scheduled for delivery to the purchaser at such point or points during such period.

2.3 Computed demand. A. The determination of computed demand for purchasers whose hydro generating facilities depend essentially upon daily usable streamflow, or for purchasers having only fuel-burning generating facilities, is made as follows:

(1) Determine for the billing month the capability of the purchaser's hydro generating facilities, both in terms of 30-minute peaking and of energy, under the water conditions which would have occurred during the same month in the critical year of record including modifications due to upstream storage operations. The determination will be made on the basis of the average daily usable streamflow in the critical year calculated separately for the first ten days, the second ten days, and the remainder of the month, respectively.

(2) Determine the capability, both in terms of 30-minute peaking and of energy, of the purchaser's fuel-burning generating facilities based on the most adverse fuel conditions reasonably to be anticipated and for which prudent operation would require provision to be made.

Limitation of fuel supply due to war or other extraordinary emergency will receive special treatment as required to conform to the basic purposes of the computed demand as stated above.

(3) Determine the firm peaking and energy capability available to the purchaser from other sources through purchase, lease, and exchange agreements.

(4) Determine the purchaser's assured capability for either peaking or energy by adding the capabilities determined in A (1), (2), and (3) above and deducting appropriate reserves.

(5) The computed demand for the month will be the greater of:

(a) The largest amount for any half hour by which the purchaser's actual system demand exceeds the purchaser's assured capability, or

(b) The largest amount during the month by which the purchaser's actual system average energy load for each ten-day period exceeds the purchaser's assured average energy capability for the corresponding ten-day period.

B. The determination of computed demand for purchasers having seasonal storage facilities (subsequently defined) is made as follows:

(1) Determine the 30-minute peaking and monthly energy capabilities of all nonstorage resources described in A (1), (2), and (3) above.

(2) Determine the monthly capabilities, both in terms of 30-minute peaking and of energy, of hydro generation facilities having seasonal storage, by relating total system resources to estimated monthly loads for the current operating year with storage utilized to provide the minimum peaking or energy requirement after deduction of adequate reserve generating capacity.

This determination will be made prior to the beginning of each operating year.

(3) The purchaser's assured monthly capability for either peaking or energy will be the total system resources less reserves, as determined in B (1) and (2) above.

(4) The computed demand for the month will be the greater of:

(a) The largest amount for any half hour by which the purchaser's actual system demand exceeds the purchaser's assured capability, or

(b) The purchaser's actual system average energy load for the month less the purchaser's assured average energy capability for the corresponding month.

Seasonal Storage shall mean storage held over from the annual high-water season to the following low-water season in an amount sufficient to regulate the hydro energy resources of the system to the system load requirements in a manner which would result in a uniform computed energy demand for a period of one month or more.

The use of computed demand as one of the alternatives in determining billing demand is intended to assure that each purchaser who purchases power from the Administrator to supplement his own facilities or other firm-power purchases will take a block of power substantially equivalent to the additional capacity which the purchaser would otherwise have to provide on the basis of normal and prudent operation, viz. sufficient capacity to carry the load through the most critical water or other conditions reasonably to be anticipated, with an adequate operating reserve.

Since the computed demand depends on the relationship of capability of resources to system requirements, the computed demand for any month cannot be determined until after the end of the month. As each purchaser must estimate his own load, and is in the best position to follow its development from day to day, it will be his responsibility to request scheduling of firm power, including any increase over previously established demands, on the basis estimated by him to result in the most advantageous purchase of the power to be billed at the end of the month.

Each contract in which computed demand may be a factor in determining the billing demand shall have attached to it as an exhibit a calculation of the computed demand of the purchaser for the period having the highest computed demand during the twelve months immediately preceding the effective date of the contract.

2.4 Restricted demand. If at any time the Administrator notifies the purchaser that future delivery of power will be restricted, or restricts power delivery to a specific amount which he determines can be made available (not including temporary restrictions made necessary by emergency conditions) then, in determining subsequent bills such restricted demand shall be substituted for any higher ratcheted demand or current computed demand which would otherwise be applicable. This provision shall not be deemed to give the Administrator the right to restrict deliveries below contract demand.

3.1 Administrator. The term Administrator means the Bonneville Power Administrator or such other department, agency, or official authorized by law to perform functions now performed by the Administrator, or any of their authorized agents.

4.1 Character of service. Power and energy supplied hereunder will be 3-phase alterating current at approximately 60 cycles per second, or such other type of service as may be available.

5.1 Point of delivery and delivery voltage. Power and energy shall be delivered to each purchaser at such point or points and such voltage or voltages as are agreed upon by the Administrator and the purchaser. Delivery at more than one voltage shall constitute delivery at more than one point.

Unless otherwise specifically provided in the rate schedule, where service is rendered to a purchaser at more than one point of delivery, the service at each point of delivery shall be billed separately under the applicable rate schedule. Provision for combined billing may be made in other cases, under conditions and terms specifically provided in the power sales contract, when: (a) Delivery at more than one point is advantageous to the Government, or (b) the flow of power at the several points of delivery is reasonably beyond the control of the purchaser.

6.1 Application of rates during initial operating period. In order to promote the development of new industries, the Administrator, for an initial operating period beginning with the commencement of operation of a new plant or major addition to an existing plant, and extending for such period as may be reasonably required by the character of the operation but not to exceed three months, may agree (a) to bill for service to such new plant or major addition on the basis of the maximum demand for each day, or (b) if such new plant or major addition is served by a distributor purchasing power therefor from the Administrator, to bill for that portion of such distributor's load which results from service to such new plant or major addition on the basis of the maximum demand for each day. The initial operating period may, with approval of the Federal Power Commission, be extended beyond the initial three months' period for such additional time as the character of operations may reasonably require. During such initial operating period such rate schedule provisions regarding contract demand, billing demand, and minimum monthly charge as are inconsistent with this section will be inoperative.

7.1 Energy used for experimental and testing purposes. In order to promote experimentation in new processing methods and in development of new types of load within the market area, the Administrator, for such time as may be reasonably required by the character of the experimentation, but not to exceed six months from the date of initial service unless approval of the Federal Power Commission is first obtained, may sell the energy used solely for such experimentation in accordance with Wholesale Energy Rate Schedule H–3. Energy used solely for testing of new equipment or processes also may be sold by the Administrator under the same conditions as apply to experimental energy.

8.1 Energy supplied for emergency and breakdown use. A purchaser taking firm power shall pay in accordance with Wholesale Energy Rate Schedule H–3 for any energy which has been supplied (a) for an emergency or breakdown use on the purchaser's system, or (b) following such emergency or breakdown to replace energy secured from sources other than the Government during such emergency or breakdown.

9.1 Billing month. Meters will normally be read and bills computed at intervals of one month. A month is defined as an interval of approximately 30 days between normal meter-reading dates. If service is for less or more than the normal billing month, the monthly charges stated in the applicable rate schedule will be appropriately adjusted.

9.2 Payment of bills. Bills for power shall be rendered monthly and shall be payable at the office of the Administrator. Failure to receive a bill shall not release the purchaser from liability for payment. If payment in full is not made on or before the close of business of the thirtieth day after the date of the bill, a delayed payment charge of two percent (2%) of the unpaid amount of the bill will be made except in the case of bills rendered under contracts with other agencies of the United States.

The Administrator may, whenever a power bill or a portion thereof remains unpaid subsequent to the thirtieth day after the date of the bill, and after giving thirty days' advance notice in writing, cancel the contract for service to the purchaser, but such cancellation shall not affect the purchaser's liability for any charges accrued prior thereto.

Remittances received by mail will be accepted without assessment of the two percent (2%) delayed payment charge provided the postmark indicates the payment was mailed on or before the thirtieth day after the date of the bill. If the thirtieth day after the date of the bill is a Sunday or a holiday, the next following business day shall be the last day on which payment may be made without the addition of the delayed payment charge.

10.1 Change from one rate schedule to another. Upon written request to the Administrator, any purchaser who has contracted for service under any rate schedule may change, at his option, to any other applicable rate schedule under an appropriate amendment to the contract, effective during the remainder of the original contract term. Only one such change will be permitted during the term of the original contract, other than changes resulting from the purchaser's option to substitute any applicable new rate schedule which may be filed by the Administrator. The change in rate will be made effective at the beginning of the first billing period following receipt of such request or at such later date as the request may stipulate. The billing factors established under the superseded rate schedule shall be applied, if applicable, in computing bills under the newly elected rate schedule in the same manner as if they had been established under the newly elected rate schedule.

11.1 Approval of rates. Schedules of rates and charges for electric energy sold to purchasers by the Administrator shall become effective only after confirmation and approval by the Federal Power Commission. Such rate schedules may be modified from time to time by the Administrator subject to confirmation and approval by the Federal Power Commission.

12.1 Average power factor. The formula for determining average power factor is as follows:

$$\text{Average Power Factor} = \frac{\text{Kilowatt-hours}}{\sqrt{(\text{Kilowatt-hours})^2 + (\text{Reactive kilovolt-ampere-hours})^2}}$$

In applying the above formula, the meter for measurement of reactive kilovolt-ampere-hours will be ratcheted to prevent reverse registration.

When deliveries to a purchaser at any point of delivery include more than one class of power and it is impracticable to separately meter the kilowatt-hours and reactive kilovolt-ampere-hours for each class, the average power factor of the total deliveries for the month will be used, where applicable, as the power factor for each of the separate classes.

13.1 Uncontrollable forces. The term Uncontrollable Forces means (a) strikes affecting the operation of the purchaser's works or system or other physical facilities upon which such operation is completely dependent, or of physical facilities used by the Government to serve the purchaser, or (b) events, reasonably beyond the control of the party having jurisdiction thereof, causing failure, damage, or destruction of such works, system, or facilities which by the exercise of reasonable diligence such party could not reasonably have been expected to avoid. Each party shall notify the other immediately of any defect, trouble, or accident which may in any way affect the delivery of power by the Government to the purchaser. In the event the operations of either party are suspended, interrupted, interfered with, or curtailed due to uncontrollable forces, such party shall exercise due diligence to reinstate such operations with all reasonable dispatch.

13.2 Reduction in charges on account of interruptions. If operation of the customer's works or system or other physical facilities upon which such operation is completely dependent, or if operation of physical facilities used by the Government to serve the purchaser is suspended, interrupted, interfered with, or curtailed due to uncontrollable forces, as defined herein, or because of necessary maintenance on the Government's system, the charges for power shall be appropriately reduced. No interruption of less than five (5) minutes duration will be considered for computation of such reduction in charges.

14.1 Determination of estimated billing data. In cases where amounts of power and energy purchased by a distributor must be estimated from information on use of power by ultimate consumers of that distributor, the Administrator shall review the data on consumer use of power submitted by the purchaser, and if any changes are deemed necessary, will advise the purchaser of the changes proposed. In the event that agreement cannot be reached as to the estimate, a binding determination shall be made by a committee composed of one member appointed by the Administrator, one member appointed by the purchaser, and if necessary, one member who shall have no direct interest to be selected by the two members so appointed.

15.1 Sale of interruptible power. Interruptible power is power which the Administrator agrees to deliver except when curtailed by him upon reasonable notice. The wholesale power rate schedules applicable to the sales of firm power by the Administrator shall also apply to sales of interruptible power, subject to the following provisions:

A. The billing demand shall be the measured demand for the month, adjusted for power factor.

B. The minimum monthly charge for firm power included in such schedules shall not apply.

C. If the Administrator curtails or agrees at the request of the purchaser to curtail deliveries of interruptible power during any month:

(1) The rates per kilowatt and the energy blocks, if any, stated in the schedules shall be prorated according to the ratio of the time in each portion of the month during which the same restrictions were continuously in effect to the total time in the month, and

(2) The billing demand for interruptible power for such portion of the month shall be the measured demand during such portion of the month adjusted, pursuant to the applicable rate schedule, for the average power factor for the entire month.

D. Any contract which provides that the purchaser shall purchase a specified amount of interruptible power until firm power is substituted therefor when it becomes available for that purpose as provided in such contract, shall include a minimum billing demand for such interruptible power which shall apply except when deliveries thereof are curtailed by the Administrator below the specified amount to be purchased.

Anyone desiring to make representation with respect to the foregoing should submit the same on or before October 15, 1954, to the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

[File No. 1-3091]

GREAT CONSOLIDATED ELECTRIC POWER CO., LTD.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION TO STRIKE FROM LISTING AND REGISTRATION, AND OF OPPORTUNITY FOR HEARING

SEPTEMBER 10, 1954.

In the matter of Great Consolidated Electric Power Company, Limited (Daido Denryoku Kabushiki Kaisha) First Mortgage 7 Percent Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, Series A, due August 1, 1944, File No. 1-3091.

The New York Stock Exchange, pursuant to section 12 (d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and Rule X-12D2-1 promulgated thereunder, has made application to strike from listing and registration the First Mortgage 7 Percent Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, Series A, due August 1, 1944, of Great Consolidated Electric Power Company, Limited.

The application alleges that the reasons for striking this security from listing and registration on this exchange are:

(1) According to a report dated July 12, 1954, by the New York office of the Bank of Japan, 89 percent of the principal amount of the issue has been accepted pursuant to an offer dated November 24, 1952, of the Government of Japan to assume the liabilities for the bonds and to extend the maturity date of the bonds and payment dates of coupons dated on and after December 22, 1942, and prior to September 26, 1952, for a period of 10 years in each case.

(2) According to the files at the Exchange only $151,500 principal amount of the unextended bonds remains outstanding.

(3) The offer of the Government of Japan is being continued.

(4) Dealings on the New York Stock Exchange were suspended prior to the opening of the trading session on August 2, 1954, and

(5) In the opinion of the Exchange, further dealings therein are inadvisable in view of the small amount remaining outstanding.

Upon receipt of a request, prior to September 24, 1954, from any interested person for a hearing in regard to terms to be imposed upon the delisting of this security, the Commission will determine whether to set the matter down for hearing. Such request should state briefly the nature of the interest of the person requesting the hearing and the position he proposes to take at the hearing with respect to imposition of terms or conditions. In addition, any interested person may submit his views or any additional facts bearing on this application by means of a letter addressed to the Secretary of the Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D. C. If no one requests a hearing on this matter, this application will be determined by order of the Commission on the basis of the facts stated in the application, and other information contained in the official file of the Commission pertaining to this matter.

COLUMBIA GAS SYSTEM, INC.

ORDER AUTHORIZING PROPOSED BANK BORROWINGS

SEPTEMBER 10, 1954.

The Columbia Gas System, Inc. ("Columbia"), a registered holding company, has filed a declaration pursuant to sections 6 and 7 of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 regarding the following proposed transactions:

Columbia proposes to borrow $25,000,000 in aggregate amount from eleven commercial banks, to be evidenced by notes dated September 30, 1954, and maturing on August 31, 1955. The notes will bear interest at the prime commercial rate and may be prepaid without penalty prior to maturity. Columbia agrees, however, that no prepayment will be made with funds borrowed from banks at a lower rate of interest. The names of the lending banks and their respective participations are as follows:

Guaranty Trust Co. of New York	$9,000,000
Bankers Trust Co	2,500,000
Chemical Bank & Trust Co	2,500,000
Irving Trust Co	2,500,000
Mellon National Bank & Trust Co	2,500,000
The Hanover Bank	1,000,000
Brown Brothers, Harriman & Co	1,000,000
The First National Bank of the City of New York	1,000,000
J. P. Morgan & Co., Inc	1,000,000
National City Bank of New York	1,000,000
Manufacturers Trust Co	1,000,000
Total	25,000,000

The proceeds of said borrowings will be used to repay 3¼ percent bank loans in the same principal amount which will mature on September 30, 1954. Said loans were negotiated in 1953 to raise part of the funds required in connection with the system's construction program for that year. Columbia has raised $90,000,000 of new money during the current year to provide for additional plant facilities, a major portion of which will be devoted to the transmission and distribution of an additional gas supply to be made available to the system upon the completion by Gulf Interstate Gas Company (a non-affiliate) of its gas transmission system from Louisiana to West Virginia. Columbia estimates that, with the refunding of its present bank loans, no further financing during 1954 will be required.

Due notice of the filing of said declaration having been given in the manner prescribed by Rule U-23, and no hearing having been requested of or ordered by the Commission; and the Commission finding that the applicable standards of the act and the rules promulgated thereunder are satisfied, and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that the declaration should be permitted to become effective forthwith:

It is ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of the act, that said declaration be, and hereby is, permitted to become effective forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24.

PHILADELPHIA CO. AND STANDARD GAS AND ELECTRIC CO.

ORDER AUTHORIZING RENEWAL OF PROMISSORY NOTE

SEPTEMBER 10, 1954.

Philadelphia Company ("Philadelphia"), a registered holding company and a subsidiary of Standard Gas and Electric Company ("Standard Gas") and Standard Power and Light Corporation, also registered holding companies, and its parent, Standard Gas, have filed a joint application-declaration pursuant to sections 6 (a), 7, 9, and 10 of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act") with respect to the following proposed transaction:

The companies propose that Philadelphia will issue and deliver to Standard Gas a renewal promissory note in replacement of a promissory note in the principal amount of $2,500,000, maturing September 10, 1954, and bearing interest at the rate of 3¼ percent per annum payable monthly. The renewal note, in the same principal amount, will be dated September 10, 1954, will bear interest, payable monthly, at the prime interest rate prevailing for short-term commercial bank loans at the date of its issuance, and will mature September 10, 1955, with the right in the issuer to anticipate at any time the payment of all or any part of the principal thereof.

Due notice of the filing of said application-declaration having been given in the manner provided by Rule U-23 promulgated under the act, and a hearing not having been requested of or ordered by the Commission; and the Commission finding that the applicable provisions of the act and the rules thereunder have been satisfied and that no adverse findings are necessary, and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that said application-declaration be granted and permitted to become effective forthwith:

It is ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of the act, that said application-declaration be, and hereby is, granted and permitted to become effective forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24.

Chapter IX—Agricultural Marketing Service (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

PART 950—PEACHES GROWN IN UTAH

EXPENSES AND FIXING OF RATE OF ASSESSMENT FOR 1954-55 FISCAL YEAR

Pursuant to the marketing agreement and Order No. 50 (7 CFR Part 950) regulating the handling of peaches grown in the State of Utah, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and upon the basis of the proposals submitted by the Administrative Committee (established pursuant to said marketing agreement and order), it is hereby found and determined that:

§ 950.204 Expenses and rate of assessment for the 1954-55 fiscal year—(a) Expenses. Expenses that are reasonable and likely to be incurred by the Administrative Committee, established pursuant to the provisions of the marketing agreement and order (§§ 950.1 to 950.95) to enable such committee to perform its functions, in accordance with the provisions thereof, during the fiscal year beginning May 1, 1954, and ending April 30, 1955, both dates inclusive, will amount to $3,450.00.

(b) Rate of assessment. The rate of assessment, which each handler who first ships peaches shall pay as his pro rata share of the aforesaid expenses in accordance with the applicable provisions of said marketing agreement and order, is hereby fixed at one and one-half cents ($0.015) per bushel basket of peaches, or an equivalent quantity of peaches in other containers or in bulk, shipped by such handler during said fiscal year.

(c) As used in this section, the terms "handler," "ship," "shipped," "shipments," "peaches," and "fiscal year" shall have the same meaning as when used in said marketing agreement and order.

It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this determination until 30 days after publication hereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) in that (1) said Administrative Committee at a meeting held on August 4, 1954, proposed an itemized budget of expenses and a rate of assessment based upon information then available as to production of peaches during the 1954 season and anticipated expenses; (2) necessary supplemental information supporting the proposed budget and rate of assessment was not made available to the Department until September 3, 1954; (3) shipments of peaches from Utah have, since 12:01 a. m., m. s. t., August 15, 1954, been subject to the regulatory provisions of Peach Order 1 (§ 950.304; 19 F.
